PREFACE

The following notes on the Lambeth family of Craven, Rowan and Guilford Counties are based on research done by James and Mary Norton Doggett beginning in the early 1950s. This material was compiled by Sophie S. Martin and supplemented by further research into primary source records of the three counties, with particular emphasis on records prior to 1850. Interpretations are made with caution, and careful attention has been given to documentation. Legal instruments are listed at the end of each section.

The work done by Mr. and Mrs. Doggett included not only the collection of county and state records but also census reports and material from the National Archives relating to military service. Perhaps the most important information is traditional material, Bible records and family papers gathered from descendants still living in the section of Piedmont North Carolina where the Lambeths settled, and from others whose ancestors had moved on — first to Tennessee — and then farther west. The location and preservation of such material is a valuable contribution to state genealogical records. A wealth of Lambeth tradition is contained in the letters of Thomas Lambeth, a grandson of the Samuel Lambeth who settled in Rowan County in the early 1800s. These letters were located and copied by Mrs. Doggett in 1954 and are included in the Appendix.

A number of individuals have contributed to the present work through research, through making their own records available and through financial support. A family history represents the efforts of many people. The names of those who have contributed records are listed in the Appendix, and to them thanks are due for material from states other than North Carolina and for family records. Financial support for continued research and for preparation of the manuscript has been given by Mrs. Taylor Alexander, Miami, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Doggett, Greensboro, Mrs. Earl Jones, Alexandria, Louisiana, Mrs. Marion Yates Keith, Greensboro, Mr. David T. Lambeth and Mr. Shannon T. Lambeth, II, both of Greensboro, Mr. Shannon T. Lambeth, Greensboro, Mr. Walter M. Lambeth, Charlotte, Mrs. Bettie Newcomb, Springfield, Missouri, Mr. George M. Stephens, Asheville, Dr. Hugh W. Stephens, Houston, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilkinson (Mary Livingston Doggett), Charlotte, Mrs. Ralph H. Wilson, Thomasville, Mrs. D. R. Wimberly, Dallas, and Mrs. John W. Zarker, Winchester, Massachusetts.

The section on the family of Shadrach Lambeth (a son of Josiah) is based on family records and published material collected and compiled by Mrs. Ralph Wilson, a descendant, and Miss Jewel Sink, author of a history of Davidson County. They are to be highly commended for the quality of this work and their contribution is greatly appreciated.

I should like to express my sincere personal thanks to members of the staff of the Search Room of the North Carolina Department of Archives and History, and especially to Mrs. Mary Rogers and to Mr. George Stevenson for their help during the several years of my research there.

Finally, this book could never have been produced without the guidance, encouragement and personal, practical help of George Stephens of the Stephens Press, Asheville. He has not only given unstintingly from his knowledge and experience in the field of publishing in regard to the design and preparation of the manuscript, but also has helped in such tasks as proofreading and final editing. Through him the services of the very excellent typist, Mrs. Glorian Cordell, were procured.

This sketch of one branch of the Lambeth family does not presume to be complete, or completed. It is not complete in that there are doubtless many records — yet unsearched — such as records of related families which might add to what is known of the Lambeths. It is not completed in that new records — of both a public and private nature — are constantly being found.

It is hoped that those who read these notes will add to what has been done and will point out corrections that may be needed.

INTRODUCTION

The family name, now spelled Lambeth, has evolved from the name Lambert, which is found in the French and German languages, as well as in English.

In colonial days many men were completely lacking in formal education and were unable to sign legal documents such as deeds, bonds and wills. Consequently the spelling of a surname was left entirely to the clerk — or whatever literate friend may have made out a deed or a will according to the accepted form. The name was spelled as it sounded, although it is not uncommon to find the same name spelled several different ways in the same document. While the most frequent spelling of the name up to 1800 was Lambert, it was also spelled Lambard, Lamburd, Lamberth, Lamburt, Lambuth — and occasionally Lambeth. The present spelling has been used throughout this study except in the case of direct quotes.

The first member of this family whose signature had been found was Josiah Lambeth, son of Samuel, who signed the bond for his marriage to Elizabeth Loftin on 18 December, 1789 as "Josious Lambert." Four years later his brother, Samuel Lambeth, Jr., signed his own marriage bond to Elizabeth Heath, spelling his name, "Lamberth." By 1850 the "r" had been dropped, and the final "h" added by almost all of the family who were then living in Davidson and Guilford Counties.

Given names in the first generations were generally Biblical — Samuel, Benjamin, Aaron, Josiah, Moses — suggesting that the family was originally of one of the dissenting faiths — probably Puritans or Baptists. These groups tended to use such names rather than those used by members of the Church of England such as Charles, Edward, James and William.

This study of the Lambeth family begins with Samuel Lambeth of Craven County and continues with his children in Rowan and Guilford Counties. It is the story of an average family from colonial days through most of the ante-bellum period. They were yeoman farmers of the middle class who made up the vast majority of the population of North Carolina during this time. Their migrations followed the typical pattern of movement from the mid-Atlantic colonies to the south prior to the Revolution, from the coastal area to the Piedmont about 1800, and westward beginning about 1825.

The men of the family followed the then universal occupation of farming — whatever trade they may have practiced in addition. Although none held positions of priminence in public life, they shared the responsibilities of all citizens to serve as jurymen, to act on various commissions, to maintain law and order, and to keep up public roads. Most legal records of this family have to do with land transactions. Two members, Moses and Samuel, at one time had quite large holdings in what is now Davidson County. Whether by necessity or choice, most had disposed of what they had accumulated by the time they died.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of Revolutionary history connected with Craven County is brought out by the service of two of Samuel Lambeth's sons during this war. Aaron and Benjamin, who were apparently among the eldest children of the family, first fought in the colonial forces, but in the late summer of 1781 attached themselves to the British army, then in Craven County. At this time there was a significant uprising in the section of the county where these men lived and although it is known that at least fifty persons participated, only the leader was apprehended, and hanged. It is said that toward the end of the Revolution, Craven County was in a state of civil war — with neighbor turned against neighbor, and even families divided by their loyalties. Many men who had served with the loyalists (or royalist) forces later left the United States, refugeeing to England, Nova Scotia or to the West Indies. Thus it is not surprising to find that Aaron Lambeth, son of Samuel, settled in Jamaica, where he died about 1803.

While the following history of one branch of the Lambeth family is intended as a genealogical study, it illuminates, in a way of personal interest to descendants, the life and times of these peoples.

I. TRADITION AND EARLY HISTORY OF THE LAMBETH FAMILY

The tradition of a family differs from its history in that it deals with information which has been handed down from one generation to the next. Often it is not recorded until many years after the facts. History, on the other hand, is an account recalled and recorded by someone who was living at the time and had direct knowledge of the events and persons of whom he speaks. Consequently, tradition is seldom completely reliable — though often extremely interesting — and probably frequently gives more of a feeling of the personalities and happenings involved than simply the bare facts. Without tradition as a guide, it is difficult to establish the history of a family since it suggests lines of research on which a properly documented genealogy can be based.

To a large extent this is the case in establishing the history of the Lambeth family, in which there is an abundance of tradition — some correct, some confusing, and some contradictory. However, for several reasons, research on this family has been particularly difficult. One of these reasons is that there were few early wills or estate settlements giving lists of heirs. Another reason is that the Lambeths appear to have had an unusual propensity for moving; not one of the several members of the family who was living in Craven County prior to the Revolutionary War remained there after 1807. After moving to Piedmont North Carolina around 1800, about half of the members of the next generation had gone west by 1850. This situation creates a number of problems for genealogists — among them the necessity for searching the records of many counties and states — and even a foreign country in one important instance — in an effort to establish the lineage. Another problem has been the difficulty of locating such helpful records as family Bibles and tombstone inscriptions which are a valuable supplement to legal records.

The earliest information on the Lambeth family is based on tradition, and the first written account appeared in a biographical sketch of Frank S. Lambeth of Thomasville. (History of North Carolina, Volume IV, page 186, Lewis Publishing Co., Chicago & New York, 1919.) The material for this publication must have been collected over the several preceding years. Of Mr. Lambeth's background the following is said: "John Lambeth, a native of England, immigrated to America in colonial times. After living a very brief time in Maryland, he located in Newberne, North Carolina.... He married Sara Heath."

Another source of Lambeth tradition is the letters of Thomas Lambeth, of Rachels, in Randolph County, North Carolina. These letters were written to various relatives during the years 1919-1922 when Thomas Lambeth was in his late eighties and early nineties. In them he gives reminiscences and recollections of family history, as well as the birth-dates of the children in his father's generation and his own, suggesting that he owned, or had access to, a family Bible. (See appendix.)

Thomas Lambeth states that his grandfather was Samuel Lambeth, whose four older brothers — Moses, Aaron, John and Scyrus (Josiah) fought in the Revolutionary War. Samuel was too young. Their father came from England before the war and settled in Craven County near New Bern. Thomas Lambeth was somewhat confused as to the name of his great-grandfather — the father of these five sons — but twice refers to him as John David.

These two earliest traditions of the Lambeth family agree that the family was English, that the first settler in North Carolina was named John, and that he located in or near New Bern before the Revolution.

Craven County records show that an order for a survey for a land grant to one John Lambert was signed on 21 March 1747 by Governor Gabriel Johnston. The patent was issued on 21 April, 1750 for 300 acres "on the North side of Little Contenty Beging about a Mile from the Mouth of Sandy run & rung up sd. run for the Complimt." It is also described as being on Buton's line. (Grant Book 5, page 385 and also in Grant Book 10, page 235). The land lay in the northern part of Craven County, in what is now Greene County.

As to the origin of the Lambeth family of Craven County, North Carolina, an early historian of the family, Mrs. Edgar Dixon (a sister of Frank S. Lambeth) stated that the Lambeth family came from New Jersey. This would not, of course, preclude the possibility that the first settler may have lived briefly in Maryland. The tradition is substantiated by the fact that many New Jersey families migrated to Craven County, North Carolina (James Sprunt Historical Publications, Volume 17, No. 1, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C., 1920).

More specific confirmation that the Lambeth family came from New Jersey is suggested by the fact that one Benjamin Lambert of Essex County, New Jersey purchased land in Craven County in 1760, on the south side of the Trent River. (Craven County Deed Book 2, page 302.) One of the witnesses to this deed was George Becton. Not only was the name Benjamin used by the Lambeths of Craven County, but also members of the Becton family witnessed deeds of Samuel Lambeth whose descendants moved to Rowan and Guilford Counties.

An examination of wills in New Jersey of the period when the first Lambeths came to Craven County, reveals a striking number of Christian names which are the same in Lambeth families in both states. (See appendix.)

A widely accepted tradition, now disproved by documented research, states that Aaron Lambeth was the father of Moses, Samuel, John and Josiah who moved from Craven to Rowan and Guilford Counties about 1800. Aaron is said to have married Flobella Williamson, and is thought to have died about 1805 in Rowan or Guilford. This error seems to have arisen from the fact that another Aaron — the brother of the four mentioned above — did die at about this time, leaving substantial bequests to more than thirty newphews and nieces. Understandably, this name and this date were important to many descendants who, through the years, appear to have assumed that he was their direct ancestor, rather than a collateral one. A great deal of careful research into primary source records has been done in an effort to prove or disprove this tradition. No evidence has been found to support it.

The belief that Aaron Lambeth married Flobella Williamson has come down only through the descendants of Josiah Lambeth. His grand-daughter Catherine Prather was also the grand-daughter of Leonard Prather and Frances Williamson; apparently Catherine Prather confused the maiden names (and generations) of her grandmothers. A similar error occurred in the traditional lineage of Samuel Lambeth of Craven and Rowan Counties.

The tradition that Moses, John, Josiah and Samuel were brothers comes both from Josiah's descendants and from Samuel's descendants and is borne out by research.

It is doubtful that the early lineage of the Lambeth family in Craven County can ever be proved, or that the state from which they migrated will ever be known. As the following sketch will show, it appears that the family settled in the area which was originally Craven County, from which Johnston County was created in 1746. In 1759 it became Dobbs County, then Lenoir in 1791. All county records of this section (which were kept at the Lenoir County Court House) were destroyed by fire in 1878.

The documented history of the Lambeth family begins with Samuel Lambeth, who lived much of his life in what is now Craven County. He was the father of Moses, John and Samuel Lambeth who moved to Rowan County, and of Josiah Lambeth who settled in Guilford County, as well as of Aaron and Benjamin, both of whom probably left this country at the end of the Revolutionary War.

Land grant survey order for Samuel Lambeth, 1770

II SAMUEL LAMBETH
(Born before 1732. Died after 1794.)

The first record of Samuel Lambeth in the Craven County area is the inclusion of his name on a militia list thought to have been a list of Johnston County militia of about 1754. (Military Troop Returns, 1747-1859, collection of Militia Returns 1757-1769, North Carolina Archives.)

The area from which this militia was drawn seems to have included what is now the northern part of Lenoir County — probably extending north from Kinston to the present boundary between Lenoir and Greene Counties. The location is significant in that it is only ten or fifteen miles south of the site of the land grant made to John Lambeth in 1747, lending support to the tradition that John Lambert was the first of the family in North Carolina. He may have been the father or brother of Samuel.

The captain of the militia company to which Samuel Lambeth belonged was Francis Mackelwean, member of a prominent family. His sister was the wife of Richard Caswell, first governor of the state of North Carolina. Francis Mackelwean became treasurer of the town of Kinston when it was established in 1762, and owned land next to Samuel Lambeth in Craven County, on the south side of the Neuse River, a few miles southeast of Kinston.

Edward fitzPatrick was the "Clarck" of the Company and it was probably his daughter, Ann, who married Samuel Lambeth's son Benjamin. (See chapter on Benjamin Lambeth.)

Listed next to Samuel Lambeth on the militia list were John and Peter Gilstrap whose family was associated with the Lambeths over many years. John Gilstrap was also later a neighbor of Samuel's in Craven County, while Peter's son Lewis moved to Rowan County about the same time as did Samuel's sons.

There is more than passing interest in noting the names of neighbors and friends mentioned in a family's records. Generally, in colonial times marriages took place between neighboring families. Since most early marriage records have been lost, it is highly likely that the names of these neighbors include families with which members of the Lambeth family intermarried and provide the only clues available for establishing kinship.

If the estimated date of 1754 on this militia list is approximately correct, Samuel Lambeth had probably been married for several years at this time and had three or more children. His sons Benjamin, Moses and John are all thought to have been born before 1755.

This part of the Province of North Carolina played an important role in the history of the colony during the colonial period. In 1746 the very large county of Craven was divided so as to create Johnston County, and in 1755 the then governor, Arthur Dobbs, chose a site in the new county for the capital of the Province. It was located on the north side of the Neuse River, about fifty miles above New Bern, and only a few miles from the present town of Kinston. The area was being rapidly settled and was becoming a center of religious, economic and political growth. Land records indicate it was in this section, which in 1759 became Dobbs County, that Samuel Lambeth first lived.

Tower Hill, as the site of the proposed new capitol was called, never became the capitol, due to the fact that it was not immediately approved by the King, and other towns were vying for the choice. Until 1766 the center of government had moved from place to place, but in that year a permanent capital was established at New Bern.

Because of the bad roads of the period, it is doubtful if those who lived as far as forty or fifty miles away — which was true of the Lambeth family — had many opportunities to visit New Bern or to feel the influence of its importance. They probably did, however, journey to New Bern occasionally when court was in session there, although county courts were often held in various sections of the county due to the difficulty of travel. They also must have learned much about the capitol — and of the outside world — through neighbors who held public office and whose business took them to New Bern. Many people prominently connected with the history of Dobbs and Craven Counties were neighbors of the Lambeths, including the Mackelweans, the Herritages, the Blackledges, the Tyers, and among individuals, Christopher Neal — long the clerk of court of Craven County, and Dr. Francis Stringer, probably the first physician of the area.

With the establishment of Kinston in 1762, those living in the western section of Craven County were within an easy journey — at most fifteen miles — of a settled community, which gained added importance when it became the county seat of Dobbs County in 1779.

The area had many advantages as a place to settle and to live during the colonial period. With a good climate and free and fertile soil, it was well suited for farming and stock raising. There was active trade with Virginia, New England, the West Indies and Europe — the largest export being Indian corn and such naval supplies as tar, pitch and turpentine. All of these products could probably be easily transported to New Bern by water, since the Neuse River was navigable to that port, from Kinston and beyond.

While the Church of England was the only organized church, and was established by law, there were also Quakers, Puritans from England and New Jersey, Baptists and Presbyterians. Not until after the Revolution, however, were there organized churches of other denominations, or schools. There is no indication of the religious affiliation of the Lambeth family.

The first land transaction recorded for Samuel Lambeth is for a grant of 400 acres which he received in 1760. It lay on the north side of the Neuse River, "being the Place formerly surveyed for Peter Gilstrap" and adjoined the lines of Thomas Branton, Simon Griffin and Witherington. Present county boundaries do not coincide with those of 1760, so that this land was probably in what is now Lenoir County — then Dobbs. Chain bearers for the survey were John Taylor and Peter Gilstrap — suggesting that these people were either neighbors, or possibly relatives, since it was the custom for members of the family, or friends to help with the surveying. It is likely that the grant was near where Samuel Lambeth was living at the time, but it is doubtful that he ever occupied the land as a homeplace, since he kept it only until the next year.

In June, 1761 Samuel sold this tract of 400 acres to John Philips for 20 pounds. This represented a considerable profit since grants were free except for the payment of four shillings a year, per hundred acres, in quit rents to the Crown. Some time before May, 1763 Samuel Lambeth moved a little to the south — just across the line into Craven County, on the south side of the Neuse River and a few miles southeast of Kinston. At that time he bought 100 acres from Edward Frost of Dobbs County. The land was located on the southeast side of Southwest Creek, near the head of Harry's Branch and adjoined James Caddel's line. Today this land lies in the extreme northwestern tip of Jones County, which was formed from Craven in 1778.

At the end of the same year Samuel Lambeth received a grant of 200 acres "in a place called Tracey's Neck," at John Gilstrap's corner. Chain bearers for the survey were John Gilstrap and Emenuel Harvey. This land lay close to the purchase mentioned above and may even have been adjoining. Samuel Lambeth must have made his home on the land granted him because when he sold it in 1766 to William Rogers the deed included "all houses, orchards" and so forth.

Perhaps after selling the grant he built a home and began cultivating the land which he had bought in 1763, and to which he added an adjoining tract of 200 acres — another grant. The application or "entry" for this land was made in 1770 and it was granted a year later. It is described as being on the south side of the Neuse River, adjoining his own and Christopher Neale's lines, near the Trent road, near Jonathan McFashing's line, on or near Harry's Branch and opposite "Lambeth's old Corner." By this time Samuel Lambeth's two sons John and Moses were old enough to act as chain bearers for the survey.

While living in this location Samuel Lambeth must have suffered an incapacitating illness or injury, as indicated by the following entry in Craven County Court minutes of March 1768: "Petition of Samuel Lambert praying to be Recommended to the General Assembly of this Province to be Exempt from Paying Taxes & doing Publick Duties Occasioned by his being afflicted with Lameness and other Infirmities — attended with poverty; which was Granted. Ordered he have a Certificate Accordingly."

By 1774 Samuel Lambeth had again moved his residence, this time northeast, some five miles, to a site on the south side of the Neuse and west side of Half Moon Swamp, at Joseph Trewitt's corner. He had brought 150 acres from Richard Blackledge early in 1773, his son John being one of the witnesses to the deed. Not until 1779 did he sell the 300 acres (by then in Jones County) from which he had moved. There is no indication as to whether it was occupied by one of his older sons, or perhaps leased to someone else. He sold it to Francis Mackelwain.

Meanwhile, in 1774, Samuel Lambeth had conveyed to his son Benjamin, by deed of gift, one half of the land on which he settled on Half Moon Swamp. Thereafter, as long as his sons remained in Craven County, all of them lived in this section. Samuel Lambeth did not leave a will, but this deed, together with another deed of gift to his son Samuel, (to whom the remainder of this tract was given) makes it possible to establish some of the early relationships within the family:

> "To all people to whom this present writing shall come, I, Samuel Lambeth of Craven County and Province aforesaid (North Carolina) send Greeting. Know ye that I Samuel Lambeth as well for and in Consideration of Natural affection and Fatherly Love which I have and bear unto my beloved Son Benjamin Lambuth of the County and Province aforesaid and also for Divers other good Causes and Considerations me at this present especially moving Have Given Granted and by these presents do give - grant and confirm unto the said Benjamin Lambuth a parcel of Land being the one half of the Land I now live on which said Land I Purchased of Richard Blackledge Esquire Situate lying and being on the Half Moon Swamp and beginning at a Post in John Piersons Plantation and then with my Line to the Half Moon Swamp then the lower Corner down the Swamp being as aforesaid the one half of my Land the whole as computed by Deed of Sale One Hundred and fifty Acres as by Records more fully may appear which said One half of the said Land I the said Samuel Lambuth do give and grant unto my said son Benjamin Lambuth to His Heirs and Assignees forever But if the said Benjamin Lambuth should want to sell the said One Half of the Land aforesaid he may sell the same to Either of his Brothers and to no other person or persons whatsoever during my Natural Life Neither shall the said Benjamin Lambuth Lease or Rent the said Land without my consent during my Life To Have and to hold all and Singular the aforesaid Land and all the Premises unto the said Benjamin Lambuth and to his Heirs and Assignees for his and their own proper uses and behoofs forever freely and quietly without any matter of Challenge Claim or Demand of me the said Samuel Lambuth or any Person or Persons whatsoever for me in my Name by any means or procurement and without any Money or other Thing therefore to be Yielded paid or done unto me the said Samuel Lambuth, my Executors Administrators or Assignees. Then was the aforegoing Deed Acknowledged in Open Court by Samuel Lambeth the Grantor agreeable to Law and Ordered to be Registered.

Test Chris^{r} Neale C.I.C."

(Craven County Deed Book 22, page 75)

It is interesting to note that this deed specifies so emphatically that Benjamin was not to sell or lease the land given to him to anyone except one of his brothers. Perhaps because of Samuel Lambeth's health, he felt it necessary to have one of his sons nearby to help with farming chores.

At the March Court, 1790, Samuel Lambeth was made guardian of Council Lambeth, a minor. Samuel's son John was one of the securities for the bond of 100 pounds. This child was Samuel's grandson—the son of Benjamin Lambeth, and must have been the young male—under 16 years—listed in Samuel Lambeth's household in the census of 1790. Other members of the household were Samuel's wife, and one other female; Samuel, himself, and two other males over 16 who were probably his sons. It is likely that one of these was Samuel Lambeth, Jr.

Another deed of gift was made by Samuel Lambeth in 1791 and is as follows:

> "Know all Men by these presents that I Samuel Lambert Senior of the State of North Carolina and County of Craven for the Natural love I bear to my son Samuel Lambert Junior have Given Granted and Set over unto my said Son Samuel Lmbert Junior all that tract of land I now Live on being the remainder of that piece of land I bought of Richard Blacklege the other upper part I Gave to my Son Benjamin, Containing Seventy Five Acres more or less together with all my Stock Household and Kitchen Furniture and property of all nature whatsoever to him and his Heirs and assignees forever reserving my natural life and my Wife in the same, To Have and to hold the said bargained Premises with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging to him the said Samuel Lambert Junior his Heirs and assignees forever ---- In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my Hand and Seal this Twenty seventh day of December 1791.

Craven County Court
March Term 1792

Then was the within deed of gift proved in Open Court by the Oath of William M. Herritage and Ordered to be Recorded.

Samuel Chapman C C "

(Craven County Deed Book 29, page 335)

Unlike the earlier deed of gift, this second one has more the character of a will and suggests that Samuel was, by this time, well advanced in years and wished to make a specific bequest of all his property. However, he was still living in July, 1794, when he made his characteristic mark—the letter "S"—as a witness to a deed of his son Samuel Lambeth, Jr.

Even on the basis of rather meager material, these records reveal a substantial amount of information about Samuel Lambeth, including an approximation of his life span. Assuming that he was at least twenty-one years old at the time of the birth of his son Benjamin, and knowing that Benjamin must have been twenty-one years old in order to take title to the land deeded him in 1774, Samuel was born no later than 1732. Samuel Lambeth was still living in 1794, as noted above. He probably died some time between that date and 1802 since he is not mentioned in the will of his son, Aaron. In that year Aaron, then living in Jamaica, made a will dividing his estate among his nephews and nieces. At this period it was usual for men who were not married, and had no children, to include their parents among their beneficiaries if they were living at the time.

Samuel Lambeth's land transactions were numerous and indicate good judgment in handling his property. All told, he acquired 800 acres by grant before the Revolutionary War when such land was free except for the payment of quit rents. Thus each sale represented a profit. It seems creditable that despite a serious physical handicap he was able to maintain his independence throughout his life.

The names of Samuel Lambeth's children are only partially disclosed by Craven County records, and only specifically by his two deeds of gift to his sons Benjamin and Samuel, Jr. The proof that Aaron was also his son is indicated by the fact that Aaron's will of 1802 names his brother Benjamin, then deceased, and Benjamin's two children Council and Clarissa. Council had became Samuel's ward in 1790 and both of these children were later bound to Moses Lambeth, following the death of their mother, Ann, in 1791.

Aaron Lambeth, after making several bequests, divided the remainder of his property among "the children of my brothers and sisters." In accordance with this provision of Aaron's will, Samuel Lambeth (son of Samuel Lambeth) was made guardian for his children at the Craven County Court of December, 1803—which was the year the will was probated. At the next court to meet in Rowan County—February, 1804—Moses, Josiah, John and Sara Lambeth Heath were also made guardians to their own minor children. At the same court Council Lambeth (who was one of the executors named in the will of Aaron Lambeth), William Goodman, Willie (Wiley) Lambeth, Betsey Lambeth, John Lambeth, Moses Lambeth, Sarah Heath and Josias Lambeth gave power of attorney to Soloman Goodman. This was presumably to handle the distribution of the estate to the heirs named.

Since these legal records strongly support the tradition that John, Moses, Josiah and Samuel were brothers—and that Sarah Lambeth Heath was their sister, there seems no doubt that this is the correct lineage. The children of Samuel Lambeth:

The place and date of the birth of Aaron Lambeth are as yet unknown, but proof that he was the son of Samuel Lambeth of Craven County is established by Aaron's will of 1802. (Old Wills. L. 72, F. 38) Archives of Jamaica, Spanish Town, Jamaica, West Indies. The largest bequests of this will were made to "my nephew Councel Lambeth and my niece Clarissa Lambeth the children of my late Brother Benjamin Lambeth of the state of North Carolina." The kinship between Benjamin and Samuel is proved by a deed of gift, dated 1774, by which Samuel gave half of his plantation "unto my beloved son Benjamin Lambuth." Thus these two documents, considered together, give conclusive proof that Aaron — being the brother of Benjamin — was also the son of Samuel.

The date of the will is 21 July, 1802, but the date 1803 is listed at the beginning of the document, following Aaron's name, which suggests that this was the date of probate — and probably the year in which he died.

Settlement of the estate began in late 1803, and although Court minutes of both Craven and Rowan Counties indicate that the children of Samuel (Jr.), Moses, John and Josiah Lambeth, and of Sarah Heath, had become heirs to a legacy— none of these records gave the name of their benefactor. Most of the Craven County wills were searched in an effort to find the will which provided these bequests. After more than a year of searching, with hope abandoned of ever finding the sought-for will, a deed was discovered made by one of the heirs —Wiley Lambeth—who had moved to Rowan County. This deed, made there in 1804, involved money referred to as "my legasy Left to me by my Decesed Uncle Aaron Lambeth Citizen of Jemaca." Several more months were required to locate the only genealogist in Jamaica. Fortunately for this research, the will was still preserved in the Archives there.

It is probable that Aaron Lambeth never lived in North Carolina after the Revolutionary War. He may have refugeed to Charleston, South Carolina, as did his brother Benjamin and many other men from Craven County who had joined the British forces. (See chapter on Benjamin Lambeth.) From there, thousands of loyalists (or royalists) left the United States to settle in Canada, in the Caribbean, or to return to England. One of the largest settlements of loyalists in the West Indies was in Jamaica, and Aaron may have been among the almost 4,000 who sailed to Jamaica from Charleston in the years soon after the Revolution.

Aaron Lambeth served in the British forces in North Carolina from 2 September to 19th September, 1781, for which he was due 6 shillings. This information is contained in "Account of Stoppages due from the North Carolina Militia to His Majesty's Hospital at Wilmington, between the 25th Augt. & 24 Octobr. 1781." (English Records, Treasury Papers, Miscellanea, North and South Carolina Refugees, 1781-1782. P. R. O. Treasury 50, Bundle 5) North Carolina Archives. Members of the British Militia who were wounded or ill, and hospitalized, were not paid for their services in the armed forces during that time, but the money due them was paid to the hospital for their care. Below the name of Aaron Lambeth are those of Ezekal Loftan and William Russull, whose families lived in the same part of Craven County as did the Lambeths. All three men belonged to the company commanded by Col. Cox, who may have been a brother, or son, of Longfield Cox, a neighbor of the Lambeths, who died before the Revolution. Aaron Lambeth mentioned in his will another Longfield Cox who was his own nephew.

It is highly probable that Aaron Lambeth served in the colonial forces during the early years of the war since all men of his age were subject to draft — either in the Militia or in the Continental Line. Another Aaron Lambeth, who was very likely a first cousin, is known to have lived in Jones County (formed from Craven in 1778) from about 1777 to about 1795, when he moved to Tennessee. He operated a foundry in or near Kinston and provided cannon balls for the colonial forces. In September, 1777 he wrote Gov. Caswell asking to be excused from militia duty in order to carry on this work (Vol. 11, pages 777-778. Colonial and State Records of North Carolina). This Aaron, unlike Aaron son of Samuel, was married and had a family — which has helped to distinguish the two. It has not, however, been possible to distinguish their service in the colonial forces of North Carolina. For this reason all records not known to refer specifically to Aaron Lambeth of Jones County are presented here, chronologically. The following records may refer to one, or both of these men:

Service records:

1777, 21 April. Aaron Lambert, 10th Regiment (no commanding officer named), Stevenson's Company. Enlisted 21 April, 1777 for 3 years. Prisoner 1 June, 1779. Mustered November, 1779. (This was the North Carolina Line of the Army of the United States) Vol. 16, page 1104, Colonial and State Records of North Carolina.

1778, 9 September. Aaron Lambert on roll of Capt. Robert Fenner's Company. 2nd. North Carolina Battalion. Commanded by Col. John Patton, White Plains, New York. Enlisted 25 April (no year given) for 3 years. Ibid Vol. 13, page 513. (From U. S. State Department, Book 27.)

Pay records:

No date (others on this list dated 1782). Aaron Lambert allowed $279.3 3/4 by state. (No date, rank enlistment date, period of service, or company given.) Treasurer's and Comptroller's Military Papers. War of Revolution. Settlement of Accounts, #19, Vol. 51, page 188. North Carolina Archives.

1785, 25 January. Aaron Lambert, Voucher #853. Received 111 pounds, 12 shillings and four pence. Cash 27 pounds, 18 shillings and one pence: & certificates 83 pounds, 14 shillings and 3 pence. Received Halifax, 25 January, 1785 by John Daves. Treasurer's and Comptroller's Military Papers, North Carolina Revolutionary Army Accounts. Vol. 54. Receipt Book, Page 98. Also in Colonial and State Records of North Carolina, Vol. 17, page 226.

No mention has been found of the name of Aaron Lambeth in Craven County records prior to the Revolution.

The earliest record of Aaron Lambeth after he settled in Jamaica is dated 8 March, 1797. This is the date of a deed by which Aaron Lambeth sold to Philanthropas Clayjon "one negro man slave named Billy" for 140 pounds. The deed was witnessed by John Morrison and "entered" 27 March, 1797.

The will of Aaron Lambert. 1803: (Old Wills. L.72. F.38) Archives of Jamaica.

> "I, Aaron Lambert of the Parish of Hanover in the County of Cornwall of Island of Jamaica Planter hereby make and constitute by these presents my last Will and Testament. In the first place I give and bequeath unto my nephew Longfield Cox (Cort?) my Bay Horse Saddles and Bridles and Military Accoutrements. Item I give and bequeath to Frances Fogo (Fogs?) a free woman of colour my Black Horse and all my wearing apparel. Item I give and bequeath to my nephew Councel Lambeth (sic) and my niece Clarissa Lambeth the children of my late Brother Benjamin Lambeth of the state of North Carolina the sum of two hundred pounds Jamaica currency being six hundred dollars to each of them and the remainder and residue of my property I give and bequeath to the Children of my brothers and sisters to be equally divided amongs them share and share alike that is to these who may be alive at the time of my decease it is my particular request that my negroes may be continued at Williamsfield Estate until all my debts are fully paid then to be sold for the best advantage for the purpose above mentioned and I hereby give full power and authority to my executors hereafter mentioned to sell and dispose of all my slaves to and for the aforesaid purposes. And lastly I nominate and appoint my nephew Councel Lambeth before mentioned together with the Hon. John Mowatt of the parish of St James and William Leslie of the parish of Hanover merchant to be my executors to carry into effect the before mentioned bequests. In confirmation of the within, I hereby put my name affix my seal this twenty first day of July in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two." Note from Mrs. E. S. Capstick (genealogist), P. O. Box 52, Mandeville, Jamaica, who copied this will in February, 1972:

"It may be of interest that in a list of taxable properties in our possession, dated 1922, Williamsfield, in Hanover, contains about 230 acres, is valued at just over Ł600 and was used for a 'grazing pen;' i.e. cattle."

IV. BENJAMIN LAMBETH
before 1753-1790(?)

Benjamin Lambeth, was probably one of the eldest children of Samuel Lambeth. Although the date of his birth is unknown, he was born in, or before 1753, since he must have been twenty-one years old by 27 December, 1774 when he received a portion of his father's land by deed of gift. (See chapter on Samuel Lambeth.) He may have married at about this time and settled on the land which his father had given him on Half Moon Swamp. The will of Edward Fitz Patrick, dated 5 November, 1781, names his daughter Annah Lambell among his heirs, leaving her twenty pounds in cash. (Craven County Loose Wills, North Carolina Archives, Raleigh, North Carolina.) It is likely that she was the wife of Benjamin Lambeth.

Benjamin Lambeth seems to have had two periods of service in the Craven County Militia. Maj. John Tillman submitted a list "for part of the Craven Militia Exped^{o} to Wilmington," Among the soldiers listed is "Benj. Lambert, 40 days, 3 pounds and 6 shillings." At the end of this account is an added note "Men Embodied at New Bern by Resolve of the Committee of Safety of New Bern District by Resolve of 15 Feb'y., 1776," (Treasurers and Comptrollers Records, Military Papers, Revolutionary Army Accounts, Public Accounts, Volumes 1-6, pages 316, 317 and 320. (North Carolina Archives.) There is not, however, a date showing the period of this service.

Another record of his military service in the Craven County Militia is found among the Pay Vouchers for Revolutionary Service (North Carolina Archives). This voucher states that Benjamin Lambert served in Capt. Roaches Company. It is dated 5 March, 1782, signed by the District Auditors, and is for the sum of 16 pounds and 12 shillings. Neither the date of service nor length of service is given. If the pay rate was the same, this indicates that the voucher was in payment for six months or more of service.

In February, 1780, Benjamin Lambeth was witness to a deed by which his brother Moses made his first purchase of land.

In the following year, Craven County was in a state of acute internal turmoil, with many British troops in the county and many colonists joining their forces — including those who had previously been a part of the County Militia.

A list of refugees at "Charlestown" (Charleston, South Carolina) dated 1 December, 1781, showing many names from the part of Craven County where the Lambeths lived, is found in the appendix of The Loyalists in North Carolina During the Revolution, by Robert O. Demond, 1964. Archon Books, Hamden, Connecticut. The names of "Leut. Wm. Lane and Ensign Benjamin Lamberth" are found side by side (page 224). Benjamin Lambeth's name is also given in English Records, Treasury Papers, Miscellaneous, Box 17, Folder 41, North Carolina Archives under the heading "A return of the time of Service of the Refugees from N^{o} Carolina Under their Different Commanders. Charlestown, Dec. 1, 1781: "Ensign Benj^{a} Lamberth, 2 June 1781 to 27 Sept^{r}, 182 days."

At the Craven County Court of September, 1782 the following entry appears in the minutes:

> "Read the Petitions of Ann Tyer, Agnes Teer, Susannah Taylor, Ann Lambert, Rachel Carmack, and Mary Carmack, setting forth that their several respective Husbands had unfortunately Attached themselves to the British leaving a number of helplefs Children, and suggesting that the Property of the said Petitioners Husbands will be Confiscated, and praying Relief, The Court taking the case of the Petitioners into Consideration, Do Order that the several Inventorys of Property Annexed to the respective Petitions remaining unsold, Shall be Applied to the Relief of the Distrefsed Petitioners and their helplefs Children, until the further Orders of this Court."

The compassion of the court toward these women and their children is not only commendable, but also indicates an understanding of the poignant divisions of loyalty — even within families — that existed in Craven County during the Revolution.

The names of the families of the women who made these petitions are to be found in the deeds of various members of the Lambeth family who lived in Craven County and their husbands are often listed as neighbors, or witnesses to these deeds. Ann Tyer, for example, was the wife of a former Militia captain, Thomas Tyer, who witnessed a deed for Samuel Lambeth, Sr. in 1779.

These names are also to be found among the men listed in English records, already referred to as refugees in Charleston. In the same company are Jno. Taylor, Sergt., Abraham Taylor, Sergt., Danl. Carmick, Corpl., Solomon Carmich and Richard Tear.

There seems little doubt that the Ann Lambert who petitioned to keep property she held, was the wife of Benjamin Lambert, who, with others in his neighborhood, joined the British and later refugeed in Charleston.

Benjamin Lambeth seems to have been the brother to whom Aaron Lambeth — who also joined the British — was closest. Aaron refugeed to Jamaica following the Revolution and in his will, dated 1802, made the largest of his bequests to "my nephew Councel Lambeth and my niece Clarrissa Lambeth the children of my late Brother Benjamin Lambeth of the state of North Carolina the sum of two hundred pounds Jamaica currency being six hundred dollars to each of them."

The date of Benjamin's death is unknown, but at the March Court of 1790 — in Craven County — Samuel Lambeth was appointed guardian of Council Lambeth "an Infant," with a bond of 100 pounds. John Daly Esq. and John Lambeth were securities. This court action seems to indicate that Benjamin had recently died, and that his son and heir, a minor, needed to have a guardian appointed to handle his inheritance. Samuel, of course, being Benjamin's father, was the closest male relative to Council and the logical person to serve in this capacity.

Ann Lambert must have died in the fall of 1791. At the December Court of that year, Robert Fossett was granted the administration of her estate "upon entering into bond with Moses Lambert in the sum of 30 (or 50) pounds."

At the same court, Clarissa Lambert "an orphan child aged 12 years in October last be bound to Moses Lambert until the age of 18 years." There are no further records of Clarissa but it is not unlikely that she married William Goodman and moved to Rowan County with Moses Lambeth and his family. When the legacies of Aaron Lambeth were distributed in 1804, William Goodman, acting in place of his wife, was one of the heirs (or guardians of heirs) who appointed Soloman K. Goodman as attorney in fact in the settlement of the estate at the February Court of Rowan County.

The account of the sales of the estate of Ann Lambert was returned and filed at the March court, 1792, and the audit returned a year later. Moses Lambeth was among the buyers at the estate sale from which the total received was 21 pounds and 12 shillings. (Craven County Estates Papers.)

1781-1819 (?)

Council Lambeth, son of Benjamin Lambeth, was born March, 1781.

At the March Court of Craven County in 1790, he became the ward of his grandfather, Samuel Lambeth, which suggests that his father had died shortly before. Council is probably the young male, under sixteen, listed in the household of Samuel Lambeth in 1790.

In December, 1794, the court ordered that "Council Lambert aged 14 years next March be bound to Moses Lambert to learn the trade of a Cooper." Since Council did not reach the age of twenty-one until 1802 — and indentures generally lasted until a young man had reached that age — it is likely that Council moved with Moses and his family to Rowan County about 1797.

In July, 1802 Council's uncle Aaron Lambeth of Jamaica made a will by which he left six hundred dollars each to Council and his sister Clarissa, and also appointed Council one of the executors of this will. It is interesting to speculate on the possibility that, after attaining his majority and completing his apprenticeship, Council may have visited his uncle in Jamaica. Undoubtedly there was a strong bond between Aaron and the children of the only one of his brothers who had also joined the British. It seems unlikely, however, that he would have appointed his young nephew — barely twenty-one years old — to act as an executor unless he had recent acquaintance with him.

On the first of February, 1804 Council Lambeth was in Rowan County where he witnessed a deed from Lewis Tyer to Wiley Lambeth. At the same court he, with William Goodman, Willie (Wiley) Lambeth, Betsy Lambeth and the guardians of other nephews and nieces of Aaron Lambeth gave power of attorney to Solomon K. Goodman — presumably to settle the estate of Aaron. In February, 1806 Council Lambeth and his uncle Samuel Lambeth were appointed patrols in Capt. Myer's Company; a year later he was appointed guardian of Levi Heath (son of his aunt Sarah Lambeth Heath) and gave bond, with John Hawkins, of 100 pounds.

Council Lambeth was married to Elizabeth Tyer, daughter of Lewis and Sarah Swann Tyer, about 1807 or 1808. On 30 January, 1808 he bought 200 acres "on Waters of Uary" from Lewis Tyer. This land adjoined Moses Lambeth (See Moses Lambeth chapter).

In May, 1809, and again in February, 1811, Council Lambeth was appointed to commissions to lay off new roads in his neighborhood. In June, 1811 he was bondsman for the marriage of his cousin Elizabeth (daughter of Moses) and James Tyer.

Council Lambeth sold to his father-in-law Lewis Tyer, 200 acres of land adjoining John Lambeth's "home lot," Emler's line and Samuel Lambeth's corner, in November, 1814. There is no further mention of Council in court minutes or deeds.

On 1 March, 1820, Lewis Tyer deeded to Elizabeth Lambeth, widow, "for good will & for the support of her fatherless children" — "to Elizabeth my Eldest — the land whereon I now live, 200 acres, deeded to me by said Elizabeth's husband Council Lambeth. To have and to hold until her youngest child, son Council, shall arrive to 21 years." During this time Elizabeth was to pay taxes on the land.

The names of other children of Council and Elizabeth Tyer Lambeth are unknown.

V. JOHN LAMBETH

John Lambeth was born in 1754. The place of his birth is unknown, but he was living in Craven County in 1770, when, as a sixteen year old boy, he — along with Moses Lambeth — was a chain bearer for the survey of a grant, applied for by Samuel Lambeth (Senior). Three years later John "Lamberth" witnessed a deed by which Samuel Lambeth purchased a plantation from Richard Blackledge, Esq. In 1780, soon after returning from military service in the Continental Line, John "Lamberth" and Benjamin "Lamberth" witnessed the deed for the first land purchased by Moses Lambeth.

The following documents related to his military service are filed in the National Archives, Washington, D. C.:

"John Lambert, S 41753, Rev. War

District of North Carolina

On this 14th day of October 1818 before me the subscriber one of the Judges of the Superior Court of Law for the said State personally appeared John Lambert aged 64 years resident in the County of Rowan (State of North Carolina) in the district aforesaid who being by me first duly sworn according to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the provision made by the late Act of Congress entitled "An Act to provide for certain persons engaged in the land and naval service of the United States in the revolutionary war."

That the said John Lambert enlisted in Craven County in the State of North Carolina in the company commanded by Captain Quinns in the third North Carolina Regiment, raised by an Act passed by the General Assembly of the State aforesaid, at Newbern in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy eight entitled "An Act for raising men to complete the Continental battalions belonging to this State."

The said Lambert saith that he continued to serve in the said Quinns Company in the space of Nine Months and sixteen days, when he was discharged at Hallifax N. C. May the sixth 1779 agreeable to Act of Assembly passed at Newbern April 1778, as appeareth by a discharge dated

"Hallifax May 6th 1779 signed Robt. Mebane Lt. Col. Comd. 3d N. C. Btt. The said Lambert saith that he is in reduced circumstances and stands in need of the assistance of his country for support. And that he has no other evidence now in his power of his said service.

Unfortunately for him, John Lambeth was one of many whose names were dropped from the pension role by the Act of 1 May, 1820 because their financial situation did not justify the need for assistance. From the North Carolina Pension Roll, 1835 (North Carolina Archives), page 49, is this entry: "Rowan County — John Lambert, Pri., annual allowance $96.00, $133.67 received. N. C. Continental Line., placed on pension roll Jan. 16, 1819, pension began Oct. 14, 1818. Age 66. Dropped under Act May 1, 1820."

By 1790, in Craven County, John Lambeth had married and had a family, but no record of his wife's name has been found. Possibly he married a Heath, since there is a tradition that one John Lambeth did marry a member of this family, and some of the names of John's children are those used in the Heath family. The census of 1790 shows that he owned one slave; his listing suggests that he did not live in the immediate neighborhood of others in his family. Perhaps, since there are no recorded land transactions for him, John Lambeth lived on property owned by his wife's family.

At the March Court, 1790, John Lambeth, with John Daly, Esq., was one of the securities for Samuel Lambeth's guardianship of Council Lambeth, the amount of the bond being 100 pounds.

In June, 1797, and again in June, 1798, William Good brought suit against John Lambert for a debt of fifteen pounds, guaranteed by a mortgage held by Andrew Richardson. John Lambeth may have already moved to Rowan County by the later date. He is listed there in the census of 1800.

At the February Court of Rowan County, 1804, John Lambeth was appointed guardian to his minor children Mary, Celia, Nancy, Polly, Sidney, John and Sally, who were heirs to a legacy. His bondsman was Moses Lambeth, with a bond of 1,000 pounds. Later, at the same court, he, along with other guardians and heirs, gave power of attorney to Solomon Goodman, apparently for the purpose of the division and settlement of this legacy.

The first recorded purchase of land by John Lambeth was made in February, 1811 when he bought 160 acres from Moses Lambeth on the waters of Uary at Council Lambeth's corner and on Moses Lambeth's line. Probably John had lived on this land since he moved to Rowan. In 1820 he bought 111-3/4 acres, joining his own land, from his son John Lambeth, Jr. It was on the south side of the Fayette Road, and at the "corner of John Lambeth's (Jr.) 10 acres tract." A few months later he bought 86-3/4 acres from Bilberry Coggins, at James Mosses's southwest corner, and Moses Lambeth's corner. Both tracts lay on the "waters of Uara," adjoined property already owned by John Lambeth, Sr., and had been purchased jointly by Coggins and John Lambeth, Jr. in 1819.

After 1820, by which time John Lambeth, Sr. owned about 360 acres, he bought no more land. In 1825 he sold 50 acres on the "waters of Garren's Creek of Uwara" to Nancy Lambeth. The deed, witnessed by Amos and John Lambeth, Jr., does not identify Nancy, so the relationship between them is unknown. She later, on 22 May, 1844, sold 26 acres of this land "with improvements" to Lewis Lambeth for $55.00. It adjoined the line of John Kepley, deceased. Witnesses were Andrew and Ambrose Seachrist, and the deed was proved at the August Court, 1845 (Davidson County Deed Book 10, page 37). Court minutes of May, 1833 in Davidson County show the following entry: "Ordered that the Sheriff bring to the next term of the court the following orphan children to be bound out as apprentices: Lewis and Joseph Lambeth, children of Nancy Lambeth, and other orphans."

Other than serving as a witness to deeds, John Lambeth's name appears only twice in County Court minutes. In March of 1825 he was appointed overseer of the road from the cross roads near Longfield Loftin's to the fork at the "Fleshor's Fery" (probably Fisher's Ferry, S.S.M.) road on the Fayette Road. In December, 1825 he won a suit — probably a debt suit — against Jacob Varner and was awarded 37-1/2 cents in damages — probably interest.

John Lambeth must have been in financial difficulties for some time before the fall of 1825. In the fall of that year, he and his son John Lambeth, Jr. executed a Deed of Trust to Joshua Lee, to secure the following debts: to Moses Lambeth $25.00, to Longfield Loftin $75.00, to Levi Coggins $27.58, to John W. Thomas $50.00 — and other debts bringing the total to $206.00. The land mortgaged consisted of two tracts, totaling 300 acres, bounded by Jesse Hargrave, Moses Lambeth and others. The judgments against the two John Lambeths must have been satisfied, and the debts paid, since in 1827 John Lambeth, Sr. executed another Deed of Trust, mortgaging the same land. The trustee was Peter Owen, and at this time John Lambeth, Sr. owed $127.20 to Samuel Lambeth. Apparently, Jesse Hargrave took over this mortgage — but the debt was not paid in the specified time. In February, 1828, Peter Owen, as Trustee, foreclosed this mortgage and sold 139 acres to John Kepley, as highest bidder, for $82.00. The land is described as lying on the southwest side of the Fayetteville Road, on Moses Lambeth's former line, Cranford's line, Coggins line, Moses Lambeth's corner and Nancy Lambeth's line. It may have been Samuel Lambeth, Jr. (son of Moses) who transferred the mortgage to Jesse Hargrave, since this Samuel moved to Tennessee at about this time.

At the time of this foreclosure John Lambeth owed Peter Owen, the Trustee mentioned above, $33.66. To secure this note he mortgaged 150 acres "on waters of Crooked Run," adjoining Moses Lambeth, Alfred Lambeth, David Kepley and Jesse Hargrave, being "the main plantation whereon the said Lambeth now lives." The Trustee was Joshua Lee.

John Lambeth died in the summer of 1828, aged about 74. At the August court of that year, the above deed was proved, and administration on his estate was granted to Joshua Lee who gave bond with Amos Lambeth for $400.00. It is probable that the wife of John Lambeth had already died, since the widow was usually appointed administrix.

The final foreclosure took place on October, 1828, when Joshua Lee, Trustee, sold John Lambeth's home place to John Kepley, as highest bidder, for $42.15.

The only list of John Lambeth's children is that given in the Rowan Court minutes at the time they inherited money in 1804. There is no further record of his descendants. The children of John Lambeth:

1. Mary
2. Celia
3. Nancy
4. Polly
5. Sidney
6. John
7. Sally

It is probable that Wiley Lambeth was also a son of John Lambeth, had already reached the age of 21 in 1804, and so is not listed as a minor heir to the legacy to which he and his younger brothers and sisters were heirs. Wiley Lambeth and Elizabeth Lambeth were old enough to act on their own behalf — along with the guardians of the younger heirs — in appointing Solomon K. Goodman as attorney in fact to act for them — presumably in the settlement and division of the estate in question. This power of attorney was executed at the Rowan County February Court in 1804.

The fact that John Lambeth, Sr. was a witness to two deeds made by Wiley Lambeth, and that the only deeds witnessed by Wiley Lambeth were those made by John Lambeth, Jr., suggests close family ties.

One of the deeds made by Wiley Lambeth has proved crucial in research on the Lambeth family in that it revealed the name of the uncle who left bequests to the children of John, Moses and Josiah Lambeth — and of their sister Sarah Lambeth Heath. The will of this uncle then made it possible to establish the fact that Samuel Lambeth of Craven County was the progenitor of all of these descendants.

Except for the deeds referred to above — which will be found at the end of this section — only one other record of Wiley Lambeth has been discovered: From the State Dockett, Davidson County Court, 1823-1844, (North Carolina Archives) there is an entry dated January, 1824 showing that the State had brought suit against Wiley Lambeth, and a Capeas issued to Randolph County; the same suit was continued at the September court, with a note "Not issue any more" — presumably Wiley Lambeth had moved from the area.

Elizabeth Lambeth, referred to above, may also have been a child of John Lambeth. Moses and Josiah each had daughters by this name, but both were minors in 1804. According to tradition, one Elizabeth Lambeth married Jacob Summey and both are buried at Beck Church Cemetery, south of Lexington, in Davidson County. The inscription on her tombstone gives her birthdate as February 11, 1782, and her deathdate as July 9, 1881. She would have been 21 years old by 1804, may have been the Elizabeth who was an heir to the legacy, and may have been the daughter of John.

VI. MOSES LAMBETH FAMILY

Moses Lambeth was born in or before 1755, but the place of his birth is unknown. This date is determined from the fact that he gave his age for the census of 1800 as being 45 years, or older. It corresponds with the date of birth — 1754 — stated in his obituary. Because of this correspondence, and because the census age was given during the years of his prime, it is more likely to be correct than the date of 1757, given by Moses Lambeth for his pension application when he was in his middle seventies.

The first mention of Moses Lambeth found in Craven County records shows that he and his brother John Lambert were chain bearers for a survey made in 1770, upon the application of Samuel Lambert, Sr. for a land grant. Further information about the years of his young manhood are given in the record of his military service, filed at the National Archives, Washington, D. C. (S 4 512):

Upon completion of these forms the pension application was accepted with an annual payment of $56.66.

The two friends who certified to their acquaintance with Moses Lambeth — William Wadsworth and Lewis Tyer, had not only formerly lived in Craven County and served with Moses Lambeth in the Revolutionary War, as their statements show, but also were connected with the Lambeth family by marriage. William Wadsworth had married Cassia Heath, whose sister Elizabeth married Moses Lambeth's brother Samuel. (See will of William Heath, Craven County Wills (loose), and Craven County marriage bonds, both at the North Carolina Archives.)

In Craven County, Moses Lambeth had been bondsman for Lewis Tyer for his marriage to Sarah Swann, 20 Dec., 1786. Years later, when both had moved to Rowan County, Lewis Tyer's son James married Moses Lambeth's daughter Elizabeth (Davidson County marriage bonds) and his daughter Elizabeth married Council Lambeth, who had been Moses Lambeth's apprentice.

In his letters to various relatives, Thomas Lambeth made frequent mention of his great uncle Moses — the brother of his grandfather, Samuel — whom he called "Uncle Moda." One of the most vivid descriptions in these letters is that of the Battle of Brier Creek, in which he believed that Moses took part. This could not have been the case since Moses did not enter the service until 1780 and the Battle of Brier Creek took place in 1779. However, the account of this engagement is completely accurate, historically, so Thomas must have heard it from some neighbor — or perhaps a relative — who was there. (See Appendix for letters of Thomas Lambeth.)

Probably about 1780 Moses Lambeth was married to Tabitha Loftin. Most of the marriage bonds of this period have been lost and there is no record of this one, but tradition of the marriage is supported by the fact that the will of Thomas Loftin, dated 1793, names, as his first child, Bitha Lambert, to whom he gave a feather bed. (Craven County Wills (loose) North Carolina Archives). Moses Lambeth also mentions his wife Tabitha in a deed dated 1822 in Davidson County.

Early in 1780, Moses Lambard bought from John Holliway 100 acres on the upper side of Half Moon Swamp in Craven County, on or near Russell's Branch. This is near the site of Fort Barnwell. Adjoining property owners were Enoch Alexander, William Heritage, Wilson Blount and Samuel Lambard (Sr.). Witnesses to this deed were his brothers Benjamin Lamberth and John Lamberth. At the end of the following year, he sold this tract to Benjamin Coleman. A witness was Thomas Loftin, the father of Tabitha Lambeth. The name is again spelled Lambard and the deed was signed by Moses with his "mark" — the letter M.

In March, 1786 Moses Lambeth bought from Sarah Bond, widow, two adjoining tracts on the south side of the Neuse River on Village Creek. The land adjoined Thomas Pollock and the boundary lines of Arnold, Graves and Trapnell. One tract is described as having "all improvements" which meant that the land had been cultivated, and perhaps a house and outbuildings put up. In 1795 he enlarged his holdings by a state land grant of fifty acres, adjoining the property he already owned. The grant was entered in 1788 in the name of Moses Lambard, granted seven years later in the name of Moses Lamberth!

Here, on Village Creek, Moses Lambeth lived for about twelve years, probably doing some farming, but also following the trade of a cooper, or barrel maker. Since naval stores — tar, pitch and turpentine — were among the chief exports of Craven County, he doubtless could sell these barrels readily. It must have been fairly easy, too, to get them to New Bern because Moses Lambeth's property lay just south of the Neuse River, on which the barrels were probably shipped by whomever had bought them from him.

Beginning in 1787 he served during most of this time as one of the patrols in his neighborhood, which was in the upper part of the Militia District of Capt. Thomas A. Green and ran from Half Moon Swamp toward Core Creek and Stoney Branch. Others living nearby who served with him from time to time were Thomas Clements, Thomas Wyse, Frederick Lane, John Gooding, Jr. and Frederick Bryan. As recompence for their assistance in helping to provide public protection, patrollers were exempt from paying taxes, in addition to payment for their services.

In 1791, 1793 and twice in 1796, Moses Lambeth was a juror at the County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions. While jury service was the privilege and responsibility of all freeholders, or property owners, it had a particular place of importance in the culture of the South during the colonial period and the early years of this country. Unlike the New England and Middle Atlantic sections, where there were many small towns and where their churches were important social centers, the southern colonies — later states — were primarily rural. Consequently, the quarterly meetings of the court were important occasions, and attendance at court afforded an opportunity not only to learn something of law and government, but also, and perhaps more importantly, to learn the news, to enlarge one's acquaintances, and to keep in touch with others one might already know outside the family and neighborhood.

Court records of this period show that Moses Lambeth, with Robert Fossett, was a bondsman for the administration of the estate of Ann Lambert in December, 1791. At the same court Clarissa Lambert, "an orphan child aged 12 years in October last (is ordered to) be bound to Moses Lambert till the age of 18 yrs." In December 1793 John West and Moses Lambert were accepted as securities for the administration of the estate of John Saunders. One year later, in December, 1794, the following entry appears in the court minutes: "Ordered that Council Lambert ages 14 years next March be bound to Moses Lambert to learn the trade of a Cooper." Finally, in March of 1798 Moses Lambeth was awarded damages in the amount of 49/13/6 and costs, in a suit brought by him against Frederick Bryan, executor of the estate of William Bryan.

The family was still living in Craven County in December 1796, at which time Moses Lambeth is listed as a juror. At the same court, however, the deed by which he sold all his holdings in Craven County, was proved. This land — the two tracts bought from Sarah Bond, plus the land grant of fifty acres — which totaled 147 acres, is described as lying on the south side of Neuse River, each side of Village Creek, west side of Flat Swamp, adjoining Thomas Pollock's line, Arnold's line, and near or on Core Creek. The purchaser was James Houston, and the deed was witnessed by Josias Lambard who was Moses' brother and who later moved to Guilford County.

Moses and his family must have moved to Rowan County in the winter or early spring of 1797, where he applied for a land grant. At this time state grants could be bought at the rate of 50 shillings for every hundred acres.

This was the section of the state then called the "back country," which had many of the characteristics of the frontier. It was still only sparsely settled, with few and scattered towns and lacking the economic, political and cultural development of the tidewater. In fact, it retained this character until about the middle of the 19th century when the North Carolina Railroad was completed in 1856.

Another family of Lamberts had lived in Rowan County some years before Moses and his brothers moved there, but had moved to Georgia before the census of 1790. Members of this family who received early land grants in Rowan were John, John, Jr., William and Thomas. So far, no connection has been found between these men and the Lamberts of Craven County.

Many families from the same area of Craven County—who had intermarried there—moved to Rowan County about 1800, settling as neighbors in the northeastern section, in what later became Davidson County. Their land lay mostly on the tributaries of the Uwharrie River, near the Randolph County line, and just south of Guilford County. This hilly terrain was in marked contrast to the level and swampy land of the coastal region from which they had come. Many of them remained in the Piedmont for only twenty or thirty years before moving west toward the still plentiful, cheaper, and seemingly more promising lands of Tennessee, and beyond. Among the families who followed this pattern were, in addition to the Lambeths, the Heaths, Tyers, Wests, Lanes, Loftins, Gilstraps and Coxes.

It is probable that Moses Lambeth settled on the land which he applied for from the state, and which was granted to him in 1800. This was a tract of 267 acres lying on "the waters of the Uarhie," at John Sayres old corner, Daniel Brown's line, Embler's corner, and Woodson's line. Meanwhile, in 1798, he had bought tracts totaling 413 acres in the same section, adjoining John Sears, Mark Suit and William Yokely. He purchased this land from Christian Sears and his wife "Barberry." Thus, at the end of the year 1800 Moses Lambeth owned 680 acres of land and, as a freeholder, his name was drawn for jury duty in November, 1800. In 1801 he acquired two more adjoining tracts, totaling 115 acres, on Garrett's (or Garren's) Creek, bordering on his own property, as well as that of Peter Helms, and Yokeley's line. Two more state grants were obtained in 1805 and in 1807 — the first for 21 acres on the waters of the Yadkin River, and the second for 51-1/2 acres, adjoining John Sears. In 1808 Moses Lambeth bought from Daniel West 294 acres, adjoining Helms, on the "waters of Huara."

By 1809 — before selling any land — Moses Lambeth had acquired a thousand, or more acres, which seem to have made up one large tract, lying on the "waters," or tributaries, of the Uwharrie River. His home was probably a few miles south of the present town of Thomasville, but some of his land extended southwest toward the Yadkin River. The Rowan County tax list for that year shows that he was one of the four largest landholders in his tax district of about fifty persons, and that he also owned five slaves.

In 1809 he sold to his son Samuel Lambeth, Jr. (who was thus designated because Moses' brother Samuel had, by this time, moved from Craven County and was known in Rowan County as Samuel Lambeth, Sr. — being about fifteen years the older) 400 acres on "the south branch of Uary." The following day Moses bought 127 acres from Lewis Beard. This land lay on the "waters of Pounder's Fork, crossing the Fayette road," adjoining William Lowe, Lookenbey and Brinkle. Later the same year he sold to Jesse Harris, Jr. 274 acres on "Garrion's Creek, Uharie Waters," and in 1811 sold another 160 acres to John Lambeth, adjoining Moses' and Council Lambeth's land. In the fall of 1811 he sold to James Tyer the 127 acre tract on Pounder's Fork which he had bought two years earlier. This sale took place only a few months after James Tyer had married Moses' daughter Elizabeth.

As is plain from these records, Moses Lambeth took part in a great many land transactions — most of which were profitable for him. However, in October, 1811 he bought 167-1/2 acres in Randolph County from James Childress of that county. It was on the county line and on the "Waters of Uhare," near Moses' home. The price he payed — $1,000.00 — seems extremely high for that time and place, and when he sold it twelve years later, he received only half that amount.

One of the first deeds recorded in the court of the newly formed Davidson County (formed from Rowan in 1822) was another deed (dated 1817) from Moses Lambeth to James Tyer — 73 acres on the southwest branch of Uaree Creek. It was witnessed by Moses' son, Samuel Lambeth, Jr. Also proved at the first court held in Davidson was a deed of gift dated January, 1823, by which Moses gave a slave girl and her child to James and Elizabeth Tyer "in consideration of natural love and affection." The next year he sold two slaves — each for $400.00 — one to Levy and Frances Coggin and one to John W. and Polly Thomas. The wife in each of these cases was a daughter of Moses Lambeth's.

Among the last deeds made by Moses Lambeth was one which is much in the nature of a will, and for this reason is copied in full:

> "This Indenture made this twenty fourth day of December in the Year of Our Lord one Thousand eight hundred and twenty two Between Moses Lambeth of the County of Rowan and State of N. Carolina of the one part and Levi Coggin of the same County and John Thomas of the County of Randolph and State aforesaid both of the other part Witnessth, that for and in consideration of the natural love and affection that the said Moses Lambeth owes to his children and for their better maintenance have this day bargained give granted conveyed and confirmed unto Levi Coggin and John Thomas a certain piece and parcel of Land Whereon I now live being my home lot as their portion and heirship of all my Lands to be equally Divided between Said Coggin and Thomas agreeable to their own Valuation Beginning on the North Side of Lewis Tyers Spring branch and on the old former line between Sd. This deed was proved at the November Court, 1830, and registered 6th December, 1830. It is interesting that the form of the instrument is identical with the deeds of gift made by Samuel Lambeth, Sr. of Craven County, by which he gave his home plantation to two of his sons, Benjamin and Samuel, Jr., reserving the use of the land for himself and his wife during their lifetime.

Within a few years after settling in Rowan County, November, 1802, Moses Lambeth was appointed overseer of a road in his community. This responsibility was given — usually on a yearly basis — to prominent men in a neighborhood whose duty it was to keep the roads in order. If the overseer owned slaves, it was probably they who did the work; if not, members of his family or friends owning land along the road, were recruited by the overseer to help with the upkeep. In 1803 Moses Lambeth was one of the bondsmen for the newly elected sheriff, Jacob Myers, suggesting that Moses had, by this time, established a reputation for both solvency and integrity.

In 1804 he was bondsman with Josias Lambeth and with John Lambeth when each of these men was appointed guardian to their minor children as heirs to a legacy left by their uncle Aaron Lambert of Jamaica. In each case the bond was 1,000 pounds. He also — at the same court, and along with other members of his family — gave power of attorney to Solomon Goodman, presumably in regard to the division and distribution of the inheritance referred to above. Moses Lambeth, too, was appointed guardian to his own minor children who shared in this legacy, his security being his brother Josias.

In 1804 Moses Lambeth served his first term as a juryman at the Rowan County Court, succeeded by jury duty in 1806, 1810, 1815 and 1820, with service on the grand jury at the court held in Salisbury in 1810. He served twice — in 1804 and in 1811 on commissions appointed to lay off a new road — the first near John Campbell's and the second near the Randolph County line. Other members of the last commission were Samuel Lambert, Lewis Tyer, Council Lambert and Daniel West.

In 1808 he was one of a commission to lay off one year's provisions to the widow of John Sullivan, and again in 1811 was on a similar commission to provide for the widow of Stith Moss. Twice he served as a patroller in Capt. Myer's company — in 1809 and 1813, and again as patroller in Capt. Brown's company in 1817. He acted as bondsman with Lewis (probably Levi) Heath in 1812 when the latter was appointed guardian to Lambert and Christopher Heath, with bond of 100 pounds. In 1815 Moses Lambeth and Elijah Morgan were bondsmen for Jesse Harris who was appointed constable in that year.

Moses Lambeth was involved in a suit concerning a debt, brought against him and John Bodenhamer by William Lowe. The plaintiff was awarded $20.00 at the May Court, 1818.

The end of Moses Lambeth's active participation in public life and the curtailment of his own work as a landholder and farmer roughly coincide with the formation of Davidson County. This occurred in 1822, and the section of Rowan in which Moses lived became part of the new county of Davidson. He was by this time nearing 70 and his feelings of wishing to lessen his work and responsibility are indicated by the fact that in that year he disposed of his remaining land through a deed of gift to his two daughters Polly Thomas and Frances Coggin and their husbands, reserving only the right to occupy the premises during his own lifetime and that of his wife, Tabitha.

The letters of Moses' great nephew Thomas Lambeth offer a somewhat more personal version of the active years of Moses' life:

"He settled on headwaters of the South West prong of Little Uhwarie. He was a great farmer and had a large plantation, with big high fences around it. He was the father of John W. Thomas' wife, that started Thomasville." In another letter he describes Moses' home place as "a few miles above now Liberty Baptist Church" . . . "He owned a large farm in there and worked several negro slaves on it." . . . "When I first knew the place Old Tom Cecil lived there and many of the fields were turned out, and it was a powerful place for stock to graze in and was known in all that surrounding country as Moda Old Fields and there was the place they went to hunt for their stock if they were missing or wanted to get them up. . . . After he was gone the fences rotted down. I think the Jones railroad goes across part of it now." "I do not know how many children Uncle Moda and his wife raised."

In Davidson County, court minutes show that Moses Lambeth, along with Jesse Harris, was a security for James Tyer when the latter was appointed constable in January, 1823. The bond for this security was $4,000. A year later Moses Lambeth and others were appointed to a commission to decide what sum of money to give to Mary Loftin, widow of Thomas Loftin, in lieu of 40 bushels of wheat due her, but which she never received due to failure of the crop. At the next court — March, 1824 — the commission reported that the widow of Thomas Loftin should receive $31.50.

Moses Lambeth was the defendant in several suits against him for indebtedness, as recorded in Davidson County records. In December, 1824 he was charged with owing Jesse Hargrave $173.90, with interest of $38.14. In March, 1825 there was a judgment against him for a debt of $155.65 and interest of $25.27, due to Jesse Harper, assignee. In March, 1826 he was sued for a debt of an unspecified amount, but with interest of $11.11, by Samuel Wallace. Finally, in March, 1827 a suit brought by "The Governor to the use of Martin Owen" against Moses and Samuel Lambeth and James Tyer, was settled by compromise. By this date James Tyer had moved out of the county. (All of the above records from Davidson County Execution Docket, 1823-1831)

Such financial entanglements had not been typical of Moses Lambeth's business dealings until his later years, and suggests a loss of judgment or lack of responsibility not reflected in what is known of him previously. However, in February, 1829 Moses Lambeth was appointed to assist with maintenance of a public road in his neighborhood (when the "hands" of Moses Lambeth and of Longfield Loftin were assigned to work under the direction of Levi Coggan, overseer, implying that Moses Lambeth still owned one or more slaves or employed farm laborers). Perhaps his financial dealings led to the following action noted in the Davidson County Court minutes of November, 1830: "On affadavit filed by John W. Thomas it is ordered by the court that a commission of lunacy issue to the Sheriff of Davidson County to summon a jury of freeholders to inquire into the state of mind of Moses Lambeth, & whether he is competent to transact his ordinary business & report to the present term of this Court." At the same court the committee returned its report and John W. Thomas was appointed guardian to Moses Lambeth. He gave bond with Levi Coggan, but the amount of the bond is not stated. Moses Lambeth's deed of his home property to John W. Thomas and Levi Coggan, dated 1822, was also proved at this court.

If senility was responsible for Moses Lambeth's failure to meet his obligations, it comes as a real surprise to find the following entry in the court minutes of November, 1833: "John W. Thomas guar'd to Moses Lambeth came into open court and relinquished his guardianship of the said Lambeth which was accepted, and on motion Joshua Lee & Valentine Hoover & Danial Mock were appointed a committee to Settle the account of the said John W. Thomas with his ward And also to pass upon the sum which said Thomas shall have for keeping and supporting said Lambeth & his wife since he has acted as said Lambeth's guardian." At the same court "Moses Lambeth came into Open Court and on Motion, prayed that a writ may issue to the Sheriff to Summon a Jury to inquire into the State of Mind of the said Lambeth and say whether the said Lambeth is Capable of transacting his ordinary business, And the Sheriff having So Summoned a Jury to enquire as aforesaid, have returned their Verdict and say that the Said Lambeth is Capable of transacting his own business."

The last record that has been found of Moses Lambeth in Davidson County shows that in August, 1836, according to Court minutes, John W. Blackwell was awarded a judgment in his favor for a debt of $19.15 with interest of $2.10, due him by Moses Lambeth. Mention is made that a payment of $5.85 was made on this debt in September, 1834.

Tabitha Loftin Lambeth, wife of Moses, was born (presumably in Craven County, where the Loftins had long been settled) on March 31, 1757, and died on June 10, 1836, in Davidson County. She was buried in the cemetery of Fairgrove Methodist Church near Thomasville, of which her son-in-law, John W. Thomas, had been one of the original trustees. In addition to the dates given above, the inscription on her tombstone states that she was the mother of Mrs. J. W. Thomas.

Soon after her death Moses must have moved to Tennessee, as is indicated by the following document from the Revolutionary War pension file of Moses Lambeth, S 4 512 (National Archives, Washington, D. C.):

"County of Henderson, S. S.

On this first day of July 1837, before me the subscriber, a Justice of the Peace for the said County of Henderson Personally appeared Moses Lambeth, who on his oath declares that he is the same person, who formerly belonged to the Company Commanded by Captain Ben. Six years later Moses Lambeth died. He was then living in northern Mississippi. The following obituary appeared in the Holly Springs Gazette, dated August 25, 1843:

"Obituary

"In the midst of life we are in death"

At the residence of Mr. James Tyer, Sen. in this county, on Friday the 18th instant, Mr. MOSES LAMBETH, a Revolutionary soldier, aged 89 years.

The deceased emigrated from Lexington, N. C., and resided with his son-in-law in this county until his death. He has left many relatives and sincere friends to mourn his death; but it is hoped that their loss is his eternal gain."

On March 25, 1844, Levi Coggin and his daughter Celene appeared at a Probate Court of Marshall County, Mississippi, to swear that Moses Lambeth had been a pensioner at the time of his death on August 18, 1843 and to present an original certificate "found in his possession at the time of his death:"

"War Department, Revolutionary Claim.

I certify that in conformity with the law of the United States of the 7th June, 1832, Moses Lambeth of the State of North Car. who was a private in the war of the revolution is entitled to secure Fifty Six dollars and sixty six cents per annum during his natural life, commencing on the 4th of March 1831, and payable Semi-annually on the 4th of March and 4th of September in every year.

Given at the War Office of the United States, this 22d day of July one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three.

John Robb

Examined and Countersigned
J. S. Edwards
Commissioner of Pensions

Endorsed

Payments to be made at Fayetteville by the Pres'd. U S Br. Bank, Agent for paying Pensioners in the Agency of North Car."

Levi and Celene Coggin also stated that Moses Lambeth had resided in Marshall County, Mississippi, about five years, and "previous thereto he resided in Carroll County, Tennessee, and previous thereunto in North Carolina and ... has no widow living." (Probate records of Marshall County, Mississippi.) This indicates that Moses Lambeth spent only about one year in Tennessee.

The administrator of Moses Lambeth's estate was James Tyer, who stated that his only money or property at the time of his death was the balance of the pension payment due him, amounting to $54.12.

The following statement of disbursements, constituting the final settlement of the estate gives an interesting insight into the times:

Paid for shroud	$4.50
For making coffin	$6.00
For board, clothing, 1843	$50.00
Going to Jackson, Tenn, twice	$7.00
Court fees	$9.34-1/2
	$76.84-1/2
Bal. of Excess in favor of Admr.		$22.72

Although Moses Lambeth died far from the state where he had spent most of his life, he was living with one of his daughters, Elizabeth Tyer, at the time of his death, and another, Frances Coggin, was close by. Only one child — Polly Thomas — remained in North Carolina. However, through her, Moses Lambeth has many descendants still living in this state.

The children of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth (from Rowan County Court minutes, February, 1804):

Samuel married Polly Merrill
Elizabeth married James Tyer
Barbara married Henry Hart
Frances married Levi Coggin
Polly married John W. Thomas
Sally (no further record); she may have been the Sally

Lambeth for whom a marriage bond with John Loftin was issued in Rowan County, 1 August, 1822. John Loftin, bondsman, James Tyer, witness.

Possibly there was another daughter who married a Harris, but this has not been confirmed.

SAMUEL LAMBETH

Samuel Lambeth, son of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County. Since Court minutes of Rowan County show that he was a minor on 6 February, 1804, it is clear that his birthdate was after 6 February, 1783. It was probably not later than 1785, considering the date of his marriage.

He was between twelve and fourteen years old when he moved with his family to Rowan County about 1797. In 1805 he was married to Mary (Polly) Merrill — their marriage bond in Randolph County is dated 4 August, with Lyt(tle) Merrell, as bondsman. Polly Merrill Lambeth was the daughter of Daniel Merrill of Randolph County who had been a soldier in the Revolutionary War. (A history of the Merrill family is included in the collection of family histories in the Search Room of the North Carolina Archives.) Her mother was Elizabeth Lytle, daughter of Henry Lytle, according to the will of Thomas Lytle, written and probated in 1794: "To brother Henry Lytle's daughter, Elizabeth Merrell 100 pounds," (Randolph County Will Book 2, page 2).

After he reached the legal age to transact business, own property and pay taxes, Samuel was referred to as Samuel Lambeth, Jr. — to distinguish him from his uncle Samuel, who was about fifteen years older.

In 1809 Samuel Lambeth Jn. bought 400 acres from his father Moses Lambeth. The land was on the south branch of the "Uary" and apparently joined Moses Lambeth's property, since the two are listed side by side in the census of 1810. In the fall of 1826 Samuel Lambeth bought from John Thomas of Randolph County (his brother-in-law) 225 acres on both sides of the south fork of the Uharie, adjoining John Varner, McCulloch, Jacob Varner, Adam Bowers, William Varner, Jacob Pugh and Benjamin Wright. One of the witnesses was Samuel's father-in-law, Dan. Merrill. Two years later, Samuel Lambeth, then living in Bledsoe County, Tennessee, sold this tract to Jacob Fouts of Randolph County.

Perhaps the only Lambeth deed listing a married woman is that by which Polly Lambeth, "wife of Samuel Lambeth" purchased a slave from her father Daniel Merrell. The deed is dated 1819 and was witnessed by Moses Lambeth and John W. Thomas.

Rowan County Court minutes show that Samuel Lambeth, Jr. served on the grand jury for the court of May, 1820. In July, 1823 he, John Loftin and Levy Coggan were granted a refund on the county and Poor Tax they had paid for the year 1822 as residents of Rowan County (since their property now lay in Davidson) "provided it does not exceed forty shillings." In March, 1824 Samuel Lambeth, Junr. was appointed overseer from the Fayette road to the Fisher's Fery road.

Little or nothing of a personal nature is known about Samuel Lambeth after he moved from North Carolina to Bledsoe County, Tennessee, between November, 1826 and September, 1828. The census of 1840 shows that he was still living there then, although his wife seems to have died before this date. Samuel probably soon moved to Osage County, Missouri, where a tax list of 1844 gives his name. On 5 June, 1847 he made a deed of gift to his son Wesley by which for $2,500 and "in consideration of natural love and affection" Samuel conveyed to him two negro women, one negro man and three negro children. The gift also included one wagon and four oxen and "the S. W. qu of section 16 in Township 43 in Range 7 west." (Deed Book C, page 7.)

Samuel Lambeth died in 1873 and was buried in the "Old Lambeth Cemetery" on the Kixmueller farm, near Linn. His tombstone inscription is: "Samuel Lambeth, A Native of N.C. died in Osage County, Mo. Dec. 30, 1873 Aged about 100 years. Stone purchased J. O'Donnell & Co., St. Louis." His will is recorded in Will Book A, page 259:

> "I, Samuel Lambeth of the County of Osage in the State of Missouri, do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say, First, it is my will that my funeral expenses and all my just debts be fully paid. Second, I give to Little Lambeth one negro boy by the name of Leander age eight years old. Third, I give to my son Joseph Lambeth one negro girl named Mary aged sixteen years old. Fourth, I give to my daughter Elizabeth Anderson one negro girl named Manda aged nine years old. Fifth, I give my son Dan M. Lambeth one negro (girl) woman named Sarah aged twenty four years old and child one month old. Sixth, I give my son Jesse Lambeth one negro boy named Peter aged eight years and six months old. Seventh, I give my daughter Lucinda Ran one negro girl named Martha aged seven years old. Eighth, I give my son Wesley Lambeth one negro girl named Ann aged sixteen years old and one negro named Milton aged one year old. Ninth, I give my grandson Christopher Conley Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when he is twenty one years old. Tenth, I give my grand-daughter Margaret McKinney Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when she is eighteen years old. Eleventh, I give my grandson Thos. W. McKinney Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. Twelfth, I give my grandson Jesse T. McKinney Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. Thirteenth, I give my grand daughter Mary E. McKinney Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money. Fourteenth, I give my grandson John Sitton Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. Fifteenth, I give my grandson Samuel Sitton Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. Sixteenth, I give to my grandson James Sitton Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. Seventeenth, I give grand-daughter Tebitha Cox Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. Eighteenth, the within named slaves are given to the within named heirs and their bodily heirs. Nineteenth, I give to daughter Tebitha Perkins and her bodily heirs one negro girl named Jane age five years old. Twentieth, The balance of my property after my death and after my debts is paid if any left to be equally divided among my bodily heirs. Twenty-first, I give my grand-daughter Emily Harris, Fifty Dollars in good and lawful money when of age. And lastly I hereby constitute and appoint my son Jesse Lambeth and Wesley Lambeth to be the executors to this my last will and testament, revoking and annulling all former wills by me made and ratefying and confirming this and no other to be my last will and testament. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 26th day of April A. D. 1860.

Samuel Lambeth, Seal

Signed, published and declared by the above named

Samuel Lambeth as and for his last will and testament in presence of us who at his request have signed as witnesses to the same.

John Harris "

Apparently several of his daughters had died, and their children were named as his heirs. At the time Samuel made this will he owned ten slaves and had earlier given six slaves to his son Wesley, with whom he lived for many years before his death. Samuel must have been both successful and saving, since he was able to make bequests of cash to his ten grandchildren—probably a rather unusual situation for a man who presumably farmed, and whose holdings were likely to have been mostly in land and slaves.

The following records of the children of Samuel and Mary Merrell Lambeth are taken from census reports of Osage County, Missouri, contributed by Gilberta Lambeth Haunschild, Teresa Skaggs Jansa and Bettie Davis Newcomb. Additional information from Bible records, marriage bonds, tombstone inscriptions and census records of related families has been added by Mrs. Haunschild and Mrs. Jansa. The children are listed in their estimated order of birth, and the family groups (giving birthplace and approximate age) are from the census of 1850, unless otherwise noted. This census shows that both Lytle and Joseph Lambeth were 43 years old. If this is correct they were obviously twins, so that the known birthdate of Lytle Lambeth is also the birthdate of his brother Joseph. The children of Samuel and Mary Merrell Lambeth:

3rd g. 1. John Sutton, born Mo. about 1847
2. Samuel Sutton, born Mo. about 1848

2nd g.9. Tabitha Lambeth Perkins, born Mo. about 1825 (or 1828). The place of her birth must be an error since her parents were probably living in either North Carolina or Tennessee at this time. Her husband, born in Mo. about 1828 is listed as head of household (family #565). Their marriage bond in Osage Co., Mo. is dated 14 April, 1850; married at home of Samuel Lambeth.

2nd g.10. Wesley Lambeth, born North Carolina about 1827 or 1828, according to census of 1870 and of 1880 for Osage Co., Mo. His name has not been found in the census of 1850. In 1860 he was living with his father Samuel, and in 1870 Samuel is listed as living in Wesley's home. A tombstone in memory of Julia Ann, wife of Wesley Lambeth, died April 9, 1853, aged about 19 years is in Pointer's Creek Cemetery, near Linn, Osage Co., Mo. Wesley Lambeth was mar. 2nd in 1867 to Eveline Rand born Mo. about 1848. Children (from 1880 census):

3rd g. 1. Amanda E. Lambeth, born Mo. about 1868

2nd g.11. Lucinda Lambeth Rand, born Tenn. about 1831. Unmarried and living in her father's home in 1850. (Samuel's household was listed as #436.) Lucinda mar. 5 Sept., 1852 to George M. Rand, who must have died before 1870. Children as listed in census of that year:

3rd g. 1. Sarah Rand, born Mo. about 1853
2. Louisa Rand, born Mo. about 1856
3. Edward W. Rand, born Mo. about 1859
4. Laura Rand, born Mo. about 1862

2nd g.12. Louisa Lambeth Cox born Tenn. about 1831 (or 1830) also unmarried and living in her father's home in 1850. She is buried at Pointer's Creek Cemetery, near Linn, Missouri. The inscription on her tombstone is: "In Memory of Louisa, wife of Henry J. Cox, born May 28, 1831 (or 1830), died August, 1858." She must have been the twin sister of Lucinda Lambeth Ran and the mother of Tabitha Cox, named in the will of Samuel Lambeth. It appears that Samuel and Mary Merrell Lambeth were the parents of two sets of twins.

DESCENDANTS OF JOSEPH LAMBETH

Joseph Lambeth, son of Samuel and Mary Merrill Lambeth was born in Rowan County, North Carolina about 1807. He left two sons, William and Joseph, who were respected in their communities and whose records have been contributed by their descendants. The following material was sent by Odus H. Lambeth, a descendant of William Preston Lambeth, and by Mrs. William Nasse, a descendant of Joseph Marion Lambeth — both Mr. Lambeth and Mrs. Nasse being from Sarcoxie (Osage County), Missouri.

1. William Preston Lambeth was the eldest son of Joseph and Rhoda Louden Lambeth. In 1850 he and his new bride were living in the home of his parents. In the Osage County census of that year, her name is incorrectly given as "Jane." She was born in Virginia, about 1832. The 1870 census (Osage County) lists his occupation as "farmer and preacher" and gives the following children, all born in Missouri:

Daniel M., age 19
Joseph M., age 17
Rethoda, age 16
William P., age 11
(Two others had either died, or had not yet been born, see below.)

"W. P. Lambeth Sr. is Dead
Cancer Removes Old Citizen and Baptist Minister after 86 years of Useful Life.

William Preston Lambeth, 86 years old died last Tuesday evening of cancer at his home, three miles southeast of town. The funeral was held Thursday morning. Rev. Z. Adams conducting the services at Harvey where the body was interred.

Mr. Lambeth was born Dec. 9, 1828, in East Tennessee and came to this state when 12 years old, settling in Osage County. He was married April 11, 1850, to Virginia, and who still lives. They came to southwest Missouri in 1877. Of the six children born to them, four have died and only two survive. W. P. Lambeth and Newt Lambeth. He lived however to see 18 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren grow up around him.

Mr. Lambeth was a man of strong religious sentiment and 40 years of his life was spent in active work and as a Baptist minister. He lived in Sarcoxie over 30 years and was the founder of the Baptist Church here. He was an old-fashioned manners and habits, clinging until death to the simplicity of living which marked the early years of his life. He acquired considerable property, but this made no difference to him and he continued to live the simple life. During the war he enlisted in the Home Guards.

His last illness caused him intense suffering and death was welcome to him and give him rest. He leaves to his children and grandchildren the example of a long life well-lived, a life beautiful in its simplicity, piety and scrupulous honesty.

Further information about the family of William Preston Lambeth was sent by Odus H. Lambeth, of Sarcoxie, Missouri, to George Stephens, of Asheville, N. C. in 1945. He adds that:

I. "William Preston Lambeth, son of Joseph Lambeth, was born in White County, Tennessee. He married Virginia Land. Of his six children, only two survived him — W. P. Lambeth, Jr. and Joseph Newton Lambeth.

Joseph Newton Lambeth, son of William Preston Lambeth, Sr., was born October 7, 1863 and died February 20, 1936. He has three living sons and three daughters:

1. Odus H. Lambeth born March 9, 1881, married Carrie B. Woods, September 6, 1905. Four of their five children are living:
   A. Ella May Lambeth, born Nov. 8, 1906, married Virgil Sooter in 1925. They have three children: Jack, June and Gene.
   B. James Odus Lambeth, born Feb. 18, 1917, married Jewell Rosebrough in 1940. Their two children are David Odus and Mary Ruth.
   C. William Max Lambeth, born Jan. 7, 1924, married Maxine Castor, February 8, 1945. He is now serving as a cook in the infantry in the Pacific.
   D. Victor Neal Lambeth is now an officer in the navy, serving in the Pacific.
2. Henry N. Lambeth, born April 30, 1900.
3. Charlie J. Lambeth, born Sept. 12, 1906. He is a veteran of 32 months service in the Signal Corps and is now a Major serving in the South Pacific.
4. Virginia C. Lambeth Humbard, born March 4, 1893.
5. Stella C. Lambeth, born February 26, 1912.
6. Hazel C. Lambeth Dodson, born Sept. 24, 1914.

Another daughter, Edity Lambeth Karr (deceased) left one son, Lieutenant Allen R. Karr, born Sept. 26, 1920. He is now a bomber pilot in China. "

II. "Judge Joseph Marion Lambeth, judge from the First District of the County Court of Osage County, was born in White County, Tennessee in 1840 and immigrated to Osage County, Missouri with his father. He is a son of Joseph Lambeth (a native of Randolph County, North Carolina) and Rhoda (Louden) Lambeth.

In 1872 Joseph Lambeth removed to Pulaski County, Missouri where he lived until his death which occurred in 1873. He was married three times, the mother of our subject dying in 1854.

The paternal grandfather of our subject was Samuel Lambeth who was born in Randolph County (should be Craven, S. S. M.), North Carolina; from thence, in 1828, went to Bledsoe County, Tennessee, and in 1843 immigrated to Osage County, Missouri, locating on Pointer's Creek, Crawford Township. He died in December, 1873, at the advanced age of one hundred years. (Should be about 90 years, S.S. M.)

His father (Samuel Lambeth's father, S.S.M.) was Moses Lambeth who served as a soldier under Gen. Washington during the Revolutionary War, and died near Holly Springs, Mississippi in 1840. (Should be 1843, S.S.M.)

Joseph Marion Lambeth was but a child when his parents settled in Osage County where he was reared on a farm, receiving but a limited common-school education. He served in the Home Militia during the Civil War and in 1866 married Matilda Jane Maxwell, a native of Gasconade County, Missouri, born in 1848, and a daughter of Elijah C. Maxwell, a Missionary Baptist Minister. Immediately after his marriage Mr. Lambeth located on the farm where he still resides, which consists of 200 acres of well improved land. He is one of the enterprising farming and representative men of Osage County. He is a staunch Republican in politics, and in 1888 was elected as judge from the First District to the County Court. Judge and Mrs. Lambeth are members of the Missionary Baptist Church and are highly esteemed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambeth have been blessed with the following children:

1. Virginia Ellen (now the wife of M. C. Rice)

2. James L., deceased
3. William E., deceased
4. Joseph Robert
5. Leander Allen, deceased
6. Eva Elizabeth
7. Emma Josephine
8. Thomas Augustus
9. Floyd O'Dell "

(The above sketch of Joseph Marion Lambeth was sent to George Stephens of Asheville, North Carolina, by Odus Lambeth, of Sarcoxie, Missouri, in 1945. Mr. Lambeth was a great nephew of Judge Lambeth's. It is from Goodspeed's History of Cole, Moniteau, Morgan, Benton, Miller, Maries and Osage Counties of Missouri, (Goodspeed's Publishing Company, John Morris Company, Printers, 118-120 Monroe St., Chicago, Ill., 1889) page 1146 and 1149. Several phrases have been transposed, and some changes made in punctuation for the sake of clarity.)

DESCENDANTS OF DANIEL LAMBETH

The following line of descent from Daniel Lambeth, son of Samuel and Mary Merrill Lambeth, is contributed by Gilberta Lambeth Haunschild:

1st generation

Daniel M. Lambeth was born July 8, 1817 (in Rowan County, North Carolina, S.S.M.) and died July 6, 1877 ("aged 59 years, 11 mo's, 29 d's") according to the inscription on his tombstone at Pointer's Creek Cemetery, near Linn, in Osage County, Missouri. The tombstone is also inscribed:

Dear Father when time shall have ended
Its years and its vanities gone

May we meet thee by angels attended
To welcome eternity's dawn.

J. O. Donnell & Co.
Sedalia

A marriage bond for Daniel Lambeth and Nancy Miller is recorded in Gasconade County (later Osage County), Missouri, dated 30 October, 1838. She was the daughter of Thomas and Althea Sherrill Miller. They are mentioned in Goodspeed's History of Osage County as being among the founders of Pointer's Creek Church in 1845 and of Stony Point Church in 1857 — both Christian Churches. (page 692).

Nancy, "relict of Daniel M. Lambeth" was born Jan. 20, 1815 and died Sept. 16, 1892, and is buried beside her husband at Pointer's Creek Cemetery.

Their children have been listed previously.

2nd generation

Thomas Lambeth, son of Daniel M. and Nancy Miller Lambeth, was born at Linn, Osage County, Missouri on 19 October, 1845, died 21 February, 1911 and is buried at Avilla, Jasper County, Missouri. He married Amelia Jane Huckstep, daughter of James Walker and Martha Ann Bacon Huckstep. (Marriage bond dated 12 January, 1869, Osage County, Missouri.) She was born 10 November, 1848 in Osage County, Missouri, died 9 April, 1947, Lamar, Barton County, Missouri, and is buried, with her husband at Avilla.

ELIZABETH LAMBETH TYER

Elizabeth Lambeth Tyer, daughter of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County between 1780 and 1790—according to the 1840 census of Marshall County, Mississippi, where she was then living. She moved with her parents to Rowan County about 1797.

Her marriage bond to James Tyer (born 30 April, 1790) is dated 30 June, 1811 and the bondman was her cousin Council Lambeth, son of her uncle Benjamin. Council Lambeth had earlier married James Tyer's sister Elizabeth. These marriages must have pleased both families, who had been friends for some thirty or forty years from the time they lived as neighbors in Craven County before moving to Rowan. Elizabeth's father Moses Lambeth had served in the Revolutionary War with James' father Lewis Tyer and later—in 1786—Moses had been bondsman for the marriage of Lewis Tyer to Sarah Swann.

A few months after their marriage, James Tyer bought 127 acres of land from his father-in-law Moses Lambeth for $200.00. This land lay on Ponder's Fork and crossed the "Fayette Road." It also adjoined Tyer's line—probably the land of Lewis Tyer. One of the witnesses to the deed was Council Lambeth.

The next year Lewis deeded to his son James "in consideration of the Natural Love and affection which the said Lewis bears to his Son James Tyer" 70-1/2 acres on the waters of "Uary and Crooked Run of Flat Swamp, being part of his home lot." Again Council Lambeth was a witness to the deed.

In 1815 James Tyer bought from Levi Heath, who was his wife's first cousin, more land in the same location, which had previously belonged to Lewis Tyer. The number of acres is not given, but the land included "all improvements," indicating that houses had been built and cultivation done. Council Lambeth witnessed the deed. The price was $550.00.

James Tyer sold all three tracts—totaling 425 acres—in August 1816 to Longfield Loftin who was his wife's uncle. The amount of the sale was $900.00 and the deed was witnessed by James' father, Lewis.

In the following year James Tyer bought 73 acres on the southwest branch of the Uary from Moses Lambeth for $100.00. This adjoined Moses' own land and was in the part of the county which became Davidson County in 1823.

In 1823 Moses Lambeth gave to James and Elizabeth Tyer "in consideration of natural love and affection" a slave girl and her child.

James and Elizabeth must have lived on this land—next to her parents, until they left Davidson County. It was sold to Levi Coggin in January, 1824, the deed being witnessed by Elizabeth's brother, Samuel Lambeth, Jr.; the price was $154.00.

Lewis Tyer, James' father, was a surveyor and was a justice of the peace in Rowan County—which was a position of considerable responsibility and importance. (Rowan County Court Minutes, 1815). James was just beginning to take an active part in public life when he and his wife moved away from North Carolina. In January, 1823 he was appointed a constable for one year, with Moses Lambeth and Jesse Harris serving as his securities for a bond of $4,000. (Davidson County Court Minutes.)

The last mention of James Tyer that has been found in Davidson County records is in connection with a debt suit brought by the Governor in behalf of Martin Owen against James Tyer, Samuel Lambeth and Moses Lambeth in March, 1827. The suit was settled by compromise, but a note states that James Tyer was no longer living in the county. (Davidson County Trial Docket, County Court, March 1827.) The birth place of some of their children (from 1850 census) indicates that James and Elizabeth moved from North Carolina to Tennessee.

(The following information on the family of James and Elizabeth Lambeth Tyer was contributed by Jane Franklin in 1971.)

Records of Marshall County, Mississippi show that on 27 March, 1846 James Tyer, Sr. and wife Elizabeth sold 71 acres for $600.00, being 1/9 undivided interest in a tract of land. It is not known from whom this land descended or whether it was left to Elizabeth or to James. In December of the same year James Tyer bought land in Marshall County for $1400.00. On 18 October, 1847, James Tyer Sr. married Nancy Knox, marriage performed by the Probate Judge in Marshall County. On 30 Aug., 1850 James Tyer of Lafayette County, Mississippi, and wife Nancy, sold for $1800.00 the land purchased in 1846. From the above records it is clear that Elizabeth Lambeth Tyer (wife of James Tyer, Sr.) died between 27 March, 1846 and 18 October, 1847, probably in Marshall County. James and Nancy Knox Tyer must have moved to Lafayette County soon after they were married (his sons Lewis George and John E. were both residents of Lafayette County) and as she probably survived him, she probably made the decision that he should be buried in Abbeville, Lafayette County, instead of in Marshall County where his first wife Elizabeth was most likely buried. James Tyer died 25 Aug. 1852 and is buried in the town cemetery of Abbeville.

Children of James and Elizabeth Lambeth Tyer: (From records collected by Jane Franklin, including Bible records of Hubert Tyer, Carlsbad, New Mexico; of Mrs. Earl Jones, Alexandria, Louisiana; of Mary A. Moses and Tabitha Lambeth's daughter, Barbara (b. in Craven County, N. C. in 1794, d. in Christian County, Mo. Sept. 8, 1868) married Henry Hart (b. in Virginia Dec., 1781, d. in Christian County, Mo. Jan. 21, 1855). He was the first son of Edmond Heart, a merchant of New Bern, and Mary (Burton) Hart, and a grandson of James Heart of the Colony of Virginia. (Deed of gift, Craven County Deeds, Book 19, page 317) and (marriage bond, New Bern). The Heart family came to New Bern from the Colony of Virginia shortly before the Revolutionary War as is evidenced by the deed of gift cited above which is dated December 3, 1771 at New Bern, and states that James Heart was "late of the Colony of Virginia, merchant, deceased."

In 1790, Henry's father, Edmond Heart, died in New Bern. Henry was nine years old. The following year (1791) Henry was apprenticed by a Craven County court of pleas and quarter session at New Bern: "Ordered that Henry Hart aged ten years in December next, be bound to Joseph Loftin to learn the cooper's trade." Thus Henry Hart, a lad of nine and a half years, went to live with the Loftins on a farm across the wide Neuse River east of New Bern, North Carolina, in the vicinity of the Half Moon Swamp in Craven County. When he was sixteen years old, he was reapprenticed to John Deway. (Court Minutes.) (Joseph Loftin had died.) It is said that as soon as Henry was old enough, he worked around on farms at seven dollars per month plus room and board. Thus he became a farmer, not a merchant as were his father and his grandfather before him.

On August 8, 1808, at the age of twenty-six, Henry enlisted in the United States Army at the courthouse at New Bern, for a term of five years. (He likely had heard about the troubles arising with the British and the Indians in the Northwest and his country's need of troops.) At the Old Army Records Room at the National Archives in Washington, D.C., in a volume entitled, "Enlistments in the United States Army Prior to May 17, 1815," one can find a record of his enlistment (No. 1774) which has the following physical description of him:

"height, 5 ft. 6 in.; eyes, blue; hair, lgt.; age 26;"

There are other facts about his enlistment as well:

"rank, pvt.; rgt., 3rd Regt., inf.; county, Craven; State, N.C.; occupation, farmer."

He entered service in Capt. William Butler's company, 3rd Regt. Inf.

This enlistment took him into the campaign against Tecumseh and his Indian confederates who were being stirred up by British officers in the Detroit region. In addition to stirring up trouble in the Northwest, Tecumseh went into Alabama and stirred the Creek Indians to fall upon 400 people at Fort Mimms and massacre them. This caused the Creek War. Henry Hart was in both of these campaigns against the Indians. After his five-year enlistment period was up, he volunteered to join General Andrew Jackson, who led the Tennessee Militia against the Creek Indians who were favoring the British in the War of 1812. Under Jackson, he fought in the Battle of Natchez, in the Battle of Horseshoe Bend, and other battles of the Creek War.

After the Indians were defeated in this campaign, he re-enlisted (in Sumner County, Tenn. in 1814) in the United States Army as a private with the 2nd Regt., mounted horseman, Tennessee Volunteers, Capt. Scurry's company, regiment commanded by Col. Williamson, for a period of seven months. In this campaign, he went with Jackson to the Gulf, was at the capture of Pensacola and finally the Battle of New Orleans.

About four months after the Battle of New Orleans, he was discharged at Nashville, Tennessee (April 27, 1815). The wording of his Discharge would make any descendant proud. It is in part as follows:

".....his good conduct, subordination, and valor, under the most trying hardships, entitle him to the gratitude of his country; and he is hereby HONORABLY discharged by his General.

Signed, John Coffee, Brigadier General"

Our subject stayed on in Sumner County at least four and a half months after his discharge, apparently to get his service pay; for a power of attorney, on record, which he made to Isaac Franklin to recover his pay, dated September 15, 1815, is proof that he was there until this date at least. On the same day, he sold his discharge to a David Green for full value and turned his discharge over to the attorney, Isaac Franklin. Pay in hand, it must have also been the day that he struck out for Davidson County and to Barbara Lambeth, niece of Joseph Loftin to whom he was bound when he was nine years old. It is said that upon returning to North Carolina, Henry first lived in the home of Longfield Loftin (also Barbara's uncle) and worked for him. No further record of him was found in Sumner County.

The exact date of Henry and Barbara's marriage is not known, at least not by this writer. It has been said that they eloped, and that they were disinherited. But it is known that they settled down in Davidson county, had all of their children but the youngest, and farmed for almost sixteen years. (It is to be assumed that they were married in 1815 or 1816, as their oldest son was born in 1817.)

Then one day in 1832, Henry Hart headed west again—to Tennessee—not to war this time, but to make a home. Whether he went there because he had relatives there, or because he had developed a liking for the place during the war, is not known.

Sarah Elizabeth, nine, one of the seven children who went by covered wagon to Bedford County, Tennessee, with her parents, Henry and Barbara Hart, and who was to become the writer's grandmother, never forgot the morning that they left North Carolina. They drove in that morning from the place where they lived in the country to her uncle Sammy Lambeth's place—not far from where Thomasville is today, presumably, and stopped to see him before they left. While they were there, uncle Sammy went into his store and brought out a little cup for her and each of the other children. It was something that she told her grandchildren about in after years; and though she never saw North Carolina or uncle Sammy Lambeth again, she never forgot them—or her little cup—not even when she was in her nineties.

The Henry Hart family stayed in Bedford County, Tennessee for almost twenty years. It was while they were living here that Andrew Jackson, many years after the war, was making a campaign trip for the presidency of the United States. Shelbyville, the county seat of Bedford County, was a scheduled stop. Henry Hart walked seven miles from his home in the country to Shelbyville to see him. Jackson greeted him with, "Hi, Henry!"

The family was still living in Bedford County, Tennessee in 1850 when Congress granted bounty land to soldiers for their services in the War of 1812. Henry applied for bounty land in Bedford County in October of the year that the law was passed by Congress. His application was approved, and a bounty land warrant (No. 2715) for eighty acres, dated March 21, 1851, was issued to him.

In 1852, the family of Henry and Barbara Hart 'pulled up stakes' again and prepared to go to Greene County, Missouri (now Christian County). All of their eight children except the two youngest ones, who were also grown, were married by this time and had children of their own. Henry and Barbara, their children—single ones, married ones and their children (except Pleasant A. who had gone on to Missouri some time before) together with several other families of Bedford County, set out for Missouri in a large wagon train—16 wagons, 72 people. The wagons were drawn by oxen. There was only one horse among them. Roswell Hart, who was then twenty-three, was wagonmaster.

When these Missouri-bound travelers came to the Mississippi River at a point called 'Iron Banks," they caulked the wagon wheels and floated across the river in the wagons. It was a frightening experience for some of them. Some of the waters of 'Ole Miss' got into the wagons and some of the household furnishings and clothing got wet. To make bad matters worse, there had come a very cold spell. The men had to build a huge fire to dry out the wet clothing and to heat the ground for their camp. After a rest and a drying-out, the wagon wheels rolled again. They arrived at their destination in Greene County (now Christian County) on December 2, 1852.

As for the bounty land warrant, it evidently came along with its owner by covered wagon and floated across the Mississippi River, too; for there is record that on October 31, 1853, Henry Hart sold his bounty land warrant at the United States Land Office in Springfield, Missouri to a James McGhee of Dade County, Missouri. The canceled warrant, No. 2715, made its way back to Washington, D.C., where it now rests in the National Archives along with the other records of the nation. The writer saw it there only a few years ago. It is now more than 120 years old. (James Wilson, son-in-law of Henry Hart, signed as a witness when the warrant was sold in Springfield.)

Henry and Barbara Hart bought a farm near the farm of their son, Pleasant A. Their place was about three hundred yards from where the Wise Hill Cemetery is today. In fact, the cemetery grounds was once a part of the Henry Hart farm. Their youngest daughter, Anna Eliza, and their youngest son, Roswell, were still unmarried; so they were at home there, too. Roswell bought land in the vicinity and continued to live there until after 1860, when he moved to Greene County near Springfield. (Christian County by this time had been created from Greene County.) The other children, except Edmond, their oldest son who went on to Benton County, Arkansas, settled on farms not far distant.

One day in 1855, about three years after his arrival in Missouri, Henry Hart had taken a rather long walk across the fields to his daughter Betsy Shaddy's house. He had also run a foot race with some children. That night he went to bed at his daughter's house. He wanted his wife, Barbara, to come to bed too. "Come to bed," he said, 'I'm cold." Barbara thought nothing of it, and she and her daughter Betsy continued to talk. After some time had passed, it occurred to them that he hadn't made another sound. They went to his bed. He was dead. The "old soldier" had "just faded away."

He was laid to rest in a place which he himself had selected.

One day while he was walking by the place, he exclaimed, "What a beautiful spot that is! That's where I want to be buried." And so he was. His wife was later buried beside him.

The inscriptions on their tombstones state that they were members of the Christian Church. Many of their descendants are buried around about them, as well as friends and neighbors of descendants—and strangers down through the years; for the beautiful spot has grown into a beautiful public cemetery of considerable size—"Wise Hill Cemetery" in Christian County, near Republic, Missouri.

The children of Henry and Barbara Lambeth Hart were: 1. Edmond Hart; 2. Pleasant A. Hart; 3. Abeline Hart; 4. Sarah Elizabeth Hart; 5. Frances Hart; 6. Betsy Hart; 7. Roswell K. Hart; 8. Ann Eliza Hart.

EDMOND LAMBETH HART

The following sketch of Edmond Lambeth Hart, is not only an interesting and valuable addition to what is known of the Lambeth family, but, because it was written during the lifetime of one of the children of Henry and Barbara Lambeth Hart, it offers reliable proof of the name of Barbara Lambeth's husband.

From Goodspeed's History of the Northwest Counties of Arkansas, Benton County, page 844 (Goodspeed's Publishing Co., John Morris Co., Printers, 118-120 Monroe St., Chicago, Ill. 1889):

"Edmond Lambeth Hart, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Benton County, Arkansas, was born in Davidson County, N.C., in 1817, and is a son of Henry and Barbara (Lambeth) Hart. The father was of Scotch-Irish descent, and was born near Newbern, N.C. about 1780, and was a farmer by occupation. He was also a soldier in the War of 1812, and was in the battles of Horse Shoe Bend, Natchez and New Orleans. In 1829 he located in Bedford County, Tenn. and in 1852 immigrated to Christian County, Missouri where he died about seven years later. His wife was born in North Carolina, and died in 1867. She was the mother of ten children, our subject being the eldest in the family. When he was twelve years of age he moved to Tennessee with his parents, and was reared to manhood in that state. As he was the oldest in the family, and his parents were poor, he was compelled to assist in providing for the family, consequently his educational advantages were very limited, three months being the extent of his school days. While in his native state, at the early age of eight years, he worked in a gold mine, and after moving to Tennessee he was employed as a farm laborer, receiving for his services $8 per month. He worked thus for six years, the proceeds of his labor being given to his parents. April 4, 1839, he was married to Nancy Johnson Moore, a daughter of James and Mary (Murray) Moore, who were North Carolinians. Mrs. Hart was born December 20, 1820, in Bedford County, Tennessee and became the mother of ten children: James H., Harriet E. wife of John Dereberry; Jane E., wife of John Lechliter; Councel Lambeth; Mary F., wife of Benjamin Oakley; George W.; Rebecca A., the deceased wife of James Bird; Louis R. K.; Sarah T., wife of George Duckworth, and Robert F. Mr. Hart came to Benton County, Arkansas in 1850 where he became one of the wealthy land holders of the county. He now owns 228 acres, besides giving his children eighty acres of land each. He was a Union man during the war, is independent in politics, and is a Master Mason. He and his wife have been members of the Christian Church for many years."

(From the same source is this sketch of Edmond Lambeth Hart's son, Councel Lambeth Hart, whose grandmother Barbara Lambeth Hart, had grown up in the same home with Council Lambeth, who was the ward, and later the apprentice, of her father Moses Lambeth. S.S.M.)

"Councel Lambeth Hart, farmer and stock trader of Benton County, Arkansas, was born in Bedford County, Tennessee in 1848, and is a son of Edmond L. Hart, whose sketch precedes this. At the age of twelve years he was taken to Benton County, Arkansas and here reared to manhood. In 1873 he was married to Miss Nancy E. Caldwell, a daughter of Joshua and Sarah (Alexander) Caldwell. Mrs. Hart was born in Benton County in 1857, and is the mother of eight children:

1. John P.
2. Mary A.
3. Cora B.
4. Evaline
5. Harden
6. Jennie May
7. Edmond L.
8. Jesse Lambeth

In 1873 Mr. Hart located on his present farm, and in 1882 erected a frame dwelling house at a cost of $973.00. He is now the owner of 200 acres of land, and for the past fourteen years he has been engaged in stock-dealing. He at first bought and sold stock on commission, but for several years past he has been buying and selling on his own account, shipping to St. Louis. Mr. Hart has bought and sold more stock than any other man in Benton County, and is an excellent judge of stock of all kinds. He is a Democrat in politics, and is a member of the Mason fraternity. At the present time he is deputy sheriff under F. P. Galbraith."

PLEASANT A. HART

It has occurred to the writer that perhaps the second son of Henry and Barbara (Lambeth) Hart, Pleasant A. Hart, deserves more than a mere mention that he was a son who had gone on to Missouri before the rest of the family; for he was a God-fearing man and not only served his God, but served his country in a cause that he believed was right, and gave of himself generously, as will later be seen in the following lines.

Pleasant A. Hart (born in Davidson County, N.C. in 1819) was about thirteen years old when his parents moved to Bedford County, Tennessee. He grew to manhood in Bedford County and married Mary Bain there. Some of their children were born in Bedford County. After Mary Bain died, Pleasant A. married Mary C. Williams. There were children of this marriage also, but the writer is not prepared to separate the two sets of children. However, there were altogether ten listed in the household of Pleasant A. Hart and Mary C. Hart in the Census of 1860 of Christian County, Missouri:

Robert C., Mary F., Martha, Barbara, Margaret, James, Elisa, Sarah, Cinthia, and Jonah C.

A deed dated January 8, 1852, on record at Ozark, the county seat of Christian County, makes known that Pleasant A. Hart, and presumably his family, were in Missouri at least eleven months before the rest of the Hart families arrived on December 2, 1852. The records show, too, that in the following years he continued to buy more land around in the county.

At the time that our subject came to Greene County (now Christian County) there was no church for the people of the community. The old Union Hill Christian Church that stood so long in later years, had not been built. Pleasant Hart was concerned about this, and did something about it; he opened the doors of his home and his house was the church house. Real oldtimers have been heard to speak of the time when church services were at "uncle Pleasant Hart's house."

When the Civil War broke out, Pleasant A. Hart joined Phelps' Regiment of Home Guards in Springfield (sometimes called the Greene and Christian County Home Guards) which was organized in June of 1861. General Lyon, who had come to Springfield in early July, permitted troops from these Home Guards to perform various services in Greene and Christian County and surrounding areas. Pleasant A., who was a First Lieutenant in Company M of the Home Guards, was one of Lyon's guides, and was with him when he marched out of Springfield on the evening of August 9, 1861, with his army to battle. History of Greene County by Holcombe, Western Historical Co., St. Louis, Mo., 1883, page 312. He was also with Lyon as a guide on the battlefield the next day at Wilson Creek and applied a handkerchief bandage to the first wound, which Lyon received. He "assisted in laying the body of the brave general under a neighboring tree after he fell." (told by R. K. Hart about his brother, P. A. Hart, in an interview by a Springfield Missouri Newspaper dated Sunday, July 27, 1913, Vol. XXII, No. 179). It has been said that when Lyon died, Pleasant buried his face in his hands and wept like a child.

On August 20, 1861, just ten days after the Battle of Wilson Creek, Pleasant Hart enlisted in the Union Army at Rolla, Missouri for a term of three years. He was forty-three years old when he enlisted, according to his Service Record on file at the National Archives in Washington, D.C. He was with the 24th Regiment, Infantry, Missouri Volunteers. By November 1, 1862, he was commanding a company. (Service Record, Nat'l Archives.)

In a volume in the National Archives in Washington, D. C. entitled, "War of Rebellion, Official Records Prepared under the Direction of the Secretary of War," there is a report on the Battle of Pea Ridge, or Elkhorn Tavern, Arkansas. Pleasant A. Hart is mentioned four times in this report. It gives some insight into the kind of soldier he was. On page 272 of the report, the Provost Marshal states that there are several officers and men whom he particularly desires to mention for their gallant deeds of skill and bravery. Pleasant A. Hart is named among them. He says, in part, "Capt. Barris and Lieutenant Hart of Company G were of great service to me indeed as skirmishers, and their part could not have been acted better by the most veteran soldiers."

On page 275, he describes an attack which his company made. The marshal says that they divided the company. Lieutenant Hart took command of one platoon, flanking the right of the road, and he took the other platoon, flanking the left. "In that position, with cavalry in the center under their commanders respectively, we pursued the enemy x x x." He completes the description of the action, and ends with, "The whole command, according to my judgment, acted with coolness and bravery."

Pleasant Hart was mustered out at St. Louis, Missouri, on October 15, 1864, "by reason of expiration of term." He was at this time forty-six years old. In 1867, when he was about forty-eight, he died, and was buried beside his wife, Mary Catherine Hart, and his father, Henry Hart, in Wise Hill Cemetery.

SARAH ELIZABETH HART DAVIS

Let us now return to nine-year old Sarah Elizabeth, previously mentioned as being on her way from North Carolina to Bedford County, Tennessee with her parents, Henry and Barbara Hart, and her brothers and sisters, to learn what exciting moments came to this pioneer girl during her life beyond the big mountains.

Sarah was a serious-minded, dependable girl who assumed responsibility at an early age. This trait was shown when she clung to her four-year-old brother Roswell's hand when they walked down a high Cumberland mountain on the old Wilderness Road. A granddaughter in Missouri says that she remembers hearing her grandfather Roswell Hart tell of their walking down mountains on their way to Bedford County Tennessee. He would say, she said, "Sister Sally would take me by the hand and lead me down the mountain." A tree was cut down and fastened to the wagon to hold it back. (It was likely thought safer for the children to walk down than to ride down.)

After arriving in Bedford County, Sarah settled down to work, to play, and to growing up. It was once said of her: "Sally was quite a girl. She was quite athletic. She could put one hand on a horse's shoulder and spring on his back without any trouble."

One day when she was about seventeen, there was an all-day husking bee in the neighborhood with dancing in the evening. A while before dark, someone said, "Here comes the Richmond boys." (Richmond, Tennessee.) When Sarah saw them ride up, she knew at once that one of them was the stranger whom she had seen in a dream that she had one night. During the evening a couple got into a scuffle over a pipe that was in the cache of the fireplace. That incident was just as she had dreamed it, too—it was all just as she had dreamed it.

The next day at home, Sarah Elizabeth was at the springs (Blue Springs) washing. She saw coming toward her, George Davis, the stranger of her dreams and the man whom she had met at the dance. He said that he had stopped to water his horse. She thought that he had used that as an excuse to stop; for he had opened a gate and had gone somewhat out of his way to get to the springs.

George and Sarah were married in Bedford County, Tennessee on March 3, 1840. When they went to Greene County, Missouri (now Christian County) by wagon train, they had four children. Edward Benton was a tiny baby in her arms when she made the frightful crossing of the Mississippi. She afterwards told her grandchildren about the exciting crossing of the river and of her great concern for the safety of her baby.

Early on the morning of the Battle of Wilson's Creek in Missouri (Aug. 10, 1861), Sarah and her oldest son, Jackson, were down in a bottom field putting bundles of wheat, that the wind had blown off the night before, back onto the wheat stacks. (Their farm was just two miles from the battlefield.) They heard the first shots. In a few minutes, people in their night clothes and soldiers from the battle were running up the valley. Sarah rolled off the wheat stack in a hurry. Jackson, who was then fifteen years old, jumped upon the fence and yelled, "Hurrah for the Dutch, by Ned!"

"Get down from there!" his mother screamed, "and get to the house!"

They rushed to their horses, and made for home as fast as they could go. By the time they got there, the whole valley was full of soldiers from the bloody battle of Wilson's Creek.

Seeing soldiers running up the valley was only the beginning of Sarah's seeing soldiers. They came to her house during the war and asked for, or demanded, food. She not only gave it to them, she cooked it for them. She told about one time in particular when several came at once. She said that she fried big platters of ham, and served them a large kettle of hominy, and other things. (People in those days made hominy in a large kettle out of doors on an open fire.) As soon as one soldier got up from the table, another one dropped down in his place. They ate the whole kettle of hominy. One of the soldiers went off and left his leather powder bag hanging on the loom. The bag stayed in the family for years. Finally, when a museum was established at the Wilson's Creek Battlefield, it was given to the museum by Sarah Elizabeth's youngest son, Barney Wilson Davis, in whose keeping it had been so long.

Some time after the experience at the wheat stacks, there was a happening that Jackson did not take so lightly: it was when he accidentally shot his mother. He was cleaning his gun; she had gone upstairs to get some clean rags for him to use. His gun went off; the bullet went through the upstairs floor and pierced an artery in Sarah's upper arm. Jackson rushed to his horse and sped to get the doctor. The doctor came and took care of the wound and left word that if on the 9th day they saw any blood, for them not to "spare horse flesh" in getting to him. Jackson loved his mother so much that he declared that if she died, he would kill himself.

The ninth day came. There was blood on the wound. Jackson followed the doctor's orders, and didn't "spare horse flesh" in getting to him. The doctor came and examined the wound. There was blood, but the condition of the artery was not as critical as they had feared. What a relief from anxiety there was! The artery healed, and aunt Sally Davis, as people called her, lived on for many years—to within two months of ninety-five.

ROSWELL K. HART

The early life of Roswell K. Hart, third son of Henry and Barbara (Lambeth) Hart, was spent in Bedford County, Tennessee, largely, where he got some schooling and helped his father with the farm work.

When the Mexican War came along (1846-1848), his teacher and boys who were his schoolmates, enlisted. Roswell wanted to enlist, too, but he was rejected because he was too young. It turned out fortunate for him that he was not permitted to go; for malaria and yellow fever hit the boys and few came back.

However, he did get a chance to get some new experiences all on his own. Instead of going to the Mexican War, he went to Mississippi, where he became a plantation foreman and overseer of a group of negroes. In this venture, he was very successful. The plantation owner liked him so well that he wanted him to keep the job; but Roswell wanted to get some more schooling, which he did. While going to school, he cut wood for his room and board. Later he taught in the lower grades for a while. (Told by a grandson of Roswell K. Hart.)

The records at the courthouse in Shelbyville, Tennessee, the county seat of Bedford County, show that Roswell was made constable of the 20th District of Bedford County, the district in which the Henry Hart family lived. He signed a bond for $6,000; C. A. Warres and Randolph Newsom were co-signers of the bond as his securities. The records at Shelbyville also show that in 1852, the year in which he became twenty-three years old, he was selected to be a circuit court juror in Bedford County. It was in the fall of this year that the family left the county for Missouri, in which case, the court asked that his successor be named.

Thus it seems that people had confidence in Roswell K. Hart in his early life. Even his dog which he took along with him on the wagon train to Missouri seemed to look to him; for when the wagon train got to Springfield, his dog got lost. It went all the way back to Bedford County to find his master. Undoubtedly, he had to swim the Mississippi River and climb mountain after mountain. Folk in Bedford County wrote that the dog was in a bad state when he got there; that his feet were worn to the bone; and that he was so nearly exhausted, he soon died.

Roswell was past thirty years old before he moved from Christian County to Greene County near Springfield.

It might be added that Roswell K. Hart was in intelligence service. "Major Hart did scout duty and was credited by General Lyons with bringing him the first reliable information as to the number and location of the Confederates. Hart's services as scout were considered of great value to the Government, and he was promoted several times, the last time from a major to a lieutenant-colonel in the Sixteenth-Missouri Cavalry." Springfield, Missouri, newspaper, dated July 27, 1913, Vol. XXII, No. 179.

Prior to the Battle of Wilson's Creek, when Roswell K. was in the Home Guards, General Lyon asked him to find out where the Confederates were and to find out all about them. Roswell investigated the camps and came back and reported to Lyon that he estimated Price and McCullough to have between 15,000 and 16,000 men and that he did not have enough men to cope with the Confederates. (They had about three times as many.) Lyons said that he knew it, and added that he had asked General Fremont to order two regiments stationed at Waynesville, Missouri, doing nothing, to come over, but that the order had not been given.

"It's not a fight of my choice," he said, "and I'm going into it not knowing that I will ever get out."

General Lyons spent the most of five days writing to General Fremont for help. Fremont's reply killed all hopes. Help never did come. Lyons' situation was desperate. General Fremont would not believe that there were as many Confederate troops as reported.

'If I had my way I would not go into this battle, but General Fremont has ordered me to attack Price, listing that his men are not nearly as numerous as reported, and I must obey."

'These were the words General Nathaniel Lyons spoke to R. K. Hart, his trusted scout, just before ordering his men forward to battle in the early morning of August 10, 1861.'

Springfield, Missouri, newspaper, Vol. XXII, No. 179

Apparently Roswell Hart and General Lyons became well acquainted. In addition to their contacts relative to scout duty, there was at least one business transaction between them—The iron gray horse that Lyons was riding at Wilson Creek, and which was instantly killed when the general received his first wounds, was purchased by General Lyons from Roswell Hart. (Lyons borrowed another horse and was leading his men bravely on a charge when he was fatally shot through the chest.)

It was Roswell Hart's opinion that General Lyons was sacrificed because of "General Fremont's ignorance of the strength of the Confederate Army, and the marching tactics of General Siegel, who conceived a mistaken notion that he must march to the rear of Price's forces instead of uniting his forces with Lyons' men." He had high praise for Lyons' bravery in going to his death.

In the History of Greene County by Holcombe, Roswell Hart is listed as having been injured in the Battle of Springfield, January 8, 1863 when commanding Company B of the Seventy-second Enrolled Missouri Militia. No details of his injury are given, but a grandson has told of his grandfather's narrow escape from death in this incident in the following words:

> "He had suffered a bullet wound through the calf of the leg when he had his horse shot from under him, pinning him to the ground. A Confederate Officer rode down on him with his saber raised, but he (the Confed. O.) was shot from his saddle before he had time to strike."

From: Past and Present of Greene County, Missouri by Jonathan Fairbanks and Clude Edwin Tucker - 1915 Vol. II, page 1631. A. W. Bowen & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

To the pioneer more than to any other is civilization indebted for the brightest jewel in its diadem, for it was he who blazed the trail and acted as vanguard for the mighty army of progress that within the last century has conquered Greene County's wilderness and wild prairies and transferred this section of the Ozark region into one of the fairest and most enlightened of the commonwealth of Missouri's domain. One of this number was Roswell K. Hart, a Veteran of the Civil War, who after a successful life as a farmer and stock man is living in retirement in Springfield.

Mr. Hart was born June 7, 1829, in North Carolina and when four years old emigrated with his parents to Bedford County, Tennessee and there grew to manhood and was educated. He is a son of Henry and Barbara (Lambeth) Hart, natives of North Carolina. The father of our subject was a soldier in the War of 1812. He moved from Tennessee to Greene County, with his family where his death occurred January 21, 1855, and there his wife died September 8, 1868. They had spent their lives on a farm. Mr. Hart was a soldier of courage and ability, and he not only served five years in our second war with Great Britain, but also served two years in Indian wars prior to that period.

Our subject received but a limited education, however, he has become a well-informed man through wide reading. He was twenty-three years old when he made the overland trip by wagons with his parents to Greene County, Missouri from Tennessee experiencing numerous hardships enroute, and here he has lived ever since, the family having reached here sixty-two years ago. His active life has been spent in farming and dealing in live stock. However, he dealt somewhat in teaming business, hauling, prior to the Civil War, selling fruit, flour, groceries and trading with the Indians. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he enlisted in Springfield, in the Home Guards, and in August, 1862, he enlisted in Company B, Seventy-second Missouri State Militia, Federal Army, and at one time he was in charge of a company of men, ranking as major, and covered the retreat of the Union Army from Springfield to Rolla. He made an excellent record as a soldier, was respected as an officer by his men and superiors all acknowledging his courage and ability, and he was discharged at the close of the war as lieutenant-colonel. Returning home, he resumed farming and stock raising in Wilson township which he helped put on the map. Selling his farm, he retired from active life about twenty years ago and moved to Springfield, where he has since resided now living in his pleasant home on South Market Street. He also owns other properties here which he rents.

Mr. Hart was married February 2, 1859 in Springfield to Mary J. Beal who was born near Wilson Creek, this county. She was the daughter of Daniel and Nancy Beal. She was reared in this county and educated in the common schools here. Daniel was born in North Carolina May 17, 1799. He was a cabinet maker and when a young man went to Giles County where he married Nancy Gibson, daughter of George Gibson and wife x x .

Seven children were born to Roswell K. Hart and wife, namely:

Nancy A. who married Louis Hendricks of Christian County, Mo.
Mrs. Holley A. Alexander lives in Brownwood, Texas.
The third child died in infancy, unnamed.
Alveria (Alvaree) of Springfield
Samuel K. of Houston, Texas.
Andy T. of Greene County, and
William H. who is a resident of Austin, Texas.

The death of Mrs. Mary J. Hart occurred February 26, 1914, at the age of sixty-five.

Politically, Colonel Hart is a Democrat. He is a member of the Christian Church as was his wife. He belongs to the John Matthews Post, Grand Army of the Republic, at Springfield.

FAMILY OF
HENRY AND BARBARA LAMBETH HART

HENRY HART was the son of Edmond and Mary (Burton) Hart of New Bern, North Carolina, and grandson of James Heart (Hart) of Virginia. Henry was born in 1781, either in New Bern, or while his parents were visiting in Virginia. (The latter is given as his birthplace by his daughter Elizabeth Hart Davis in the census of 1880.) He died in 1855 in Christian County, Missouri.

BARBARA LAMBETH HART was the daughter of Moses and Tabitha (Loftin) Lambeth who came from Craven County to Rowan County, North Carolina about 1800. She was born in Craven County in 1794, married in Rowan County in 1815 or 1816, and died in Christian County, Missouri in 1868.

FRANCES LAMBETH COGGIN

Frances Lambeth, daughter of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County, North Carolina on 25 November, 1795. She was probably named for her mother's mother, Frances Loftin.

When Frances Lambeth was about two years old she moved with her parents to Rowan County. There she was married—it is thought about 1816—to Levi Coggin. He was born 2 May, 1794 and was the son of Simon and Mary Coggin of Montgomery County, and grandson of John and Alless Elizabeth Coggens of Rowan County. The will of John Coggens is recorded in Rowan County Will Book E, page 209, and is dated 26 January, 1793. (Further information on the Coggin family may be found in a collection of bound, typed records on this family in the genealogy section of the North Carolina State Library, Raleigh, North Carolina.)

The young couple may have first settled on a land grant of 30 acres on the northeast side of the Yadkin River in Montgomery County. This was granted to Levi by the State in 1818. By the time of the formation of Davidson County in 1823 they had moved there, and were living near Frances' parents and other members of her family, according to an entry in the Court Minutes of Davidson County for July, 1823. Perhaps they settled on the property and homeplace of Moses Lambeth, which he gave jointly to Levi Coggin and John Thomas—both his sons-in-law—by deed of gift, dated 24 December, 1822.

Early in 1824 Levi Coggin bought from James Tyer (who was his wife's brother-in-law) 73 acres located on the north side of the south west branch of the Uwharrie, adjoining Christian Secrest and Moses Lambeth. Frances' brother Samuel Lambeth, Jr. was a witness to this deed. In the fall of 1826 Levi Coggin acquired a state grant of 40 acres in the same location. He sold this land to Jacob Black, Jr. in 1835, not long before moving to Tennessee.

In July, 1824 "Levy and Franky Coggan" bought a slave girl named Hollan—about 14 years of age—from Frances' father Moses, for $400.00. In 1832 Levi bought another slave girl from John Kennedy.

During the years Levi Coggin lived in Davidson County—from 1823 until about 1836—his name is found many times in the court minutes. In all of these records the family name is spelled "Coggan." In March 1825 he was one of several "securities" who gave bond for $4,000 for the appointment of Amos Lambeth (his wife's cousin) as constable for one year. Again in November 1830 he was a bondsman for another appointed constable. In March 1826 he was one of two securities for a guardian bond of $3,000, for a sheriff's bond in November 1830, and for an administrator's bond of $2,000 in November, 1831. The fact that he served so often as a security attests to his financial stability.

He also served many times on the jury—nine times between May, 1825 and February, 1836. As has been noted previously, the holding of court was a major social occasion of the rural south during the 18th and 19th centuries and jury duty must have been looked upon as an important privilege and responsibility of all freeholders.

Twice—in March 1826 and again in November 1834—Levi Coggin was appointed a patroller under the command of the captain of his militia district. These county militia companies were similar to the National Guard of today and those who were appointed patrols were paid for their services as well as being exempt from paying taxes for the year in which they served.

In February 1829 Levi Coggin was appointed "Overseer from where the Loftin Road crosses the Fayetteville road, to the Fisher's Ferry Road. Following hands: Longfield Loftin's hands, Moses Lambeth's hands, Henry Hart" and others. This was a considerable responsibility, given to prominent men in neighborhoods throughout the county. In May 1832 Levi Coggin and others helped with the upkeep of a nearby road under the direction of another "overseer."

In November 1830, after Moses Lambeth had been declared non compasmentis, John W. Thomas was appointed his guardian, with Levi Coggin as security.

In May 1832 Levi Coggin, John W. Thomas and others were appointed on a commission to allot one year's provisions to a widow during the settlement of her husband's estate. In November of the same year Levi Coggin, with one other freeholder and one Justice of the Peace, was appointed as "inspector" or judge, of elections at their local voting place.

The last note concerning Levi Coggin in Davidson County Court minutes was in February 1836 when he bought suit against John Myers for a debt and won the case. Later in this year he moved to Tennessee.

The following obituary, which appeared in a newspaper in Brownwood, Texas in 1879 gives an account of the later life of Levi and Frances Lambeth Coggin:

> "Mr. Levi Coggin, whose death from inanition, occurred at the residence of his sons, M. J. and Samuel R. Coggin, near Brownwood, Texas, on Tuesday, July 22nd, 1879, was born on the 2nd day of May 1794, in Montgomery County, N. C., and hence was eighty-five years, two months and twenty days old. His father was named Simon and his mother Mary. The subject of our sketch was married when rather young, in the county of his birth, to Miss Frances Lambeth and at twenty-two removed to Davidson County, N.C. (This would have been in 1816—six years before Davidson Co. was formed from Rowan, S.S.M.) where he lived until 1836; removed thence to Tennessee and remained one year, then he removed to Marshall County, Miss., and lived until 1860, then to Lafayette County, Miss., where he remained until 1874, when he came to Texas and took up his residence with his sons aforesaid, and remained with them and Mrs. Taber, his widowed daughter, until his death. His wife died in Mississippi in 1871. His children were: Calvin L. and Joel, both deceased; Salina, who married John McCauley and is now dead; M. J., Mary Ann, wife of Robert C. Phillips, Sarah J., wife of Jesse Couch, Saml. R., Simon L., Frances C., who married Thos. Booker and is now dead, and Bettie L., widow of Wm. F. Taber."

This account suggests that Levi and Frances Lambeth Coggin had been living in Tennessee for about a year when Frances' father Moses moved to Henderson County, Tennessee in late June of 1837—perhaps to make his home with them. On July 1, 1837 Levi Coggin attested to the truth of the statements made by Moses Lambeth in connection with establishing his pension status in Henderson County, Tennessee. Moses Lambeth may have moved almost immediately—with the family of Levi Coggin—to Marshall County, Mississippi, where Moses lived his last years in the home of another daughter, Elizabeth, and her husband James Tyer.

Frances Lambeth Coggin died in Lafayette County, Mississippi, just south of Marshall County, where she and her husband had formerly lived. She is buried at Owens Cemetery at Abbeville, Mississippi and her tombstone bears the dates November 25, 1795—December 21, 1869. (The latter date shows a discrepancy of two years, as given in her husband's obituary.)

Further information on this family has been contributed by Helen T. Jones:

> Levi Coggin, his wife, Frances and their children left Tennessee and were living in Marshall County, Miss. at the time of the 1840 U. S. Census. With them was a male between the ages of 80 and 90, presumed to be Moses Lambeth, who died three years later at the nearby residence of another daughter, Elizabeth Tyer.
> Courthouse records in Marshall County show that Levi Coggin et al purchased land from Thomas Owen on March 19, 1839, and Levi again bought land from Thomas Owen on January 23, 1846. This property, about three miles north of Holly Springs, near Mount Pleasant, was the homeplace of the Coggin family and contains the grave of the eldest son, Calvin L., who died in 1843 a few weeks before the death of Moses Lambeth.
> A sketch of the old Primitive Baptist Church "called Shiloh" speaks of Frances Coggin as one of "the first members," though it was started in 1834, at least three years before her arrival. Family information is that Levi, too, was a devout Primitive Baptist and owner of a still! Their children were married in Holly Springs with the exception of the three youngest who moved with their parents to Lafayette (pronounced La Fay ette) County, Miss., after the federal census of 1860. Levi Coggin sold land in Marshall County to Wm. H. Seal, 25 Sept., 1860.

The Coggin family lived near Abbeville, north of Oxford, the county seat, and Frances died about ten years after moving there, as did her daughter, Frances Booker and the first wife of the youngest son, Simon. All are buried in the "Old Owens Cemetery" about six miles east of Abbeville. There, too, is the grave of Lt. William Farrington Taber who married Bettie Coggin after his return, badly wounded, from the Confederate Army. Bettie, (widowed in 1871) her three children and her father, Levi Coggin, made their home with the bereaved family of Simon about a year until they were taken to Brownwood, Texas in 1874, to be with the older brothers, Mody and Samuel Coggin.

The Coggin Brothers, as they were known, left Mississippi in 1854 and were in Rusk, and in Bell County before moving to Brown County, where a cousin, Thomas Harriss had settled. Samuel and Mody went to war from Brownwood, Samuel's service being in Arkansas. Their first home in Texas was a very fine double log cabin to which they brought their widowed sister, their father and the three Taber children. The trip was eventful, as they had to go by train to Grand Junction, Tenn., then to Memphis where they crossed the river on a train ferry, and to Waco. One of the uncles had gone after the travelers and he bought a covered wagon, furniture, etc. in Waco. There they crossed a river on a suspension bridge. In Bell County, they stopped for a visit with the McAuley family and in Comanche, they spent the night with a Methodist preacher's family, named Coker. As they neared Brownwood, they stopped overnight with the Tom Harrisses.

In 1878, the Coggins built a fine rock home that is still beautiful. Two years later, the youngest son, Simon, brought his family to Brownwood. He had been in the Confederate army and was among the sixty-odd soldiers left on Lookout Mountain "to slow down the federals." The men were taken prisoner and endured near starvation until the end of hostilities. Simon left a number of transactions in the records of Lafayette County, including a "debt paid" on the place his sister Bettie had sold to a Mr. Gafford, the date of the settlement being March 29, 1871.

Mody and Samuel Coggin had made a name for themselves, owning a large ranch near Brownwood, one near Coleman and establishing, with Henry Ford, the Coggin and Ford Bank. They endowed a Presbyterian college, named Daniel Baker, and were always generous with the school and other worthwhile institutions. There is still a section of the city called Coggin Addition, a Coggin Park, Coggin school, Coggin Avenue, etc. Their distinguished great nephew, Mody Boatright, a professor at the University of Texas, wrote several books about early days of Texas and about these pioneers. There is information, too, on file at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

It seems a shame that of all the outstanding descendants of Levi and Frances Coggin none of them bear the Coggin name. Simon's daughters contributed sons and a daughter named Denman and Gehrke, who are prominent in the life of Brownwood, and many grandchildren scattered over the country.

Bettie Taber's son, John Walter Taber, followed in the footsteps of his uncles, especially Mody Coggin whom he greatly admired. His comments about the fine men his sisters married were: Of Joseph Turner, a fellow Methodist from New Jersey, he bragged that he is "a typical Texas cowboy" and of David Camp, a druggist from East Texas and a staunch Baptist layman, he told an Internal Revenue inspector that he is "so straight he leans backward." Bettie Coggin Taber lived happily among her children and grandchildren until her death at age 87.

The children of Levi and Frances Lambeth Coggin were:

Calvin

Sarah Jane

Celena Caroline	Samuel R.
Moses	Simon Lambeth
Mary Ann	Frances
Joel	Elizabeth Louisa

Sketches of two of the sons of LEVI and FRANCES LAMBETH COGGIN—MOSES and SAMUEL R. COGGIN—and of one of their grandsons— W. L. McAULAY, appeared in The Cattle Industry of Texas and Adjacent Territories, by James Cox, 1895. There is a reprint of this publication in the Brownwood (Texas) Community Library.

The two brothers formed a partnership known as Coggin and Bro. when they came to Texas in 1854 and settled in Bell County. "The first two years they engaged in running teams, freighting between Houston and Bell and adjoining counties. In 1855 they purchased their first lot of cattle on the Trinity River, in Houston County, and drove them to Bell County, where they kept them two years, losing about half of them during that time. . . . . They gathered what cattle they had left and, in the year 1857, moved them to Brown County, which was at that time the extreme frontier. On their arrival in Brown County they found grand old pioneers. . . . . in all about ten families, who had preceded them a short time previous . . . . These men formed a nucleus of honorable manhood and good citizenship, around which kindred spirits gathered who were willing to suffer all the hardships, privations, and inconveniences of a remote frontier life . . . with a determination and a fearless intrepidity . . . contending against the Indians for their very existence.

"In the fall of the year 1858, Coggin and Bro. sold their teams and invested the proceeds in cows, which, with the number then on hand, gave them about 3,000 head. These cattle were placed on a ranch and successfully managed until the year 1860, when they moved them to Coleman County and established a ranch on Home Creek." (page 364) Both brothers entered the Confederate Army in 1862. After their return they bought more cattle and in 1868 formed a partnership with W. C. Parks, adding his herd of 4,000 to their own, with each member holding a one-third interest. By careful management the new firm increased the size of the herd to 31,000 "and did not owe a dollar. . . But now a new danger to the business arose which threatened to wipe out the cattle industry of the entire western portion of the State. The Indians previous to this time, had confined their depredations on stock to stealing horses, mules and small bunches of cattle." During the year of 1871, however, they made several raids on herds—one of which "for audacity and magnitude surpassed anything of the kind ever known in the United States. . . . Coggin and Parks being the largest owners of cattle in that section . . . their losses (were) estimated at between six and seven thousand head." Although pursued by soldiers and citizens, the Indians had gotten a head start and could not be overtaken. In a later raid in the same year Coggin and Parks were again the heaviest losers, this time losing between five and six thousand head. "Thus in a few months the foundation laid by Coggin and Parks for a colossal fortune was almost swept away. Many a cowman in this portion of the State was financially ruined by these raids, and saw the hard-earned accumulations of years disappear without being able to cope with these marauders to prevent it. Nor did the government furnish that protection the people of Western Texas were entitled to." In the spring of 1872 Coggin and Parks sold their remaining cattle and moved to Brownwood.

In subsequent years they reinvested in cattle and acquired large land holdings. In 1880 they sold one herd for $103,000 and another, purchased for $21,000, they sold twelve months later for $57,000. Meanwhile, Coggin and Bro. continued to carry on business other than cattle business, including the establishment of a bank in Brownwood in 1881. They also invested in cattle, sheep, land and in the mercantile business and established the Brownwood Flouring Mills.

"Fortune made no mistake in favoring these men with the large wealth which they possess. They have figured in the forefront of almost every enterprise of public good or importance that has taken place in their town or county, and have given a fortune to religious, educational and other enterprises, assisted many a man financially to his feet and held him there until he was able to stand alone. In ... 1886 ...

when the country was stricken down almost helpless with an unprecedented drouth . . . . they stepped to the front with their means to carry the people of their county through, positively refusing to invest a dollar in the tempting sacrificial investments offered to them." (page 365)

"Their two imposing homes are elegant, costly, modern structures, stately in appearance, finely and artistically furnished, surrounded with beautiful, capacious grounds, and would be an ornament to any of our large cities." (page 365) "M. J. Coggin has never married and his ... home has been presided over for the past twenty years by a loving sister, Mrs. B. L. Taber, a refined lady of most estimable qualities of head and heart, whose husband died from the effects of a wound received while under Lee, bravely battling in defense of his convictions. S. R. Coggin married the widow of Dr. E. L. Smith. . . . Mrs. Coggin is a lady of refinement and rare attainments, and presides over their beautiful home with the ease and grace of the truly cultured woman. They have no children."

The subjects of this sketch . . . are among the foremost of the many stockmen of (Texas)" (page 364). "The name of Coggin and Bro. stands untarnished . . . an inspiration and a synonym for honesty, integrity and fair dealings, and commands the confidence and respect they so richly deserve." (page 365)

W. L. McAULAY

W. L. McAulay was the son of John McAulay and Celina Coggin McAulay, both of whom were born in North Carolina. They were married in Mississippi and came to Bell County, Texas in 1854. Mr. McAulay was a carpenter and wagonmaker and was also engaged in farming and stock-raising. Mrs. McAulay died in 1855 leaving three young children. Her husband was remarried to Amelia Lalla, and by this marriage there were also three children.

W. L. McAulay had a few terms of school in his neighborhood and began work as an ordinary range hand with the Coggin Bros. and Parks cattle business. His first task was helping with cattle branding. After this firm sold its herd in 1879, he went into the cattle business himself, in partnership with his brother-in-law. He had been investing his savings in cattle from the time he first started work and made only $15.00 a month. His life has been spent in the cattle business except for a brief period in the livery business. In 1883 W. L. McAulay, in association with W. C. Parks, purchased a herd for $55,000.00.

The first wife of W. L. McAulay was Miss Belle Coffey, the mother of a daughter, Vinnie. After her death, Mr. McAulay married Miss Jennie Caperton and they have eight children.

From the Democrat-Voice, Coleman, Texas, Nov. 18, 1969 is an article describing the area in Coleman County where the Coggins began acquiring land in 1858. They built log cabins for the cowboys—among whom were two other nephews—Cal McAulay and John Walter Taber—on a tract which they called Home Creek. It was located in a valley "where the grass grew as high as a cow's back, where the big waterholes never went dry, where the soil was deep and rich. . this valley drew many settlers with vision and courage." John Walter Taber, after riding herd for a short while, moved to Brownwood to work in his uncles' bank. Later he went back to ranching and ultimately acquired considerable land in Brown County.

(HELEN TABER JONES also wrote this account of her early search for her ancestors.)

It was the interest my father, J. W. Taber of Brownwood, Texas, showed in the Centennial celebration of Thomasville, N. C., that started me on an ancestor hunt. Seeing a story on the festivities in the North Carolina Review (January, 1953), I was reminded of my father's statement that his "Uncle John Thomas" founded Thomasville and the town was named for him.

A letter to the Chamber of Commerce brought a prompt reply and souvenir booklets of the Centennial. Also there were letters from Miss Jewell Sink and news of the book, Wheels of Faith and Courage, of which she was one of the authors. Miss Sink (with the deed Moses Lambeth made to his sons-in-law, Levi Coggin and John W. Thomas, in mind) said, 'If you are related to Mrs. Levi Coggin you are related to the Lambeths in and around Thomasville."

My second letter was to the Historian of Guilford County where I had heard my ancestor fought in a battle. The historian answered my letter then turned it over to Lambeth cousins, Jim and Mary Doggett, —and thereby hangs a tale! Our ensuing correspondence would probably set a record for intensity and duration, and it led to our visits to each other's homes.

My husband was having to retire from the practice of pediatrics; he had purchased a shiny new Bowles-Aero travel trailer and he needed to get away from his telephone; so it was an easy matter to start making plans for an extended trip.

Back in 1929, a letter from the Registrar General of the DAR had been handed to my aunt, a member of Mary Garland chapter in Brownwood, Texas. In it she said that "Mrs. Camp's daughter's application for membership" could not be accepted since "she is claiming for her Revolutionary Ancestor the service of the pensioner, Moses Lambeth, whom it has been impossible to prove to be her man. The pensioner was born in 1757 and died in 1843 in Marshall Co., Miss., whereas (the applicant's) ancestor died in Davidson Co., N.C. in 1838."

The information on the papers of both Mrs. Camp and Mrs. Turner (her sister) had been "sold" to them by relatives in North Carolina—and we knew that our Lambeths had lived in Marshall county, Miss., so I don't know why an investigation had not been started long before. Mrs. Turner had indignantly resigned.

It seemed providential that I happened to see, in the library, a copy of the Journal of Mississippi History in which were marriage and death notices from the Holly Springs Gazette, I was elated to find:

> Friday, July 28, 1843 Died "At the residence of his father, three miles North of Holly Springs, on the 27th inst., Calvin L. Coggin, aged 26 years."
> (This I knew was the son of Levi and Frances Coggin.)
> Friday, August 25, 1843 Died "At the residence of Mr. James Tyer, Sen., in this county on Friday the 18th instant, Mr. Moses Lambeth, a Revolutionary soldier, aged 89 years."

Later at the Mississippi Department of Archives and History, I saw the original paper with the added statement:

> "The deceased emigrated from Lexington, N.C., and resided with his son-in-law until his death. He has left many relatives and sincere friends to mourn his death; but it is hoped their loss is his eternal gain."

As Dr. Jones and I started to Mississippi, we received further "proofs" we were looking for:

From the courthouse in Holly Springs, the Probate Court proceeding "the 4th Monday of September A.D. 1843" showing that "Moses Lambeth died intestate and granting unto James Tyer full power of administrator, etc."

Then, from Mrs. Welch who was organizing information for her book on Revolutionary Soldiers from Mississippi, came a copy of the Record (B4 P49) on Moses Lambeth, showing that he had received his pension from the U. S. Pension Agent at Jackson, Tenn., to the amount of $54.12 left in that agency.

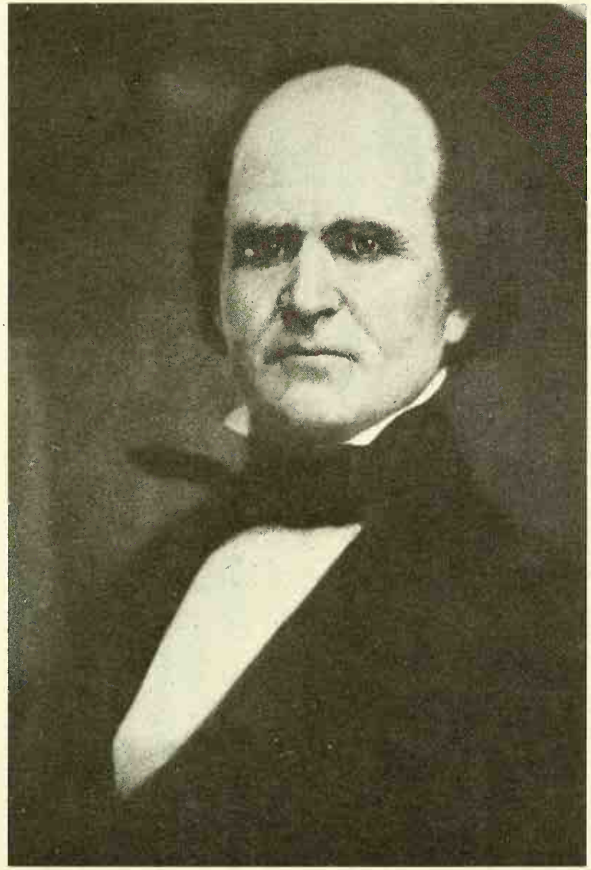
Final settlement, April 17, 1845 --"

In Holly Springs, we found the old Coggin land and were shown over it by the present owner, Mr. Cochran. Anxious to locate the grave of my ancestor, we visited an old family burying ground only to find the fenced in grave of Calvin L. Coggin and nearby, one of a Mr. Simonton who lived with the Coggins until his death in 1845 at the age of 56 years. We were interested in his dates, because in the 1840 Census of Marshall County, Miss., a man aged 80-90 was making his home with Levi's family. This could have been Moses who, when Calvin became a care, moved into the home of his other daughter, Elizabeth Tyer. Searches for Tyer land failed in our brief stay, and an advertisement in the local paper brought no results. I am still hopeful that one of the Tyers will find that grave!

We left Mississippi and parked our trailer in Raleigh for a week or so. During a luncheon visit with our new found cousins, Jim and Mary Doggett in Greensboro, we produced all the evidence we had that our Moses Lambeth and the pensioner were one and the same. They and other relatives were glad to get things cleared up, but I'm afraid some of the Lambeth kin were upset to have the records questioned.

At the DAR headquarters in Washington, we were given a royal welcome by Miss Simonton, the genealogist who had labored long with this line. She told us what a stack of correspondence she had accumulated and thanked us sincerely. In no time all applications from my family were approved, and I hope others were glad to have the record straight.

Mary Lambeth Thomas



John Warrick Thomas

State historical marker placed at Cedar Lodge Sept. 15, 1952, says:
John W. Thomas 1800-1871
Founder of Thomasville, a leader in fight for N. C. Railroad, benefactor of education, legislator.

Mary Lambeth, daughter of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth, was born 30 October, 1798 and died 26 July, 1885, from the dates on her tombstone in Fairgrove Methodist Church Cemetery near Thomasville, North Carolina. She was probably born in Rowan County (later Davidson) where her parents settled about 1797; she died in Thomasville. Thomas family records state that Mary Lambeth and John Warrick Thomas were married on 26 January, 1818, but this marriage is not listed in the Thomas family Bible, which includes only the marriages of their children. Their marriage bond, like many before 1850, was apparently lost or destroyed. According to tradition, the young couple eloped.

The connection between the Lambeth and Thomas families is an important one because of the many intermarriages in the generation of John W. Thomas, and later. Of his parents' six children, four married Lambeths—the grandchildren of Samuel Lambeth I, of Craven County. Since so many Lambeth descendants are also descendants of the Thomas and Warrick families, some early records of these two families are herewith included.

John Warrick Thomas was the son of Robert Thomas and Margaret Warrick. Robert Thomas was born in Virginia, as stated by his daughter Jane (then the widow of Shadrach Lambeth) in the 1880 census of the town of Thomasville. (Household #23/23) The date of birth of Robert Thomas is unknown. One record gives it as April, 1767, but without proof. He was married to Margaret Warrick, daughter of Andrew Warrick of Caswell County, North Carolina in late 1787, with her brother, John Warrick, as bondsman. (Marriage bond dated 26 December.) The following year Robert Thomas purchased 300 acres in Caswell County from his father-in-law "on the waters of Hico and Jordan's Creek." (Caswell County Deed Book E., page 302). This seems to have been one of four state land grants entered by Andrew Warrick in 1778 and 1779 and granted to him between 1779 and 1784. All were located on Hico Creek and the total acreage was 950 acres. (Land Grant Office, Book 41: page 155, Book 43: page 217, Book 54: page 326, Book 56: page 58.) However, Andrew Warrick was living in that area as early as 1764 when the minutes of the Orange County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions show that he was appointed an overseer of a road at the May Court of that year. This was a responsibility given to men who were established in their communities and indicates that he had already been there for some time. Caswell County was formed from Orange in 1777 so he may have become a resident of the newly formed county, without moving the location of his home.

Andrew Warrick must have died in 1804 since his will was probated at the July Court of that year. It is recorded in Caswell County Will Book E, page 125.

> "I, Andrew Warrick of the County of Caswell and State of North Carolina Being of perfect mind and memory, thanks be given unto God, calling unto mind the mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for all Men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and Testament, That is to say, principally, and first of all, I Give and Recommend my Soul unto the hand of almighty God that Gave it, and my body I Recommend To the earth to be buried in decent Christian burial, at the descretion of My executors; nothing doubting but, at the General Resurrection, I Shall Receive the Same again, by the Mighty Power of God, and as touching Such wordly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this life, I Give, devise, and dispose of the Same in the following manner and form, First I Give and bequeath to my son John Warrick the land and Plantation Where I now live containing 444 acres and the one half of my Stock of Cattle after paying the Sums here after mentioned.
> "Also I Give and bequeath unto my Daughter Jennett

Roan the Sum of Twenty pound Virga money. Also I Give and bequeath unto my daughter Mary Warrick 150 acres of land known by the name of the Narrow Passage and one half of my Stock of Cattle. Also I Give and bequeath unto my daughter Elizabeth Stephens the Sum of Twenty pound Virga money, I also Give and Bequeath unto Margaret Thomases Children the Sum of Twenty pound Virga money For the use of Schooling them to be paid by my Executor as they stand in need of it. I also Constitute and appoint my Son John Warrick my Executor. I do hereby utterly disallow, Revoke, and disanul all and every other former Testaments, wills legacies, bequests, and executors by me in any way before named, Willed and bequeathed, Ratifying and Confirming this and no other to be my last Will and Testament, in witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and Seal this 5th day of April in the year of our lord one thousand Eight Hundred and two.

Witnesses: Andrew Warrick (signed)
Samuel Johnston (Jurat)
Gabriel Lea (Jurat) "

John Warrick, only son of Andrew Warrick, must never have married, since his will (written 6 February, 1811, probated January Court, 1812) names as heirs only his two nephews John Roan and William Stephens—to whom he left his land—and his sister "Margret Thomas Widow" to whom he left "the Whole of my Movable Estate After my lawful Debts are paid." (This will is recorded in Caswell County Will Book F, page 251.) Although the family name seems to have died out with John Warrick, it has been carried on as a given name through several generations of the descendants of Margaret Warrick Thomas, beginning with her son, John Warrick Thomas, nephew and namesake of John Warrick.

Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas continued to live in Caswell County for several years after their marriage. In 1793 he bought 200 acres on the waters of north Hico from Samuel Johnson for 25 pounds. (Caswell County Deed Book H, page 125) and in December of that year sold the 300 acres bought from his father-in-law to Joshua Taylor for 100 pounds. (Caswell County Deed Book H, page 314.) In 1802 and 1803 Robert Thomas sold the remainder of his holdings in Caswell County to Robert Hamlet and to Vincent Harrelson—the first for $100.00 (Caswell County Deed Book M, page 184), and the second tract for 225 pounds (Caswell County Deed Book N, page (?)). Robert and Margaret must have moved to Guilford County in 1803, settling on land on the south side of Reedy Fork, adjoining John Christman. The deed for this land (recorded in Guilford Deed Book 8, page 267) is the only one on record and is for the purchase of only 71 acres, but at the time of his death Robert Thomas owned two tracts in this location, containing a total of 306 acres. This land, which adjoined John Cobb, Lewis Somers and others, descended to his heirs upon his death and is described in a deed by which his daughter Margaret (wife of Amos Lambeth) sold her one-sixth share of the inheritance to her brother John W. Thomas on 21 August, 1827, for $120.00. This deed was witnessed by W. Patrick and Jno. Hoskins and was proved at the August Court in Guilford County (1827). Margaret Thomas Lambeth and John W. Thomas were both living in Davidson County at this time.

Robert Thomas appears to have been a militia captain in Guilford County since there is a note in the court minutes of May, 1808 stating that "Capt. Robert Thomas" is appointed to act as an election judge in the Reedy Fork community. The following February he is mentioned as a justice of the peace—an office which, at that time, was one of considerable importance and responsibility. He died—probably suddenly, since he left no will—in late 1809 or early 1810, and the administration on his estate was granted to his widow Margaret on 22 February, 1810, with a bond of 2,000 pounds. At the same court a commission was appointed to lay off a year's allowance to her and her children. At the May court the list of sales of the estate of Robert Thomas was returned, and dower-rights given to the widow. Two years later the settlement of the estate was returned to the court and Margaret was appointed guardian to John W. Thomas, Jane T. Thomas, Peggy C. Thomas, Sally M. Thomas "orphans of Robert Thomas, dec'd." Two children of this family not listed as wards, but named in their mother's will were—David, the eldest son, who must already have reached twenty-one by May, 1812, and Mary who must already have married her first husband, Thomas Loftin and so would not have needed a guardian. Mary later married Silas Lambeth.

Early in 1818—at about the time of Margaret Thomas' second marriage—two justices of the peace in Guilford County were ordered to "procede with the settlement with Margaret Thomas, guardian," This settlement (Guilford County Estate Papers, 1775-1920 North Carolina Archives) shows that the amount inherited by each of the heirs was 80 pounds and 10 shillings in cash. As has been noted, their father's real estate was also divided equally among the children.

Margaret Warrick Thomas was married to Daniel Merrill of upper Randolph County in January, 1818. The bond for this marriage was issued in Guilford County on the same date—January 5—as the bond for the marriage of Margaret's daughter Jane T. Thomas to Shadrach Lambeth. The marriage of Margaret's son John Warrick Thomas to Mary Lambeth (daughter of Moses Lambeth) is said to have taken place later in the same month. Margaret's second husband Daniel Merrill, was also connected with the Lambeth family in that his daughter Mary had married Samuel Lambeth (son of Moses Lambeth) in 1805.

Thus when Margaret Warrick Thomas remarried and moved to Randolph County to make her home, only two of her children were still unmarried—Peggy C. Thomas, for whom her mother was still guardian in May, 1822, and Sally M. Thomas for whom her mother was still guardian in May, 1824. By February, 1825 Peggy C. Thomas had married Amos Lambeth and Sally M. Thomas had married Zachariah Nixon, so that their mother Margaret Thomas Merrill was able to make final settlement with her wards and record this in the Guilford

County Court. (Guilford County Estates Papers, 1775-1920)

Margaret Warrick Thomas Merrill died 23 April, 1837 and is buried at Fairgrove Methodist Church cemetery, near Thomasville. The birthdate on her tombstone is 9 Nov., 1770. Her will (recorded in Davidson County Will Book 1, page 294) is as follows:

"In the name of God, Amen.

"I, Margaret Merrell, being of sound mind but weak in body and knowing the uncertainty of life do make this my last will and testament in the manner and form following-

"I leave my negroes, Stephen, Delsey, July Pleasant and Patsy, to be sold. Also, I give all my personal property of whatsoever kind to be sold and the proceeds to be divided in the following manner:

"I leave to my grandchildren of my daughter Margaret Lambeth dec., Noah, Cyntha, Alson, Robert and Margaret each ten dollars -

"I also give to my grandchildren of Mary Lambeth, Elizabeth, Alfred, David and Thomas each ten dollars,

All the rest to be equally divided between my five living children, David, Mary, John, Jennie and Sarah (except Mary) the forty dollars I give to her children, is to come out of her part.

"My wearing apparel to be divided between my three daughters, my bed clothes to be divided equally between my five children.

"I also appoint my two sons, David and John, my executors to this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all other wills made by me.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 6th day of March, 1833.

The children of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas:

1. David Thomas, born about 1792. He first married a Miss Whitesell. They had five sons: Robert, John Christmas, Lewis, Andrew Warrick and Daniel M. Only Lewis, who lived on Red River, Indian Territory, Colbert Station, I. T., near Denniston, Texas, was still living in February, 1890, when his son David Thomas visited here. Robert Thomas married a Kimbro. (This Robert Thomas is not clearly identified, S.S.M.) (The above notes were made in the Thomas family Bible by P. C. Thomas.) David Thomas (son of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas) married second Margaret Burney, (Guilford County marriage bond dated 4 February, 1823, Shadrach Lambert, bondsman.) She was the daughter of William Burney and Mary Maiben (Mebane) (Guilford County marriage bond 6 Sept., 1788.) The will of William Burney names his daughter Peggy Thomas and appoints David Thomas as executor. (Guilford County Will Book B, page 176. Written 4 October, 1823, probated Feb., 1824.) David Thomas was appointed a justice of the peace in Guilford County in February 1813. He died 6-10-1840. Will recorded in Guilford County Will Book C, page 263.

1. Robert Thomas, married Addie Ginuger in Guilford County. Bond 26 Aug., 1834.
2. John Christmas Thomas married Priscilla Sockwell in Guilford County. Three sons: John, William and David Thomas.
3. Lewis W. married Priscilla Cummins. Has two children living in the Indian Territory on Red River. Jones K. Polk, Eliza married a Baugh. Bond 24 Oct., 1837.
4. Andrew Worwick moved to Arkansas, now dead. Three sons: Washington, Taylor, Madison. All married and now living in Texas on Red River. (Wealthy.)

5. Daniel Merrill married a Miss Edmondson in Guilford County. Has one son living in Harrison County, Missouri, on the Missouri River. (Wholesale Commission Merchant)

2nd generation. Children of David Thomas by his second marriage: Polly, Mabane, David and Sarah Jane Thomas.

2. Mary Thomas, daughter of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas, born 11 August, 1795 in Caswell County, died 2 December, 1888 in Davidson County. Buried Fairgrove Cemetery, near Thomasville, N. C. Married first, before May, 1812, to Thomas Loftin. Their children were Elizabeth, Alfred, David and Thomas Loftin. David Loftin was sheriff of Davidson County 1860-1868 and 1874-1880. Mary Thomas Loftin married second Silas Lambeth, son of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth. (See section on Silas Lambeth in chapter on his father Samuel.)
3. John Warrick Thomas, son of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas was born 27 June, 1800 in Caswell County and died 17 May, 1871 in Thomasville. Buried in Thomasville City Cemetery. Married Mary Lambeth, daughter of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth. (The descendants of this couple and a sketch of John Warrick Thomas are given below.)
4. Jane T. Thomas, daughter of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas, was born in Guilford County, 20 July, 1803, died 25 May, 1888 in Davidson County. Buried Fairgrove Church Cemetery. Married 5 January, 1818, in Guilford County to Shadrach Lambeth, son of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth. (See section on Shadrach Lambeth in chapter on Josiah Lambeth.)
5. Margaret Thomas, daughter of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas, was born 11 May, 1806 in Guilford County, died 11 May, 1832 in Davidson County. Buried Fairgrove Church cemetery. Married to Amos Lambeth (son of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth. (See section on Amos Lambeth in chapter on Samuel Lambeth.)

6. Sarah Thomas, daughter of Robert and Margaret Thomas, was married to Zachariah Nixon, probably in 1824 (see estate of Robert Thomas, Guilford County Estates, 1775-1920, North Carolina Archives.) It is puzzling to see that a marriage bond was issued in Randolph County on 22 Nov. 1824 for Josiah Burney and Sally M. Thomas, with Daniel Merrill as the witness. This is where Sally was then living with her mother and stepfather, Daniel Merrill.

John Warrick Thomas was a distinguished citizen of Davidson County. He probably settled in the area at the time of his marriage to Mary Lambeth, daughter of Moses and Tabitha Loftin Lambeth. This was about 1818—a few years before Davidson County was formed from Rowan County in 1822. In that year Moses Lambeth deeded his plantation to his two sons-in-law, Levi Coggin and John W. Thomas, and the latter later built his handsome home, called "Cedar Lodge," on this land, which was about two miles south of the present town of Thomasville. The house still stands and is marked as the home of the founder of Thomasville. It is now in the possession of John Walter Lambeth, Jr., a collatural descendant. The family had moved to Thomasville before 1850, although it was not incorporated as a town until 1854. Its other founder was Dr. Henry E. Rounsaville who practiced medicine with Dr. Robert W. Thomas, a son of John W. Thomas.

The political career of John W. Thomas began in 1831 when he was first elected to the state legislature, as a representative. He served five terms as senator between 1842 and 1860—longer than any other legislator from Davidson County. In 1843 he was chairman of the first board of "Superintendants of Common Schools" in the county and had earlier (in 1828) acted as one of the original trustees of "the Methodist Church at Fair Grove" in purchasing property on which the church might be built. (Davidson County Court minutes, August, 1828) He was successful as a business man, acquiring 1500 acres of land in 1838 in what is now the town of Thomasville, which he paid for with a four-horse load of bacon. In 1849, after the site of the state-chartered North Carolina railroad had been decided upon, John W. Thomas was selected to sell stock in the new railroad in the section where he lived; twice as much stock was sold in Davidson County as in any other county in the state. When it was completed in 1855 it did a great deal to bring prosperity to the town and county.

STATE of NORTH-CAROLINA, Brunswick County

KNOW all men by these presents that we Josiah Lambeth and Elizabeth Loftin are held and firmly bound unto his Excellency Samuel Johnston Esquire, Governor and Commander in chief of the State aforesaid in the sum of Five Hundred Pounds, to be paid to his Excellency the Governor, his successors or assigns; To which payment well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents. Sealed with our seals, and dated this 18th day of December A. D. 1789

THE condition of the above obligation is such, that whereas the above bounden Josiah Lambeth hath made application for a licence for a marriage to be celebrated between him and Elizabeth Loftin of the county aforesaid: Now in case it shall not appear, at any time hereafter, that there is any lawful cause to obstruct said marriage; then the above obligation to be void and of no effect, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Josiah Lambeth was the only one of Samuel's sons who lived until 1850. His age and birthplace, as given by him for the Guilford County census of that year indicate that he was born in 1761. At that time his father was living in the part of Craven County which later became Jones County. It is strange that he gave his birthplace as Newbern, since none of the family ever lived there, but probably he was thinking of the New Bern area, or district.

When Josiah was about twelve years old his family moved north east into the western part of the present Craven County, where he grew up. When he was twenty-eight, he was married to Elizabeth Loftin, daughter of Thomas and Frances Loftin, who lived nearby. In her father's will, dated 1793, he speaks of having given her a feather bed. The date of the marriage bond, witnessed by Joseph Loftin (probably Elizabeth's brother) was 18 December, 1789. The young couple is not listed in the Craven County census of 1790 and may have been living with Josiah's father and mother, in whose household are listed an unidentified man and woman.

Josiah signed his name to this marriage bond as "Josious Lambert"—the spelling he continued to use as late as 1819 when his signature appears on an apprentice bond in Guilford County. However, at the time of the writing of his will in 1846, he, as well as most other members of his family, used the present spelling and his name was signed as "Josiah Lambeth."

In 1793 he made his first recorded purchase of land and added to this by buying two adjoining tracts—one in 1794 and another in 1795. The land was bought from William West, Frederick Lane and Lewis Gilstrap, respectively and lay on the south side of the Neuse River. Other natural landmarks named are Susannah's Branch, Folly Branch and Flat Swamp. Two of the deeds mention Taylor's corner; Frederick Lane was also a neighbor.

All three tracts, totalling 200 acres, were sold to Malechi Russell in 1796.

Josiah Lambeth apparently moved at this time to land which he purchased in 1798 from William Jackson Carmon. Then, as now, land might be occupied while the new owner completed payment—usually a matter of one or two years. This property included "houses, yards" and other improvements and is described as lying on Flat Swamp and adjoining Frederick Lane and Thomas Kent. He also added to this holding a 25 acre grant from the state, acquired the same year and touching on land owned by Wingate and Whitfield. From both the location and neighbors, the new homesite must have been close to the land he first owned. He lived there only a few years, selling the whole parcel of 200 acres to John Gooding in February, 1800.

Thomas Lambeth stated in his letters concerning Lambeth family history that his great uncle Josiah fought in the Revolution along with his brothers Moses, Aaron and John. While there is no record of military service for Josiah—either in the Craven County militia or in the Continental Line—this fact does not disprove the statement since many such records have been lost.

Josiah Lambeth must have moved to Guilford County in the summer of 1800. His son Lovick, who was born 9 August, 1800, stated in the 1850 census of Guilford County that he was born there. Josiah's name does not appear in the 1800 census of either Craven or Guilford; censuses were taken during the summer months, so apparently he left Craven before the census was taken there, and had settled in Guilford after the census had been taken in that county.

As noted above, Josiah Lambeth sold his land in Craven County to John Gooding. He also bought his first land in Guilford County from the same man. In the early spring of 1801, by two deeds, he bought 401 acres on the north side of Buffalo Creek. The two tracts seem to have been adjoining. Jacob Swisher and William Gilbert owned neighboring property. Since the Craven transaction and the Guilford transaction were between the same people, and were only a year apart, it seems likely that they were in the nature of a swap, with Josiah's paying the difference between the value of the land he sold in Craven and that of the land he bought in Guilford.

The area where he settled is in the northeast section of the county and was ten or fifteen miles from Martinsville, which was then the county seat. It had formerly been called Guilford Courthouse and was the scene of the Battle of Guilford Courthouse which took place on March 15, 1781 in which the colonial forces, under Gen. Nathanael Greene, severely depleted the strength of the British army, led by Gen. Cornwallis. When the county seat was moved to a new location—about five miles southeast of Martinsville—in 1808, its name was changed to Greensboro, in honor of General Greene.

By 1829 Greensboro had a population of 369, but not until the 1850's did it have as many as a thousand people living there. However, it was the largest and most important town of the county—not only the seat of the county government, but the center of trading. Josiah Lambeth and his sons doubtless went there to purchase such staples as sugar and coffee and rice and also occasionally to buy and sell livestock. Such trips were probably planned to coincide with the holding of court, which throughout the south was the occasion for large gatherings and for the exchange of news of all sorts—from political to personal. Circuses and curiousity shows were an added attraction when court was in session and peddlers took advantage of the opportunity to sell their wares.

Northeast Guilford County is not associated with Revolutionary history, nor was its development colored by the influence of the Quaker settlements in the southern and western portions of the county which played an important part in the early history. It must, however, have had a great appeal to those who settled there—first immigrants moving south from Pennsylvania—and later, about the beginning of the 19th century, to many families who moved eastward from the coastal area. The country is rolling and beautiful, made especially picturesque by the prevalence of cedar trees among the pines and hardwoods. The climate is moderate, the elevation good and the soil well suited to farming and grazing. An interesting and unusual feature of the topography along the banks of the two principal creeks of the northeast—North Buffalo and Reedy Fork—is the fact that the southern banks drop off abruptly to the water, while the northern banks rise gently. Josiah Lambeth lived on the north side of Buffalo Creek, about a mile from where it empties into Reedy Fork.

It is thought that the house in which Josiah lived on the land he first bought in Guilford County remained his homeplace throughout his life. Possibly the house was already there and may have been added to during the years—or it may have been built by Josiah at the time he moved. In any case, it is likely that it was built of logs and probably contained no more than two or three rooms, with a loft above. This style was typical of the time and of the section. It did, however, have one unusual feature, according to tradition. It is said to have had a porch running across the entire front of the dwelling. While the house is now gone, rocks of the foundation remain, indicating that it was so situated that one might have sat on the porch and looked down the gently sloping land toward the North Buffalo Creek, several hundred yards below. It is thought that years ago, during the winter months, the creek and the damp ground nearby were often frozen and that the children of the family skated there. It is said that in the warmer months "preaching" was held under large elm trees beside the meadow and below the house toward the creek. This was before a frame church was built in the neighborhood in 1834 by the congregation of Adam's Chapel Christian Church. Perhaps Josiah's active interest in religion had a part in influencing two of his sons—John and Lovick—to become ministers.

A short distance up the slope from the water, and within sight of the house, was a small family cemetery, enclosed in a rock wall, the ground covered with periwinkle, and overhung by cedars. Josiah Lambeth is believed to have chosen this spot, clearly visible from the porch, as he sat there during his last years, and to have asked that he be buried at that place.

A little more than a hundred years after his death three descendants living in Greensboro—James A. Doggett, Shannon T. Lambeth and Thomas T. Lambeth—bought about 1½ acres of land on which the cemetery is located. They restored the crumbling wall, cleaned the grounds and have continued to care for this beautiful and important family property. The cemetery contains about 30 or 40 graves and among the markers are those at the graves of Edna Lambeth (daughter of Josiah) and her husband, William Cummings, and of Mildred Clark Doggett, mother of Rebecca Doggett who married John Lambeth (son of Josiah). There are markers for three Kernodle children who must have been descendants of Josiah Lambeth and some markers for members of the Michael family who were the next owners of the old Lambeth place. The crude carving on the field stone markers at other graves has weathered so badly that the inscriptions are illegible.

A few years before Josiah and his family moved to Guilford County in 1800, his two brothers Moses and John had settled in Rowan County, which adjoined Guilford to the southwest. Two years later his sister Sarah Lambeth Heath and her husband Christopher Heath also moved to Rowan, and about 1805 a third brother—Samuel—moved there. Moses and Josiah had married sisters—Tabitha and Elizabeth Loftin—in Craven County. According to tradition they continued to see each other after moving to the Piedmont, since Tabitha Loftin Lambeth was an excellent horse-woman and rode the thirty or more miles to Guilford County to visit her sister Elizabeth and her husband Josiah at their home on Buffalo Creek.

At the February Court of 1804 in Rowan County Josiah Lambeth was appointed guardian to his nine minor children who were heirs to a legacy from their uncle Aaron Lambeth of Jamaica. For this guardianship he gave bond of 1,000 pounds with his brother Moses. At the same time Josiah became bondsman with Moses, who was appointed guardian to his own minor children as heirs to the same legacy, and he entered into bond with his sister Sarah Lambeth Heath for the same conditions. In each case the bond was 1,000 pounds.

Also in February, 1804 Josiah Lambeth and Thomas Heath bought jointly from Robert Cimmins (Cummins) 80 acres adjoining the property already owned by Josiah. Four years later Josiah added more land to his original tract—possibly Thomas Heath's share of the above-mentioned land. By 1808 he was well established in his community and at the February Court was appointed overseer of the road from Cummings Bridge to "the Cross Roads." Before the year was out he bought 200 acres on the south side of Reedy Fork, "crossing Reedy Fork twice." This land adjoined the widow Milroy and Samuel Gailey. It is probable that it also adjoined what he already owned since it was purchased from Jacob Swisher whose property was adjacent to Josiah Lambeth's.

It seems quite strange that Josiah's name does not appear in the census of 1810, nor in any court minutes between 1808 and 1813. The only records mentioning him in this interval are two deeds, dated January 1811, by which he traded to Elisha Wharton—a neighbor—37 acres (next to Wharton's own land) in exchange for 18 acres, both on the North side of Buffalo Creek. Witnesses to both deeds were Josiah's daughters Caty and Polly—each of whom signed with her "mark." It was very unusual for deeds to be witnessed by single women at this period, and it is odd that his wife was not one of the witnesses. These circumstances suggest that Josiah Lambeth may have had a prolonged illness which kept him from taking part in the ordinary activities of public life and which apparently also kept him by his own fireside.

Beginning in 1813—after acquiring about 660 acres which comprised his home place—Josiah Lambeth began to buy land nearby, but not beside his own. In that year he bought 100 acres in the northeast tip of Guilford County, on the line between Guilford and Orange Counties. In 1816, 1818 and 1819 he bought three contiguous tracts on the north side of Reedy Fork in north central Guilford County—a total of 314 acres. The property was near Buckhorn Creek and the Fayetteville Road which ran northeast from Greensboro. The first purchase was from Amos Wilson, while the last two were from Shadrack Allen. Adjoining property owners were the Apples, the Allens and the Summers.

Josiah Lambeth's name again began to appear in the court minutes in 1814 when he served on the jury at the August Court. In May, 1815 he and another freeholder were appointed with one of the justices to "superintend Congressional elections" at George Waggoner's. In February 1816 he reported the loss of one ram on the list of "strays." Individuals who lost livestock during the year were reimbursed by the county.

Most of the land bought by Josiah Lambeth in Guilford County was sold to members of his family. The first of these sales was made to Sample Carrigan who had married Josiah's daughter Catherine in 1812. The date of the deed was 1816 and it was for 100 acres in northeast Guilford. Sample Carrigan had been a witness to the deed by which Josiah bought this land in 1813, and had probably settled there at that time. He died in the winter of 1816-1817 since an entry in the court minutes of February, 1817 shows that Josiah Lambeth was made administrator of his estate, with a bond of 100 pounds.

At the same court an unnamed orphan boy was bound to Josiah Lambeth.

In August 1817 he was again on the jury and in November 1817 he brought debt suits against Benjamin Allen, and against Allen and John Swisher—both of which cases he won. The list of strays for February, 1818 shows that Josiah Lambeth had lost one cow valued at $8.00 and one ewe valued at $2.00. He served on the jury at the November Court 1818.

At the November Court, 1819, "a child of clour" named Bed Dishion, aged 8 years, was bound to Josiah Lambeth until he reached the age of twenty-one, with a bond of 250 pounds. The following November there is a court entry stating that "a former order binding a boy named Denord Prior to Josiah Lambeth is rescinded. He is now bound to Andrew Waggoner." At the same court a suit (begun in November, 1818) was concluded in which Josiah Lambeth and Electious Jones were sued for a debt of $667.35 by William Walker. A part of this amount was paid by Jones from an inheritance, and the court ordered Josiah to pay the balance of $227.44 and all court costs.

Josiah Lambeth's name was drawn for jury duty in May, 1821. On the 1822 list of strays he reported having lost one hog, valued at $1.50.

By 1826 he had reached the age of 65 and at about this age or earlier men were excused from public service and from paying taxes. The last court entry concerning Josiah Lambeth was made at the August Court, 1826, when the trustee was "ordered to discount with the Sheriff the tax of Josiah Lambeth for 1824" in the amount of $2.14. It appears that beginning in 1824, he was no longer required to pay county taxes.

Josiah Lambeth bought no more land after 1819—and had made only one sale of 100 acres to Sample Carrigan up to that time.

In 1825 he sold the land—80-1/2 acres—on Buckhorn Creek which he had bought from Shadrack Allen in 1818 to his son-in-law, John Kernodle.

Josiah Lambeth must have given to his son Shadrack a half interest in 285-1/2 acres "on waters of Reedy Fork." They sold this land jointly in 1831 to John Geringer. It adjoined the property on which Josiah lived.

In 1844 Josiah deeded to his son John Lambeth the land on which he, Josiah, then lived, consisting of 315 acres, reserving the use of this land during his own lifetime. The condition of the transfer of title was that John should pay $300.00 into his father's estate within two years after the latter's death.

The last deed made by Josiah Lambeth was in the spring of 1846—about six months before he made his will. By this deed he sold to his grandson John A. Lambeth (son of Lovick Lambeth) for $300.00, 150 acres on the north side of Reedy Fork adjoining Henry Low. It was witnessed by Lovick Lambeth.

Only one of these deeds to his children mentions "love and affection" as well as the financial transaction involved. This is the deed to his son John who was probably living on the land deeded to him and helping his father with the maintenance of his farm. Because of the insights into their relationship, this deed is given in full:

"This indenture made and entered into this twentieth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand Eight hundred and forty four between Josious Lambeth of one part and his son John Lambeth of the other part both of the County of Guilford and State of North Carolina. Witnesseth that for and in consideration of the natural love and affection which I have for my son John and in further consideration of the smithing and other work which he does for me and also for and in consideration of the sum of three hundred dollars to be paid to my estate within two years after my disease. Proven by John Doggett, November Term, 1844 and ordered to be registered.

Josiah Lambeth's wife, Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, must have lived until after 1830. In that year a woman of 60-70 years old is listed in the household, indicating that she was born between 1760 and 1770. Her birthdate was probably closer to 1770 because her youngest child, Edna, was not born until 1814. Elizabeth apparently died soon after 1831 because on 2 April, 1832 Josiah and Hannah Loman entered into a marriage contract by which the heirs of each were to inherit the respective property of each. Their marriage bond is of the same date, with Robert Prather as bondsman. Hannah Loman was the widow of Adam Loman who died in 1831 (Guilford County Court Minutes, May, 1831). A marriage bond for Hannah Apple and Adam Loman was recorded in Guilford County 22 July, 1817. No wife is listed in the census of 1840, so that Hannah must have died before this.

On February 18, 1841, Josiah Lambeth entered into another marriage contract with Patsey McIntire, the widow of Jeremiah McIntire, formerly of Person County. This agreement was also witnessed by Robert Prather, as well as by John McIntire. The contract was similar to the first one except that if Josiah Lambeth died first his widow was to receive one year's provisions and $50.00. Their marriage bond is of the same date, with Robert Prather again the bondsman.

Such marriage contracts are rarely found in court records and usually only when the wife owned a considerable amount of property. It appears that Josiah Lambeth was extremely anxious that his property remain in the hands of his children.

In the early fall of 1846 Josiah Lambeth made his will. It is thought to have been written by his son-in-law Robert Prather. He lived on about five years and died 17 June, 1851. (Guilford County Estate Sales, 1830-1879. North Carolina Archives.)

"In the name of God Amen.

Although Josiah Lambeth was eighty-five years old at the time his will was written, he must have been mentally alert and must have continued to feel responsible for his family—especially in regard to his children's being fair and honest in their dealings with each other. He not only was aware of Polly's debt to Edna, but also seems to have felt no hesitancy in seeing that the obligation was paid—even if it had to be done by ordering his executors to pay to Edna the amount due—with interest—taking this sum of Polly's part of his estate. This sense of justice and honor doubtless characterized the distribution of Josiah's property during his lifetime, as well as by bequests of his will.

Since his personal estate was to be divided among his daughters, it is likely that he had given money—and probably land—to his sons during his lifetime. It is clear that he gave a part interest in one large tract to his son Shadrack. The only land he disposed of—not accounted for by deeds—was 146 acres. This is the exact acreage of property later in the possession of his son Lovick. Possibly this is a coincidence, but mention is made in Josiah's will of previous gifts to Lovick, which may have included this tract. Of the balance of land, two tracts were sold to sons-in-law, one to a grandson, and the home place to his son, John.

Probably as each daughter married she and her husband received some sort of gift or help from Josiah. In the case of Sample and Sarah Lambeth Carrigan, and of John Kernodle (who married first Lucretia, then Nancy Lambeth) he gave them land to farm, which they later bought from him. It is likely that Edna, being the last to marry, had not received a gift and thus was given a larger share than her sisters, by their father's will. She was also given a spinning wheel which had doubtless helped to clothe the family through the years, the family Bible, and a table which may have been a prized possession. It is clear that Josiah wished to pass on to his youngest child things that had been needed and valued during his lifetime and which he was unwilling to part with as long as he lived.

At the time of the death of Josiah Lambeth only one of his four sons—Lovick—was still living in Guilford County, the others having died or moved away. Of his nine daughters, two had died, and three are known to have been living in Missouri. There is no further record of one so that only Frances, Edna and Lucretia are known to have lived out their lives in the area where they grew up.

The inventory and sale of the estate showed that Josiah Lambeth owned a small amount of livestock including one mare, seven sheep, eight hogs, five head of cattle and seven "stands of bees"—three of these he had bought in 1846 at the estate sale of his son John in 1846. He had the usual carpentry and farming tools—even as late as 1840, when he was 79 years old—he added to these by buying a plough and saddle at the estate sale of his son Joseph, in 1840. There was also a wagon and a small supply of harvested crops—corn, wheat, oats, bacon and lard. Household goods included one looking glass, candle molds, one churn and a coffee mill, and kitchen utensils, but relatively little furniture. Only three beds, seven chairs, one chest and two cupboards were listed. (Guilford County Estates, Investories, Lists of Sales, 1830-1879, North Carolina Archives.) Report of the settlement of the estate was returned at the November Court, 1853 which showed that cash from the sale was $221.98, cash on hand $10.00, account on John Cummings $4.05, account on John McIntyre $3.60 and account on John Lambeth $300.00. This amount was for the land transferred to John Lambeth by his father's will and it was paid by the executors of John Lambeth in May, 1853. Burial and funeral expenses for Josiah Lambeth were $9.39.

He was buried in the family cemetery on his own land, where his son Joseph, who had died in 1840, was already buried. No tombstone has been found for Josiah but in recent years those descendants who bought and restored the cemetery have placed a marble marker there in memory of Josiah and his wife Elizabeth.

ELIZABETH LAMBETH BROWN

(From research done by Mary Norton Doggett, Ethel Rankin Summers, Nannie Louise Summers, Virginia Rankin Summers, and Virginia Brown Douglas.)

Elizabeth Lambeth, eldest child of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County on 12 November, 1790 and moved with her parents to Guilford County when she was about ten years old. She married Benjamin Brown and, according to tradition, they eloped. This was probably about 1808, since their first child was born in 1809.

It is thought that Benjamin Brown may have been descended from one of the Browns who settled in the Nottingham Colony; this group organized Buffalo Presbyterian church in 1755. A history of the church, entitled Buffalo and Her People, by Samuel Rankin, states that Samuel Brown, one of the settlers of the Nottingham Colony, secured from the Earl of Granville a grant for 300 acres on Buffalo Creek in 1759 (page 36). His sons were James, Joseph, Benjamin and John, one of whom may have been the grandfather of Benjamin Brown who married Elizabeth Lambeth. Their Revolutionary service is noted on pages 19 and 124; also see Colonial Records of North Carolina.

Elizabeth died some time after 1840 (a wife seems to be listed in the census of that year) and Benjamin then married Mrs. Mary Motley (Guilford County marriage bond 29 August, 1846) a widow, whose two young sons, James (eight years old) and John (six years old) are listed as living in the Benjamin Brown household in 1850. Benjamin Brown, who had been born in Rowan County (later Davidson) on 16 September, 1786, died in Guilford County on 18 August, 1863.

Benjamin Brown's farm contained 400 or 500 acres, and was across from Gethsemane Church and behind Marse's swamp. The Rankin family bought some of the Brown land at the sale.

The following list of the children of Benjamin and Elizabeth Lambeth Brown is from a Bible, published 1834, now in the possession of Wisdom Brown Aydelette, 1202 Spring Garden Street, Greensboro, North Carolina, and copied by James and Mary Doggett:

(2nd generation from Elizabeth Lambeth Brown)

2nd g. 1. William Brown, born 8-25-1809 (this may be the William Brown who married Elizabeth Beville, daughter of Pleasants Beville and sister of Archibald Beville, in Guilford County, 20 July, 1831).

2nd g. 2. Joseph Brown, born 9-19-1811

3. John Brown, born 12-19-1813

4. Mary Ann Brown, born 12-19-1813, died 12-28-1874

5. Jesse Brown, born 1816 (see record below)

6. Levyney Brown, born 3-11-1819, married John T. Caffey, Guilford County 8-12-1838

7. Davis Brown, born 4-9-1821 (mentioned in will of Josiah Lambeth)

8. Daniel C. Brown, born 4-5-1824

9. Benjamin R. Brown, born 5-11-1826, married 3-22-1845 in Guilford County to Lucinda Apple; married 2nd 8-23-1858 in Rockingham County to Caroline Pratt. Settled near Kernersville, N.C.

10. James Swift Brown, born 8-10-1828 (see record below)

Telitha Ann Brown, daughter of Benjamin Brown and his second wife Mary Motley Brown, was born December 11, 1849, died July 12, 1930.

The notes added above, following the Bible record of births, constitute all that is presently known of Benjamin and Elizabeth Lambeth Brown's children. Two of the sons, are thought to have moved to Indiana.

The following transactions relating to Joseph Brown, second son of the family, are recorded among Guilford County deeds:

1839, 23 August. Benjamin Brown to Joseph Brown. (See deeds of Benjamin Brown.)

1840, 1 January. Joseph Brown to John Lambeth, Trustee, for note of $800.00 due Joseph Lambeth. Witnesses Josias Lambeth and Lovick L. Lambeth. Book 25, page 157.

1844, 18 March. Deed of Trust. 157 acres deeded by Joseph Brown to John Lambeth to secure debt to Joseph Lambeth. This land was purchased by Vincent Rufsam. (Apparently a foreclosure of the above mortgage, S.S.M.) Witness Lovick L. Lambeth. Book 27, page 573.

JESSE BROWN

Jesse Brown, fifth child of Benjamin and Elizabeth Lambeth Brown, was born in 1816. In 1838 (marriage bond 26 May), he was married to Mary Caffey, daughter of Robert Caffey (1791-1854) and Jane Flack. She was born 6 March, 1814 in Guilford County, died 15 March, 1890 and is buried at Fairgrove Methodist Church, Rockingham County. Jane Flack (Caffey) was the sister of Levina Flack who married Joseph Lambeth, brother of Elizabeth Lambeth Brown.

Jesse Brown and Mary Caffey eloped when they were married. They met, both riding horses; they took the saddle off of Mary's horse, and the horse went on home. Jesse then took Mary up on his horse behind him and took her away to marry. About six months after their marriage Jesse Brown bought 165 acres from his father. (See deeds of Benjamin Brown.)

Jesse and Mary Caffey Brown first lived on the "old Chilcutt" farm. He sold this farm and bought the "Old Miles" place, this side of Squirrel Creek. Afterward Jesse Brown sold the Miles place and moved to Oak Ridge so his children could go to school. While they lived at Oak Ridge his brother, Swift Brown, boarded with them and went to school. Jesse only lived at Oak Ridge for two years and then bought the Brown Summit property and moved there. This was in 1858.

The Southern Railway track from Greensboro to Danville was built during the early part of the Civil War, and Louisa Virginia Brown Rankin often related to the free train ride the railroad gave her father, Jesse Brown, when the line was first opened to Greensboro. The railroad gave him a private car—a box car—and he had more children that day than anyone in the county. The neighbors let all their children go with him for the ride to Greensboro. Brown Summit was evidently named for this family.

Jesse Brown died of asthma while serving with the Confederate Army in Charleston, S.C., and is buried there. Mary Caffey Brown, widow of Jesse, sold their place at Brown Summit after Jesse's death, and moved to Hernando, Mississippi for one year, and then returned to Brown Summit. Children of Jesse and Mary Caffey Brown:

3rd g. 1. Emma Brown, born March, 1839, married John Harris, lived near Gethsemane Church, Guilford County.

2. Dawson Brown, born February 2, 1842, died of an illness at Petersburg, Virginia during the Civil War; buried at Phibb's cemetery, near Brown Summit.

3. Sarah Francis Brown, married Dr. Jones.

4. Peonie Brown, married John Vanstory (brother of Neil Vanstory). Moved to Iredell County. Had a daughter Eula who married A. D. Chandler of Brown Summit.

5. James Brown, married a northern woman in the west; one daughter who was an artist.

6. John Brown married 1st a Lambeth and 2nd a Pitchford. Moved to Iredell County, near Statesville.

7. Margaret Brown, married (?) Patterson, from Iredell County and moved to Arkansas.

8. Nannie Brown, married Alfred Beville. Lived at Benaja, North Carolina.

9. Louisa Virginia Brown, born November, 1856. (See record below.)
10. Roney Brown
11. Another child, name unknown

LOUISE VIRGINIA BROWN RANKIN

(contributed by Nannie Louise Summers)

Louise Virginia Brown, daughter of Jesse and Mary Caffey Brown, was born in Guilford County on 13 November, 1856. She lived at Brown's Summit, N.C. until she was fifteen, then moved to Hernando, Mississippi. She lived with her uncle Michael Caffey (her mother's brother) for two years and attended school, then moved back to Olin, N.C. to live with her mother until she married William Henry Rankin on 16 May, 1876 at the age of nineteen. He was the son of Thomas and Nancy Ann Rankin and was born near McLeansville, N.C. on 14 December, 1841. He lost a leg during his service in the Confederate Army. Virginia Brown Rankin and her husband lived in Brown's Summit where he owned a large farm and ran a school. He also taught school at Buffalo Church. In 1910 they moved to Greensboro. He was Register of Deeds of Guilford County and a County Commissioner for the last fifteen years before he died. Virginia Brown Rankin died 9 February, 1946 and W. H. Rankin died 1 December, 1918. Both are buried at Greenhill Cemetery, Greensboro, North Carolina. Children:

4. Ronald Stephen Summers, born 5-4-1946, married Dec. 17, 1968 to Alice Faye Chapman. She was born 7-8-1951.

5. James Alan Summers, born 11-26-1951

Fleetwood Kent Summers married 2nd on 12-14-1971 to Nancey Shore. She was born 2-6-1922. No children.

5th g. 6. Mary Willard Summers, born 9-7-1917, married Dec. 19, 1944 to William Clarence Davidson from Mooresville, N. C. Children:

6th g. 1. Mary Sue Davidson, born 7-17-1953

2. Charles William Davidson, born 2-13-1956

3. Jeanne Davidson, born 7-6-1957

5th g. 7. Virginia Rankin Summers, born 8-5-1926

JAMES SWIFT BROWN

James Swift Brown, tenth and youngest child of Benjamin and Elizabeth Lambeth Brown, was born in Guilford County, 10 (or 19) August, 1828. He married Nancy Ann Frazier (born 2-18-1838, died 12-19-1913), daughter of John and Catherine McKinney Frazier of Stokes County—later of Guilford. (Notes on the Frazier family are included at the end of this section.)

Swift Brown's farm was on the north side of the Summerfield-Oak Ridge road—about half way between the two—near Mr. Massey and Mr. Peeples. The following notice from the Greensboro Patriot, dated Feb. 17, 1870, tells of his work, and of his tragic death: (the account of one of his daughters—Lake S. Brown—varies slightly in that she stated that "he started to get off the train at Company Shops, which is now Burlington. His coat caught and dragged him under the train.")

Greensboro Patriot, February 17, 1870

"Fatal Railroad Accident

Last Friday morning Mr. J. Swift Brown, a gauger in the employment of the government, attempted to jump from the Western bound train on the N. C. Railroad, at Graham, and lost his balance and fell under the cars and was horribly mangled. He suffered greatly until Monday, when death relieved him of all earthly trouble. He was conscious to the last, and made all the necessary explanations, as to his worldly affairs. He leaves a wife and six small children to mourn his loss.

On Monday night the Masonic Lodge of this place met and appointed delegates to convey their deceased brother to his home. A committee of nine escorted his body to this place Tues morning, and he was buried with Masonic Orders yesterday.

His wife we learn, is nearly a maniac, and it would require a stronger mind than ours, if she were not, as while she was about attending to her dying husband, one of her darling little boys, 5 years of age, fell into one of the vats at the steam distillery and was badly scalded. The little sufferer, we are happy to say, at this writing, is comparatively easy, and there is no danger to life or limb."

Tribute of Respect To J. Swift Brown

"At the regular meeting, February 19, 1870 of Haw River Lodge #225 of the Masons. Also thanked the Greensboro #76, and Industrial Lodge #212 for their kind attention to Brother Brown during his illness."

He was buried at Flat Rock church cemetery, at Stokesdale, N.C. After his death his widow Nancy Ann Frazier Brown, moved to Greensboro where she ran a rooming house and reared her children there. In 1873 Loftin Harvey Lambeth (a first cousin of James Swift Brown) was appointed guardian of John B. C. Brown and W. David Kerr Brown and conveyed property to Abram Clapp, then Clerk of the Superior Court, as security for this guardianship. John A. Lambeth (also a cousin) was appointed guardian of Sample S. Brown and Ora B. K. Brown and secured his guardianship in the same way, and William Donnell (and George J. Lambeth ?) were appointed guardians to Ninevah N. O. Brown and Lake Superior Brown, securing the guardianship by property known as the Donnell and Lambeth Mills. (See Guilford County Deed Book 47, pages 298, 300 and 380.)

Children of James Swift and Nancy Ann Frazier Brown:

3rd g. 1. Sample Sidney Smith Brown, born near Oak Ridge, N.C. in 1856, died 1948. He was in the real estate business in Greensboro. In March, 1881 he married Helen Gray Land, who was born at Bloomfield Plantation, near Petersburg, Virginia in 1854 (or 1856), and died in 1940. Both are buried at Greenhill Cemetery, Greensboro, N.C. Children:

4th g. 1. Virginia Land Brown, born in Greensboro, 12-10-1881, married Robert Dick Douglas in 1909. He was at one time attorney general of North Carolina and was the son of Robert Martin Douglas and his wife Jessie Dick. He was the grandson of Stephen Arnold Douglas, (the famous debater, who ran against Lincoln for president in 1860) and his first wife Martha Martin, of Rockingham County, North Carolina. Another distinguished ancestor was Benedict Arnold, first governor of Rhode Island and also the ancestor of a notorious namesake. Both Robert M. Douglas—the father of Robert Dick Douglas—and Robert P. Dick, his father-in-law, were on the Supreme Court bench of North Carolina, and the latter was also a federal judge. His father—John M. Dick—was a Superior Court judge in the 1830's. Children of Robert Dick and Virginia Land Brown Douglas:

5th g. 1. Virginia Adams Douglas was born in Greensboro, N.C., on December 1, 1910. She was graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N.C. with an A.B. and later with an LL.B. She practiced law for nearly three years.

On August 10, 1941, she was married to Willie Locke Bell of Greensboro. He was born in Roanoke in 1894 to Leanna Cunningham and James Rainie Bell, both of whom were from old Virginia families. Willie Locke Bell died in Greensboro on June 12, 1971.

They have five children:

6th g. 1. Virginia Douglas Bell Vanstory was born in Greensboro on August 30, 1943. She was graduated from Duke University in January 1965. She married Lee Pinckney Vanstory, Jr., who was born in Greensboro to Mary Kelly King Vanstory (b. Williamston, N.C.) and Lee Pinckney Vanstory (b. Greensboro). The junior Vanstorys live in Greenville, S.C., where Virginia teaches high school English. They have one son, Lee Pinckney Vanstory, III.

2. Leanna Cunningham Bell Tolson was born in Greensboro on July 3, 1946. She was graduated from Manhattanville College in Purchase, N.Y., in 1968, and received a Master's degree from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill in 1972. She worked in regional planning in Roanoke, Va. On December 16, 1972, Leanna was married to John Jarvis Tolson, IV, son of Lieutenant General John Jarvis Tolson, III, b. New Bern, and Margaret Jordan Young Tolson, b. Wilson. General Tolson was retired in 1973 and is now in Raleigh in charge of Veterans' and Military Affairs (which may not be the correct title). Leanna's husband teaches at The Asheville School, in Asheville, where she works in regional planning.
3. Eloise Adams Bell was born in Greensboro on April 14, 1948. She has received her B.S. from North Carolina State University and enters graduate school in August.
4. Rainie Locke Bell was born in Greensboro on May 26, 1950. He received his degree from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. He recently spent some time in Israel doing work in archeology with Dr. Bernard Boyd.

5. Mary Borden Bell was born in Greensboro on July 29, 1953. She is a junior at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

5th g. 2. Robert Dick Douglas, Jr., was born in Greensboro, N.C., on July 23, 1912. He was chosen, when fifteen, to join the Martin Johnsons in Africa and spend a summer with them. The Johnsons were wild life photographers. With two other boys he wrote "Three Boy Scouts in Africa." He spent a summer in Alaska with the Kodiak Guides and wrote "A Boy Scout in the Grizzley Country." A third summer was spent with The Glacier Priest, Father Bernard Hubbard. The book that resulted was "In the Land of the Thunder Mountains."

He was graduated from Georgetown University in 1932, and received his M.A. from Georgetown and also his LL.B. He worked for several years with the Federal Bureau of Investigation as a Special Agent. He is a member of the North Carolina bar and a practicing attorney in Greensboro.

In 1942 he was married to Gladys Iva Neal, who was born in Rocky Mount, N.C. Gladys died on June 7, 1971.

They have three children:

6th g. 1. Robert Dick Douglas, III was born in 1943 in Washington, D.C. He grew up in Greensboro. He received a degree from Georgetown University in Washington, and his J.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is practicing law in Greensboro and is the sixth generation of his family to practice law in Guilford County.

2. Ann Gray Douglas was born in 1945 in Washington, D.C. She received her A.B. from Randolph-Macon College in Lynchburg, Va., in 1967. She received her master's degree from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and is working in Washington.

3. Elizabeth Neal Douglas was born in 1948 in Greensboro. She was graduated from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill in 1970. She received her master's degree at North Carolina State University and is working in botany in Rochester, N.Y.

Robert Dick Douglas, Jr. was married in 1972 to Ruth Mullin Sheehy, of Connecticut, the widow of Thomas V. Sheehy.

5th g. 3. Stephen Arnold Douglas was born July 4, 1914, in Greensboro, N.C. He attended the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, but was not graduated. He served in the National Guard and in the U. S. Air Force in World War II. He died in the crash of a private plane on July 4, 1947.

He was married in 1942 to Jane Steele Hannon of Charlotte, N.C. They have two children:

6th g. 1. Stephen Arnold Douglas, VI, was born in Greensboro, in 1943, and now lives in Monroe, N.C. He is married to Carole Crowell. They have two children, Andrea Hope Douglas and Stephen Arnold Douglas, VII.

2. Edgar Hannon Douglas was born in Greensboro in 1947. He has completed work toward a degree from the University of South Carolina.

5th g. 4. Helen Gray Douglas was born on January 15, 1919 in Greensboro, N.C. She was graduated from Guilford College, near Greensboro, in 1939.

She joined the Women's Army Corps (WAC) and served in New Guinea and the Phillipines. In 1946 she was married to Bruce William Shoobridge of Tasmania, Australia. They live near Kettering, Tasmania, Australia.

They have three children:

6th g. 1. Helen Douglas Shoobridge
2. Bruce Douglas Shoobridge
3. Christopher Douglas Shoobridge

4th g. 2. Sidney Glenn Brown, son of Sample Sidney Smith and Helen Gray Land Brown, was born in Greensboro June 6 (or 27), 1883, died in 1962 and is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

As a boy of sixteen, loving adventure more than he loved his studies at UNC at State, he worked his way to South Africa on the British vessel "Monarch." At loose ends in South Africa, he joined the British Army for a period of six months and later enlisted for another six months. He was with the Prince of Wales Light Horse, Arthur Hill, commander, under Bing, Earl of Essex. Since Sidney Glenn Brown was an excellent horseman, most of his work was scout duty. He received an honorable discharge and was not sent home by way of England. Home again, he later worked his way to England as a second class seaman and worked his way back as a first class seaman.

Some of his youthful spirit worked off, he went to Chapel Hill and received a law degree. He married May Stewart of recent English descent. He became City Court Judge in Greensboro and there he introduced the Juvenile Court. He was with the American Army when the incidents in 1914, 1916, occurred on the Mexican border.

He became a major in the office of the Judge Advocate Generals Office. At the beginning of World War I, wanting to get in a line instead of an official position, he resigned the Judge Advocate's position and entered training school, winning the title of captain, and was soon a major. He was in active battle overseas.

During his overseas days he introduced an especially spectacular battle formation. When the war ended, there was a ceremony of escorting King Albert back to his throne (which was a parade and just in form, as King Albert was already back home); Glenn Brown was chosen to represent his country. Every allied country was given a place in the parade and ceremony; but the American contingent was given the lead, with Glenn Brown its commander. The whole march was eight miles long through rain; but over many parts of the way, flowers were strewn. After luncheon at the palace, Glenn and an English officer were decorated by the King.

After the first World War, Col. Brown remained in the army and among other places he was sent to Washington. Here he entered the War College and graduated from it. He was for some time on the General Staff in Washington and had office in the State, War and Navy Building. Also, during the second World War, Col. Brown was chief of staff to Gen. Stillwell while Stillwell was at Camp Ord in California. He also won a Croix de Guerre. Children:

5th g.

1. Sidney G. Brown, Jr., born Greensboro, N.C. 19 July, 1908. After 1 year enlisted service, entered United States Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., 1 July, 1927; graduated 11 June, 1931 and commissioned 2nd Lieutenant of Infantry. Married Elizabeth Greer Williams, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Allison W. Williams (formerly Elizabeth Greer) at Columbus, Ga., 16 June, 1934. She was born in Chicago on 31 March, 1914. Served at Fort Davis, Panama Canal Zone, son, Glenn Allison Brown born at Colon, Panama, 16 July, 1935. Attended Infantry School, Tank School, Chemical Warfare School prior to World War II. Served with Headquarters, 12th Army Group, European Theater during war. After war was with Armor Board, Chief, SHAPE Mission to Portugal, Commander, 17th Armor Group, G-4, First Army, and Senior Advisor to 2nd Vietnamese Army Corps. Graduated Naval War College, Newport, R.I. and NATO Defense College, Paris, France. Retired 1 August, 1960 after more than 30 years service in grade of colonel. French Croix de Guerre with gold star, Commendation Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster.

Son of Sidney Glenn Brown, Jr. and wife Elizabeth Greer Williams Brown:

6th g. 1. Glenn Allison Brown, born 16 July, 1935, Colon, Panama. Graduated United States Military Academy 1958 and commissioned 2nd Lieutenant, Signal Corps. Married Catharine Crosby, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. George D. Crosby, Bradenton, Fla., 26 December, 1958. Served as helicopter pilot in Viet-Nam 1966-67. Helicopter pilot instructor, Ft. Rucker, Alabama, grade of major. Daughter, Elizabeth Dakin, born Ft. Meade, Md., 23 Oct. 1960; son, Glenn Allison born 19 Jan., 1969, Fort Rucker. Air Medal with Oak Leaf Clusters; Bronze Star Medal for actions in Viet-Nam.

5th g. 2. William Stewart Brown . (Quoted from a letter to Mrs. R. D. Douglas, 5 April, 1969):

"I graduated from the Naval Academy 12 days after Pearl Harbor Day and went almost immediately to the Pacific for duty in the U.S.S. FARRAGUT, a destroyer. In July of 1943 I returned to the States and went to submarine school for 3 months, after which I had duty in training submarines in Key West until I went back to the Pacific in 1944 and made 3 war patrols on fleet submarines, the U.S.S. SEAL and the U.S.S. SEA DOG.

After the war, I remained in the Sea Dog as executive officer until 1947, when I commenced a two year tour of shore duty, Rachel Ewing McReynolds and I were married 4 November, 1948 in Washington, D.C. Her father's name is Clement Ewing McReynolds, born in Clarksville, Tenn., and her mother's name was Eula Pratt Hogan, born in Biloxi, Miss. (Rachel was also born in Biloxi, on 26 October, 1925.) In 1949 I returned to sea as executive officer of the submarines Pomfret and Sea Fox — then back to shore duty in December of 1951 as head of the ordnance dept. of the Submarine School in New London.

In December, 1952, I was ordered to duty as Prospective C. O. of the U.S.S. Quillback, a submarine, and commissioned her in February, 1953, after which I took her to Key West for training duties. Leaving Quillback in February, 1955, I commenced a $3\frac{1}{2}$ year tour of duty in the Office of Naval Research, in Washington, D.C. Then followed a 15-month tour as Executive Officer of the U.S.S. Mississinewa, a fleet oiler, then a 15 month tour as C.O. of a repair ship, U.S.S. Tutuka, in Norfolk. My final active duty tour was as Chief Staff Officer of the Key West Test and Evaluation Detachment. I retired on 1 September, 1962 and went to work for Sikorsky Aircraft as Supervisor of the Sea Warfare Group." He retired as a commander.

Children of William Stewart and Rachel McReynolds Brown:
Bill (William Bruce Brown, attended Annapolis), Bob, Katy, Cindy, Jenny, Brian.

4th g. 3. Helen Gray Brown, daughter of Sample Sidney Smith and Helen Gray Land Brown, was born in Greensboro in 1893. She was married to John M. Geary on April 9, 1913. Child:

5th g. 1. John Maurice Geary was born in Wilmington, N.C. Aug. 25, 1916 and married Dorothy Howard, from Weldon, N.C. He is a graduate of U.N.C. and holds a Ph.D. in Entomology from Cornell University. He has also studied at Duke and Columbia Universities. He was with the executive section of the Armed Forces Pest Control Board, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D.C. He was chairman of the Federal Committee on Pest Control, Armed Forces, Member Epdemiological Board, U.S. Representative on the Defense Research Board of Canada, member of the Commission on Parasitic Diseases and Chief Entomologist, U.S. Air Force. He was retired from the Army as a colonel, and is working at the University of Maryland. His wife is a micro-biologist.

After the death of her first husband, Helen Gray Brown Geary married W. O. Cook, of Connecticutt; he is now deceased.

4th g. 4. James Edward Brown, son of Sample Sidney and Helen Gray Land Brown, was born in Greensboro on Aug. 27, 1897. He tried in vain to get into the first World War but was always turned down for being under weight. Looking so thin and frail has always been a handicap to him; yet he is a great walker. When the cry went out for walkers who could make fifty miles in twenty-four hours, he was one of the rather small number who made it though he was over sixty-five years old at the time. On 2 December, 1920 he was married to Laura McLeod, daughter of David King and Elizabeth Frances Tomlinson McLeod of Montgomery County. She was born Feb. 23, 1900. Children:

5th g. 1. Laura McLeod Brown, born Greensboro, N.C., 22 Oct., 1921, married June 5, 1941, in Greensboro, to Hazel Irvin Quinn, son of Charles Franklin Quinn, of Colorado, and his wife, Willie Bealle Irvin Quinn. He was born 1-17-1920. Children (all born in Greensboro):

6th g.
1. Laura Jean Quinn, born 12-9-1943, married Jan. 27, 1961 to James Joel Ebert
2. David Hazel Quinn, born 22-2-1947
3. John Sydney Quinn, born 28-1-1950

BENJAMIN BROWN

DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS

Guilford County:

1820, 19 September. Benjamin Brown from Elisha Wharton for $603.00. 292 acres on Reedy Fork on both sides of Irish Creek, adjoining Joseph Smith and Thomas Flack. Witnesses Joseph Lambeth and James Wharton. Book 15, page 315.

1820, 20 September. Benjamin Brown to Joseph Lambeth for $563.00. No acres given. Land on Reedy Fork on both sides of Irish Creek, adjoining Jos. Smith and Thomas Flack. Witnesses James Holman, Wm. Apple. Book 15, page 316.

1831, 19 September. Benjamin Brown to Lovick Lambeth, deed of trust to secure debt of $680.00 due to John Lambeth. 292 acres on Irish Creek. Book 19, page 417.

1838, 28 August. Benjamin Brown to Jesse Brown for $148.00. 165 acres, 15 poles. Witnesses Joseph Cunningham and Levi K. Walker. Book 26, page 194.

1839, 23 August. Benjamin Brown to Joseph Brown. 57 acres on Reedy Fork, adjoining Peter Swift. Witnesses John Brown and Lovick Lambeth. Book 26, page 363.

12-18-1838 to 12-19-1913

John Frazier of Stokes County, and later Guilford, died about 1862. His will recorded in the Clerk's office of Guilford County, (Book D, page 130) names his wife, Catherine W. Frazier, and the following children: Sowell, George L., Nancy Ann Brown, John J., Sarah Caise, Denby Smith, Ellington Clendenning and Jemima Bane and Jane Bane, granddaughters.

John Frazier owned lands on Haw River. On 11-13-1830 he made a deed of trust to Jesse Pegram for 110 acres conveyed to him by Jared McKinney (Book 18, p. 734). On 4-26-1866 John J. Frazier mortgaged his interest in 100 acres on Belews Creek and his interest in the personal estate of his father, John Frazier (Book 35, p. 473.)

John Frazier married Catherine McKinsey in Stokes County 8-5-1822.

Sowell Frazier, Jr., m. Mary Moore, 3-9-1841.

George L. Frazier, m. Amanda Cook in Stokes County, 2-26-1848.

John Frazier, m. Jelina Studdard in Stokes County 7-24-1847.

Nancy Ann Frazier Brown's will is in Book H, p. 560, filed 8-10-1914. She names her children as Sample S., Ora K. Gilmer, J. Council, Wisdom, Ninevah O. Albright, Lake Brown, filed 6-1-1909. S. S. Brown said Smith Frazier went to war as a doctor and never returned. Catherine Frazier married W. M. Ricks and deeded the homeplace, where her husband, John, died, of 375 acres, to Wesley Roberts in 1869 (Book 44, p. 289).

An Abner Brown married Betsey Frazier in Guilford 11-25-1820—sureties William Saferite and William Shields—and Catherine deeded place by Sowell to William and David Frazier in 1871, Book 55, p. 82, on Belews Creek. Abel

Frazier, son of Aaron and Sarah, was named guardian for an Aaron who had land in Stokes County in 1817. The names of the children were William, John, Jesse, Docket 00-150 C.S.C. Other deeds 23-362; 25-40; 27-41; 30-42; 41-609; 42-221; 34-278.

It is my belief that Nancy Frazier Brown is a descendant of Alexander Fraizer or Frazer of York County, Pennsylvania, as follows: (1) Alexander, (2) Aaron, (3) Sowell, (4) John. There may be two Aarons in the line but the final result is the same.

CATHARINE LAMBETH CARRIGAN

Catharine Lambeth was probably the second child of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, as indicated both by Josiah's will and by the order in which he listed his children as heirs of his brother Aaron. Catharine's age—given in the 1850 census of LaClede County, Missouri—is almost illegible, but indicates that she was in her 50's at that time.

Catharine was married to Sample Carrigan. (Guilford County marriage bond, 2 October, 1812.) In 1816 her husband bought 100 acres of land on the east side of Haw River and on the county line (Guilford and Orange Counties) from her father Josiah Lambeth. (See deeds of Josiah Lambeth.) Sample Carrigan died at the end of that year or early in 1817 and at the February Court, 1817 Josiah Lambeth was appointed administrator of the estate with a bond of 100 pounds. William Fryer and Benjamin Allen were secureties. The inventory included 3 beds, 2 walnut chests, Bible, books, fire dogs, 2 saddles, looms, flax wheel, 6 head cattle, plows and 2 raw hides. In the final settlement, value of the estate, including notes due, was $302.09. After all debts were paid, only twenty cents remained so that there were no funds to pay the administrator who was due $15.14. Josiah Lambeth as administrator, made up this amount himself, which he agreed "to throw in to the widow and childring. As there is nothing in his hands for the Same." He signed the return, spelling his name "Josious Lamburd." (Guilford County Estates, 1775-1920, North Carolina Archives.)

The household of Catharine Carrigan is listed in the census of 1830 of Guilford County with one male 10-15 years old and two females 15-20 years old.

It is thought that Catharine Carrigan and her sisters Sarah Burney and Mary Jones left Guilford County in the early fall of 1842—with other families—to settle in LaClede County, Missouri. (See chapter on Josiah Lambeth, section on Joseph Lambeth.) In 1850 Catharine Carrigan was living there in the household of William Sanders and his wife Sarah who was probably Catharine's daughter. (Household #162/162.) His occupation is listed as farmer and the value of his property was $1,000.00. Six children—ranging in age from three to twenty years were also in the family and six more were born after this date. William was then 44 years old, and his wife Sarah was 35.

A history of LaClede County (see below) states that William Saunders—referred to as "Uncle Billy" came from Tennessee in 1842 with a four-horse wagon and a carry-all. He and his family were on their way to Springfield, Missouri, but were persuaded to stay in LaClede County. Here he built a log house which was still standing in 1949. It took both courage and a sense of adventure to brave the frontier life and it must have seemed important to pioneer settlers to take with them some of the valued material possessions from their former home. This family brought china to grace the new house they would build, and cuttings to start an orchard on the new farm they would cultivate, when the land was cleared.

Not long after the Saunders arrived in Missouri, their relatives the Holmans came, also on their way to settle elsewhere in the state. They, too, decided to settle in LaClede County. Lucinda Lambeth Holman was the daughter of Joseph Lambeth and thus the niece of Catharine Lambeth Carrigan, Joseph's sister and the mother of William Saunders' wife. The two families lived as neighbors and their children attended the "Old Academy" in Lebanon after it was established there about 1860. During the War between the States they shared in their loyalty to the southern cause, in a county where there were both Confederate and Union sympathizers.

On 9 August, 1854 Catharine Carrigan and her sister Sarah Burney appointed their nephew John A. Lambeth (son of their brother Lovick) in Guilford County, to represent them in the settlement of the estate of their father, Josiah Lambeth. (Guilford County Deed Book 36, page 169.)

In the Holman cemetery in LaClede County, Missouri, there is a grave marker to Sarah Carrigan, born 9-24-1815, died 1909. She was of an age to have been the Sarah Carrigan mentioned above, wife of William Saunders.

Mary Lambeth Jones

(1794-(?)

Mary Lambeth, daughter of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth was born in Craven County—probably in 1794. The 1850 census of LaClede County, Missouri—where she was living at the time—gives her age as 50 or 56 (almost illegible). It was probably 56 since that fits in most logically among the birthdates of the other children in her family.

According to tradition she married a Jones. He is thought to have been named Electious. Also, according to tradition, they moved to California about 1830, which seems doubtful in view of current research.

In January, 1811 "Caty" and "Polly" Lambeth were witnesses to two deeds executed by their father—each signing with her "mark."

The given name of Mary's husband is probably correct since this name appears several times in legal records relating to members of the Lambeth family. On 30 March, 1816 Electious Jones and Joseph Lambeth were witnesses to a deed from Josiah Lambeth to Sample Carrigan, who had married Josiah's daughter Catherine. At the November court, 1820 a debt suit was settled in favor of the plaintiff, for $667.35, against Josiah Lambeth and Electious Jones: Jones paid $439.91—which was his share of the estate of his father, John W. Jones—while Josiah Lambeth was ordered to pay the balance and all costs. At the same court Electious Jones forfeited property which apparently secured a loan. He was also sued in two other debt cases, both of which he lost. Thereafter Electious Jones' name is not found in the Court minutes, suggesting that he must have moved away, or died, soon after.

At this period married women rarely entered into legal transactions independently of their husbands, so that Mary was living alone in April, 1838 when she executed a Deed of Trust to John Lambeth to secure a loan of $300.00 from Joseph Lambeth. The security was 84 acres on "the waters of Buffalo Creek" where Mary Jones was then living. She is listed in the 1840 census of Guilford County, living next to her father Josiah Lambeth. In her household were two females (one 20-30 years old; the other 10-15 years old; and one male 15-20 years old). Court minutes of August, 1841 show that Mary Jones entered into a deed of trust with Henry Trolinger, trustee, for the benefit of Richard Jones. The amount due and the property mortgaged are not mentioned.

In June 1842 Mary Jones made another Deed of Trust to James A. Anderson to secure money owed to McConnel and Lindsay, who were merchants. The security in this case was Mary Jones' interest in "18 acres of corn, 5 acres of oats, and 8 heads of young hogs," in which she had a one third interest.

The will of Josiah Lambeth mentions that his daughter Polly owed her sister Edna $22.75, with interest from 1 September, 1842. This is the same date on which Mary's sister, Sarah Lambeth Burney, sold her property in Guilford County. It is thought that Sarah Burney and his sister Catherine Carrigan left Guilford County to move to LaClede County, Missouri, at about this date. Mary Jones probably moved with them. All three are listed in the 1850 census of LaClede County.

Mary Jones was then living in the home of Pleasant Feagins (Family #21-21), aged 30, and his wife Elizabeth Feagins, aged 33. Their marriage bond is recorded in Guilford County, 22 August, 1840, the bride's name being Elizabeth Jones with Ritchard (x) Jones as bondsman. Richard Jones was one of the sons named in the will of John W. Jones (the father of Electious Jones). Also living in LaClede County in 1850 were John W. Jones, aged 29, (Family #108-108) and his wife Mary, aged 29, who had a young son named "Eolectus." Next door was Richard F. Jones, aged 30 (Family #109-109) and his wife Elizabeth, aged 25. The marriage bond of this couple is also recorded in Guilford County, 14 August, 1838. The bride's name was Elizabeth Burney and the bondsman was Robert R. Prather, brother-in-law of Mary Jones. This is strong evidence that Mary Jones and three of her children moved to LaClede County, Missouri, especially since this census lists all of them as having been born in North Carolina.

There is a tradition that Mary Jones emigrated to California. It is said that during the trip—while the wagon train was encamped overnight—Mary chased away a grizzly bear with a burning stick she pulled from the fire. One of her sons is also supposed to have gone to California—later returning to Guilford County for a visit with much paper currency (representing gold dollars) sewed into the lining of his overcoat.

If members of this family did go on to California, it was probably after 1850.

MARY LAMBETH JONES

LEGAL INSTRUMENTS

Guilford County:

1838, 11 April. Mary Jones is indebted to Joseph Lambeth in the amount of $300.00 by bond bearing same date as this indenture. She sells to John Lambeth for $1.00 the land she now lives on, on waters of Buffalo Creek. 84 acres. After 12 months John Lambeth may sell this land to the highest bidder, to pay the above debt. Signed Mary (x) Jones, John Lambeth, Joseph Lambeth. Registered August Court, 1838. Book 23, page 743.

1842, 21 June. Mary Jones owes McConnel & Lindsay $36.95 due by bond dated 8 June, 1839. She sells to James Anderson for 50¢ her interest in 18 acres of corn and interest in 5 acres of oats, and 8 heads of young hogs. She has 1/3 interest in all of these. James Anderson may sell all this after 1 October, 1842 to the highest bidder, to pay above debt. Witness W. A. Winborne. Registered 21 June, 1842. Book 28, page 36.

SARAH LAMBETH BURNEY

Sarah Lambeth, daughter of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County about 1795. (The 1860 census of LaClede County, Missouri gives her age in that year as 65.) In 1822 (Guilford County marriage bond dated 16 March) she was married to Adam Burney, son of William and Mary Burney, who is named in his father's will of 4 October, 1823. (Guilford County Will Book B, page 176.) Bondsman was her brother Lovick Lambeth.

A few months after the marriage Adam Burney bought 83 acres on the south side of Reedy Fork from David M. Burney, who was probably his brother. In 1828 Adam sold 14 acres "a small part of the plantation on which Burney now lives" to Donnell Scott. Adjoining property owners were William Denny, Adam Scott and Samuel Burney. Early the next year Adam Scott mortgaged property he owned on Reedy Fork, to secure a debt owed by him to Adam Burney. This mortgage was in the form of a deed to Burney by which he could hold the land until the debt was paid.

Adam Burney died 21 June, 1829 and a notice of his death appeared in the Greensboro Patriot of 27 June. At the August court administration on his estate was granted to Sarah Burney and Robert Prather, with a bond of $500.00. In November, 1831 Sarah Burney was appointed guardian to her children Elizabeth, Narcissa and Eli W. C. Burney, with John Rankin and Robert R. Prather as securities and a bond of $400.00. Sarah Burney renewed her guardian bond periodically, as required by law; in 1834 the bond was $375.00 and Shadrack Lambeth replaced Robert R. Prather as a security; in 1835 the bond had dropped to $300.00 and Larkin Smith replaced Shadrack Lambeth as a security. Apparently the value of the property held by the heirs of Adam Burney slowly decreased in value. All of these children were still minors in 1835.

At the time of the settlement of the estate, the total value was estimated as $247.31 and after paying all debts, the amount remaining was $173.37½. (Guilford County Estate Papers, 1775-1890. North Carolina Archives.)

In 1839 Sarah Burney purchased 40 acres from Larkin Smith, adjoining Bar's old corner, Lambeth's line, Woollen's corner and Daniel Donnel's line. Robert R. Prather, Sarah's brother-in-law, was one of the witnesses. In September, 1842, she sold this land to Samuel MacClintock, receiving fifty dollars less than she had paid for it. She must have decided, some time before, to move west, and did so soon after this sale. Perhaps financial problems contributed to this decision.

In 1850 she was living in LaClede County, Missouri, in the home of her son Eli C. Burney, then aged 22. His wife Martha J., also aged 22, and their son Jerome, aged 4, had both been born in Illinois. In 1860, Sarah Burney was still in LaClede County, but was then living in the home of her daughter Narcissa, age 35, and her husband John Wilson, 35, who had been born in Tennessee.

The children of John and Narcissa Burney Wilson (from 1860 census, LaClede County, Missouri):

Rebecca, age 10 Adam, age 6 Edna, age 2
Elizabeth, age 8 Eli D., age 4

It is probable that the other child of Adam and Sarah Lambeth Burney, Elizabeth, married Richard E. Jones. There is a Guilford County marriage bond, dated 14 August, 1838 for Richard Jones and Elizabeth Burney, with Robert R. Prather who had married Elizabeth's aunt Frances Lambeth, as bondsman. In 1850 Richard E. Jones, age 30, born in North Carolina, was a well established farmer in LaClede County, with property valued at $1,000. His wife Elizabeth, age 25, and son Adam F., age 11 were also born in North Carolina. John J. age 7, and Robert M., age 4 were born in Missouri. Richard Jones may have been one of the sons of Electious and Mary Lambeth Jones, and if so, was a first cousin to his wife Elizabeth Burney Jones.

Unless the ages of Elizabeth and Narcissa Burney are incorrect, they must have been twins. However, errors in age are so common in census records that it is more likely that Elizabeth was the older.

About nine years after Catharine Lambeth Carrigan, Mary Lambeth Jones, and Sarah Lambeth Burney moved to LaClede County, Missouri, their father Josiah Lambeth died in Guilford County. In 1854 Catharine and Sarah appointed their nephew John A. Lambeth to act as their attorney in settling their father's estate.

In March, 1867, Sarah Lambeth Burney sold a tract of land in township 30, section 33 in the southwest part of LaClede County to John Wilson and his wife Narcissa.

Burney descendants of Adam and Sarah Lambeth Burney were living in Aurora, Missouri in the early 1950's and were in the printing business.

Joseph Lambeth, eldest son of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County 29 March, 1796. He grew up in Guilford County where his parents had settled about 1800. At the age of twenty he was married to Levina (Olivia) Flack, with John Wharton witness to the marriage bond which was dated 30 July, 1816. Levina Lambeth was named in the will of her father Andrew Flack which was dated 11 December, 1843 and probated in November, 1845. (Guilford County Will Book C, page 241.) This will also names the widow, Mary Flack. Levina's mother is thought to have been a Dilworth before marriage.

The grandfather of Levina Flack Lambeth was Thomas Flack, who married Jane McCuiston, daughter of James McCuiston. Both of these men were members of the Nottingham Colony which was the third settlement in the Guilford County area. Both families had lived in the section since 1751 and had, no doubt, accummulated land. In a history of these Scotch-Irish Presbyterians entitled Buffalo Church and Her People, written by the Rev. S. M. Rankin, Thomas Flack is number 40 in the numerical list of members of the colony.

Beginning in 1819 Joseph Lambeth's name began to appear in the court minutes of Guilford County in connection with the privileges and responsibilities of being a "free-holder." His name was drawn for jury duty in that year, and again in 1825, 1828, and 1832, and for jury duty at the Superior Court in 1829, 1835 and 1840. In February, 1827 he was one of the securities for a newly elected constable, and in August, 1829 was appointed to a commission to lay off a year's allowance to the widow of David Huffines. In February, 1837 he won a debt suit.

However, his name is most frequently found in the minutes in connection with the purchase of property, or in connection with loans he had made—secured by mortgages. He bought a slave man early in the 1820's from Benjamin Suddoth; all other transactions had to do with real estate. Many of his deeds must have been unrecorded, since they account for more than half of the property he owned at the time of his death. He must have believed in land and may have invested his inheritance from his uncle Aaron in it, and money inherited by his wife. Possibly Levina Lambeth was given some land by her father, since in his will, he left her only one dollar, "in addition to what I have already given her."

The land acquired by Joseph Lambeth was located in the northeastern part of Guilford County, on the north side of Reedy Fork Creek, only a few miles from the Orange County line to the east, and the Rockingham County line to the north. The homeplace was on Buckhorn Creek, near the crossing of the Fayetteville Road. His neighbor to the south was Ludwig W. Summers, probably the wealthiest man in the county at that time. Mr. Summers owned a great number of slaves and provided a farm and a grist mill—located on Reedy Fork or on Haw River—for each of his sons. His plantation was a camping area for slave traders, horse traders, and other travelers. The Joseph Lambeth family, therefore, was near the center of the business life of that area at that time.

In addition to land owned in Guilford County, Joseph Lambeth bought more than 100 acres in Rockingham County. Some of this property was near the home of his father-in-law, Andrew Flack. Altogether, he owned over 1,700 acres—and had sold only two acres of what he had bought. This was about three times the amount of land owned by the average resident of the area at that period. When the property was distributed among his six children it was valued at $5,350—each child's share being worth $891.00.

Perhaps even more unusual was the fact that Joseph Lambeth seems to have had a good deal of "ready cash" available and was thus able to help members of his family, and friends, when they were in financial straits. Money was scarce at this time, and people in general were very poor. The state had only three small banks—two on the coast and one in Raleigh—so that when a loan was needed individuals had to turn to the more well-to-do members of their communities. As in the case of the unrecorded deeds, it is likely that many of these loans were made without legal record. The first of which there is a record was noted in the court minutes of August, 1828, a deed by which Daniel Heart sold 180 acres to Ludwick Summers, Trustee, "for the benefit of Joseph Lambeth." Witness to this deed was Lovick Lambeth, brother of Joseph. In 1838 Mary Lambeth Jones made a similar deed to John Lambeth, Trustee, to secure a loan from Joseph Lambeth. (Deed Book 23, page 743.) Both of these men were her brothers. This may have been the debt of $300.00 of Mary Jones, referred to in the inventory of the estate of Joseph Lambeth as a "good debt." Another "good debt" was $192.00 due the estate by Joseph's brother Shadrach. (Guilford County Estates, Inventories and Lists of Sales, 1835-1842, North Carolina Archives.) On 1 January, 1840, a deed of trust was made by which Joseph Brown sold property to John Lambeth, Trustee, to secure a loan of $800.00 made to him by Joseph Lambeth, his uncle. (Deed Book 25, page 157.) This debt was not paid before the death of Joseph Lambeth and the property, consisting of 157 acres, was sold by John Lambeth in 1844 to Vincent Russom to Satisfy the obligation. (Deed Book 27, page 573.) At the February court in 1840 a deed of trust was recorded made by William Hughs to John Strader, Trustee, to secure a debt to Joseph Lambeth. In Rockingham County in April, 1839 John Huffines sold to John Lambeth, Trustee, for $1.00 a substantial amount of personal property to secure a debt of $500.00 owed to Joseph Lambeth. Only half of this amount was paid two years later but the loan was renewed with the same security and with John Lambeth, Trustee for the estate of Joseph Lambeth.

Joseph Lambeth lived only to the age of 44, dying 20 October, 1840. He probably died rather suddenly since he did not leave a will, which might have been expected of a person of his means and knowledge of business. He may have been the first of the family to be buried in the little family cemetery, located on the original farm of his father, Josiah, where his grave is marked by a small stone giving the dates of his birth and death.

At the November court, 1840 administration on the estate of Joseph Lambeth was granted to the widow, Levina Lambeth and to George Holman who had married their daughter Lucinda Lambeth three years before. The administrators entered into a bond of $13,000 with Elisha Flack, Jacob Gerenger and two others, as securities. At the same court Levina was appointed guardian for her son John D. Lambeth, "non compas mentis." The guardian bond was $4,000.00, with Elisha Flack as security.

Three sales were held in December, 1840 to dispose of the personal property of Joseph Lambeth, preparatory to a division of his estate. The largest buyer was the widow, and her most expensive purchase was that of two horses and a wagon. She also bought many farm tools, two saddles, kitchen utencils and harvested crops, among other things. Like all estate sales, this one drew a large crowd and many family members, as well as neighbors were among the buyers. (Guilford County Estates, Inventories and Lists of Sales, 1835-1842, North Carolina Archives.) In May, 1842 most of the estate had been settled and the administrators returned a report giving the original value of the estate as $6,410.09. This included both real and personal property. After paying $80.00 to the widow for a year's allowace while the estate was being settled, paying debts due of $803.24-3/4, and subtracting the cost of settling the estate—$320.50—the remainder was $5,206.34-1/4. (Guilford County Estates, Settlements of Estates, 1836-1853.)

The fact that Joseph did not leave a will, that his estate was settled by court-appointed administrators, and that his property was divided by a court-appointed commission, resulted in many more records showing the extent and value of his property, than might otherwise have been the case. From these records it appears that he was a man of good business judgment and more successful than most in handling his affairs.

After Joseph's death, Levina continued to live for a while at the homeplace. The site is now isolated from any public road and the only reminder is a pile of stone from the chimney and foundation of the house, which were thrown together to get them out of the field and the way of plowing. Since then, the field has been abandoned and is in woods. An apple tree has grown up in the pile of stone.

A good many years ago, an elderly lady living in a log house on an adjoining farm which was one time owned by Joseph Lambeth, pointed out the way to the old homeplace. She had never heard of Joseph Lambeth but referred to the property as the Livvie Lambeth hill. It is a coincidence that Levina Flack was called Livvie and so is her great granddaughter, Livvie Doggett, daughter of James and Mary Doggett. Livvie Doggett's name is now Mary Livingston Doggett Wilkinson. Her name "Livvie," however, comes from her Scottish Highland ancestor, Peter Livingston.

In 1850, Levina Flack Lambeth was living in Alamance County in the home of her son Lovick Loftin Lambeth and his wife Eliza Windsor. Also in the household were their infant son Joseph and Levina's sons John D. Lambeth and Andrew Flack Lambeth. This census shows that they owned farms in Alamance, Caswell and Guilford counties. In 1858 Lovick L. Lambeth sold to his mother a tract of land in Guilford County, which he seems to have leased to Rufus W. Kernodle, who resided there. In 1864 Levina sold this land to Rufus Kernodle. It consisted of 260 acres which brought $2,000.00. In August, 1866 Lovick Lambeth made a deed of trust to satisfy some twenty creditors, including his mother. Two of the debts were to her—one for a loan of $2,000 due since June 30, 1862 on which $87.00 was paid on March 9, 1866. The other was for funds due Levina as guardian of John Dillard Lambeth—thought to have been $800.00.

In the late summer or early fall of 1866 Lavina Flack Lambeth moved with her son, Andrew Flack Lambeth, and his family to LaClede County, Missouri. He and his ten year old son went by wagon. After they arrived there, his wife and two other children and his mother Levina and brother Dillard followed traveling by train and stagecoach. Levina's eldest daughter, Lucinda, had already moved to Missouri with her husband George T. Holman in 1842. She, and presumably her son Dillard, made their home with the Holmans when they reached LaClede County. Levina Lambeth had three sisters-in-law—Catherine Lambeth Carrigan. Mary Lambeth Jones and Sarah Lambeth Burney—who had also moved to Missouri at the same time as had the Holman family.

The dates of the birth of Levina Flack Lambeth, and of her death, are recorded in the Holman family Bible. She was born in Guilford County, 10th of September, 1796, and died in LaClede County "at half past six P.M., October 22, 1867, aged 71 years, 1 month and twelve days." She was buried in the Holman cemetery, six miles north of Lebanon, Missouri.

LUCINDA LAMBETH HOLMAN

Lucinda Lambeth, eldest child of Joseph and Lavina Flack Lambeth, was born in Guilford County on 17 May, 1817 and was married on 8 September, 1837 to George Thompson Holman. He was born in Guilford County on 12 August, 1813 and was the son of James Yancy Holman (born in Cumberland County, Virginia on 19 August, 1769) and his second wife Mary Barbara Holman (born in Guilford County on 24 April, 1791); Mary Barbara Holman died in Guilford County on 16 November, 1816, when her son George was only three years old.

The marriage of Lucinda Lambeth and George Holman was performed by her uncle—the Reverend John Lambeth—of the order of the Christian Church known as Kelly Ite, and the ceremony took place at her father's home. Witnesses were Lewis Apple and Edna Lambeth—the bride's aunt.

Three years after their marriage Lucinda's father, Joseph Lambeth, died and George Holman was appointed one of the administrators of his estate—along with the widow, Lavina. Lucinda inherited two tracts of land in Guilford County, valued at $1,000.00, adjoining her father's home-place; she also inherited land in Rockingham County, valued at $1,300.00.

In the late summer, or early fall, of 1842 Lucinda and George left Guilford County with her brother Josiah Brooks Lambeth (and probably with her aunts Mary Jones, Catherine Carrigan and Sarah Burney, and others) to settle in La-Clede County, Missouri. In preparation for leaving George Holman gave power of attorney on 15 August, 1842, to his brother-in-law Lovick L. Lambeth, "to transact all of my business in North Carolina . . (and) . . to finish up my business as administrator of Joseph Lambeth, deceased." (Guilford County Deed Book 27, page 76.)

The census of 1840 shows an older man living in the George Holman household and this was probably James Holman, George's father. He seems to have moved west with George and Lucinda and their two small children, James and Mary. On 12 August, 1842 James and George Holman sold 225 acres on the waters of Buckhorn Creek, a branch of Reedy Fork, "where G. T. Holman now resides" to Lovick L. Lambeth for $600.00. The land adjoined Adam Apple, Summers and Watlington. Witness, L. W. Summers. (Guilford County Deed Book 27, page 60.) The year after leaving North Carolina, James Holman died on 3 August, 1843 in Dade County, Missouri.

A history of Lebanon, Missouri and of LaClede County, in which it is located, makes frequent mention of the Holmans and of their descendants, who were apparently among the more prominent of the early settlers there. (See section on Catherine Carrigan in chapter on Josiah Lambeth.) Soon after William Saunders and his wife (Lucinda Lambeth's first cousin) arrived with their family, the Holmans and Lambeths reached LaClede County—though not with the intention of settling there. They were persuaded to stay on by "Uncle Billy" Saunders, while the rest of their caravan continued to their destination of Lawrence County, Missouri. This history goes on to say that Mr. Holman bought 160 acres and established his home in LaClede, where his family was reared. The Lambeths settled nearby, but moved to Texas at the beginning of the Civil War, and only one son, William, returned to LaClede County, where he lived the rest of his life.

The Holmans and the Saunders lived on adjoining farms, and shared the same loyalty to the Confederacy during the War Between the States. Their children attended the Old Academy in Lebanon, which was established about 1860 and drew pupils from the county as well as from the town. Lucinda Lambeth Holman died 23 Feb., 1881, and George Holman 23 July, 1894, both in LaClede County, Missouri; buried in Holman Cemetery, 6 miles north of Lebanon.

The children of George Thompson and Lucinda Lambeth

Holman: (Second generation)

2nd g.1. James Lambeth Holman, born Guilford County, August 24, 1838 and died July 21, 1910. He married Eliz. E. Jarrell of LaClede County, Missouri, July 12, 1860. Their children were George Eddie, Vincie and Cora (Thrailkill) Holman.

2. Mary Levina Holman, born Guilford County, July 16, 1840 and died in LaClede County, June 17, 1921. She married James McComb in LaClede County, June 6, 1860. He was the son of James and Elizabeth Lewis McComb and was born near Jacksonville, Illinois. The family moved to Morgan County, Missouri in 1837. Both of his parents died when he was young, but by help from his brothers and with his own determined efforts, he was able to study enough medicine to be able to start his medical practice in 1858 from a farm not far from Lebanon County. (The history of Lebanon mentioned above states that he studied at the University of Missouri and at St. Louis Medical College.) Dr. J. H. Fulbright boarded him and his horse in exchange for his medical services to his family and his 30 negroes.

After his marriage to Mary McComb they lived for a few months at Fulbright; then moved to a place of his own where their first child, Charles, was born. Soon after this he served for a time as surgeon in Gen. Price's army, but before the war ended he was released and returned home.

They moved then to Lebanon and their house on Main Street was one of the first residences in the town. Here their second son, James Albert, was born. In 1863 Dr. McComb left his wife and sons in Lebanon and went to Philadelphia where, in 1865, he graduated from Jefferson Medical College. He was active in Lebanon for 63 years—he and his wife spent the remainder of their lives there, and both played important roles in the early life of the town. Among other things, they were charter members of the First Christian Church. Dr. McComb died 6 March, 1926. The only son who remained in Lebanon throughout his life was James Albert McComb who followed closely in his father's footsteps by becoming an M.D. and was a prominent and beloved citizen until his death in 1945. The children of James and Mary Holman McComb:

3rd g. 1. Charles Arthur McComb, born 5-31-1861, Camden County, Mo. Married 4-6-1899 to Bettie M. Wilson in Ft. Scott, Kansas.

2. James Albert McComb, born 11-10-1863, died in Lebanon, Mo. 11-15-1945. Married 5-28-1890 in Lebanon, Mo. to Laure Spiller.

3. Virgil Jurine McComb, born 1-21-1866, died 10-25-1951. Married in Oct., 1894 in Fayetteville, Ark. to Sally Bryan.

4. George Edgar McComb, born 1-12-1868, died 3-20-1892.

5. Lucinda Elizabeth McComb, born 11-23-1869, died in Lebanon 11-24-18??

6. John Lewis McComb, born in Lebanon 12-4-1870. Lived 8 hours.

7. William Edgar McComb, born 10-31-1872, married Bess Alexander 3-29-1941.

8. Ernest Hubert McComb, born 1-1-1877, died 6-29-1942. Married in Los Angeles, Cal. on 11-12-1912 to Mary Moran.

9. Floyd Jay McComb, born 8-20-1879, married in Wichita, Kansas on 11-4-1903 to Lillian Bowman.

2nd g.3. George Thompson Washington Holman, born Camden County, Missouri, Saturday, 6:00 A.M. April 22, 1843, died LaClede County, Missouri about 1:00 P.M. July 8, 1849.

4. John Lovick Liberty Holman, born Camden Co.,

Mo., March 11, 1846, died Lowell, Ariz., May 1920. Married in Idaho Territory on Dec. 17, 1874 to Mary Hunter of Boise, Idaho.

5. Andrew Josias Holman, born Camden County, Mo., Sunday, November 19, 1848, died May 28, 1913. Married Nov. 21, 1862 to Sarah E. Mayfield (or Manfield) of LaClede. She was born 4-6-1852 and died 6-15-1882. Children:

3rd g.
1. Florence Isabelle Holman, born 8-5-1874, died 1-29-1901. Married 2-20-1900 to H. E. Emory.

Information on this family was furnished by Mrs. Virgil Wills, 12 Drury Lane, Lebanon, Missouri from the Bible of George and Lucinda Lambeth Holman; she also owned a copy of their marriage certificate. In addition to records pertaining to the parents and descendants of this couple—and to the brothers and sisters of Mary Lambeth Holman, the following birth dates of the half brothers and sisters of George Holman were included (all born Prince Edward Co., Va.):

Spencer Anderson Holman, born March 22, 1795

Susannah Yancey Holman, born Sept. 26, 1796 (She married a Fryar and was living in Dade Co., Mo. in 1859. In a letter to her brother George Holman, dated 26 June, 1859, owned by Mrs. Wills, she wrote concerning the settlement of an estate—probably that of her husband, since she had relinquished the right to act as administrator, in favor of her brother.)

Sarah Anderson Holman, born Feb. 27, 1798

James Landry Holman, born Feb. 20, 1802, died in Davidson Co., Tenn. 2-16-1839

Also from the Holman family Bible:

"I was baptized in infancy by a minister of the German Lutheran Church, Guilford Co., N.C., about the age of (?). While alone in the field I resolved by the Grace of God assisting me to serve him the remainder of this life, and my wife thinks she was about 14 or 15 when she professed religion, and now at the age of 64 and 60 we still feel it good to serve the Lord, and have no desire to turn back to the world. We came to Missouri the 11th day of November, 1842. In 1846 or 1847, in May, we both joined the M. E. Church, South, and in May, 1850 she was baptised by immersion, by the Rev. John H. Robertson in LaClede Co., Mo. Our children have all been baptised in infancy but Thompson, that was dead, and Billy, the youngest.

The older Doggetts of Guilford County told many stories about their Lambeth relatives who moved from North Carolina to Missouri and the "black"—meaning fertile—land of Indiana, just before and just after the Civil War, but there was no communication or visiting for many years. In 1953 James Doggett secured from the Tax Department of LaClede County, Missouri, the names of Lambeths then paying taxes there. He wrote first to James Lytle Lambeth, a descendant of Moses Lambeth (brother of Josiah) of Rowan County, whose son Samuel had emigrated to the West in the late 1820s, settling for a while in Tennessee and finally in Osage County, Missouri. (See section on Samuel Lambeth in chapter on Moses Lambeth.) James Lytle Lambeth knew that his family had come from North Carolina, but did not know that they were related in any way to the Lambeths who had settled less than fifty miles away in LaClede County about the middle of the 19th century. He suggested the name of Mrs. Elizabeth Lambeth Bethurem, of Sleeper, Missouri, who replied, stating that she was a descendant of Andrew Flack Lambeth, son of Joseph and grandson of Josiah.

In September, 1953 James and Mary Doggett and Anna Doggett visited Missouri and met descendants of two of Josiah Lambeth's sons—Joseph and John. They also learned a great deal about the Lambeths and about the pioneer life of those who first moved to Missouri. They were especially interested in visiting the old farms and homeplaces, among which were the Holman place and the Holman cemetery, which is nearby and has become a county cemetery. More than a hundred people are buried there—many not related to the Holmans or Lambeths. They also visited the old farm of Brooks Lambeth, son of Joseph Lambeth.

The section where George Holman and Brooks Lambeth lived was known as the Dry Au Glaize. The trees were small and one could see for miles and count lights from 20 farms. Corn, cattle and wheat grew well there, and consequently the Holmans and Lambeths prospered. Lebanon was founded in 1849 and soon afterward the Frisco Railroad was built through the town and it became an important stop.

At the Flack Lambeth farm the Doggetts saw the old heavy rifle he carried West on the wagon—a Lamb gun manufactured at Jamestown, North Carolina, shortly after the Civil War. Mrs. Grace Holman Wills, who owns the Bible, said that George Holman read from it at the same time every day and that at the age of 82 he could still read without glasses. She also had a picture of the Holman family. Other heirlooms are a lace collar worn by Lucinda Lambeth Holman at her wedding, an old chair, a candle mold, a silver-handled dagger and the grease bucket which hung under the wagon George Holman drove to the West.

The lovely old house of Dr. James McComb, who married George Holman's only daughter, Mary, is still standing. It was occupied by his grand-daughter, Mrs. Blair, in 1953. Dr. McComb was a doctor for the Union forces during the Civil War.

During the Civil War George Holman and his son William were in the cornfield when the Union soldiers came to his place. The soldiers slept on the kitchen floor that night. Lucinda cooked breakfast for them. Wheat and other foods were hidden and not found by the soldiers; the horses were turned loose to keep them from being stolen. The Lambeths were Confederates, but many Unionists lived in Lebanon. Auntie, an old slave, refused to live with the blacks after the war and remained with the Holmans.

Grace Wills said that George Holman returned to North Carolina and took back with him persimmons from the old homeplace.

In addition to Mrs. Wills, a grand-daughter of George and Lucinda Lambeth Holman, the Doggetts met Elizabeth Lambeth Bethurem, grand-daughter of Andrew Flack Lambeth, and Genevieve Thomason, another grand-daughter of Andrew Flack Lambeth. They also visited John Ernest Lambeth, son of William Thomas Lambeth, grandson of Albert Judson Lambeth and great grandson of John Lambeth, brother of Joseph Lambeth.

The two interesting letters written by Lovick Loftin Lambeth to George Holman and Brooks Lambeth, offering advice about taking up land and giving news about the relatives in North Carolina had also been preserved by Mrs. Wills. They will be included in the section on Lovick Loftin Lambeth.

The second child, and first son, of Joseph and Levina Flack Lambeth was John Dilworth Lambeth, generally called Dillard. He was born in Guilford County 6 June, 1818 and seems to have been retarded or afflicted with some mental or emotional illness which made him incapable of taking care of his affairs.

An entry in the court minutes of August, 1840 shows that an order was given exempting him from paying taxes. At the next court, following the death of his father, his mother Lavina was appointed his guardian. In 1842 his uncle John Lambeth was assigned this responsibility, and later in the same year his brother Lovick L. Lambeth became guardian. Apparently he continued to manage Dillard Lambeth's inheritance for some time. By 1866—the year in which Dillard moved with his mother and his brother Andrew Flack Lambeth to Missouri—Levina Lambeth had resumed the guardianship.

Both Dillard and his mother moved about after his father died, living with different relatives, but they seem to have spent most of their time in the home of Lovick L. Lambeth. After moving to Missouri in 1866 Levina made her home with the family of her daughter, Lucinda Lambeth Holman, and probably Dillard lived there, too, until after his mother's death in 1867. At that time he went to live with his brother Andrew Flack Lambeth until the latter's death, and then lived with one of the sons of Andrew Flack Lambeth. John Dillard Lambeth died in LaClede County, Missouri 9 January, 1888.

(Records contributed by Mary Norton Doggett)

Lovick Loftin Lambeth, third child of Joseph and Levina Flack Lambeth, was born in Guilford County on 20 February, 1820. He was only 22 years old when he was appointed guardian to his brother Dillard Lambeth, and only 24 when his cousin, Joseph Brown, named him executor of his will. Two years later his grandfather, Josiah Lambeth, also appointed him executor of his will. The other executor was the Rev. Robert Prather—Josiah's son-in-law and husband of Frances Lambeth. Years later Lovick Loftin Lambeth married their daughter Sarah Prather, who was, of course, his first cousin.

Lovick Loftin Lambeth was a most capable and energetic "go'yonder" man and records of the Lambeths in Guilford are full of references indicating how much confidence the family placed in him in business—and how much responsibility he was willing to accept. He not only advised the family at home, but also wrote to his brother, Andrew Flack Lambeth, and to his brother-in-law, George T. Holman about the taking up of land in Missouri. Both of these men were people of means and ability. (These family letters follow.) Lovick Loftin Lambeth is thought to have visited his relatives in Missouri, but it is not known when.

The character and ability of Lovick Loftin Lambeth must have also impressed others, since he was appointed by the governor as a justice of the peace—apparently in the first group named for the newly formed county of Alamance in 1849. The confidence placed in him by his family was shared by his neighbors who invested considerable money in a woolen mill owned by Lovick and his brother Flack. This was one of seven woolen mills in the state in 1860. For some reason the venture failed—probably because the product was sold to the Confederacy and the Lambeths were never paid—or were paid in Confederate money. It appears that Lovick Loftin was unusually talented in business, but seems to have been a victim of the financial situation in the South after the Civil War. Charles Lambeth of Clifton Hill, Missouri—one of the children of Lovick and Sarah Prather Lambeth, came back to Guilford County for a visit when he was a very old man. At that time he said he never knew why his mother went back to the home of her father, Robert Prather, where she died December 20, 1872. However, legal records show that everything Lovick Lambeth had was sold at auction to satisfy his creditors—even the household furniture, so there was nothing left for Sarah Prather Lambeth to do but go home to her people.

The beautiful home of Lovick Loftin Lambeth is still in existence and occupied by proud owners—one of the fine old houses in that vicinity. It is located one half mile north of Haw River on the west side of the road from Burlington to Reidsville (North Carolina highway 87) in Alamance County. The farm and home of Andrew Flack Lambeth were on the opposite side of the same road, but all traces of the house have disappeared. Lambeth's Mill was on the same road about a quarter of a mile south, and parts of the old dam are still standing.

After his serious financial reverses, his fortunes improved enough for him to be able to purchase a farm in Caswell County where he lived until his death.

His interest in his relatives never diminished and there are those still living who remember his riding up for a short but cordial visit, and then moving on. His mental alertness remained with him, too, as indicated by the following story. In church—when he was a very old man—he would sit with his eyes closed; one Sunday people learned that he didn't go to sleep. The preacher, speaking with emphasis, said: "And that is true as sure as the sun sets in the East." Lovick spoke before the minister could correct himself and said: "West, Brother, West."

Lovick Loftin Lambeth was married three times—first on 25 February, 1848 to Eliza Jane Windsor of Caswell County. She was born 30 November, 1829, died 7 March, 1858, and is buried in Alamance County. Children (second generation):

2nd g.1. Josiah Elsevan B. Lambeth, born 6 October, 1849 in Caswell County, died 25 August, 1890 in Clifton Hill, Missouri. He married on 11 December, 1879 Martha Elizabeth Matlock. She was born 18 December, 1856 in Randolph County, Missouri, died 2 October 1888 in Clifton Hill, Missouri. Children:

3rd g. 1. Annie Porter Lambeth, born Clifton Hill, Mo., 10-27-1880, died 11-12-1880

2. Mary Coples Lambeth, born 2-7-1882, Clifton Hill, Missouri. Married March 14, 1900 to Rolla Brockman Graves. Died 7-5-1936. Children:

4th g. 1. Mabel Elizabeth Graves, born 12-3-1904, married 8-18-1927 to Roy Edgar Freund. Children:

5th g. 1. Roy Lambeth Freund, born 7-13-1928
2. Edgar Biddle Freund, born 3-31-1930
3. Larry Royce Freund, born 2-17-1936
4. Marilyn Elizabeth Freund, born 2-25-1939
5. Joseph Roland Freund, born 12-4-1942

4th g. 2. Jonathan Lambeth Graves, born 10-26-1909, married Evelyn Rick. Children:

5th g. 1. Jonathan Richard Graves, born 12-27-1939
2. Linda Susan Graves, born 10-11-1949

3rd g 3. George Nicholas Lambeth, born 3-28-1884, Clifton Hill, Mo., married 5-4-1907 to Grace B. Schofield in Los Angeles, Cal.; later divorced.

(The above information on the family of Josiah E. B. Lambeth was contributed by Mrs. J. L. Stark, Clifton Hill, Mo., from family Bible records.)

2nd g.2. Robert Samuel Monroe Lambeth (second child of L.

L. and Eliza Windsor Lambeth) was born 9-10-1852 and died young.

2nd g. 3. Thomas Loftin Lambeth was born in Guilford County, 28 August, 1855 and died 26 July, 1922. He was buried on Windsor farm. He married twice—both wives being named Gwyn. By the second wife—Mary Sue Gwyn (to whom he was married in 1887 and who died 4-10-1903, there were these children:

3rd g. 1. Lofton Littleton Lambeth, born 7 July, 1890 (see sketch below).

2. R. Lambeth. (No further record.)

Lofton Littleton Lambeth was the subject of two feature articles in local newspapers describing the unusual life and character of this man who is called the "Good Samaritan of Stoney Creek." The first of these articles appeared in the Greensboro Daily News of January 2, 1949. It recounts how Mr. Lambeth made it possible for Dr. Henry H. Simpson of Altamahaw, to fulfill his ambition of becoming a physician by giving him the money necessary to complete his medical training: "Tom Lambeth, a successful farmer and capitalist, gave his only son, Loften L. Lambeth, a check for $10,000.00 on his 21 birthday.....Loften knew of Henry Simpson's ambition, and learned of his need. He went to see him and said to him: 'Henry, I have some money, and I want to invest it in a good cause. I want to back you through college, and then on until you finish your medical course. Let me know what money you need from time to time, and send all the bills to me. Don't bother about giving me any notes for your indebtedness....I have every confidence in you.'

Henry accepted Loften's magnanimous offer...worked hard, spurred on not only by ambition but also by the determination not to break faith with his splendid benefactor. He did, however, insist on keeping an itemized statement of all the monies advanced to him."

After completing his training and establishing his practice, Dr. Simpson told him the amount of his debt, including interest, and said that he was ready to begin repayment. Loften answered: 'No, Henry, I want you to keep the money, and use it through the years to take care of your services to those who are too poor to pay you. I want this investment to continue to do good.'

Of course Henry Simpson would not agree to any such suggestion. He told Loften he was going to reimburse him to the last dollar—and that he would do a little free practice on the side in appreciation of his great kindness to him."

The life of Loften Lambeth has been one of helping and giving to any worthy cause, and to churches throughout Caswell County, as well as to other young people seeking an education and without the means of paying for it.

He has always been bitterly opposed to liquor, and in an effort to help abolish the making of illegal whiskey, he got himself appointed a deputy sheriff, so that he might back up his advice and warning against operating stills, by legal action, if necessary. In one case, where a man who had been repeatedly warned continued in the bootlegging business, Loften arrested him and he was tried and convicted. Before the judge passed sentence, Loften Lambeth asked if he might speak: "Your honor, I have talked with this old gentleman, and I think he has had a lesson which will serve the demands of both justice and society. He has a sickly wife and a large family of children... If you can conscientiously see your way to suspend a road sentence and impose a fine, say $100.00, I will be glad to pay the fine myself."

The second article appeared in the Reidsville Review eight years later, on January 24, 1957, having been copied from the Burlington Daily Times-News, and indicates that Lofton Lambeth was widely known for his generosity and kindness and generally referred to as the "Good Samaritan of Stoney Creek." It also mentioned that he had attended the Horner Military School of Oxford where he was an associate editor of the school paper. Quoting from an editorial he wrote when he was seventeen years old, it is clear that even from his adolescence he was impressed and guided by the obligation of both individuals and countries to work for the general benefit. The editorial concludes with this statement: "I am proud to be a citizen of a republic unequaled in the annals of the world for the freedom of its institutions, its high prosperity and the prospects of good which lie before it."

The article goes on to say that Lofton Lambeth was once a well-to-do farmer in Caswell County and has used his money to help finance at least one medical and one dental education. During the 1920s Lofton Lambeth ran more than once as a Republican candidate for the state legislature—"just to keep the Republican party alive," rather than from any hope of, or wish to win. The then chairman of the state Republican party said of him—"he's no politician—he's a philanthropist and a Good Samaritan thrown into one." Another active Republican is quoted as replying "You said it, Judge, and I don't think the Lord made but one in his likeness of Lofton, from the standpoint of Christian pattern, civic righteousness, political honesty and noble impulses."

Lofton Lambeth never married. After giving up his work as a sheep-rancher, and selling his Caswell County farm, he has devoted most of his time to nursing destitute and bedridden elderly men.

Lovick Loftin Lambeth married second on 16 October, 1860 his cousin Sarah Prather, daughter of Robert R. and Frances Lambeth Prather. She was born in Guilford Co. on 1 May, 1836 and died 20 December, 1872. She was buried in Guilford County. Children:

2nd g. 4. John F. Lambeth, born and died in Guilford County

5. Katie Eliza Lambeth, born 3-25-1863, died 2-24-1952. Married 8-20-1884 to Charles Augustus Hendrix, born 5-11-1863, died 2-16-1952. Children:

3rd g. 1. Mary Sallie Hendrix (May), born 5-21-1885, married 10-18-1915 to James Butler Fleet, who was born 11-29-1884 and died 6-27-1967. Children:

4th g. 1. Catherine Ryland Fleet, born 9-21-1916, married 4-20-1946 to Joseph Terry Brooks who was born 10-15-1908. He was the son of Nimrod William and Mattie Brooks of Montgomery, Alabama. Children:

5th g. 1. James Nimrod Brooks, born 1-10-1947, married 6-15-1969 to Susan Kirby Shepherd who was born 7-11-1947

2. Mary Joe Brooks, born 1-15-1948

Catherine Ryland Fleet Brooks married second 11-6-1965 to Reginald Carlton Tilley, son of W. C. and Mae Robbins Tilley of Statesville, N. C.

4th g. 2. Sarah Prather Fleet, born 9-15-1920, married 8-29-1947 to George Spencer Jones who was born 10-2-1916. Children:

5th g. 1. Christopher Jones, born 10-6-1951

2. Sarah Catherine Jones, born 11-19-1952

3. Spencer Wimberly Jones, born 10-9-1955

4. Lynn Hendrix Jones, born 2-13-1959

3rd g. 2. Clara Katherine Hendrix, born 7-24-1887, married 6-29-1909 to Charles Henry Hartsook, who was born 1885, died 1943. Children:

4th g. 1. Claire Katherine Hartsook, married December 1939 to Russell Carlton Boyce. Divorced December, 1965. Children:

5th g. 1. Claire Lynn Boyce, married John Wesley Purdie, Jr. Child:
John Wesley Purdie, III.

2. Joan Carlton Boyce

3. Barry Russell Boyce

Claire Hartsook Boyce married second J. W. Dailey.

4th g. 2. Edward Warren Hartsook, born 3-1-1914, married 12-6-1947 to Ida Elizabeth McCollum, daughter of Ernest and Genevieve Hopkins McCollum. She was born 8-6-1923.

5th g. Child: Edward Warren Hartsook, Jr., born 1-28-1955.

4th g. 3. Jean Hartsook, born 12-21-1919, married 8-17-1943 to Kermit Lynn Murphy who was born 3-2-1917. Children:

5th g. 1. Kermit Lynn Murphy, Jr., born 10-5-1946
2. Gary Lambeth Murphy, born 3-2-1948
3. Judith Murphy, born 3-22-1950
4. David Steven Murphy, born 11-16-1952
5. Janet Murphy, born 8-25-1954

3rd g. 3. Charles Edward Hendrix, born 3-1-1891, married 5-27-1918 to Margaret Rosemond, who was born in Hillsboro, N.C. 12-17-1894. Children:

4th g. 1. Agnes Ann Hendrix, born 4-16-1927, married Samuel Moseley Davis, Jr. who was born 3-30-1951. Children:

5th g. Samuel Moseley, III, Ann Hendrix and Margaret Lynch Davis.

5th g. Catherine Ann, Ben Alan, and Paul Eric Hendrix

3rd g. 4. Fannie Lambeth Hendrix, born 12-16-1894, married 10-11-1920 to Benjamin Franklin Pickard, born 9-20-1888. He was the son of Thomas Murchison (born 10-17-1855, died 4-19-1924) and Emma Lee Pickard (born 9-13-1866, died 12-19-1930). Children:

4th g. 1. Thomas Murchison Pickard, born 10-29-1922
2. Charles Benjamin Pickard, born 10-4-1925, killed in World War II, 2-25-1945
3. Hendrix Pickard, born 1-22-1928

(The above information on the family of Katie Lambeth Hendrix was contributed by Mrs. C. H. Hartsook, 682 Percy St., Greensboro, N.C. from various family Bibles.)

2nd g. 6. Charles Vann Lambeth, born 1-18-1865 in Guilford Co., N.C., died 1953 in Missouri. Married 1st 12-10-1885 to Carrie Lea who was born 5-31-1868.

He married 2nd Eva Lea. (His younger sister Fannie visited Charles and Carrie Lambeth in Clifton Hill, Missouri in 1890 according to a letter dated May 6 she wrote to a relative back home in Guilford County. They then had a baby daughter eight months old. Charles must have gone to Missouri in about 1882, as his sister said that she had not seen him for eight years.)

2nd g.7. Fannie Lambeth, married Charles Turner

Lovick Loftin Lambeth married 3rd Elizabeth Boswell. There were no children by this marriage. He died on 3 February at his home in Caswell County and was buried in that county.

Copy of a letter from L. L. Lambeth to: George T. Holman & Josiah Brooks Lambeth, Dry Glaise, Camden County, Mo.

March 5, 1854 Alamance Co., N. C.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I embrace this opportunity of addressing you by letter. We received yours, dated 18th of Dec. 1853, in due time and was glad to hear from you all and that you were in reasonable health. We are all well at this time though Dillard had a bad sore on his breast. Mother has been living with me ever since New Years Day, or 2nd day of Jan. 1854, and Dilworth has been living with me ever since he left Frances L. Simpson. I keep him yearly for $78.00, the interest on his money in my hands; though A. F. borrowed $675.00 of his money of me. I have sold the old residence where Father lived to L. W. Summers for two hundred and thirty and one-half dollars.

David Huffines and Eliza Scott has not paid one cent toward your land yet. They were to have paid $300.00 last Christmas and I have the deed that you sent yet and will keep it until it is paid. As for the land warrants you have on hand, you had best to lay them yourselves as land will soon be worth $1.25 cents per acre for certain. Perhaps $10.00 per acre in less than twenty or twenty-five years and we will never have the chance to get any more warrants. I will send on to Washington City and try to get those warrants corrected as they were spoiled in the assignment before I got them. I will see Dr. Coble and try to get it corrected in a short time. I think you ought to select your lands in a rich neighborhood, or near a town, or public road, as soon as you can—the sooner the better; for all those warrants that will answer and will make the others as soon as I can.

If, after all I have said, you would rather sell the warrants than to have the land, you had best not sell under three or five years, as someone will enter the land and then pay you your money and buy your warrant at one Dollar and a quarter per acre.

Lovick Kernodle was married last month to Miss Mary

Michael. David Michael's daughter is going to live at the plantation where Daniel Heart used to live, or same place. Also, where John Strader lived. Hannah Apple (dau. of Wm. Apple) has died of consumption. John Apple, her brother, married Margaret Love and he is very low with consumption. Lovick Apple's wife, Edny Kernodle (she use to be) is very weakly because she got out too soon after she had her baby and she may never be right well any more. They are all well at James Doggett's, I suppose. We haven't heard from there though in three or four weeks. A. F. lives on one side of our mill road and I live on the other side. He owns his side and I own mine. A. F. owns the East side and mine is the West side.

We had the largest freshet last Sunday (Feb. 26, 1854) in Haw River ever known by the eldest people on the river. It commenced raining on Saturday after twelve o'clock and quit Sunday morning about 8 o'clock, which was about 20 hours in all, and such a torrent of water that it swept bridges, mill dams, and nearly everything before it. It tore a part of our dam away and we haven't fixed it yet; though we will in a few days. Eliza says old Mrs. Sutton thinks the August freshet a great many years ago was as full or fuller.

Old Aunt Jenny Apple has died and Uncle Robert Caffey's wife, Jane, our Aunt, and Lindy Herbin & Johnathan Strader's wife, and Abel Huffine's wife are all dead. Abel is married to Louiza Huffines. Uncle Elisha Flack was carrying home some beef and the mule took a fright and ran away, and Uncle Elisha got his arm broke; though it is about or nearly well. His daughter, Polly's baby had the fever, and it settled in its eyes and one went out. Uncle John Kernodle has seven children by Aunt Eliza and she is very fleshy and large and he doats upon her. George and Joseph Kernodle has lost one child each (Joseph had two, I think.) George has three living and Joseph one. Hepsey Barber has three living. Rily is not married yet.

Grandfather, Josiah Lambeth, left us in his will one Dollar a piece (all of Joseph Lambeth's children) and Uncle

Robert Prather was the Exr. to his will. He has paid over to me the Six Dollars. When I see you or J. B., I will hand over your legacy with interest thereon. As for the mistake I may have made on the letter I sent you, we can correct it when you come to see me or when we can make it convenient so to do.

The $10.00 prices current in country now are: Corn from $4.00 to $5.00 per barrel, flour $5.50 to $6.00, Wheat per bu. $1.00 to $1.25, Oats ?0 cts. per bushel. Pork sold last winder from $5.00 to $6.00 per cwt., according to size & quality. Flour per barrel in Norfolk sells for $8.00 & $10.00 per brl, owing to quality. Horses & mules are selling for $100.00 to $150 a piece. One mule brought $200.00 the other day and some fine horses bring $200.00 or $250.00 & some $300.00. Negro men hire this year to work on the railroad and in the turpentine country for $150.00 or $200.00 a piece, and their life insured at 2/3 the value of them. Good negro fellows valued at $1,200.00.

I hope when you get this letter you may all be in good health and spirits. So I bid you all farewell till I see you. Send us letters oftener.

Signed L. L. Lambeth
Levina Lambeth wishes to be remembered to you.

Letter to Brooks Lambeth and/or George Holman, LaClede Co., Mo.

Dear Brother:

I embrace the present opportunity of addressing you by way of letter. I received your two letters day before yesterday from Graham, dated 1st of April & 3rd with the deed to Doggetts children and I sent the deed to his administrator yesterday by Wm. Huffines. We are all well at this time and doing tolerable.

Well, I think crops are delightful in this country. Especially corn, wheat was very good as to quality though it was very thin on the ground. Bacon is worth 11 cts. to 12½ cts. per lb. Corn $1.00 per bushel. Dilworth is living with me and A. F. Lambeth has $675.00 of his money and I have $748.00 and some cents of his money. I keep, clothe, and board him for one year. I also pay his tax on his money out of the $85.00, which is about $2.50. This, I had about forgot. Our tax will be a great deal higher in a few years to pay for building our central railroad from Raleigh, by Hillsborough, Graham, Greensboro, Lexington, and by Salisbury, on to Charlotte.

Mother is living with James Doggett and has been for a little over a year. I was up there last Thursday one week ago today and took dinner with them. They were all tolerable well, though Mary, their eldest daughter is puny and looks very pale. Polly's baby's name is Virginia Elizabeth. I sent J. B. Lambeth a letter from Greensboro last week with two land warrants of 40 acres each. I also sent you two with J. B.'s name instead of mine. You will have to get him to lay them for you and you can get the deed in your name. It is my impression that you ought to have all the land warrants laid as soon as practical, and then, if you are afraid of losing one the land more than the cost with the interest, I will take the land and pay you your money if you will get Josiah B. Lambeth to help you select the land. Both of you be cautious how you lay them on good rich land, or timbered land, and pick it for twenty miles around you or sell them to any person that wants to lay them on their pre-emption rights and take a mortgage or security for the money as J. B. Lambeth did last winter.

I have sold your land in Rockingham County, as you have seen by letter for $500.00, and it has been drawing interest ever since last Christmas a year. Mother, you know, said you might have all the $500.00 for said land and I sent word to Brooks to pay your $100.00, and the other four hundred dollars I sent you a note; for the difference, we can arrange when we see each other, or when Brooks comes to this country for Mother this fall a year.

I have written all that is needed for now. I believe except I want you to direct your letters to me to Morton's Store P. O., Alamance Co., N. C., instead of Graham, Alamance; for your letters had been at Graham some one or two months. I live twelve miles from there and am seldom there except for County Court. I was not able to go to our last County Court and that was the reason I did not get your letter.

Yours most affectionately, Farewell

Andrew Flack Lambeth, son of Joseph and Levina Lambeth, was born in Guilford County on 9 April, 1821 and was named for his maternal grandfather. Flack was only a little more than a year younger than his brother Lovick and they seem to have been very close. As early as 1845 they bought land in Orange County which they later divided so that their homes were on adjoining tracts—separated by a road. The two brothers also established the first woolen mill in this section.

It may be that before he settled down Andrew Flack Lambeth traveled to Missouri where his older sister Lucinda Lambeth Holman, and her family, and his younger brother, Josiah Brooks Lambeth, had settled in 1842, with other relatives. In August, 1852, Flack Lambeth sold to his brother Josiah Brooks Lambeth land which had been "entered" at the land office in Clinton, Missouri in 1844 by Andrew Flack Lambeth. (Presumably "entering" a land grant was done in person by the individual applying for the grant.) In 1850 both Flack and L. L. Lambeth gave power of attorney to Josiah Brooks Lambeth to "log land, warrant and receive and any other business we may have in the state of Missouri." This suggests that both brothers visited Missouri before they married and became involved with family and business responsibilities.

Andrew Flack Lambeth was married on 22 June, 1853 to Sarah A. Bird, daughter of Thomas and Clary Bird (Byrd) of Alamance County. She had been born in Person County 18 February, 1829. They lived in Alamance County for the next thirteen years and their six children were born there. During this time both the Flack Lambeth family and the Lovick Lambeth family would visit the home of their sister and brother-in-law, Mary Lambeth and James W. Doggett, in Guilford County during the Christmas holidays. They would come together, in a covered wagon and stay a week or longer. Their sister would beg them to stay on, but Lovick would say 'Naw, Polly. If we stayed another day you couldn't stand it! But then the war came. Lovick lost his fortune and his wife and family, the others moved to Missouri, and these good times were no more.

In August, 1866 Lovick Loftin Lambeth filed papers listing his personal debts (amounting to more than $11,000.00) and mortgaging all of his real and personal property to secure these debts. One of the larger amounts was $1,200.00 owed to his brother Flack Lambeth; Flack was also security for two other large debts of Lovick's. Although it is probable that Flack Lambeth lost most, if not all, of the money owed him by his brother, he was still in good circumstances after selling his own holdings later in the same month—and in the following month.

Andrew Flack and Sarah Bird Lambeth sold 117 acres in Alamance County—which had been Sarah's inheritance from her father—and also her interest in the dower lands of her mother—for a total of $700.00. In September, 1866 Flack Lambeth sold 180 acres, plus his half-interest in the mill, mill lot, fixtures, wool, machinery and house for $4,200.00. With this very substantial sum—which at the end of the Civil War must have represented a small fortune—Flack and Sallie Lambeth set out for Missouri to make their home.

He left by wagon in the early fall of 1866 with their ten year old son Julius Thomas Lambeth. After their arrival there, Sarah followed with their other children and with his mother, Levina, and his brother Dillard. They traveled by train as far as possible and made the last 70 miles of the trip by stagecoach.

Andrew Flack Lambeth died in LaClede County, Missouri on 11 February, 1877 and Sarah Ann Bird Lambeth died there on 14 December, 1900.

Their children (second generation):

2nd g.1. Elizabeth Belmont Lambeth, born 9-8-1854, died in Alamance County before 1866

2. Julius Thomas Lambeth, born 6-12-1856, died 2-13-1924 in Missouri. Married 1st to Caroline

2. Stacie Lynn Bethurem, born Springfield, Green Co., Mo., 5 February, 1972

3rd g. 2. Andrew Calvin Lambeth, born 1885

(Records of the family of Andrew Flack Lambeth and his son Julius Thomas Lambeth were from the family Bible in the possession of Elizabeth Lambeth Bethurem. Later records of this branch of the family were contributed by George Bethurem.)

2nd g. 3. James Baxter Lambeth, born 3-29-1858, died in Lawrence County, Mo. 1-13-1950. Married 12-8-1898 in LaClede Co., Mo. to Dora Pratt, born 7-23-1873, died 1-19-1968, daughter of Matthew Grayson and Emmaline Pratt. Children:

3rd g. 1. Genevieve Mabel Lambeth, born 3-4-1900, LaClede Co., Mo. Married Dr. O. G. Thomson

2. James Russell Lambeth, born 7-27-1905, died 8-29-1926 in Lawrence Co., Mo.

James Baxter Lambeth was 8 years of age when he first came to LaClede Co., Mo. with his parents in 1866. He grew to manhood on his father's farm. Mr. Lambeth was an outstanding farmer. He tended 400 acres of farm land that he purchased. He raised livestock: registered black Angus cattle, fine horses and registered Poland China hogs. The latter was his chief interest in later years. He named one farm "Frisco Valley Stock Farm." The Frisco railroad ran along the edge of a valley on the south side of his farm.

During World War I, James Baxter Lambeth placed

high up on the top of a tall steel windmill frame a U. S. flag. The troop trains passed that way going east to St. Louis. The stars and stripes of Old Glory drew shouts and cheers and this rang out across the valley. The soldiers loved to see our flag waving in the breeze. It served to renew their hope and courage.

Farm help was cheap during those years and he had plenty of hired help. He was a "do-it-yourself" type of man, and it was said of him that he did more than his share of work because he believed he could do it better than the others.

James Baxter Lambeth was a member of the Methodist church; once called the Methodist Church South. There was another Methodist Church in Lebanon called the North Methodist Church; but he belonged to the Methodist Church South because he was from the South. One time the conference sent a minister to the South Methodist Church who was originally from North Carolina. This minister and James Baxter Lambeth became close friends and told others that both came from North Carolina. Rev. Henson spent many hours at our home.

Next to "Frisco Valley Farm," stood the old academy which was mentioned in Harold Bell Wright's book, "The Calling of Dan Matthew." James Baxter Lambeth purchased the old academy and it stood there for many years. The neighborhood children played school in the old academy. The old blackboards were still there and the children had a great time pretending they were actually attending classes.

(Note: Berry Davidson later sold the woolen mill to Joe and Will Frank. A member of the Frank family still owns the Lovick L. Lambeth home farm. M.N.D.)

MARY LAMBETH DOGGETT
1822-1889

Mary Lambeth, fifth child of Joseph and Levina Flack Lambeth, was born in Guilford County on 18 September, 1822. At the time of her father's death, in 1840, she inherited 273 acres in Guilford County, valued at $1,000.00. It adjoined other land which had been owned by her father and was on Reedy Fork, near the present Hines Chapel Church.

On 17 March, 1842 Mary (or Polly, as she was called) was married to James William Doggett. He was born on 7 October, 1813 in Charlotte County, Va., the son of John Doggett (1790-1827) of Mecklenburg Co., Va., and his wife Mildred Clark Doggett (1793-1860) of Lunenburg Co., Va. Mildred Clark Doggett, after the death of her husband, moved with her four children to Guilford Co., in 1832.

A most interesting narrative account of the life and family of James and Mary Lambeth Doggett is to be found in The Doggetts of Guilford County, North Carolina, by Anna Doggett 1969, printed by Piedmont Press, Greensboro, North Carolina. (Copies of this excellent genealogy are in the Genealogy Section of the State Library in Raleigh, and in the North Carolina Collection, Library of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.) The following summary of the early history of the Doggett family in Virginia is an abstract from the book mentioned above. It was contributed by James A. and Mary Norton Doggett, who also contributed the lineage which follows. Many of the dates included in this lineage are from a Doggett family Bible, now in possession of Mr. Doggett.

"James William Doggett (the husband of Mary Lambeth Doggett) and his sister, Rebecca Lambeth (wife of John Lambeth) were descendants of Rev. Benjamin Doggett who was born in Ipswich, England about 1635, and whose wife was Jane. He was educated at Cambridge in the ministry. He died in Lancaster Co., Va., 1682. Rev. Benjamin Doggett served as the first permanent rector of St. Mary's White Chapel, at Lancaster County, Va., and this church is still in existence.

The line of descent of James William Doggett and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth from Rev. Benjamin Doggett is as follows:

Benjamin Doggett, Jr., b. in England 1664; wife's name unknown.

John Doggett was born Lancaster Co., Va., 1700, died in Northumberland Co., Va. 1739. His wife was Mary.

Benjamin Doggett born in Northumberland Co., Va. about 1739, died in Mecklenburg Co., Va. 1821, wife Hannah Webb.

John Doggett was born in Mecklenburg Co., Va., about 1780, died in Charlotte Co., Va. March 27, 1827, wife, Mildred Clark Doggett."

James Doggett died in Guilford County on 22 January, 1891 and Mary Lambeth Doggett died on 17 March, 1889. Both are buried at Hines Chapel Church, Guilford Co., N.C.

8. James Anderson Doggett, born 12-28-1906. He received a B.S. degree in Commerce from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1929, and since that time has been a realtor in Greensboro. He was a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Guilford County, 1942-50, and chairman 1946-1950. The boards of which he was a member championed a "Pay-As-You-Go" policy for the county. He was chairman of the State Municipal Road Commission which was authorized by the 1949 General Assembly of North Carolina during the administration of Governor Kerr Scott. The report of the Commission to the 1951 General Assembly was published in the September 1950 issue of Popular Government, published by the Institute of Government, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. The work of the commission played an important part in the enactment in 1951 of the Powell bill by the General Assembly, which brought about a more equitable distribution of North Carolina highway funds between rural and urban roads.

James Doggett was married on 10-2-1933 to Mary Ellen Norton, daughter of William M. and Harriet McInnes Norton of Raeford, N.C. She was born April 25, 1908. She attended Woman's College in Greensboro. Her principal work, other than family duties, for the past twenty years has been the research and compiling of genealogical information on her family, the Nortons, and on the Lambeth and allied families. During this time she assisted many others in preparing papers for membership in the D.A.R. Her work on the Lambeth family took her to many states, libraries and archives. She and her sister, Mrs. Robert A. Whitaker of Enfield, N.C., visited the birthplace of their grandfather, John McInnes, on the Isle of Jura, Scotland. This was a most pleasant trip since the two ladies found that they were related to most of the inhabitants of Jura, and no member of their family had visited Jura in one hundred and forty years except Mary Livingston Doggett Wilkinson, Mary's daughter. Mary is a life member of the Historical Book Club of North Carolina, Inc. James and Mary Norton Doggett live in Greensboro. Children:

JOSIAS BROOKS LAMBETH

(The following account of the life of Josias Brooks Lambeth appeared as a memorial in a newspaper published in Lebanon, LaClede County, Missouri, following his death on 4 February, 1875.)

"Josias Brooks Lambeth, son of Joseph Lambeth, was born in Guilford County, North Carolina, June 9, 1824. His father dying in his sixteenth year, left him to take his own course. Came to Missouri with his brother-in-law, Geo. T. Holman, in his eighteenth year. Married Miss Sarah A. Friar in 1843. Settled about five miles from Lebanon, Camden County, now LaClede, on what is known as the Dry Auglaize. Here he occupied his time in the employment of agricultural pursuits until the beginning of the recent Civil War, when in the autumn of 1861, he went South leaving his family at home, until the fall of 1865, he returned and moved his family to Franklin County, Mo., where he lived one year, then moved to St. James, Phelps Co., for the purpose of sending his children to school and also for giving himself an opportunity of inspecting the country and purchasing a farm. Finally bought in Lawrence County, Mo., on what is known as the head of Spring River where he moved in the autumn of 1867. Sold his farm and moved to Verona in 1874. Here he was engaged in various occupations such as acting as agent, and sometimes trading a little in stock. About the last of January he started out for the purpose of buying sheep, became unwell the first night but continued on his way, the next morning, thinking that his indisposed condition might subside, but instead of getting better he grew worse so that after having gone some seven or eight miles, thought it best to return home; but was soon compelled to hire a conveyance, as he became too sick to ride on horse back. After his arrival at home, the family applied some simple remedies which seemed to give relief. A physican was called but medicine proved to be of but little benefit. He gradually grew worse until Feb. 4th at about 10 o'clock P.M., he died from the effects of pneumonia. Though he was the youngest of six children, he was the first called from earth to the realms of an unknown future. He leaves a wife and seven children, four sons and three daughters, all of whom are now living as far as known. Four of these children are married.

Deceased was not a member of any organized society except the Masonic Order of which he became a member, we are informed, of the first lodge organized at Lebanon. Though he was a southern man, and aided personally in the cause, yet it is doubted by those who have known him best whether he ever countenanced the wanton destruction of property. We are truthfully informed that he was a moral and exemplary citizen, always strict in the payment of just debts, unless under circumstances that made it impossible to do as agreed; in such cases he had the honesty to make known the cause of failure on his part. We certainly must believe that he was a good citizen from the fact, as we are appraised by good authority that those of opposite views have since the close of the late civil strife, wished to welcome him as their neighbor."

Brooks Lambeth was sixteen years old when his father died in 1840. He inherited nearly 500 acres of land (apparently mostly, or all, in Rockingham County, North Carolina) which were valued at $1,200.00. (See division of the estate of Joseph Lambeth in section on Joseph Lambeth.) After he had moved to Missouri with his older sister Lucinda Lambeth Holman and her husband in 1842, he bought 24 additional acres for $25.00 from John V. Jones and wife Margaret in October, 1845. This land was on Big Troublesome Creek in Rockingham County and adjoined the property of Alvis Williams, Alice Bock and George T. Doggett. (Rockingham County Deed Book 2, page 188.) On 16 October, 1845 Josiah Brooks Lambeth of Camden County, Missouri sold to Geo. Waggoner of Guilford County, North Carolina for $508.00, 250 acres on the waters of Big Troublesome Creek and Haw River, beginning at the great road leading from the Troublesome Creek bridge to Salisbury. The land adjoined Wm. E. Suiter, the widow Lambeth and Beaver Pond. Witnesses were John Moorefield and Thompson L. Cryer. (Rockingham County Deed Book 2nd O, page 210.)

Brooks Lambeth was only eighteen years old when he was married on 7 February, 1843 to Sarah A. Frier. She, too, was born in Guilford County—on 3 December, 1818—where they may have known each other as children. She was the daughter of William Frier (born 1771) and his second wife Susanna Holman (born 1796) to whom he was married on 16 April, 1815. Susanna Holman Frier was the sister of George T. Holman, husband of Brooks' older sister Lucinda, with whom he had come to Missouri and with whom he probably lived until his marriage. (See section on Lucinda Lambeth Holman for further Holman family records.) William Frier had moved with his family to Missouri in 1842—the same year the Holmans migrated, and it is possible that the two families traveled in the same caravan. (Further records of the Frier family may be found at the end of this section.)

The young couple seem to have prospered in their new home. The census of 1850 shows that Josias Brooks Lambeth owned real estate valued at $1,200.00 and ten years later the value of his property was listed as $6,500.00. In 1852 he was given power of attorney to act for his two brothers Lovick Loftin and Andrew Flack Lambeth, both of Alamance County, North Carolina, in managing property they owned in Missouri. (See deeds of L. L. and Andrew F. Lambeth.)

Although most that is known of Brooks Lambeth is contained in the obituary already quoted, additional family records state that he took refuge in Texas in 1861 and enlisted as a private in the Confederate Army on Jan. 1, 1862, at Springfield, Mo. He was taken prisoner at Vicksburg, Miss. but was later exchanged and was given a position in the Commissary Department. He was a member of the A. F. and A. M. and a Democrat in politics.

Sarah Frier Lambeth survived her husband by about twenty years and died on 20 December, 1896 in Verona, Mo. Both are buried in Spring River Cemetery. Children (second generation):

3rd g. 4. Joseph Wood Lambeth, 1881-1960. Married Louise Triplett, Robertsville, Mo. No children.

Joseph Francis Marion Lambeth was born March 14, 1844 in LaClede County, Mo. and died at his home in Villa Ridge, Mo. at 9:30 A.M. Feb. 5, 1916. His remains laid to rest in the Christian Cemetery.

Mr. Lambeth's parents emigrated to Missouri in the early part of the last century from North Carolina. He was the eldest of seven children being survived by three brothers and three sisters.

The death of our esteemed neighbor and friend brought to an end a life of over three score and ten years of activity and usefulness. At the age of 17 years he enlisted in the Confederate Army, serving three years and six months in Missouri and Texas companies, in Missouri under Price and in Texas under Magruder. At the close of the war his company was disbanded at Galveston, Texas. He walked across the latter state and after arriving at Shreveport, La., he worked his way north to St. Louis on river boats. From St. Louis he made his way back to his home in LaClede County. This was a trip perilous in those days. He arrived only to find that unsettled and hostile conditions that prevailed in that locality during the reconstruction period after the war would not permit his staying at his old home.

On July 4, 1865, Mr. Lambeth became a resident of Franklin County and has been a respected citizen there to the time of his death. He was married to Miss Louisa P. Thompson on Jan. 15, 1867. To this couple living together for over 49 years were born 4 sons all of whom survive namely: C. D. Lambeth, Villa Ridge, Mo., E. G. Lambeth, Sioux Falls, So Dakota, E. B. (Ned) Lambeth, St. Louis and Joseph W. Lambeth, Villa Ridge, Mo. Mr. Lambeth was engaged in farming and was also a director of the Villa Ridge Milling Co.

The writer knew the deceased to be a man affectionate to his family, considerate of his neighbors and reverent to his Creator. His life was gentle and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world, "This was a man." His passing away was unexpected and many friends sympathize with the family, but one look upon the features of our departed friend told us that he met his last foe, Death, without suffering and unafraid.

A Friend

(This was my grandfather—Mary Louise Virginia Lambeth Bauer.)

2nd g.2. William Franklin Lambeth, son of Josias Brooks and Sarah Frier Lambeth, was born in Missouri on 31 January, 1846 and died there on 21 October, 1936. He was buried in Old Liberty (Cemetery), Sleeper, Missouri. William F. Lambeth always resided in LaClede County, Mo., with the exception of one year (1866) when he resided in Franklin County, where he was engaged in farming. In 1867 he espoused Miss Malinda Bohannon, who was born in Roane County, Tennessee in 1849, but came to Missouri with her parents when a child, where she grew to womanhood. She was a daughter of John Bohannon and Elizabeth Estey. Mr. and Mrs. Lambeth are members of the Christian Church and he is a staunch Democrat in politics. They were the parents of seven children: John, James, Joseph, William, Andrew, Roenia and Dee Lambeth.

3rd g. 2. James Irvin Lambeth, of Lebanon, Mo., son of William Franklin and Malinda Bohannon Lambeth, married Margaret Clementine James of Arkansas. Children:

2nd g.3. Madison Columbus Lambeth, son of Josias Brooks and Sarah Frier Lambeth, was born in LaClede County, Mo. on August 14 (or 17), 1848. He attended St. James Seminary in St. Louis, Mo. In 1872 Matt (as he was called) moved from Missouri to Texas where he joined the Texas Rangers. His duties as a ranger took him from Fort Smith, Arkansas along the old government army post chaise across the Indian Territory. He was one of six men who became Taylor County's first permanent residents and he was its first county clerk. In April, 1880 Matt and his family moved to Abilene, Texas where he lived until his death in February, 1932.

In March, 1879 he was married to Louzetta Russell who was born October 23, 1856, near Neosho, Mo., and died July, 1931 in Abilene, Texas. Children (all born in Abilene):

5th g. 1. Diane Carol Brown, born April 15, 1952, Alameda, Cal.

2. Susan Eileen Brown, born Aug. 19, 1954, Oakland, Cal.

Memoirs of Matt Lambeth as told by his daughters, Georgia and Nina. July 9, 1955.

While Father Brooks was serving with the Confederate army in the south during the Civil War, Mother Sarah had work at home to keep the family together in LaClede County, Mo., the families endured hardships as well as the country. The eldest sons, Joe and Will's war service has not been established but Georgia relates a war experience of her father. Matt, who was under 14 years of age, lived at home and did some war work. It was a cold day, Matt and a colored man were hauling brown sugar for the army, Matt's clothing was thin and he was barefooted while the colored man was dressed warmer and wore boots and looked on the youngster with compassion, he let Matt wear his boots for awhile. In later years when Matt retold the story he said, "How warm the boots felt when he had the chance to wear them for half hour or more."

After the close of the war and again the family was together and were living near Verona, the family was large, the farm was small and the income was low. Matt had decisions to make, the frontier was pushing west, men were going to a far away place—Texas, where the plains were unlimited. After weighing the question, Matt decided to join a "group for Texas." Mother Sarah pleaded with him to stay at home, that was a far away bad place where Indians and wild animals roamed the plains but Matt had decided to go. It was with emotion and a heavy heart that Mother Sarah bade him farewell.

Shortly after Matt arrived in Texas, he worked for the Carter & Grounds Cattle Company. He was a cowpuncher and helped herd the cattle across the plains. While the cowboys' home was the range, one place Matt recalled gave added shelter from the elements, a rock cave; here the cowboys placed their bed rolls inside the cave and had their camp fire for heat and cooking at the mouth of the cave. In later years this cave was pointed out to Matt's children.

While a cowboy a change of clothing took place on pay day, when the cowpunchers were paid. That was the day they changed their clothes. Each one went to the store for new clothing, pants, shirt, and underwear. It was an occasion. As they rode their ponies the change would be made, an old shirt would be thrown to the wind, it was a sport, a dare, a challenge, the dirty underwear would be tossed on a mesquite bush, a pair of stiff pants would be discarded on the trail. It was a big day for most of them. Matt came along, retrieved these soiled garments and had them laundered. Mrs. Hood, a sheep rancher's wife, said, "There is the making of a rich man."

Before the railroad came to west Texas, the cattle were driven to Abilene, Kansas, which was the closest railroad point. Matt told this incident to his children: Late in the fall of the year, a big drive was on to Abilene, the weather turned cold, by the time they reached Red River there was ice over the river. The "pointer" surveyed the river and marked the crossing, the cattle were weary, hungry and stubborn; work and skill were required to prevent a stampede but the cattle, cowpunchers on their ponies swam the stream, upon reaching the other side, the cold wind immediately froze the men's clothing. They continued on until a ranch house was sighted and a "stop" was made. The frontier family extended the welcome, they had a roaring fire in the fireplace, this large room was turned over to the men who disrobed, dried their clothing and warmed their cold bodies. As soon as they were warmed they hurried out to the corral and exchanged places with the other cattle men who took their turn drying clothing and absorbing heat from the glowing fire.

Shortly after Matt went to Texas he joined the Texas Rangers and became a captain; all Texans speak with pride of the Texas Rangers as one of the highest orders of their state. While Matt was a Texas Ranger he seldom carried a gun (it was too heavy), even as a cowboy he did not carry a gun. He did not favor needless killing and Matt got along well with the Indians. One time a tribe of Indians were sighted. The question: Are they friendly or warlike? Matt would show a friendly attitude. He took from his bedroll a white shirt which he tied on to a young sapling. He mounted his pony and rode toward the Indians with this outstretched flag. The tribal chieftian met him and bartering soon followed. The rangers had coffee, tobacco and sugar which was supplied by the government, the Indians had fresh buffalo meat which the plains had furnished. Matt's policy was negotiation rather thanforce or violence.

One night the cowpunchers were bedded down in the tall buffalo grass, a soft wind blowing over them. Matt was awakened, he saw feathers moving through the grass. Could it be they were going to be attacked while they were sleeping? Rubbing his eyes in order to get a better view of the Indians who seemed to be in large numbers. It was a relief and a joke when it was learned a large flock of turkeys were the Indians.

At Buffalo Gap Matt studied under Deat Witt, an attorney who came from Boston and was a scholarly man; he shared his law books with Matt who studied and passed the Texas bar.

The girls told this of their father: even though he had been a cow puncher and lived on the plains for several years, he liked good linen and always required a tablecloth on their dining table. He took personal interest in his appearance and he brushed his shoes each morning before going to his office.

IT WAS A BIG WEEK FOR DAD. . . .

By Kenneth Friar

Last week I stood on the soil of North Carolina and watched my father as he experienced one of the greatest thrills of his lifetime. For at that time he shook the hands of kinsmen and traced relationship back to the year of about 1842, making that occasion the first such reunion in the approximately 110 years since his great grandfather and a portion of his family loaded their belongings into covered wagons and started the cumbersome trek to a new home somewhere west.

Over the Appalachian mountains they went, the Blue Ridge, the Cumberlands and all the innumerable valleys in between. Across the rolling hills of western Kentucky, over the murky rolling waters of the mighty Mississippi River and across the spacious fertile bottoms they traveled until they traversed the broken crest of the southeast Missouri hills. And still they traveled on, waiting until their leader might find a place to his satisfaction.

One day they topped the final hill and, as William Friar (Fryar) gazed down into a peaceful little valley threaded by a sparking wending stream, no doubt he said, "This is the place I want to stay."

And there he stayed. For he had already lived his three score and ten, and maybe something about the little valley in the southwest Missouri hills recalled the haunts of his boyhood somewhere in the "old country" from whence he came.

He purchased the land from the owner who had "settled up" the land a few years before and was becoming disgusted with the "high state of civilization" and was desirous of going to Texas. There William Friar settled and his sons took up land around him. In a few years the old timer died and was buried in a family plot near the home and not far from the stream. That stream is Turnback and the family burial plot has grown from year to year until it is now known as the Shiloah cemetery, located in the extreme south end of Dade County. (Also buried there are the slaves who came west with the family.)

For a time the children who stayed at the homeplace in Guilford County, North Carolina corresponded with those in Missouri. Until gradually, they ceased to write. Civil War came to the states and family descendents in far off Guilford County only knew that at one time "some of the family went west somewhere."

Family members in Missouri always talked of the children who stayed in North Carolina. They repeated the stories that "grandfather told," they kept the old letters, an old will, and a family register dating back to the birth of the aforementioned William Friar in 1771.

My father always said, "someday I would like to go back to Guilford county and set foot on the ground where my great grandfather left from." Last week we drove to the little town of McLeansville, near where the old timer started his trek in '42, and there in the cool of the evening my father inquired of a storekeeper, "Are there any Friars living around here?" The storekeeper's answer of, "Sure there are lots of them," was soon followed by an answer to "Where can I find one of them?" A short time later we drove to a farm house and as father shook the hands of his new found relatives the moment was too much for him. Suddenly all his years of wishing and dreaming had come to a climax and my father seated himself there and wept with sheer joy.

The following day we went to the old home place where the elder Friar had lived, visited the spring where the family went for water, and there on the field found the ramblin' rose that used to grow by the old log house. The old family Bible was dug out, the old letters were read countless times and stories were told and retold as new relatives were introduced.

How the spelling of the family name came to differ, they were not quite certain. (The people there spell the name Fryar.) Even in the old letter it was found that the name had been spelled one way at the beginning of the letter and another at the close.

An interesting sidelight to this story is the fact that we accidentally discovered a group of Friars in Ewing, Virginia. We stopped there to make a purchase and Dad struck up a conversation that led to the discovery of a Friar family there. Lack of time prevented his establishing relationship but one of the men left North Carolina and went to that section just previous to the Civil War and dad is sure these living there now are descendants. He now firmly believes that by shaking the family tree just a little more he can jar loose the evidence and, in all probability, he will . . . .

Yes, last week was a big week in the life of Floyd Friar and, come to think of it, the rest of us (my mother, my wife and all the other Friars "Fryars") got a big kick out of it.

Shadrach Lambeth, second son of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, was born in Craven County, North Carolina on 11 December, 1797. He was about two and a half years old when his parents moved to Guilford County and settled on North Buffalo Creek in the north east part of the county.

In 1818 Shadrach Lambeth and Jane Thomas were married, their marriage bond being dated 5 January, with John Thomas, Jane's eldest brother, as bondsman. Jane Thomas —called Jennie—was the daughter of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas who had lived in Caswell County before moving to Guilford about 1803. Jane was born 20 July, 1803, probably in Caswell County.

The young couple—Jennie was less than fifteen at the time of their marriage—probably settled on land given them by Shadrach's father Josiah, which lay "on the waters of Reedy Fork," adjoining Josiah's homeplace. This land was sold jointly by Josiah and Shadrach in 1831.

Apparently the first new member of their household was Jane Burns, a "free child of colour, 3 years old" who was bound to Shadrach Lambeth on 18 May, 1818. He was required to teach her to read and write, and to give her $30.00 "and freedom dues" when she came of age. This apprentice bond was signed by Shadrach, who spelled his name "Lambert." (Guilford County Apprentice Bonds, 1817-1870, North Carolina Archives.)

In 1822, at the November court, Shadrach Lambeth, James Holman and Adam Apple were securities for William Apple in a suit brought against him by the State. At the August court, 1825, Shadrach Lambeth qualified to "take taxables," a responsibility usually reserved for Justices of the Peace. In February, 1826, Shadrach Lambeth again served as a security—this time for Josiah Burney, and again for a suit brought by the State.

His name was drawn for jury duty a number of times between 1826 and 1834. In February, 1834, he was one of the securities for Robert Thomas—his brother-in-law—who was elected constable, and in May of the same year was a security for his sister Sarah Burney (widow of Adam Burney) as guardian to her children. Also at the May court, 1834 an orphan boy named Jesse Ward, aged 8 years, was bound to Shadrach Lambeth. Shadrach had a slight "brush with the law" in connection with this apprenticeship. In 1840, then living in Davidson County, he was ordered by the Guilford County Court "to show cause why the indentures binding Jesse Ward to him should not be rescinded," since it was against the law to remove an apprentice to another county without permission of the court. Not having answered this summons, a suit was brought against him by the State when court next met in February, 1841, at which time the court decreed that the indentures be rescinded and the apprentice "again to be under the custody of the court." The suit apparently ended in November 1844, with Shadrach Lambeth's being ordered to pay a fine of $1.80.

Several debt suits involving Shadrach Lambeth are mentioned in Guilford court minutes. In May 1835 he brought suit for a debt due him by Richard and George Kernodle and the settlement was in favor of the plaintiff. In November 1839 he also won a debt suit against M. S. Hutchinson and others. In May, 1844, however, Shadrach Lambeth and John Lambeth were sued for a debt by their brother Lovick Lambeth and ordered to pay the $149.00 due him.

In March, 1832 Shadrach Lambeth bought two tracts of land on Reedy Fork. The first of these—bought at a foreclosure sale—consisted of fifty acres and was formerly the property of Robert Burney; the second consisted of 172 acres and was purchased from Samuel Burney. He left Guilford County before 17 February, 1836, since on that date "Shadrach Lambeth of Davidson County" bought an additional 202 acres on Reedy Fork from Stafford and Edward Weatherly who had inherited the property. In September, 1838 he sold to Moses S. Hutchison 55 acres on Reedy Fork adjoining Robert Gilchrist and Samuel (Jr.) and William McClintock. He continued to own property and to pay taxes in Guilford, and there are no further deeds of sale. It may be assumed that the balance of his property there was disposed of without recorded deeds, or divided among his heirs at the time of his death.

When Shadrach and Jennie Thomas Lambeth moved to Davidson County in 1835, or early in 1836, they went to an area which both must have known well, and where each had many relatives. Jennie's brother, John Warrick Thomas, who had married Mary Lambeth (the daughter of Shadrach's uncle Moses), was already living there. Jennie's sister Mary was the wife of Silas Lambeth (son of Shadrach's uncle Samuel Lambeth) and lived nearby. Another sister, Margaret, had also married a son of Samuel Lambeth—Amos. Margaret had died but her husband and children continued to live in Davidson County until 1851.

There is no record of the purchase of the land on which Shadrach and his wife settled. It may have been given by his uncle Samuel, or by Jennie's brother John W. Thomas—or may have been bought without registering the deed. It is known, however, that they lived close to the Randolph County line, and just south of Thomasville. Their home is still standing and it is believed that the old brick house was built by Shadrach from bricks made on the land itself. It is set on a knoll, surrounded by large trees, with a beautiful view of the surrounding countryside. The main body of the house is of two stories, with a one story wing to one side, and a porch at the front door. Not only has it the mellowness of age, but also the lines are extremely pleasing, and it is distinctive in being built of brick, rather than wood. It must have been considered a fine structure at the time it was built, and because of its age and charm, is still a point of interest in that section.

The Shadrach Lambeth property was close to the home of John W. Thomas as indicated by a deed of 25 September, 1850 at which time Shadrach Lambeth bought 173 acres, adjoining his own line and that of J. W. Thomas, Nathan Kendall and Col. Humphrey's. This land may have crossed the county line between Davidson and Randolph, and was bought from Pleasant Hogan, of Randolph County. On 25 January, 1853—about six weeks before his death—Shadrach Lambeth sold this tract to his son David T. Lambeth.

The only other deeds in Davidson County are Deeds of Trust. The first, dated 13 February, 1837 shows that Shadrach Lambeth became trustee for land put up as security by Clinton Johnson and Burgess Beall for money owed to John W. Thomas; the second, dated 12 April, 1845, shows that Noah Hepler appointed Valentine Hoover trustee for land put up as security for a debt of $150.00 owed by Hepler to Shadrach Lambeth.

Shadrach Lambeth's name is found frequently in court minutes of Davidson County—most often as a juryman, or as a security for the bond of a friend. In August, 1836, he and Reuben May were the securities, for Silas Lambeth's guardianship of David and Thomas Loftin, the nephews of Shadrach's wife. In May, 1838, he, John W. Thomas and others were securities for Jonathan Goldsberry, as constable. In February, 1840 Shadrach Lambeth served as security for Burrell T. Coggin, as administrator of the estate of Nathan Lambeth—Shadrach's first cousin. At the same court, he was appointed to a commission to allot a year's support to Nancy Lambeth, the widow of Nathan, while her husband's estate was being settled. In February, 1843 he was again security for a guardianship bond—this time for Reuben May. Men serving as securities had to be approved by the court, both for their solvency and for their integrity.

On two other occasions—in November, 1842 and 1843—he served on commissions to allot a year's support to a widow. In May, 1848 he was one of three "inspectors of elections" at the polling place in his district.

Only twice are there records of court suits in which he had a part: in February, 1843 he won a suit for a debt — although the amount is not given, and in May, 1843 he was one of two witnesses for the state who failed to appear when called; each was fined $80.00. (Court Minutes after August 1848 have not been read.)

There is every indication that Shadrach Lambeth was a successful farmer and a good business man, but he had another interest, less commonly found in his day—that of health care. This was something in which he must have acquired a degree of skill, with justified pride in that skill.

In a later day he might have developed this aptitude to a high degree through formal medical training, then available to very few. His tombstone shows the title "Dr." before his name, and quoting from a sketch of the family in the History of North Carolina, Volume IV, page 186 (Lewis Publishing Co., Chicago and New York, 1919) "He was a physician of local note, using the Thomsonian system of medicine, doctoring principally with herbs." His cousin Thomas Lambeth, whose letters recount much of the family history, wrote to one of Shadrach's grand-daughters: "I knew your grandpa Shadrach very well, for when I was a small boy I got one of my wrist bones broke, and he set it for me.", and, continuing on a different subject "And after I was grown, I worked for him—built a piaza to his long brick house on the southside and a dining room, at the west end of it towards the well."

Perhaps Shadrach Lambeth is best remembered by his descendants for his part in the construction of the North Carolina Railroad, which, chartered by the state soon after 1849, was to revolutionize the economic and industrial life of the Piedmont. Again quoting from Thomas Lambeth's letters, "I help make the carts to hall the dirt in grading the road. They was of the tumbling kind so they could empty it out at one tilt. He had taken a nine thousand dollar contract of that kind of work. It was a little northeast of Thomasville, across them little creeks, which was a tremendous job for that day as it all had to be done by hand labor. But he had consumption, and after a while he had to go home, and in the time of his sickness, he sent for me and when I went, he wanted to settle with me, as he had not finished paying me for my work yet. And when he did that, then he said 'Thomas, I will not live much longer, and I want you to make my coffin.' (Note: Thomas Lambeth was a master cabinet-maker, S.S.M.) And he said he wanted it made of walnut wood, with a raised lid, such as I had bin making, and when he died, I made it like he said as near as I could. And after he died, your pa (David Thomas Lambeth, S.S.M.) and his brothers finished that notable contract, and I heard that they completed some other contracts where the parties had failed on. So that gave them more stock in that railroad." From another letter of Thomas Lambeth he speaks of Shadrach Lambeth as "a noble man in his day and time. He was one of the great builders of the North Carolina railroad."

The will of Shadrach Lambeth: (Davidson County Wills 1847-1868, p. 82)

"In the name of God, Amen. I Shadrach Lambeth of Davidson County State of North Carolina do this twelfth day of February one thousand and eight hundred and fifty three make and ordain this to be my last will and testament to wit. Firstly I give and bequeath unto my dear wife Jane the plantation whereon I now live with all its appurtenances also I give and bequeath to her five Negroes viz Eli, Becey, Caliny, Ann, and Alfred during her life time or widowhood. Secondly I give and bequeath to her the household and kitchen furniture, two horses, her choice five head of cattle her choice, ten head of hogs her choice and ten head of sheep of her choice during her life or widowhood. Thirdly I give and bequeath to my daughter Elizabeth Hale five dollars to be paid her by my Executors. Fourthly I give and bequeath to each of my sons viz John W., David T., Shadrach R. and Joseph H. one hundred dollars to be paid to them by my Executors at the time of the final settlement of my estate.

Fifthly, in view of my leaving a Contract on the N. C. Rail Road and owning twenty seven shares in said road it is my desire and will that my real and personal estate shall remain together without sale or division until the completion of said Contract also that my family shall have use of the products or proceeds of my plantation until said Contract is completed. Sixthly it is my desire and will that if my four sons John W. David T. Shadrach R. and Joseph H. shall fully work out the Stock subscribed on the Books of the N. C. Road Company amounting to twenty seven Shares then they shall hold and receive viz John W. two shares, David T. two shares, Shadrach R. ten shares and Joseph H. nine shares, furthermore it is my desire and will that my daughter, Amanda Shoup and her heirs shall receive two shares, my daughters Frances and Alice and their heirs also one share each. Seventhly I desire and will that my sons John W. and David T. shall each from the time of my Decease until the Completion of said Contract when actually employed on it receive for their services ten dollars per month.

Eighthly at the death or marriage of my wife I give and bequeath to my son Joseph H. the plantation on which I now reside by his paying to my executors five hundred dollars which amount is to be equally divided amongst my Children with the exception of Elizabeth Hale. Ninthly, at the death or marriage of my wife I desire and will that the Negroes named above and their increase together with all my other property be sold and equally divided amongst all my Children with the exception of Elizabeth Hale.

Lastly I nominate and appoint my wife Jane and my Sons John W. and David T. Executors of this my last will and testament and I do hereby revoke all former wills by me made and I do Constitute this and no others to be my last will and testament. In witness whereof I do hereunto set my hand and affix my seal the day and year first above written.

Shadrach Lambeth died on 4 March, 1853. Both he and his wife Jane, who died 25 May, 1888, are buried in the churchyard of Fairgrove Methodist Church, near Thomasville, North Carolina. The following obituary appeared in the Greensboro Patriot April 30, 1853:

Orbituary Greensboro Patriot April 30, 1853

"Departed this life March 11, 1853, after some three months painful suffering, Mr. Shadrach Lambeth in the 56th year of his age. Brother Lambeth was born December 11, 1797, in Guilford County, North Carolina.

On his parentage and early history, we have no information and hence can say nothing. He made a profession of religion in August, 1823, and united himself to the Christian Church at Apple's Meeting House in Guilford County, of which he remained a member until 1835 when he removed to Davidson County and united himself to the M. E. Church South at Fair Grove, of which class he continued a consistent member until summoned away from earth to meet his Master and reward in Heaven. Brother Lambeth was an affectionate husband and father and good neighbor. His disease was pulmonary consumption. His health had been gradually declining for several years but in November last his disease assumed an alarming form and continued to make rapid inroads upon his naturally feeble constitution until in March it broke the cord of life and released him from his earthly sufferings. He bore his long continued sufferings with exemplary meekness and patience. From the first of his sickness he had no thought he would ever get well and frequently expressed himself to his family and friends to this effect. With this impression on his mind, he made every attempt to settle up his business and be ready for his departure. I saw him several times during his sickness and conversed with him on the subject of religion. His confidence in his Redeemer seemed to be strong though he manifested on overflowing enjoyment. At times he would become uneasy about his religious state; but for the last several weeks of his sickness he was resigned and confident of his acceptance. He often spoke of dying and expressed a willingness to depart; and to the inquiry of his friends would often reply that all was well. He was very anxious about the welfare of his family and particularly so about his sons. He recommended the Bible to his children and begged them to read it and to make it the main of their counsel. It had been his stay and comfort in life and was in death and he wished them to study it and be governed by its precepts. After taking an affectionate farewell of his family and friends and requesting them to meet him in Heaven, he peacefully fell asleep in the arms of Jesus on the 4th of March last. He has entered into his rest and is happy now but he has left a kind wife and children to mourn over their loss in him. But their loss is his eternal gain. May the God of comfort bless, comfort and preserve them and lead them to Heaven to join with husband and father in a Better Land.

- Lemon Shell (Pastor of the Davidson Circuit) "

The final settlement of his estate was returned at the February Court, 1857. Receipts of various debts owed to him, plus money received in working the Rail Road contract were $9,255.66 3/4; money paid out in working out the Rail Road contract was $7,354.32, so that the value of his estate was $1,901.34 3/4. (Davidson County Estate Papers, North Carolina Archives.)

His plantation, left to his wife, was to be given to their son Joseph Harrison Lambeth "at the death or marriage" of the widow; apparently Jane Thomas Lambeth gave it to her son a good many years before her death. In 1870, soon after his first wife died, Joseph Harrison Lambeth, moved to Thomasville, and sold his old homeplace in the country to Jeremiah Hart. It later came into the possession of the Pennington family and is now referred to as both the "Hart Place" and the "Pennington Place." It is located one mile south of the Thomasville Trinity Highway in Davidson County, and has already been mentioned as Shadrach's home upon his settling in Davidson County. It is further described in a feature article by Frances Griffin, which appeared in the Greensboro Daily News, October 30, 1938: "The house, now occupied by tenants, is scarcely changed from the days of Shadrach Lambeth. The brick walls are still strong in their 18-inch thickness. Close examination shows that the inside partitions, also made of brick, are as thick as the outside walls. The hand-dressed framing is fastened together with wooden pegs. The sashes were specially made to fit the small windows. Large stone form the steps by which one enters." The last three children of the family were probably born here, and it was here that Shadrach died.

The children of Shadrach and Jane Thomas Lambeth:

A. Elizabeth, married Eli Hale, 2 February, 1837 and moved to Missouri (or Texas)

B. Margaret, married the Rev. A. F. Harris
C. Amanda, married John Franklin Schaub (spelled Shoup in her father's will)
D. John Warrick, married Jane Smith
E. David Thomas, married Caroline Eliza Simmons
F. Shadrach Robert, married Fatima Laughlin
G. Mary Jane, born 16 September, 1834, died 23 May, 1851, buried Fairgrove Church
H. Sarah Frances, born 16 November, 1836, died 29 November, 1865, married George Lines (Davidson County marriage bond 11 January, 1858). He was born 23 January, 1836, died 10 April, 1860, and was the first mayor of Thomasville. They had no children. Both are buried at Fairgrove Church.
I. Joseph Harrison, married 1st. Mary Clarissa Bell; married 2nd. Delphena Virginia Loftin
J. Alice Cynthia, married S. W. Howerton

I.C.2. Julius Lindsay Schaub (Sketch)

Julius Lindsay Schaub was a student in Yadkin Institute when the war began in 1861. When Sumter fell, he and many students went to their homes. (From Confederate Veteran) "...and prepared for service in the Confederate army. He joined a company that was mustered into service on April 25, 1861, and it became a part of the 4th North Carolina Regiment. This regiment was afterwards the 14th.

"Comrade Schaub was wounded in his first battle. He soon recovered, and was a gallant soldier to the end. He moved to Georgia years ago and lived at LaGrange until his death."

(From Confederate Veteran) COMMANDER J. L. SCHAUB

Tribute by F. M. Longley

"Comrades: The Commander of our Camp has answered the last roll call and has joined Lee, Jackson, and others of the Army of Northern Virginia, companions of his in the stormy sixties, and my eyes are moist while my hand hesitates to write the words: 'We shall see his face no more.'

"No fears of the last enemy agitated him; he had faced that enemy almost defiantly seventy times on Virginia's battlefields. His was a character of the martyr composition, with the courage of a Ney, the loyalty of a Nelson, and the fidelity of a Daniel. With him, as with his great captain, duty was the sublimest word in the English language. Duty was his harbinger, and led him through the ice and snow of winter, the heat of summer's marches, led him into the midst of the hissing missiles, bursting shells and sanguine conflict. No soldier of the War of the States saw more service or faced more danger than Comrade Schaub. He was no mere reed to be shaken by the winds, but rather a mighty oak in his convictions, and never questioned the perfect justice of that cause for which he willingly gave four years of hard service and was loyal to it even unto death. Wrapped in his own faded Confederate uniform, more to him than royal robe, he sleeps well, and may in his last hour have murmured:

"'A life of battle mine, but not of greed
Of fame or glory that to war I went.
I've won at last and lay my armor down;
I'm going home to wear the victor's crown.'

"Brother Schaub will be greatly missed in LaGrange, missed by the Ladies' Memorial Association, by the Confederate Camp of which he was Commander and its very soul and spirit, and missed by all who knew him. He was valued for his sterling integrity and Southern manhood....."

Julius L. Schaub moved his family to LaGrange, Georgia, in 1880, a pioneer of Troup County. He was the only photographer there for about thirty years.

He was a kind and gentle Christian gentleman who reared his family deep in the Presbyterian Church, which he served as elder and Sunday School Superintendent for many years.

I.D. John Warrick Lambeth Sketch

John Warrick Lambeth lived at Thomasville and High Point, North Carolina. He was a Confederate Soldier. He emigrated from High Point to Texas in 1877. Stopped first in Comanche County; then moved to Brown County in 1878. Their first home in Brownwood was on Austin Avenue where the Emison Store now stands. It was used as headquarters for many women and children while their husbands and fathers were away from home protecting property from wire-cutters or in other activities. His second home was 606 Coggin Avenue.

Obituary John Warrick Lambeth

"OLD CITIZEN GONE - John Warrick Lambeth departs this life - Was here for thirty years - Celebrated Golden Wedding three years ago - Known throughout the city and loved.

"For a second time within the last week the Bulletin has faced the duty of chronicling the death of one of those old pioneer citizens whom we have long since learned to love and reverence because of the life they have given to posterity and the hardships they have borne to pave the way for civilization into this a new practically undeveloped country. To these old landmarks the country owes its existence and it is but right that tribute be paid to their memory.

"This morning at 5:45 the death angel summoned the soul of John Warrick Lambeth, who has spent thirty years of his life in the Brownwood country enduring the hardships and toil that must come to the pioneer citizen. For years he has been a patient suffered of that awful disease, cancer, and has been confined for a considerable time to his room, but throughout his illness kind and loving friends remembered and endeavored to cheer his last days by loving remembrances. The end, expected by friends and loved ones, came to him with that peaceful fortitude known only to those who have an abiding faith in the God that rules the universe. Patient to the last John Warrick Lambeth spoke words of cheer to the faithful wife and loved ones that surrounded him in his last hours.

"John Warrick Lambeth was born in Davidson County, North Carolina, July 16, 1828; was the oldest of a family of ten children, but one of whom survive him. That one is the youngest brother who makes his home at Thomasville, N. C. March 1, 1855, he was married to Mary Jane Smith who survives him. As a result of this union three children were born, two of whom died in infancy, the third being Mrs. John W. Malone of this city. In 1874 Mr. Lambeth came to Texas and in 1878 moved to Brown County, where he has since lived.

"About three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Lambeth celebrated their fiftieth anniversary or golden wedding, when a large number of friends gathered at their home to make merry over the event and wish the aged couple many years of happiness. Even then Mr. Lambeth was in feeble health and he has enjoyed but few well days since, but ever cheerful he greeted friends and acquaintances with a cordiality that made them feel glad for having met with him.

"Funeral services took place at the family residence at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the remains were laid to rest at Greenleaf cemetery immediately afterwards.

"Friends and acquaintances join in extending tenderest sympathies to the bereaved ones in this their sad hour of affliction."

I.D.3. Obituary Dora Holmes Lambeth Malone

"MALONE FUNERAL IS HELD FRIDAY. Mrs. J. W. Malone, pioneer citizen of Brown county, died last Thursday, September 25th, at her home 606 Coggin Avenue. She had been in ill health for some time and her death came unexpected after a sharp heart attack.

"Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at the residence by the Rev. Leslie A. Boone, pastor of First Methodist Church, and interment was in Greenleaf cemetery with Austin-Morris Funeral Home in charge. Pallbearers were H. F. Mayes, D. S. Camp, Fred S. Abney, J. W. Taber, Joe Turner and Winstead Dedman. Honorary pallbearers included I. J. Bailey, Mark E. Ragsdale, W. A. Butler, C. L. McCartney, E. B. Henley, Sr., B. H. Bettis, O. L. Dawson, Dr. Charles W. Grady, Cliff Pouncey, D. J. Jobe and Dr. Ben M. Shelton, all of whom are old friends of the family.

"Mrs. Malone is survived by two daughters: Miss Mayesie Malone, Brown county Home Demonstration agent, and Mrs. Mary Lindsay, both of this city; and by two sons, J. Miles Malone of Brownwood and L. Robert Malone of Sweetwater. There are also four grand children: John and June Malone of Andrews, and Dorothy and Etheline Lindsay of Brownwood.

"Dora Holmes Lambeth was born in Thomasville, North Carolina, December 27, 1863. Her parents were John Warrick Lambeth and Mary Jane Smith Lambeth. When she was 13 years old her parents moved with their family to Texas, stopping first for a short while in Comanche county, then moving to Brownwood when she was almost fourteen years old. She was an only child of the family.

"Mrs. Malone's education was in the private schools of North Carolina and the public schools of Texas. She was a talented artist, and her art career began while she was a small child in North Carolina with instruction by a teacher of that state. She continued her art studies here under Mrs. Newhall at Daniel Baker College, who was an outstanding artist. She continued to paint until the past summer, when she painted a bluebonnet picture for a granddaughter.

"When the family moved to Brown county their first home was on Austin avenue where the Emison store now stands. Mrs. Malone joined the Presbyterian church as a girl, but after her marriage joined the Methodist church with her husband, and was an active and faithful member of that denomination until her death. She married John Wesley Malone, a native of Mayfield, Kentucky. Their wedding took place in the Baptist church here in 1886, which at that time was the only church building in the town, and their wedding was the first church wedding held in Brownwood. Mr. Malone died here March 26, 1932, and is buried in Greenleaf Cemetery.

"The Malone home was always known as the home of preachers, and all Methodists as well as others visited there. Her life was an inspiration to all her family and neighbors and everyone else who knew her. She was probably known by more people in Brown county than any other elderly woman, by reason of the fact that for many years she accompanied her daughter, Miss Mayesie Malone, on a great many of her visits to rural communities in the course of her long period of service here as county home demonstration agent. She was also well known by Extension Service officials, many of whom were devoted to her.

"The home of her parents on Austin avenue was used in the early days as the headquarters for many women and children while their husbands and fathers were away from home protecting property from wire-cutters or in other activities. The public water supply for the southern section of the town in the early days was from a well near where Daniel Baker college dormitory now stands, many people coming there for water and also stopping to visit with each other. In the days before there were professional florists, Mrs. Malone was often called upon to make floral wreaths, and to aid in decorating churches, homes and other places on special occasions.

"Mrs. Malone for many years was prominent in social, civic, and church work, continuing it until her health declined in recent years. She was a member of the Library Benefit Club and enjoyed the association there with old girlhood friends. She never thought about herself, and was as completely unselfish as anyone who has ever lived in Brownwood.

"The whole community joins in sympathy for the bereaved children, her death having caused sorrow throughout Brown county."

"J. W. MALONE DIES AT HOME HERE SATURDAY.

John Wesley Malone, a pioneer Brownwood citizen and one of the best known and best loved men of this section, died at his home, 606 Coggin avenue, at 11:55 Saturday night after being in ill health for three years. Mr. Malone went to bed Wednesday and died Saturday from pneumonia. He would have been 74 years old his next birthday, April 1.

"Funeral services were held at the residence at 4 o'-clock Sunday afternoon with Rev. John N. Rentfro, pastor of First Methodist Church, officiating. Interment followed in Greenleaf cemetery. Austin-Morris Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

"No man in this county or section was more highly respected or had more friends than Mr. Malone. He traveled over all this country as a salesman for Mayfield Woolen Mills and when ill health forced him to retire and remain at home the last three years many friends and acquaintances have sent cheerful messages and called to inquire about his health.

"John Wesley Malone was born in Trigg county, Kentucky, April 1, 1858, the son of John Miles and Sarah Thomas Malone. He received his education in schools at May-field Kentucky.

"In 1883 Mr. Malone came to Brownwood because he wanted to come to Texas and because he had friends living in Brownwood. When he first came to this city he and Mr. Will H. Mayes were partners in a hardware business. Later Mr. Malone bought Mr. Mayes' interest and added a furniture store to the business. Because of ill health he sold the business and began traveling for the Mayfield Woolen Mills. He worked 30 years for the company until about 3 years ago when ill health forced him to retire.

"Often in his lifetime Mr. Malone said his hobbies were going to Sunday School and living up to the Golden Rule. He was a member of the Methodist Church, a devoted Christian and a faithful church worker. He was a Sunday School teacher for 12 years and for 40 years a member of Dr. P. C. Ragsdale's Sunday School class at First Methodist Church.

He was a trustee and steward in the church for 15 years. Mr. Malone was also a member of U.C.T. and Iowa State Travelers' Association.

"Mr. Malone was married to Miss Dora H. Lambeth in Brownwood Feb. 10, 1886. Theirs was the first church wedding in Brownwood, the couple having been married in the old Baptist church, the only church building in Brownwood at that time.

"He is survived by his wife, five children and four grandchildren. Their children are: L. R. Malone, Miss Mayesie Malone, Mrs. C. A. Lindsay, John Miles Malone, and Julian Malone. The grandchildren: Dorothy and Etheleen Lindsay, John B. and June Malone. Friends of Mr. Malone say that for almost 50 years he was a leading figure in Brownwood for all that was good and noble. He was a friend to everyone and enjoyed working for the betterment of humanity. He was a wonderful Christian influence for the young people and was loved alike by everyone."

I.D.3.a. Sketch - Mayesie Malone

Granddaughter of John Warrick Lambeth. Pioneered successfully in Home Demonstration work. For 30 years she served as the agent in her home county of Brown, Texas. During her term she enrolled 9,260 girls in 4H and 8,570 club members. She was a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Knife and Fork Club, The Wesleyan Service Guild of the First United Church, and Epsilon Sigma Phi, which awarded her a diamond for her activities. She was an inspiration to the many she served.

The Texas House of Representatives unanimously passed a resolution in memory of Miss Mayesie E. Malone in their 1969 session.

Colonel Frank Simmons Lambeth (Recollections of his oldest grandchild)

Frank Simmons Lambeth was not a real colonel, but because at one time he had been on Governor Locke Craig's staff he was always known in Davidson County as "The Colonel."

He was the Sir Roger de Coverley of Thomasville, the squire who was benevolent and just, who enjoyed every moment of his reign over his domain and his people. And everybody loved him and admired him and depended on him—and laughed with and at him.

When he was a boy he fell out of the hay loft in the barn at his father's farm south of Thomasville and broke his arm. It was not set propertly, so he went through life with a stiff left arm, not able to bend it at the elbow. Because of that stiff arm, the Arnolds did not approve of his courtship of Ella Arnold who lived in Randolph County, a few miles beyond the Lambeth homestead. Great-grandpa Arnold did not think Frank could make a living for Ella, so he forbade the marriage. Nevertheless, one night when the household was asleep, Grandpa drove a horse and buggy under Ella's window, she climbed down a ladder and they ran away and were married. (At least that was Grandpa's story that he told with relish. Grandma never admitted nor denied it. She was a proper person.)

Anyway, they moved to Thomasville, Grandpa started the Standard Chair Company, they had three sons and a daughter, sent them all through college, and eventually built a grand big house on Randolph Street called Arlam that was surrounded on three sides by the widest, coolest porch I've ever seen. It had room for rocking chairs and sewing tables and hammocks and a railroad swing and children and Billy the collie who was Grandpa's constant companion. A yellow rambler rose grew over the railing on the side next to the Hinkle's. I'm as sure as I can be that there will be a porch like that in my heaven, with Grandpa sitting on it.

The most memorable characteristic of Grandpa's was his huge love of life—an expansive, exuberant joie de vivre. He enjoyed everything: his children, his grandchildren, his business, his friends, his church, his town; he enjoyed talking and laughing and eating (oh, those sardines and crackers and cheese that we'd eat at bedtime over at Arlam, and the Thanksgiving and Christmas feasts; always two enormous turkeys and oyster dressing and a great country ham!). He enjoyed a good fight, too.

His arch enemy was Sheriff Finch whom he called "the Red Fox." Of course I never heard, but I'm sure the Sheriff had a name for Grandpa, too. Unless they were disagreeing about some town problem, such as on which side of the railroad to build the new post office, they were good friends. That really puzzled me when I was a child.

I can't remember Grandpa without thinking of John Shepard, the colored man who was chauffeur, yard man, butler, nurse and probably closer to Grandpa than anyone else. He was good and faithful and patient and a very fine man. He loved us all and we loved him. He enjoyed the Colonel immensely. We loved to take rides in the black car with John driving and Grandpa and me in the back seat. When we came to a house in the country, Grandpa would say, "Slow down here at the Hepler place, John, and blow the horn."

Out in the yard would run big Heplers and little Heplers and Grandpa would lean out of the window and wave his brown walking stick with the gold band on it and shout, "Frank Lambeth is passing by!" And all the Heplers would laugh and wave and yell, "Hey, Colonel!" and Grandpa would sit back and roar with laughter and give me a hoarhound drop out of his pocket; then we'd sweep on down the road to the next farm and go through the same procedure. It was wonderful, wonderful!

Always there were hoarhound drops and hard candies in Grandpa's pockets and long before his grandchildren could talk they learned to reach for them. We often went over to Arlam after supper where Grandpa would sit in his big brown armchair in front of the fire and peel apples for us. He could peel an apple better than anyone in the world! He used his penknife and the apple peeling curled off in long slender spirals that never broke.

So many things I remember! He took me to the opera in Atlanta long before I was old enough to appreciate music. Nevertheless, I remember Geraldine Farrar taking off her dress in Zaza and Caruso pulling down the pillars in Samson and Delilah. Grandma disapproved of Zaza but Grandpa thought it was great! He was a joyous man!

Grandpa loved growing things. I think he had a special rapport with the Standard employees who lived on farms outside of town. After he died we found that he had helped many of them financially and sent some of their children to college without telling anyone about it, except possibly John Shepard. He and John had a big vegetable garden, kept Prince the horse, Daisy the cow and chickens and pigs. And they grew beautiful flowers. On the morning of the day Susie Myers and Ralph Wilson were married, we picked tubs and tubs and tubs of sweet peas and carried them up to Aunt Alice Myers, Grandpa's sister whom he loved dearly.

At Grandpa's funeral, the streets of Thomasville were lined with silent people all the way from Charles Thomas's drug store to the Methodist Church on Main Street. I rode on the front seat of the big black car beside John Shepard. Both of us were crying--that lonely way of crying, just tears rolling down our cheeks, and John kept saying, "What are we going to do without the Colonel?" And I know there have been so many times that we could have done better if we hadn't had to do without him.

On the front of The Alumni Register of Duke University for January 1929 there appears the picture of Frank Simmons Lambeth.

On the first page: "For many years the name of Lambeth has been synonymous with that of Trinity or Duke. One of the leaders of the family, a great layman, a pioneer of industry—a true alumnus, has stepped from the stage and left a noble heritage to those of his family who will continue that fine relationship with Alma Mater. His life and works are an inspiration to all of us. His contacts were many, but it can be truly said that three insitutions were always paramount in his life—the home, the church and Alma Mater." (Five pages of his life follow.)

Charles Franklin Lambeth

(by his sister-in-law, Lois Johnson)

Charles Franklin Lambeth, second son of Frank Simmons and Ella Arnold Lambeth, was a man whose zest for living, intellectual curiosity and lively wit made him charming, popular, and very useful. Small of stature and rather frail in appearance, he never shirked a responsibility that might contribute to the welfare of his community and state. With indefatigable energy and interest he served as town commissioner, chairman of the school board, superintendent of the Sunday school, trustee of Duke University, and chairman of the draft board.

Completely democratic, he despised all pretentiousness and pomposity and counted his friends among all walks of life. He was generous to a fault and was always ready to respond to appeals for help both from individuals and from organizations. He loved children, and they adored him. He was never happier than when he was taking his own children along with various nieces, nephews, and neighbors to a ballgame, a circus or a picnic. His wide interests and love of people made him a favorite with all kinds of adults, too.

As, harassed by business troubles, grieved by the death of his son-in-law in the service and the enlistment in the Navy of his only son just out of high school, and burdened with the increasing responsibilities of the draft board, he began to show signs of failing health, his family and friends urged him to give up his war work. He refused to do so, however, as he felt that was his part of the war effort; and he continued to carry on until his health broke completely. When he died in 1947, his friends felt that he was as much a war casualty as were those who fell in action and that he well deserved the inscription on his tombstone: "Write me as one who loves his fellow man."

I.E.1.c. Sketch James Erwin Lambeth

James Erwin Lambeth received his early education in Thomasville and was graduated in 1906 from Trinity College. He joined his father and brother in the furniture business to become president and general manager of Standard Chair Company.

"A man of many interests, Mr. Lambeth was affiliated with many organizations and his contributions to all of them were invaluable." He served as Mayor of Thomasville from 1929 to 1935. For sixteen years he was secretary-treasurer of Main Street Methodist Church and was elected lay leader of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of Greensboro College and Brevard College. He was a member of the State Library Commission and the Davidson County Library Board. He was a charter member and a president of the Thomasville Rotary Club. He was president of the Home Building and Loan Association and a member of the Board of Directors of City Memorial Hospital.

Sketch Katharine Covington Lambeth, wife of James Erwin Lambeth, Jr.

Jim and Kay Lambeth together organized Erwin-Lambeth Inc., a furniture manufacturing corporation in 1947, and presently he is Board Chairman and she is President of the firm.

Kay Lambeth graduated from Meredith College with a B. A. degree- with a major in music - as Katharine Covington. She is a member of the American Association of University Women and she has continued her studies through the years by attending summer sessions at Parsons School of Design and has received textile training in the extension department of the University of North Carolina.

In the course of her work she has traveled extensively throughout the United States, Latin America, and most of the major countries of Europe. Her keen insight into the home furnishings field has been considerably broadened through the international contacts afforded her through her travels.

She is a member of the Resources Council of America of which she has served as member of the Board of Directors and as a member of the nominating committee. She is an honorary life member of FDA, furniture design organization in North Carolina, and the products of the manufacturing company she heads are distributed throughout the United States and Canada. This year Kay Lambeth was instrumental in chartering a Carolinas Chapter (covering both North and South Carolina) of the National Home Fashions League, Inc., and she is serving as the chapter's first president.

Over the years she has been vitally interested in the field of the interior designer and has worked closely with most of the outstanding designers throughout America.

Kay Lambeth is the mother of four children, three of whom already are actively interested in the furniture business.

She is closely associated with the activities of Memorial Methodist Church. Among her most prized possessions is a service pin awarded her by the Women's Society of Christian Service of her church in recognition for outstanding service in the field of Christian endeavor.

She also finds time to be active in local civic affairs and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Thomasville Woman's Club. In 1963 Kay Lambeth was honored by the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs by being named the outstanding woman of the year in industry.

The products of the company Kay Lambeth directs have received recognition for outstanding design and quality by authorities in the field throughout the country. Erwin-Lambeth, Inc., distributes its products coast-to-coast through leading department stores, furniture stores, and interior designers. They maintain offices and showrooms in Thomas-ville, North Carolina, Chicago, Philadelphia, and New York City, as well as showrooms in San Francisco, Dallas and Atlanta.

Business Experience: Employer - Western Electric Co. from 1963 to present; Position - Planning Engineer. My experience with Western Electric has been in the field of manufacturing semiconductor devices. As a Planning Engineer I have effected cost reductions in excess of $200,000 annually in the fabrication of Alloy Junction Transistors. I am now responsible for the electrical probe testing and reliability evaluation of Military Integrated Circuits. I supervise the activities of two Engineering Associates and suggest assignments for several other Engineers. Product and Process Engineering have been a rewarding experience and I want to use the skills I have acquired in these areas to broaden the scope of my responsibilities.

"The land we live on was granted to a Mr. Yandel by the King of England during the 1700's. My great-great-great grandfather Wolfe bought it from Mr. Yandel and it has been owned by the Wolfes since. The original Mr. Wolfe came directly from Germany."

I.E.3.a.(3)(a) Sketch John Dorsett Ellington, Jr.

John Dorsett Ellington, Jr., attended Sharon Elementary School and graduated from Central High School, Charlotte, N. C. in 1952. After a year's attendance at the Citadel, he was appointed by Representative Hamilton C. Jones, Democrat, to the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York. As a Cadet, Ellington participated in many intramural sports, played Junior Varsity lacrosse and was president of the Cadet Handball Club during his senior year. On June 4, 1957, he graduated 147 out of a class of approximately 550 and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

His Air Force career of 10-1/2 years saw him earn pilot's wings, fly heavy transport aircraft from Dover AFB, Delaware, and receive a Master's Degree in Electrical Engineering from the Air Force Institute of Technology. He was discharged in December of 1967.

He then joined ARF Products, Inc., as technical services manager in which position he is charged with configuration management, and is the technical liaison representative for new research and development contracts. The ARF Products, Inc., Research and Development Laboratory in Boulder is primarily engaged in the design and construction of electronic instrumentation for environmental sciences, under contracts with NCAR, ESSA, the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories and several universities. Other current major projects include development of a new missile-target scoring system and design improvements in the company's missile tracking equipment. Ellington's assignments will be in these fields. He also will have some responsibilities supporting the ARF Products main plant in Raton, N. M.

Farmer (owner of two farms, one being historic Cedar Lodge Farm, for many years the homeplace of his great uncle, John W. Thomas, founder of Thomasville, N. C.). Mayor of Thomasville 1901-1907. (The forces in favor of a bond issue of $10,000 with which to erect a public school building selected as their candidate for Mayor John W. Lambeth, who stepped out and fought with all his power for the graded school - Excerpt from article in the Lexington Dispatch, May 2, 1905.)

Leader in public roads issue. Treasurer of the Davidson County Road Commission from 1915 to 1921.

Member of the Board of Stewards of Main Street Methodist Church for many years, becoming its chairman in 1928.

Mason, Treasurer of Thomasville Lodge No. 214, A.F. and A.M., for 25 consecutive years. Jr. O.U.A.M.; B.P. O.E.; National Grange; Charter member of the Thomasville Rotary Club.

Educated at Professor I. L. Wright's Academy and at Trinity College (now Duke University).

I.E.6. John Walter Lambeth, Sr. - Sketch

Near the dawn of the Twentieth Century when a few far-sighted Southerners were trying to pull their communities from the slough of despondency and were emerging as pioneers of the New South along industrial, educational and civic lines, John Walter Lambeth, Sr., was a prominent leader in Thomasville, in Davidson County, and in the Piedmont Section of North Carolina. He had finished his schooling at Professor I. L. Wright's Academy and at Trinity (now Duke University), married in 1890 and moved into a hotel as its proprietor when Thomasville was a mere hamlet.

After a few years as hotel proprietor, postmaster, and roller mill owner, in 1898 along with his brother, Colonel Frank S. Lambeth, and others, he started the Standard Chair Company. This bold undertaking, notwithstanding the dire prophecies of friends at that time to the contrary, met with signal success and was one of Thomasville's major industrial organizations for more than fifty years. In 1905 John W. Lambeth sold his interest in the Lambeth Furniture Company which he operated successfully for a number of years, being joined in this enterprise after World War I by his son, John Walter Lambeth, Jr. Along with his manufacturing, Mr. Lambeth also owned and operated two large farms, one widely known as Cedar Lodge Farm, which was once the home of his great uncle, John W. Thomas, the founder of Thomasville. In 1928, after selling his furniture factory, Mr. Lambeth became president of the First National Bank of Thomasville, a position which he held until his death in 1934. "During the trying and tragic years of 1930-33 when more than sixty banks all over the State were failing each year, this bank stood firm and was among the first in the State to open its doors after the bank holiday declared by Presidential Proclamation in March 1933." (Excerpt from Wheels of Faith and Courage, A History of Thomasville, North Carolina.)

In 1901 the forces in favor of a bond issue of $10,000 to erect a public school building selected as their candidate for Mayor, John W. Lambeth, Sr., who "stepped out and fought with all his power for the graded school." (Excerpt from article in The Dispatch, May 2, 1905). The bond issue carried; Mr. Lambeth and his ticket were elected by a large majority. "At that time Thomasville was one of the smallest towns in the State to take this forward step." (Excerpt from Leonard's History of Davidson County). As Mayor of Thomasville until 1907 he was a guiding influence in the establishment of the Thomasville Graded Schools and in laying the foundation for the modern system of democratic education. For four years he was a valuable member of the town's School Board and also for several years an active member of the County Board of Education. The Lambeth Furniture Company operated an electric light plant, furnishing lights to the city and to other factories, stores and residences until 1908.

From 1915 to 1921 Mr. Lambeth was treasurer of the Davidson County Road Commission and he also took a leading part in enacting the Davidson County Road Law and in popularizing the idea of good roads in North Carolina.

In 1916 Mr. Lambeth was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention from the Seventh Congressional District. He was a director of the North Carolina Railroad; director of the First National Bank for many years; director of the High Point branch of Wachovia Bank & Trust Company; investor in High Point, Thomasville and Denton Railway Company, North State Telephone Company and other local enterprises as well as national corporations.

For many years Mr. Lambeth was a trustee and steward of the Main Street Methodist Church and in 1928 he became chairman of the board of stewards. He was a charter member of the Thomasville Rotary Club, a member of the Junior Order U.A.M., of the National Grange, of the B.P.O.E., and a Mason, having been treasurer of Thomasville Lodge No. 214, A.F. and A.M., for twenty-five consecutive years.

In 1890 John Walter Lambeth, Sr., married Daisy Hunt Sumner, daughter of Captain Julian Everard and Jennie (Loftin) Sumner. The Sumner family has long been distinguished in North Carolina for leadership, scholarship and patriotism. To Mr. and Mrs. Lambeth were born four children: David Sumner, who died at the age of seventeen years; John Walter Lambeth, Jr., whose sketch appears in this family history; Ernestine, who married Thomas Austin Finch, Sr., (whose sketch appears in this family history), and after his death, Dr. L. K. Mobley, a prominent dentist in New York City; Julian Hill, who died in infancy.

John W. Lambeth, Sr., was always ready to back the forces for moral and material progress in the upbuilding of his town and country, in whose great future he believed with all his heart.

I.E.6.b. John Walter Lambeth, Jr. - Sketch

(Excerpt from History of North Carolina, Family and Personal History, published by Lewis Historical Publishing Company, Inc., in 1956. Volume IV).

John Walter Lambeth, Jr., Thomasville's only native son who has become representative in the United States Congress, was born January 10, 1896, the son of John Walter and Daisy Hunt Sumner Lambeth. After graduating from the graded school of Thomasville, he continued his studies at Trinity Park and Trinity College in Durham, N. C., (now Duke University) from which he graduated with the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1916. During the succeeding year he pursued a course at the Harvard School of Business Administration but left school to enlist as a private in World War I. He served as a sergeant of the First Army, A.E.F., and participated in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. After the war he spent some months as a student in London University.

On his return from military service, John Walter Lambeth, Jr., joined his father in the Lambeth Furniture Company, a plant manufacturing bedroom furniture, and was secretary-treasurer, and later, president of the firm.

From boyhood Walter Lambeth was interested in the study of government. He was elected a member of the State Senate in 1921. As Mayor of Thomasville from 1925 to 1929, he instituted improvements in city government, such as a sinking fund for bonded indebtedness and a study of city planning. In 1930 he was elected as representative from the Seventh North Carolina Congressional District (changed in 1933 to the Eighth District) to the United States Congress, an office which he held until he voluntarily retired in 1938. While in Congress Mr. Lambeth with distinction represented his district and state; he became chairman of the House Committee on Printing and of the Joint Committee on Printing; his most important service was on the Foreign Affairs Committee where he achieved high rank. During the 1930's no member of Congress was more active and outspoken in defense of Woodrow Wilson and the idea of collective security than he. In 1937. Mr. Lambeth was selected as one of six members of Congress to be a member of an official delegation to participate in the dedication of World War I monuments and chapels erected at American battlefields in Europe, and delivered the dedicatory address at Bellicourt (Aisne), where the 30th Division participated in the great and decisive Battle of Hindenburg Line in September 1918.

When Mr. Lambeth retired from Congress, one of the local newspapers said:

"The citizens of Thomasville paid deserved tribute to a conscientious legislator whose services to his district and his state have been sane, progressive and constructive. He was one of the best equipped men for his duties who ever represented North Carolina in the national Congress and his outstanding record of service and achievement testifies to his ability, high ideals and assiduous effort in behalf of his constituents and the state as a whole."

In further recognition of his service in the field of foreign affairs, President Franklin D. Roosevelt tendered Mr. Lambeth in July 1939 the post of Minister to Bulgaria, which was declined.

After retirement from Congress, Mr. Lambeth devoted his time to his investments, including real estate and dairy farming. He operated historic Cedar Lodge Farm along with two other farms through a partnership arrangement, making practical experiments in grass farming, purebred Holstein cattle and scientific harvesting of trees. He also contributed greatly to the community life of the city, having been first president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1949, a trustee of the Thomasville Community Foundation, and an organizer of the United Fund efforts. His was a leading hand in the town's Centennial Celebration in 1952.

Mr. Lambeth was a Royal Arch Mason; a member of the Junior Order U.A.M.; the National Grange; charter member and second president of the Thomasville Rotary Club. He was a member of Memorial Methodist Church and for many years a member of its board of stewards. His college fraternity was Kappa Sigma; he was also a member of the O.D.K., of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars; the Sons of the American Revolution; and the Newcomen Society.

In 1949 John Walter Lambeth, Jr., and Miss Helen Urban, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, were married. They had one child, Diane Sumner Lambeth, born February 13, 1954. Mr. Lambeth died January 11, 1961.

His widow, Mrs. Ernestine Lambeth Finch (now Mobley) and their son, Thomas Austin Finch, Jr., created the Thomas Austin Finch Foundation by setting up a very large sum, the income from which is to be used for religious, educational and charitable purposes. This Foundation paid for the Austin Finch Chapel of the Memorial Methodist Church and the Thomasville branch of the Davidson County Library, and has given large scholarships to many worthy students.

I.E.6.c. Sketch - Thomas Austin Finch, husband of Daisy Ernestine Lambeth

(Excerpt from History of North Carolina, Family and Personal History, Vol. III) 1956:

Regarded as one of the nation's outstanding industrialists during his nearly twenty-five year career as president of the Thomasville Chair Company, Thomas Austin Finch led in the development and expansion of the organization through the dark Depression days. His reputation was such that President Franklin Roosevelt called him to Washington for consultation on critical issues, and he gave distinguished service on the Industrial Advisory Board of the National Recovery Administration and the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce. He was equally honored in his own city of Thomasville and credited with doing much to make it a better place to live in, serving as he did as mayor of the city and as a member of the school board.

Thomas Austin Finch, Sr., came from a long and distinguished line of North Carolinians. His father was active in industrial and business interests in Thomasville before the turn of the century. Thomas Jefferson Finch and his brother, Charles F. Finch, purchased the Thomasville Chair Company in 1907, when it had been in operation for two years. Thomas Jefferson Finch became president, a position which he held until succeeded by his son, Thomas Austin Finch, at his death in 1929. He was one of the organizers and first president of the First National Bank of Thomasville, a position he also held until his death. His wife was Hannah Louise (Brown) Finch who was born in Randolph County on December 31, 1866, and died, in Thomasville, August 28, 1933.

Thomas Austin Finch was born April 7, 1890, in Trinity Township, the second oldest of five sons. He was graduated from Trinity College, now Duke University, in 1909 and went immediately into the Thomasville Chair Company serving in various phases of its operation and as secretary and treasurer of the corporation until he became president in 1929. Under his direction, the company expanded and developed into one of the largest manufacturers of furniture in the South. It was under his leadership that the Thomasville Chair Company attained the national prominence and excellent reputation it enjoys today. He himself was not content to be president of this great company and carry out his civic undertakings. He was also president of the First National Bank of Thomasville from 1934 until his death in 1943, director of the Thomasville Realty and Trust Company, director and vice president of the High Point, Thomasville, and Denton Railroad, director of the Carolina Bank and Trust Company of Denton, director of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company of Winston-Salem, and director of the Security Life and Trust Company of Winston-Salem. He was a member and a past chairman of the board of governors of the American Furniture Mart Building of Chicago, and a member and past president of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association.

In local affairs, the industrialist was as unstinting with his time and mental powers as he was in the business world. He served as chairman of the board of trustees of the City Memorial Hospital, chairman of the board of stewards of the Main Street Methodist Church, and as a member of the board of trustees of the Children's Home, Methodist Orphanage in Winston-Salem. A charter member of the Rotary Club, he was its first president. He was an active Mason and took part in the programs of the Alumni of Trinity College.

On November 6, 1919, T. Austin Finch married Ernestine Lambeth, the daughter of John Walter and Daisy Hunt Sumner Lambeth. They were the parents of a son, Thomas Austin Finch, Jr., born August 12, 1922. (A sketch of Thomas Austin Finch, Jr., is attached.)

The accomplishments of Thomas Austin Finch, Sr. will not soon be forgotten. Religious, educational, and charitable causes are even now receiving aid from the income of a large fund set up a year after his death by his wife and son known as the Thomas Austin Finch Foundation. The beautiful Austin Finch Chapel of the Memorial Methodist Church and the Thomasville branch of the Davidson County Library were built with money from the fund and serve as fitting monuments to a noble man whose great heart and keen mind were constantly employed for the betterment of his city, state and nation.

I.E.6.c.(1) Sketch - Thomas Austin Finch, Jr.

Thomas Austin Finch, Jr., has not merely followed in his forefathers' footsteps in furniture manufacturing but has far out-distanced them. His grandfathers, John Walter Lambeth, Sr., and Thomas Jefferson Finch, took pioneer steps in furniture manufacturing in the New South; his father took bigger steps in extending his manufacturing and making Thomasville furniture known throughout the nation; but he has taken a giant stride by merging into a round-the-world enterprise. As president, he and his associates expanded the Thomasville Furniture Industries, Inc., to twelve plants in Thomasville, five plants in other North Carolina towns (B. F. Huntley Furniture Company, Winston-Salem, N. C., in 1961; Phenix Chair Company, West Jefferson, N. C., in 1964; Founders Furniture, Inc., Pleasant Garden, N. C., in 1965; Western Carolina Upholstery Company, Hickory, N. C., in 1966; Caldwell Furniture Company, Lenoir, N. C., in 1968), and one in Mississippi. The Thomasville Furniture Industries, Inc., became a public corporation with its first public stock offering in April, 1962, and its listing on the New York Stock Exchange in July, 1964. Upon the merger with Armstrong Cork Company, of which Thomas Austin Finch, Jr., is Senior Vice President, the Thomasville Furniture Industries plants were united with thirty-five other plants located in eleven states in the United States and in Australia, Canada, England, India, Spain and West Germany. The Armstrong Cork Company employs approximately 23,412 people in the manufacture and sales of more than $550,000,000 annually of home building and industrial products, household furniture and carpets throughout the world.

Mr. Finch is the son of Thomas Austin Finch, Sr., who was president of the Thomasville Chair Company at his death (and whose brilliant history is sketched elsewhere in this book), and Ernestine (Lambeth) Finch, and the grandson of Thomas Jefferson Finch and of John Walter Lambeth, Sr. pioneer furniture manufacturers. Tom A. Finch was born August 12, 1922, in Thomasville, attended the public schools of Thomasville, graduated from Woodberry Forest Preparatory School, Orange, Virginia, and from Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey, in 1944, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Engineering. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa during his junior year at Princeton University.

Immediately upon graduation, he entered the Navy, serving in various theaters of operations, and was discharged, after three years, with the rank of lieutenant junior grade. He then became vice president of the Thomasville Chair Company and in 1961 became president (the name of the company having in the meantime been changed to the Thomasville Furniture Industries, Inc.)

Mr. Finch has extensive interests outside the company. He is a past president of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' Association, and of Furniture Factories Marketing Association. He is a member and past chairman of the Board of Governors of the American Furniture Mart, of which he is now serving as a director. In 1963 he was named Furniture Man of the Year. He is a director of Wachovia Bank & Trust Company, of Carolina and Northwestern Railroad and of Integon Corporation.

He has been active in church and civic affairs, being a member of the Memorial United Methodist Church, a member and past chairman of the Official Board. He is a member and past president of the Thomasville Rotary Club, a trustee of the Thomasville City Memorial Hospital, a trustee of Duke University and a trustee of Woodberry Forest School.

On June 4, 1949, Thomas Austin Finch, Jr., married Meredith Clark Slane, daughter of Willis H. Slane (who was president of High Point's Slane Hosiery Mills) and Meredith (Clark) Slane. They have five children: Thomas Austin Finch, III; John Lambeth Finch; David Slane Finch; Sumner Slane Finch; and Meredith Kempton Finch. Mrs. Finch is a graduate of Salem Academy, Winston-Salem, and of Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Virginia.

I.E.10.b. ALLIED LINE - MAJ. W. A. CONLEY, Father of Johnsie Garden Conley (wife of Harry Lee Lambeth)

MAJ. W. A. CONLEY

HONORED CITIZEN OF MCDOWELL COUNTY PASSES AWAY AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS. FUNERAL SUNDAY.

Major W. A. Conley died at his home in Marion Friday evening at 8:45 o'clock after a serious illness of a week's duration.

The funeral service was conducted at the Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. L. D. Thompson, and Rev. H. H. Jordan, of Morganton, and interment made in Oak Grove cemetery at 3 o'clock. The great multitude of people from different sections of the county, and classes from the town who attended his funeral and burial, showed with what esteem he was held by all of our citizens.

Maj. Conley was born in Caldwell County September 12, 1837. His father moved to his farm on the Catawba river in McDowell county, when Maj. Conley was only a boy and he lived there the remainder of his life. He owned the fine and valuable old home of his father. He married Miss Hennie Gardin, daughter of Capt. George H. Gardin, January 9, 1888. Eleven children survive.

He was from one of the most prominent families in McDowell County, and personally was one of the most prominent men that has ever lived in the county. He enlisted in the Confederate army under Col. D. H. Hill, and was a brave and true soldier.

He held many responsible positions in the county. He served several terms as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and represented the county in both the House and the Senate in the Legislature, but his greatest usefulness and force in the county was in his home and business life.

By his industry and fine business judgment he accumulated a considerable amount of property which he has left to his family. He owned several valuable farms, owned stock in furniture factories, cotton mills and banks, and was vice president of the Western Furniture Company, and president of the First National Bank at the time of his death. He was a man that the business men of the town turned to when they wanted to enter into any financial enterprise. He was a man who had implicit confidence in his friends. He was a man of very strong convictions and character, yet entirely unpretentious. He never tried to make any display of himself or his property. He was generous in his nature, and a philanthropist in helping to build up his section of the county. He gave one thousand dollars on the bridge that the county built across the Catawba river in Nebo township, and gave five hundred dollars to the Nebo High School. He was very kind to all classes of people, especially the poor. While his barns and larder were overflowing with plenty, he never turned away the poor and needy who went to him for bread and meat, and was never known to oppress the poor. He was the very personification of honor and honesty and we are told that "an honest man is the noblest work of God."

In his death, not only his family, but McDowell county has sustained a great loss.

At a meeting of the Directors of the First National Bank on Tuesday, the following resolution was adopted:

"WHEREAS, God in His wisdom has recalled our beloved President, Major Conley, to Himself; and whereas in the long service of Major Conley as President of this Bank, and its parent banks, the institutions have had wonderful progress and success, the high character and noble qualities of the President not only always protecting the patrons, but lending and creating confidence and good will;

"AND WHEREAS, the loss of his kindly gracious presence and personality is an irreparable loss;

"NOW THEREFORE be it resolved: That this Bank record the feelings of each Director that in his loss, we mourn, in his absence we suffer; to his character we point all men as an example of noble qualities and high standard of living; that our hearts go out in sympathy to his noble wife and children, and that his memory will always be a benediction upon those with whom he served.

I.I. Joseph Harrison Lambeth's War Record 1861-1865
From the Adjutant General -
Records: Joseph H. Lambeth, 3rd Lieutenant, Co. B, 14th Regiment N. C. Infantry Confederate States Army, enlisted Apr. 23, 1861 at Thomasville, age 21 years; occupation, clerk. He was promoted as follows: 2nd

Lieut. May 26, 1861, Capt. Apr. 25, 1862; Major Dec. 1862. Union Prisoner of War Records show that he was paroled in accordance with the terms of a Military Convention at Greensboro, N. C., May 2, 1865.

Signed: C. H. Bridges, Major Gen.

From a Booklet by P. L. Ledford - "War Sketches of Confederate Veterans," printed Jan. 1, 1900.

He was in Battles of Williamsburg, Seven Pines, Malvern Hill, 2nd Maryland Campaign, Gettysburg, Fredericksburg, Wilderness, Chancellorsville, Spottsylvania Court House, Mine Run and Winchester. On Sept. 18, 1864, he was wounded at Winchester and taken prisoner by enemy - placed in Baltimore, Point Lookout, Md., and exchanged at Savannah, Ga. November 26.

"As an officer he was kind to the men, but firm, and while preserving the dignity of his position he was not domineering; was social with all but did not make himself too familiar, was willing to share necessary privations with the men and as far as possible looked after their comfort."

After the war he farmed. In 1870 he commenced merchandizing at Thomasville. After several years he pioneered in furniture manufacturing.

"He has been chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and held other responsible positions, has been conspicuous in every movement for the betterment of his town and county, has never overdrawn a bank account either as an individual or as a manager of a company, has never had a check rejected and has never failed to get money when needed. In war he was a good soldier and in time of peace is a good citizen."

I.I.2. William Alexander Lambeth

LUCRETIA LAMBETH KERNODLE AND
NANCY LAMBETH KERNODLE

Two daughters of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth were married to John Kernodle: Lucretia, whose birthdate is unknown, but who was born prior to the settlement of the estate of her uncle Aaron on 6 February, 1804 (since she was named as one of his heirs) and Nancy, who was born after this date.

No documented history of the Kernodle family has been found, but in 1938 John D. Kernodle of Graham wrote (presumably to his cousin Lula Kernodle Faucette) what he knew of the tradition. This information he got, he says, from "Professor," but did not give that gentleman's name:

> "During the Revolutionary War three Kernodle brothers sailed from the fatherland for America. George, our great grandfather, the youngest of the three brothers, was the only one to reach the destination. In a storm at sea all the others were washed overboard and drowned. George was still in his middle teens. An older man, who was known as 'Uncle Ossea' became a sort of foster father to George. They made their home in Pennsylvania, in the region of Philadelphia, in the German section. After George grew to manhood he came south and made his home in Rockingham County, N.C. I have my own idea that 'Uncle Ossea' came and spent a winter, also. My grandfather spoke of him as 'St. Ossea,' and passed it on down to his children. George was twice married, his children were all boys but one, as I have it. He remarried in North Carolina. Two of the boys were my grandfather John, and George."
> "The original George, after the death of two wives, returned to Pennsylvania. A cemetery keeper of a German cemetery in Philadelphia, located his grave for professor."

There is some confusion in this letter as to the names and homes of the other brothers but it appears that there may have been one named Richard whose descendants live in Alamance County; another named Jacob who moved to Indiana, and still another named Paul who settled in Georgia and has descendants there. Other descendants lived in Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. There are many Kernodles in Germany.

Another source of the early tradition and later lineage of the Kernodle family of Piedmont North Carolina may be found in the supplement of a typescript of a history of the Epps and other families, including the Kernodles. It was compiled in 1962 by Mrs. John Q. Anderson, and a copy is in the genealogical collection of the North Carolina State Library, Raleigh, North Carolina. A third tradition states that the Kernodle family was from Holland, and that the father of the three sons who sailed for America was named Peter. Again the legend is that two of the sons were drowned in a storm at sea, and that the third, who landed at Philadelphia, died and was buried there.

The marriage bond of Lucretia Lambeth and John Kernodle was recorded in Guilford County on 19 February, 1821, with John Troxler as bondsman. She became the mother of the first seven of John Kernodle's children—the last of whom was born 11 March, 1832. She must have died at this time, or shortly thereafter, because her husband soon married her sister Nancy.

The only child of John and Nancy Lambeth Kernodle—Edna Elizabeth—was born 14 July, 1833. Nancy died within a short time and by 1835, or before, John Kernodle was married for the third time to Eliza Flack, daughter of Thomas (or Elijah) Flack and his wife, Jane. The will of Jane Flack, widow, is recorded in Rockingham County, dated 12 August, 1867 and probated in August, 1867. (Will Book D, page 83.) In this will she names her daughter Eliza J. Kernodle. Eliza Flack Kernodle was born 18 March, 1815.

The John Kernodle home was a log house, probably built about 1821, at the time of his first marriage. It is still standing, has a second half-story, a framed "L," and is the oldest house in existence, belonging to any of the Lambeth connections. The present owner is caring for it and making repairs. It is located on the northeast side of Haw River, about 1½ miles northwest of the bridge carrying N. C. highway 87, at the village of Altamahaw, and was situated on a farm comprising a very large tract of land, part of which was in eastern Guilford and the other part in western Orange (now Alamance) County. In 1825, a few years after the marriage of Lucretia Lambeth and John Kernodle, he bought 80½ acres of land on Reedy Fork, near the mouth of Buckhorn Creek, from his father-in-law, Josiah Lambeth. (See Josiah Lambeth deeds.) They had probably settled on this land when they were married. On 29 July, 1842, John Kernodle bought additional land, adjoining his own, which sale was the foreclosure of a mortgage on land owned by David Thomas and sold by James Sutton, Trustee, to satisfy a debt owed by Thomas to William Sutton. John Kernodle, as highest bidder, purchased the land for $250.00 (Guilford County Deed Book 27, page 64). By 1847, John Kernodle is listed as living in Orange County, where, on 10 January, 1847, he sold to his son Josiah Kernodle (also of Orange County) for $430.00, 334 acres on the waters of Haw River, to the Fayetteville Road, adjoining Piles land. Witnesses were S. S. Cryer and George Kernodle. On 2 September, 1848, John Kernodle sold to James Barber, 141 acres on the south side of Reedy Fork, on John Lewis' line. Witnesses were George Apple and George Kernodle. (Alamance County Deek Book 1, page 88.) There may be other deeds of John Kernodle's in Guilford, Rockingham, Orange or Alamance records. (Alamance was formed from Orange in 1849.)

(The following early records of the family came from a Kernodle Bible now owned by Roy Kernodle, who lives in Alamance County (on the west side of N. C. highway 87, near the Guilford County line, about 2 miles north of Haw River.) This Bible must have been owned at one time by Adam Rile Kernodle (son of Josiah Kernodle) who signed this entry: "This the 26th February, 1854. The highest water (on the Haw River) that has ever been, nearly (illegible) feet." Other records were compiled by William C. Rankin of Charlotte (now deceased), and these have been supplemented by Cassandra Kernodle Ricketts. Additional records were contributed by Ruth A. Kernodle McDonald.)

John Kernodle was born in Guilford County 28 March, 1793, died in Alamance County 17 March, 1866 and is buried at Bethlehem Church, Alamance County. Children of John and Lucretia Lambeth Kernodle (2nd generation from Josiah Lambeth):

2g 1. George Kernodle, born Guilford County 27 Nov., 1821, married 21 Aug., 1845 to Elizabeth Apple; married 2nd 5 Dec., 1848 to Mary Waynack. He died 1900, buried Bethlehem Christian Church, Altamahaw, N.C.

2. Josiah Kernodle, born Guilford County 29 April, 1823, died 1869, buried at church above. Mar. 4 March, 1847 to Isabella Jane Cummins, born 12 Feb., 1827, daughter of William Cummings and his 1st wife, Elizabeth Smith, who were married in 1823. Isabella was buried at Bethlehem Church.

3g 1. Doctor Franklin Kernodle, born Guilford Co., 31 July, 1853, died 5 April, 1934. Buried Monticello Church of Christ Cemetery. Mar. 13 March, 1876 to Margaret Lydia Garrison, daughter of John and Lucinda Garrison. She was born 6 March, 1852, died 30 June, 1929. Buried at church above. (NOTE: The first son of Josiah and Isabella Kernodle was not a doctor. W. C. Rankin, of Charlotte, who did research on this family stated, "I think Ibby (the mother) wanted a doctor son so badly that she gave the name to her first son for fear she would not have a doctor son. The Lord blessed her with doctors; two sons, George and Loftin became doctors, and a grandson, Charles Edward Kernodle, son of Doctor Franklin Kernodle followed in their footsteps. Then, the family of Dr. Charles Edward Kernodle must have set some kind of record, for the five sons all became good doctors." Perhaps Isabella used her own version of what is said to have been an old English custom: "The seventh son of a family, born in succession without a girl was named 'Doctor;' and it was believed he was born with special aptness for the healing art." (The English Dialect Dictionary, Joseph Wright, editor. Vol. 2, page 104.))

The following article appeared in the Greensboro Daily News at the time of the death of Dr. Franklin Kernodle (Oct. 10, 1967):

"Dr. John Franklin Kernodle, who was known as Frank, was in the hospital at the time of his 84th birthday, Aug. 29th. The family knew the illness was terminal but got permission from the doctor to take him home overnight.

Home was not the farm in the northeast part of the county where he and wife, Cassie, lived after he retired from dentistry practice in 1943. Home was 620 Park Ave., now residence of a Kernodle daughter and her husband, Evelyn and Charles Pratt. There, Mrs. Kernodle and all five of the children celebrated the birthday.

All four of the Kernodle daughters are graduates of UNC-G. In fact, it was after the youngest had graduated that Dr. Kernodle decided he could end 36 years of dental practice to give full time to the farm, his great love. He worked his way through Elon College and through Dental School and established the farm, he said to earn sheep skins for his girls. For years he sold lambs to the UNC-G kitchens.

Youngest of the Kernodle off-spring, the only son, John Franklin, Jr., came to live near Dr. and Mrs. Kernodle several years ago and took over the farming. He studied at Elon College... and went into the Air Force during World War II.

Margaret Kernodle DeChard, who for 25 years has reported for the Associated Press assignment to Capitol Hill, and husbant Pat, returned to Washington last night. Margaret was touched that the entire North Carolina delegation sent flowers for her father, in addition to a separate design from Senator Jordan. Associated Press also paid floral tribute to the father of their Maggie. And there were flowers from the cafeteria chain for which Frances (Kernodle) Blunk is dietitian (in Louisville), from the Wilmington group who worked in real estate with the Pratts, and from Western Electric where Frank, Jr. was employed before taking over the farm."

Lovick Lambeth was the first of the children of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth to be born in Guilford County. They moved there from Craven County only a short time before his birth on 9 August, 1800.

He grew up on his father's large farm on North Buffalo Creek in northeast Guilford County and when he was twenty-three years old married Mary Harvey, daughter of Jonathan and Catherine Bird Harvey of Orange County. Mary Harvey Lambeth was born in the portion of Orange County which is now Alamance County, on 20 February, 1794. After the death of her mother she apparently moved to Guilford County (where a married sister was living) and shortly thereafter married Lovick Lambeth. The date of their marriage bond was 15 September, 1823. Daniel Hart (who had married Mary's sister) was the bondsman.

Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth probably settled on land which belonged to Lovick's father Josiah, and it is likely that this was the land on Reedy Fork Creek, in the north central part of Guilford County, which was among Josiah's last purchases. There is no record that Lovick ever bought any land, nor is there a deed showing that he was ever given any by his father. However, when Lovick moved away from Guilford Co. in 1853 he sold 146 acres in the location mentioned above. All of the land purchased by Josiah Lambeth can be accounted for by deeds of sale, except 146 acres, suggesting that Lovick's homeplace was given him by his father.

Although, like other men of his day in the rural south, Lovick Lambeth was first a farmer, he had other vocations which he also followed during different periods of his life. From 1834 through 1838 he is listed as a merchant in Guilford County Court minutes, subject to paying taxes, as such.

Whether because of difficulties with his business, or failure of crops, he seems to have had to borrow a very substantial amount of money from Joshua Summers, some time before 1842. His securities for this loan were his brother-in-law, John C. Harvey, and a relative of Harvey's wife's—Allen Gunn, of Caswell County. John C. Harvey, as Lovick Lambeth's security, repaid the loan due in the amount of $1,010.92. At the February Court in 1842 John C. Harvey brought suit against Lovick Lambeth for the money he had paid as security, and Lovick was ordered by the court to make good the money, with interest.

Lovick Lambeth's second career—that of a minister—began in 1840 as seen from the following sketch from Lives of Christian Ministers, by P. J. Kernodle, M.A., Sec. Southern Christian Convention, pub. 1909, Richmond, Va., page 206. "Rev. Lovick Lambeth was born in Guilford County, North Carolina, and moving west about the middle of the last century, died in Indiana as is believed. He was the son of Josiah Lambeth, who, though of English descent, married and settled north of the North Buffalo, in Guilford County, North Carolina, about the year 1770 or 1780, or possibly a little earlier, in the Dutch settlement, and reared a large family of nine daughters and four sons. His sons were named Joseph, John Josiah, Lovick and Shade (Shaderick) and of these sons Lovick is the subject of this brief sketch.

Rev. Lovick Lambeth was a candidate for licensure and was received as a member of the North Carolina and Virginia Conference at Union meeting house, in Orange County (now Alamance) in 1840. At this Conference he offered the following: 'Resolved, that a committee be appointed consisting of three or more brethren to wait on the Methodist Protestant Conference upon the subject of Christian Union.' At Apple's Chapel in Guilford County, in 1841, he was present as licentiate and was recommended for ordination. He was solemnly set apart to work of preaching the gospel by the presbytery composed of Revs. D. W. Kerr, J. H. Bland and Lewis Craven. In 1843, he was present at the Conference at Pleasant Grove, in Randolph County, and in 1844, at a conference at Hank's chapel, in Chatham County, North Carolina. At this latter he served on the committee on finance. At the conference at Apple's Chapel, in 1845, he served on the committee on itinerancy, and on the publishing committee to receive bids from printers in Greensboro, North Carolina, in 1848 he attended the conference at new Providence, and at Hank's Chapel in 1849, was chairman of the committee on the state of the church. The report says, 'Our cause was at no former period so prosperous as at present.'

In 1859, he resided at or near Summerfield, in Guilford County, and was in attendance upon the Conference at Union Chapel in Alamance County, N. C. The Home Mission committee at Salem Chapel, in Forsyth County, reported him as removed, and at subsequent Conferences—as absent in 1869, not heard from in 1870, and as in Indiana in 1871."

Page 115: (Under sketch of Daniel Wilson Kerr) "At the conference at Apple's Chapel, in Guilford County, N. C. in 1841, he (Daniel W. Kerr) was on the presbytery to ordain Job. S. Swift, George G. Walker, and Lovick Lambeth, Sunday, October 3, at 11 o'clock A. M. 1841." Also on the presbytery to ordain these men was Rev. Joseph H. Bland (page 144).

Though untrained for the ministry in a formal sense, Lovick Lambeth apparently made an effort to improve his skills in preaching and in writing—buying a grammar and a dictionary in 1846 at the estate sale of his brother John—himself a minister.

Except for being drawn for jury duty in May 1835 and in May 1838 there is no record of Lovick Lambeth's participation in public affairs. Possibly this was because no land was registered in his name, and the qualification for many public duties was being a "free holder." However, his name is found in court records in connection with family and personal business. In November, 1831 he acted as trustee of 290½ acres of land—with Saw and Grist Mills—located on Irish Creek, to secure a debt of $608.00 owed by Benjamin Brown to John Lambeth. When the debt was not paid, as agreed, by 1 December, 1831, Lovick Lambeth sold the property two months later to Henry Isley for $700.00, he being the highest bidder. In May 1844 Lovick brought suit against his brothers Shadrick Lambeth and John Lambeth for a debt of $149.00 and won the case.

In August, 1845 he was again listed as a merchant, after seven years of inactivity in this kind of business. His name was also included in a list of merchants in 1850 and 1851.

For the second time Lovick Lambeth found himself in serious financial difficulties which now necessitated the mortgaging of his home place in October, 1852. This was to secure an account due to J. M. McConnell for about $1,800.00, as well as a bond of $418.85. McConnell was one of the most important merchants of the area, with a business which may have been located in Greensboro. Cyrus P. Mendenhall acted as trustee for this mortgage and the property put up as security for the debts was 146 acres on the waters of Reedy Fork, plus "one buggy and harness." The land adjoined that of Mr. Pearson—probably Jeremiah Pearson whose daughter, Delitha married Lovick Lambeth's son John A. Lambeth. The property was subject to sale after 1 January, 1853 but the debt must have been paid by that time since in the fall of that year Lovick Lambeth, then living in Smith County, Virginia sold the same land to his son Rankin for $1,200.00.

Early in 1854 Lovick Lambeth bought 100 acres in Smyth County, Virginia from George W. Halsie and Elizabeth, his wife. The land lay on the waters of Cress Creek, in Rye Valley.

During the time Lovick Lambeth lived in Virginia he evidently went into the business of making and repairing wagons for which it was necessary to borrow substantial sums of money both from the Bank of Virginia, at Lynchburg and from various individuals. This venture ended in financial failure and in March of 1857 he executed two deeds the first a confession of judgment against him for debts amounting to about $950.00. The following day he mortgaged the land he had bought in Smyth County, plus 42 "horse wagons not finished," all household and kitchen furniture, "shops to finish the wagons," as well as all notes and accounts belonging to him, and his interest in a lease of houses and lots on Dickey's Creek.

In addition to the debts mentioned above, there were also debts of $650.00 to the Branch of the Cape Fear Bank in Salem, North Carolina and of $1300.00 to the Bank of Salem.

By 1859 Lovick Lambeth and his wife had returned to live in Guilford County, where he is listed in the census of 1860 as a minister. His personal property was valued at $50.00 but he owned no real estate. His name is listed next to that of his son Loftin Harvey Lambeth suggesting that he may have made his home on land which his son owned.

Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth moved to Indiana some time in the 1860s. According to tradition, they went west to make their home with their daughter Cornelia and her husband Daniel Low, who had already settled there. There is no record that Lovick purchased land in Indiana until February, 1869. He and his wife probably moved the year before although they may have been living in the home of their daughter before this. At that time Lovick and his son Rankin bought from Eli Apple and wife Frances, three tracts totaling 126 acres, in the south central part of Orange County. This land bordered on the property of Daniel Low, Eli Apple, and John Easter.

At the end of the year Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth bought from Rankin and Mary, his wife (who were then living in Sullivan County, Indiana) their half of the land described above. The following month—January, 1870—Lovick and Mary sold all of this property to their daughter and son-in-law, Cornelia and Daniel Low. These are the only recorded land transactions of Lovick Lambeth's after he moved from Guilford County to settle in Orange County, Indiana.

It is not clear whether Lovick and Mary Lambeth made their home with Daniel and Cornelia Low after selling their property to them. Possibly they moved about 45 miles away to Sullivan County to live with their son Rankin Lambeth and his wife Mary. From recollections of family history recounted by Rankin Lambeth's youngest daughter, Adalida, Lovick Lambeth was very close to this family and was living with them at the time of Adalida's birth in 1871. It is said that it was he who chose this grand-daughter's name—naming her for the ship that brought the Lambeths to America. He also taught some of Rankin's older children, since there were no public schools where they were living. This may have been both in North Carolina and after moving to Indiana. Will Lambeth, Rankin Lambeth's youngest son, was not yet old enough for school when Lovick died, but remembered being taught many Bible stories by his grandfather. Rankin Lambeth's wife Mary was apparently very fond of her father-in-law and spoke to her children of his kindness and helpfulness to her. There is much to indicate that Lovick Lambeth was loved and respected by his children and grandchildren.

Lovick and Mary Lambeth both died in 1872 and are buried in the cemetery of Apples Chapel, which is located about $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Paoli, Indiana, and probably only a mile or two from where they settled. This chapel was established in 1847 at the home of John Apple. Members of this family—who may have come from northern Guilford County—made up the majority of the early members of the church.

One tombstone marks the graves of Lovick and Mary Lambeth—inscribed "Lovic Lambeth, Born in the year 1800, Died in Oct. 1872" and "Mary, wife of Lovic Lambeth, Born Feb. 17, 1794, Died Aug. 1872." On another side is the following inscription: "The pains of life are past; Labor and Sorrow cease; And life long work closed at last; Their souls now rest in peace."

From what is known of Lovick Lambeth's life, it was not an easy one. The epitaph seems to describe very well, a man whose greatest success was in his work as a minister, but who lived at a time when one had to work at other pursuits, too, in order to support a family. He experienced a succession of failures in the various businesses he undertook, but his repeated efforts indicate an unwillingness to give up. If character can be judged from facial expression, his photograph suggests that he was a man of honesty and straight-forwardness—of strength and gentleness.

The following records of Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth and their children are from the family Bible of a descendant, Mrs. Gertrude Wilson, of Corona, California. They were sent to Mrs. James Doggett, in April, 1954.

Lovick Lambeth was born Aug. 9th, 1800.

JOHN A. LAMBETH

John A. Lambeth, eldest child of Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth, was born in north central Guilford County in June, 1824. (His tombstone gives the date as 29 June; his family Bible gives 20 June.) A marriage bond was issued in Guilford County on 20 December, 1844 for John A. Lambeth and Delitha Moore Pearson, with her brother John Gullett Pearson, as bondsman, and they were married on 2 January, 1845. Delitha, who was born 19 July, 1819, was the daughter of Jeremiah and Mary Pearson who lived near the Lovick Lambeth family. Jeremiah Pearson was born in Rockingham County in 1777 and is named in the will of his father, Sullivan, dated 1797. Delitha's mother is thought to have been a Moore, but it has been impossible to verify this. Various census records show that she was born in either Delaware or Maryland about 1785. Jeremiah Pearson first bought land in Guilford County in 1808.

John and Delitha probably settled on land belonging to her father, which they later bought from him. In August, 1845 Jeremiah Pearson sold two tracts to John A. Lambeth—one of 129 acres, and the other of 59 acres, adjoining both his own property and that of Lovick Lambeth. The following year John Lambeth bought 150 acres from his grandfather, Josiah Lambeth, located on the north side of Reedy Fork, on Henry Low's line. For a young man of only 22, John Lambeth owned a considerable amount of land.

However, by 1853 he was faced with serious financial reverses which forced him to mortgage the two tracts bought from his father-in-law Jeremiah Pearson, and all personal property except one slave. This was to secure debts of $1,500.00 owed by him and his brother-in-law John G. Pearson to the Bank of Cape Fear at Salem, and to the Bank of Cape Fear at Greensboro. The mortgage also covered another debt of John A. Lambeth's for about $500.00. On the same date he mortgaged the slave girl mentioned above to secure a debt of $400.00 owed by him and his brother Rankin

D. Lambeth, and two smaller debts. The following year when the mortgage on the land mentioned above was foreclosed, it was bought by Rankin who generously deeded it to his brother's children Lydia H. Lambeth, Janett M. Lambeth, G. P. Lambeth and John A. Lambeth, Jr. John was appointed their guardian and filed a return in February, 1857 listing these wards as "my own children" and showing that he had rented their plantation for $150.00 a year in 1855 and 1856. (Guilford County Guardian Accounts, 1775-1920, North Carolina Archives.)

In 1854 Sarah Burney and Catharine Carrigan, then living in LaClede County, Missouri, appointed their nephew John A. Lambeth to represent them in settling the estate of their father, Josiah Lambeth; there were no real estate transactions recorded until after the War Between the States.

In spite of the financial difficulties indicated by the foreclosure of his mortgage, as mentioned above, John A. Lambeth must have prospered during the years just before the War Between the States. The census of 1860 shows that he had a personal estate of $1,400.00 and owned real estate valued at $4,000.00, which must have included land inherited by Delitha Pearson Lambeth from her father, Jeremiah, who died in 1853. Three of the Lambeth children—Lydia, George and John—were in school; (Janett died in 1857 at the age of nine, and the youngest child—a son, born in 1853—lived only six months).

John A. Lambeth and his two younger brothers Rankin D. and Loftin Harvey Lambeth were considered successful businessmen and were respected in their community. They lived on adjoining farms about ten miles northwest of Greensboro and, in addition to farming, operated a sawmill and a distillery, and owned several wagons and teams of horses which they used in the business of hauling and of transporting freight.

Will Mouten, who was apprenticed to one of the Lambeths, remembered years later that he hauled "many a gallon of whiskey for the Lambeths" and that one of the families had a trap door just inside the stairway to the cellar, where the whiskey was stored. They were said to have been paid in gold for their freight business and had a box built under the wagon to carry their money. This information is based largely on the reminiscences of Will Mouten, who lived in Guilford County throughout his life and whose recollections of local history around the middle of the 19th century were recorded by Joseph Hoskins, and by his daughters Nell and Katherine, all of whom were respected county historians.

The following information was added by Miss Katherine Hoskins: "They also raised tobacco and probably had a small tobacco factory where they made "plug" tobacco. They had a "Commissary" (i.e. store house) which supplied their own needs and those of lesser neighbors.

They probably supplied lumber for "Camp Stokes" in Greensboro and other supplies for the Confederate army—tobacco and brandy, which was an army necessity then. They had a peach orchard and barrels of peach brandy in the cellar, and probably apple also. Every family had a small still, according to wills and estate settlements of the early days.

Delitha Pearson Lambeth was a devout Christian and is said to have been instrumental in the building of Center Church where several of the Lambeths are buried. I have heard that the men of the community would haul lumber, given by the landowners, bring stones for the foundation, and work together on the building, probably under the direction of a hired foreman, who lodged free of charge in the neighborhood.

A group of women would each day bring a mid-day dinner to spread on a table for the men, after which they would have a brief song and prayer service. John A. Lambeth had a silver flute which he sounded 'to set the tune,' there being no other musical instrument. People did have banjos, but I think the church considered them 'worldly,' since they furnished music for the country dances of the period.

The first church there was log, built about 1838 I think, Delitha's was second, a large wooden building which was replaced about 1900 (?) by the present one, now in process of being replaced by a modern structure. During his lifetime, the home of Delitha's father, Jeremiah Pearson, was known as the 'preacher's house' since it was the house where the visiting preacher always stayed."

No record of military service has been found for John A. Lambeth. (His name was incorrectly included in the index of service records of Confederate soldiers from North Carolina at the National Archives, but upon further investigation it turned out to have been confused with the record of his cousin Joseph Harrison Lambeth of Davidson County.) Like his brother Rankin, John may have been an "unassigned conscript" and helped with procuring and hauling supplies for the Confederate soldiers.

Sometime during, or at the end, of the war, he had been named a justice of the peace—an office of trust and responsibility— and was one of many justices who were appointed by the acting governor to administer oaths of amnesty to the people of Guilford. His personal fortunes—like that of all southerners—suffered acutely as a result of the war and he failed to renew his bond in 1865 and 1867, as guardian of the property of his children. However, by 1870 his personal property (which must have included that of his mother-in-law) was valued at $3,100.00, real estate at $1,000.00 and two hired men were included in his household.

His two sons—George, age 20 and John age 18— were still listed as students—probably an advantage not enjoyed by many young men of their age at that time.

In the spring of 1869 John A. Lambeth leased to Thomas Graham of Philadelphia the rights for mining iron ore on the property where he then lived. The terms of the lease were 50¢ for each mined ton. Later in the same year John A. and Delitha Pearson Lambeth sold 7 acres on Reedy Fork for $71.00. The fact that Delitha signed this deed suggests that this may have been land she inherited from her father, and census records of 1870 show that the Lambeths and Mary Pearson were living in the same household—probably in the house of the latter who was then in her eighties and had been widowed for many years.

In 1870 John bought land between Reedy Fork and Horsepen Creeks (adjoining the old Pearson property) from George W. and Julia Albright, mortgaging land he already owned to secure the balance of $300.00 due on the purchase. Also in 1870—the year of their marriage—John Lambeth sold this tract to his daughter and son-in-law, Addison H. and Lydia H. Lambeth Stephens, for $600.00.

In 1873 John A. Lambeth, Sr., John A. Lambeth, Jr.,

A. H. Stephens and wife sold their part of the two tracts which had been deeded to them by Rankin D. Lambeth in 1854 to George J. Lambeth for $500.00. A few months later John A. Lambeth put up the "Pearson tract" as security for his guardianship of Sample and B. K. Brown, heirs of his cousin James S. Brown. (See chapter on Josiah Lambeth, section on Elizabeth Lambeth Brown.)

Some time after 1873—probably about 1879—John A. and Delitha Moore Pearson Lambeth and their children John A. Lambeth, Jr., and wife, George J. Lambeth and wife, and Lydia H. Lambeth Stephens and her husband Addison H. Stephens all moved to Winston, in Forsyth County. The parents were still living there in May, 1881 when John and Delitha conveyed to their son John A. Lambeth, Jr. (for $1.00) his mother's right in the 150 acre trace she inherited from her father, Jeremiah Pearson. It is unfortunate that the 1880 census of Forsyth County is so badly damaged that their names could not be found. It would be interesting to see what occupations were followed by these men—whose principal work was farming—after they moved to this little village. Only the names of George Lambeth and his wife Catherine are listed and his occupation is given as "Lumber merchant."

By April, 1882, John and Delitha had returned to Guilford County and bought a half interest in a mill—this included the mill fixtures and 32 acres situated on the waters of North Buffalo and was the second piece of property purchased from George and Julia Albright. This was the last deed recorded in Guilford County by John A. Lambeth. He died in 1 May, 1884 and was buried in Green Hill Cemetery, Greensboro, North Carolina.

In the fall of that year his widow Delitha and their two sons John A., Jr., and George, and daughter Lydia Lambeth Stephens put up as security the 150 acres willed to Delitha by her father toward the purchase of five shares of stock in the Greensboro Building Association. They agreed to insure buildings on the property as well as to pay interest of 8%.

After the death of John A. Lambeth it is likely that Delitha made her home with her son John A. Lambeth, Jr. until she died 21 November, 1889. She was buried beside her husband in Green Hill Cemetery. Apparently John A. Lambeth, Jr. and his wife Ellen moved to Fayetteville soon after since records show that their daughter Lydia—and their next two children were born there in the 1890s.

Lydia Lambeth Stephens remained in Winston until after the death there of her husband Addison H. Stephens, on 25 June, 1882. Probably at this time she moved to Greensboro to live, although she and her young son, George, were frequently at her brother's home in Fayetteville for extended visits.

About 1900, Lydia Lambeth Stephens moved to a country home in Flat Rock, near Hendersonville, where she and her brother George farmed for many years. Thus by the beginning of the century, the last of the children of the family had all moved away from Guilford County. The children of John A. and Delitha M. Pearson Lambeth:

Lydia H.
Janette Mary
Josias George Pearson
John Aurelius, Jr.
William Rankin

Children of John Aurelius and Delitha Moore Pearson Lambeth (records from Lambeth and from Lambeth-Pearson Bibles, Search Room, North Carolina Archives, Raleigh, N.C.):

1853, 21 June. John A. Lambeth and John G. Pearson are indebted to the Bank of the Cape Fear at Salem for $1300.00, and to the Bank of the Cape Fear at Greensboro for $200.00, to which Archibald Bevil, W. J. McConnell, W. S. Rankin, Peter Adams and Rankin Lambeth are securities. To secure these securities John A. Lambeth sells to John B. Hoskins for 50¢ his interest in the land on which John Low now lives, which was conveyed to Arch. Bevil to secure him as security for a debt due by said Lambeth to Jed H. Lindsay as Guardian: $500.00 and interest, 15 head of cattle, farming tools, 25 head of hogs, two two-horse Waggons, one bay mare, 50 bushels corn, growing crops of corn, wheat, oats and hay, household and kitchen furniture, wagon gear and all other property except a Negro woman named Lucinda, and the hire of a Negro man and boy for the balance of this year. Hoskins may sell the property described at Public Auction after the first of July, with the proceeds going to pay the debt still remaining. Witness Cyrus P. Mendenhall. Proved in Clerk's Office on above date. Book 30, page 232.

1853, 21 June. John A. Lambeth and Rankin D. Lambeth to J. B. Hoskins, Trustee. John A. Lambeth and Rankin D. Lambeth owe Jesse Brown $400.00 of principal (with interest), also a note is due to Joseph Windsor of Caswell County for which Rankin Lambeth is security (amount about $80.00) also debts to W. C. McConnell which John A. Lambeth wishes to secure by selling to J. B. Hoskins, Trustee, one Negro woman "Lucinda by name . . . aged twenty seven years" who may be sold after 1 July, 1853, to pay the above three debts, amounting to $400.00 or $500.00. Witness Cyrus P. Mendenhall. Registered at Register's Office the same day. Book 33, page 234.

1854, 9 August. Sarah Burney and Catharine Carrigan appoint John A. Lambeth to represent them in the settling of the estate of Josiah Lambeth. Book 36, page 169.

1854, 17 August. Rankin Lambeth from J. B. Hoskins, Trustee, and Archibald Bevil. Foreclosure of mortgage on two tracts of land formerly belonging to John A. Lambeth. Book 36, page 143. (See Rankin Lambeth deeds.)

1854, 27 October. Rankin Lambeth to Lydia H. Lambeth, Jenette M. Lambeth, George P. Lambeth and John A. Lambeth (Jr.), for natural love and affection and $5.00. Two tracts mentioned above. Book 36, page 142. (See Rankin Lambeth deeds.)

1869, 17 March. John A. Lambeth to Thomas Graham of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Lease to mine iron ore on 150 acres now occupied by Lambeth. 50¢ for each mined ton. Witness Thomas Cash. Proved in Probate Court, 24 March, 1869. Book 41, page 122.

1869, 2 November. John A. and Delitha M. Pearson Lambeth to Elijah Massey (of Color), all of Guilford County, for $71.00. 7 acres on waters of Reedy Fork, adjoining Robt. Blackburn and Winchester. Acknowledged in Probate Court, 6 March, 1871. Book 43, page 643.

1870, 15 January. John Lambeth from George W. and Julia Albright for $604.50. Land between Reedy Fork and Horsepen Creeks, adjoining James T. Morehead, Yancy Davis and lands of the two parties. At corner, formerly Pearson's. No acres given. Acknowledged in Probate Court by sellers 19 January, 1870. Book 43, page 383.

1870, 5 February. John A. Lambeth owes George Albright $300.00, balance due on a piece of land. To secure this debt, John A. Lambeth sells to George Albright for $10.00 a tract of land of 160 acres, on north bank of Reedy Fork in Morehead's line (formerly Pearson's corner), Horsepen Creek, Lambeth's corner. If the notes due (of $300.00) are not paid by 1 January, 1871, Albright may sell this land at public auction. Proved in Probate Court, 5 March, 1870. Book 40, page 360. Paid in full May 20, 1881.

1870, 15 June. John A. Lambeth to Addison H. Stephens and Lydia H. Stephens, all of Guilford County for $600.00. 152 acres, north bank of Reedy Fork Creek, on Morehead's line (formerly Pearson's corner), adjoining James T. Morehead and Yancey Davis. A. Lambeth, Jr., Nancy Barbee, W. E. Bevill. Known as the John A. Lambeth tract and willed by Jeremiah Pearson to his daughter Delitha Lambeth in 1847. The parties of the first part promise to insure any buildings on the land. The Greensboro Building Co. shall hold this property until the five shares of Jno. A. Lambeth become worth $500.00. Interest of 8%, taxes and insurance shall be paid, until the principal of $500.00 shall be paid. Proved before Clerk of Superior Court on above date. Book 66, page 123. Paid in full March, 1890.

CORNELIA LAMBETH LOW

Cornelia A. Lambeth, second child of Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth, was born in Guilford County on 6 December, 1825. She was married to Daniel Low in 1842—the marriage bond being dated 28 February, with Benjamin Tickel as bondsman and John M. Logan as witness.

Daniel Low seems to have been the son of Henry and Rosannah Low, originally of Rockingham County, North Carolina, who moved to Orange County, Indiana—possibly at the same time as did Daniel and Cornelia Lambeth Low. Henry Low died there about 1867 and deeds relating to the settlement of his estate show that in addition to his widow, other heirs were Daniel Low, of Orange County, Indiana, and David Low (and wife Catherine) and Lucretia Tickle of Rockingham County, North Carolina.

In the 1850 census of Guilford County Daniel's occupation was given as farming. The young couple then had three children—Mary E., aged 8, Sarah C., aged 6 and Henry L., aged 4. Some time before 1860 Daniel and Cornelia Lambeth Low moved to Orange County, Indiana, where their names are found in the census of that year. Their eldest child, Mary, is not listed, so it may be assumed that she had either married or died by this time. However, three other children had been born—Hepsey (or Epsey), born about 1851, Caroline A., born about 1855 and Eliza J., born about 1859. The last child—Anderson—was born about 1863, according to the census of 1870.

The following marriage records of Orange County, Indiana seem to be those of the children of Daniel and Cornelia Low:

Sarah Low and Absolem M. Gobble, married April 17, 1869

Henry L. Low and Rebecca E. Tarr, married Dec. 24, 1871 (one child John M. age 6, listed in 1880 census)

Hepsey Low and Robert N. Bundy, married Oct. 15, 1874

Eliza J. Low and Wm. H. Gobble, married Dec. 22, 1880

Anderson B. Low and Carrie Towell, married Sept. 3, 1885

Daniel and Cornelia Lambeth Low are both buried in the cemetery of Apples Chapel, near her parents Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth. A single headstone marks their grave, on one side is the inscription: Daniel Low, born Jan. 20, 1819. (died)June 25, 1893. On the second side is this inscription: Cornelia A., wife of D. Low, born Dec. 6, 1825, died Nov. 30, 1912.

The third child of Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth was Caroline E. Lambeth, who was born in Guilford County 10 April, 1827. She was married to William J. Lock in 1847. The marriage bond is dated 5 July, with Wm. H. Brittan as witness. The census of 1850 shows that William Lock was a wagon maker and that he was born in Guilford County about 1825. He and his wife lived near her father and her two brothers John and Rankin. They had a son named John, born about 1848.

There is no further record of this family.

RANKIN LAMBETH

Rankin David Lambeth, born in Guilford County on 3 August, 1829, was the fourth child, and second son, of Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth. His parents lived in the north western part of the county, on Reedy Fork Creek. On 7 June, 1849, when he and his bride were just about twenty years old, Rankin married Mary Eusabe Hardin. They were married by Fredric Fenters, at "Hannah Harden's place," with John Lambeth and Charles Harden as witnesses. Hannah was probably Mary's widowed mother—the wife of John Harden, Sr., from whom Mary Hardin Lambeth inherited property. This land, consisting of 40 acres in Guilford County "on the waters of Big Alamance," was sold by Rankin and Mary Lambeth to Christopher Hardin in 1851, for $200.00.

In 1853 Rankin bought the home place of his father Lovick, who moved to Smith County, Virginia, toward the end of that year. On this 146 acre tract was probably the house—built by Lovick—where Rankin lived for about fifteen years until moving to Indiana in the late 1860s. The year after buying this property, Rankin purchased two adjoining tracts—totaling 188 acres, which had formerly belonged to his brother John A. Lambeth, who had lost the land through the foreclosure of a mortgage. Almost immediately, Rankin deeded the property "for natural love and affection . . . and five Dollars" to John's four children Lydia, Jenett, George and John A. Lambeth, Jr. Since Rankin, at this time, already had one child of his own, it seems extremely generous and kind that he should have given to his nephews and nieces, the land which their father had lost.

In February, 1856, Pinkney P. Lethca, three years old, was bound to Rankin D. Lambeth who was to "teach him to read, write and cypher and give him $100.00 and freedom dues when he reached 21 years." (Guilford County Apprentice Bonds, North Carolina Archives.)

Rankin added 180 acres to his farm in 1857, and bought an additional 125 acres in 1866. Perhaps he decided in early 1867 to move to Indiana, where one of his sisters was already living. In February of that year he began to sell his property in Guilford County—selling it all within the family except for the final transaction; in 1867, 1868 and 1869—by three deeds—Rankin sold a total of 151 acres to his younger brother Loftin Harvey Lambeth. In 1868 Rankin and Mary sold to his niece Lydia H. Lambeth, daughter of John A. Lambeth, 110 acres on Reedy Fork, for $600.00. It was most unusual, at this time, for single women to purchase property. Their final sale was made in 1869, after Rankin and Mary Lambeth had settled in Orange County, Indiana, and consisted of 111 acres sold to Luther Winchester for $850.00.

Military records at the North Carolina Archives show that Rankin Lambeth served as an "unassigned conscript" in the Confederate Army. His daughter Adalida stated that he was given the job of buying cattle and other food supplies to feed the soldiers. (She added that at the end of the war, when Northern soldiers came through the neighborhood, most of the stock remaining on individual farms was seized.) Since Guilford County voted strongly against secession in 1860, and its people reluctantly supported the war, it is not surprising that Rankin Lambeth had not volunteered. A copy of his honorable discharge has been preserved in the family.

A few years after the end of the war Rankin Lambeth and his family moved to Indiana, where his sister Cornelia Lambeth Low and her husband had settled before 1860. Tradition says that the three brothers—John, Rankin and Harvey—drew lots to decide which one should go to Indiana "to help look after their father and mother." Possibly Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth moved to Indiana before Rankin did, but probably they left Guilford County with Rankin and his wife and their seven children to make their home in the west. This is thought to have been in 1868. It is said that Rankin's wife, Mary, was extremely homesick after moving away and eagerly sought news of home from travelers or settlers from North Carolina.

In February, 1869 Lovick and Rankin together bought 126 acres in Orange County, Indiana, adjoining Daniel Low, who was the husband of Cornelia—the eldest daughter of Lovick and Mary. In December, 1869 Rankin D. and Mary E. Lambeth sold their portion of this tract to Lovick and moved to Sullivan County, Indiana, on the Illinois line. They settled on a farm about five miles south of Carlisle. This was later the home place of their eldest son Walter.

Of the nine children born to Rankin and Mary, only the youngest, Adalida (who was born in 1871) was born in Indiana. From her correspondence with Mary Doggett come a number of family stories and recollections of her parents and grandparents. Her father, she had heard, was a tall man—six feet in height. Her mother must have been a very small person. According to another descendant, she weighed less than a hundred pounds as a mature women. Adalida recounted the first meeting of her parents: Rankin Lambeth was a "wagoner" who drove a four to six horse team and hauled produce through the country where Mary Hardin lived (this was probably the southeastern part of the county). While visiting her brothers there, Rankin invited her to ride in the spring seat next to him, to where he was taking his load. With the consent of her brothers, she accepted the invitation and that is how their courtship began. After their marriage they lived on a farm, probably in the home of Rankin's father, Lovick, or on his property. They lost their oldest son—John Loftin—with scarlet fever when he was two years old.

Adalida, being a teacher herself, was much interested in the education of her older brothers and sisters. She understood from her mother that there were no public schools when they were of school age, so their grandfather Lovick Lambeth, who was a Christian minister, taught the children for a while. They had other teachers at different times and paid tuition. Their mother took the children to school in a two-horse carriage at one time, and studied some subjects, too. She had a hired girl named Lizzie, who helped with the work.

Lovick Lambeth seems to have both showed and expressed to his daughter-in-law his appreciation for her care in his old age. He said to her that Lida, the youngest child, might be the one to take care of her when she was old. Lida did care for her mother for several years, the last eighteen months of which she was unable to walk, due to rheumatism.

Rankin Lambeth died at the age of 46 on 3 December, 1875. His wife Mary Hardin Lambeth, born 2 June, 1829, lived until 18 July, 1908. Both are buried in the cemetery of Bethlehem Methodist Church, near Carlisle, in Sullivan County, Indiana. The dates above are from their tombstone. The children of Rankin and Mary Hardin Lambeth (birth dates from Rankin D. 2nd g.4. Mary Jane Lambeth, born 1858, died 3 March, 1939. She was a teacher by profession and was married to William S. DeBaun. According to one source this was in 1903, but her sister Adalida stated that the marriage took place when Mary was forty years old, which would have been in 1898. Mr. DeBaun then had two grown daughters. William and Mary Lambeth DeBaun lived in El Reno, Oklahoma. They had no children. After his death his wife and her sister Adalida Lambeth moved to Corona, California. Adalida took care of Mary during her last illness with cancer, and said that she was the most unselfish person she had ever known. Mary Lambeth DeBaun was buried with her husband in Oklahoma.

2nd g.5. Frances Hannah (Fannie) Lambeth was born 18 June, 1860 and was married 5 April, 1882 to Richard T. (Dick) Johnson. He was born in 1847. They were married in her mother's home in Haddon Township, about four miles from Carlisle, Indiana. Mr. Johnson was a widower with two small boys. Their mother died of tuberculosis while the boys were very young. Mr. Johnson was a farmer and did all his farm work with horses and horse-drawn implements. He put in large crops but it was a hard life with small profits. He and his wife lived in Haddon Township, Sullivan County, until 1906 when they sold their farm there and bought one in Green County. This proved to be a bad investment since it did not produce well. They disposed of it in 1909 and bought property in Pleasantville, Indiana, where they lived the remainder of their lives. Richard Johnson died March 12, 1924 and was buried in the Bethlehem Cemetery near the old homeplace. Their daughter, Mary Amanda Johnson Blackburn (who submitted the material on this branch of the family) brought her mother to her home when she suffered the stroke. She lived 9 years, 1 month and 23 days an invalid. She could not get her balance but enjoyed her grandchildren and did not seem to fret about her invalidism. She died during a very hot, dry season on July 26, 1940. She is buried beside her husband in Bethlehem Cemetery. Quoting Mrs. Blackburn:

"Bethlehem is the name of a Methodist church in the county about one and a half miles from the old home. They were members of the church and father hauled the iron fence from Sullivan that is around the cemetery. His grandfather and mother, his father and mother, his first wife, and her relatives, are buried there. We had a memorial place there on the family lot for our son Edward. It is also the burial ground of Rankin and Mary E. Lambeth. A very beautiful country cemetery, well kept by endowment. So many things could be written of the God-fearing mother, but just to say her philosophy of life was: 'I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me.' " (Written April 14, 1954.)

The children of Richard and Frances Lambeth Johnson:

3rd g. 1. Floyd Rankin Johnson, born April 11, 1884. He went to New Springfield, Ohio to work in a creamery, married Eva Sipe in 1905 and they remained in Mahoning County, Ohio all their married life. Eva Sipe Johnson died September 30, 1951; Floyd Johnson died April 12, 1953; both buried in Ohio.

Frances Johnson came back to her home in Pleasant ville in 1926. Grace married 2nd Harvey D. Booher and was living in Corona in 1954. They had no children.

3rd g. 5. Alfred Vernon Johnson, born March 21, 1903. He entered the Navy in 1919 and made a career of it as a band master, Chief Petty Officer during World War II. He was offered a commission but refused it for he was near retiring age and it would have lowered his pension rating. He married Maude Hughes in 1924. She was the daughter of a Methodist minister, who was pastor of his mother's church in Pleasantville. She was the "sailor's wife" living near the base while he did shore duty and back in their home in Long Beach when he went to sea. Vernon had retired from the Navy and was a Public Accountant in Long Beach, California in 1954. (Address 6010 Lennon Ave.) They had four

3. Wilma Lambeth, married -- White.

2nd g.9. Adalida was the youngest child of Rankin and Mary Hardin Lambeth and the only one to be born in Indiana. She was born in Sullivan County, near Carlisle, on 7 July, 1871. She grew up there, and after graduating from the Indiana State Normal, devoted thirty years to teaching. Apparently she first taught in Terre Haute, where she joined the Christian Church at the age of twenty-one. When her mother became ill, her position as a primary teacher in Terre Haute was held for her while she went home to care for her mother. After her mother's death Adalida moved to El Reno, Oklahoma, to make her home with her sister Mary DeBaun. During this time Adalida taught 10 years in Apache, Oklahoma. When her sister's husband died, Adalida and Mary moved to Corona, California, where she taught for five years. In both Apache and Corona she taught Sunday School and was Superintendent of the Primary Department in each place. The two sisters shared a home until Mary's death with cancer in 1939, after which Adalida lived there alone. She continued to drive until she was 75 years old. Even when she was over eighty years old, though tiny and frail, she had a very keen mind. When she died in Corona on March 5, 1961 her obituary appeared in the Independent Newspaper with the headline "Educator Lida Lambeth Dies." She loved poetry and kept a notebook of her favorite poems. She was very perceptive of character and admired those who took pleasure in working, and felt a sense of responsibility about work. She valued attitudes of love and loyalty toward family and country. She felt that such attitudes make not only for good citizenship but also for personal happiness.

RANKIN LAMBETH

Guilford County:

1851, 22 February. Rankin Lambeth and wife Mary E. to Christopher Harden, all of Guilford County, for $200.00. 40 acres in Guilford County on waters of the Big Alamance, John Miller's Mill Pond, "being the land allotted to Mary E. Hardin in the division of the lands of John Hardin, Dec'd." Witnesses Jas. McIver, John Hardin. Mary Lambeth privately examined, stated that she "executed this deed of her own free will." Deed also acknowledged in Clerk's Office by Rankin D. and Mary Lambeth, same date. Book 34, page 473.

LOFTIN HARVEY LAMBETH

The youngest child of Lovick and Mary Harvey Lambeth was Loftin Harvey Lambeth who was born in Guilford County on 31 July, 1834. He was given the maiden name of his paternal grandmother: Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, and that of his own mother. About 1853 he moved with his parents to Smith County, Virginia. Doubtless he worked there with his father in the business of making and repairing wagons.

Probably soon after moving to Virginia, Harvey Lambeth was married to Bettie Perkins of Elk Creek, Virginia. Their first child, Permelia Henrietta Lambeth was born 15 December, 1854, died 3 November, 1859 and is buried at Center Church cemetery in Guilford County. Their next child, Mary A. Lambeth, was also born in Virginia—about 1857, according to Guilford County census of 1860. That census lists Harvey Lambeth as living between Rankin Lambeth and Lovick Lambeth. His occupation is given as farmer and he owned real estate valued at $1,200.00 and personal property valued at $600.00.

After returning to North Carolina, Loftin Harvey and Bettie Perkins Lambeth continued to live in Guilford County throughout their lives and there are many land transactions recorded for them among the county deeds. During the War Between the States Harvey, like his brother Rankin, served as an "unassigned conscript" in the Confederate forces. Their home was situated next to what is now known as the "Owl Roost" property, which once belonged to their son William Reece Lambeth. Toward the end of his life—after the death of his wife in 1904—it is said that Harvey Lambeth sold his property because of his poor health. Both he and his wife are buried at Center Methodist Church cemetery, as are all of their children except Mary. According to the dates on their tombstones Harvey Lambeth was born 30 July, 1835 (the date above is from the Lovick Lambeth family Bible) and died 21 February, 1905; Bettie Perkins Lambeth was born 15 April, 1837 and died 12 April, 1904.

Mary A. Lambeth, their daughter, was married to Martin

Hicks Holt some time before 1880. The census of that year shows that he was then 25 years old and a school teacher. He may already have become connected with the Oak Ridge Institute—a school for boys established before the war and later operated by him and his brother Earl for some years. (Mary Lambeth Holt was said to have been visiting in Indiana in 1891 at the time of the birth of a son to her cousin Dora Lambeth Grizzle, daughter of Rankin Lambeth. Mary persuaded her cousin to name the little boy Martin Earl for Mary's husband and his brother.)

Martin and Mary had two children—Myrtle May Holt, who married Justin Bennett, and John Harvey Holt, who married Louise Willis. Both settled in San Diego, California where their mother also went to live.

Other children of Harvey and Bettie Perkins Lambeth (all born in Guilford County and all buried at Center Church cemetery):

2nd g.3. Levi Lovick Lambeth, born 5 September, 1859, died 18 June, 1860

4. Thomas S. Loftin Lambeth, born 10 May, 1861, died at Campbell, Texas, 30 March, 1881

5. William Reece Lambeth, born 27 August, 1864 (see further records, following.)

6. Charles Ernest Lambeth, born 8 July, 1878, died 8 September, 1878

(This lineage and sketch of the William Reece Lambeth family was contributed by Charles Tilley Lambeth.)

2nd g.5. William Reece Lambeth married 31 May, 1888 to Fetna Tilley in Durham, North Carolina, and died 11 April, 1904. She was born in Durham 1 November, 1869, died 12 May, 1941 in Guilford County and was buried at New Garden Cemetery, Guilford County. Children (3rd generation), all born in Guilford County:

3rd g. 1. Mary Mafie Lambeth, born 7 October, 1889, married 10 April, 1919 to Thomas Jefferson Taylor and died 30 December, 1935 in Currituck County, N.C. He was born 30 June, 1866 in Currituck County and died there 12 November, 1936. Children:

4th g. 1. Julia Fetna Taylor, born 27 March, 1920 in Currituck County and died there 15 May, 1921

4th g. 2. Helen Louise Taylor born 16 November, 1921 in Currituck County, married 25 June, 1944 to William Bufkin Brown. He was born 29 December, 1919 in Pasquotank County, N. C. Their 5th g. daughter Mary Louise Brown was born 28 December, 1948 at Raleigh, N. C., married 30 January, 1971 to Robert Lewis Stoltz.

4th g. 3. Thomas Lambeth Taylor, born Currituck County, married Lydia (?).

3rd g. 2. Ione Perkins Lambeth, born 29 September, 1892 in Guilford County, married Samuel D. Harrell, died 5 --, 1945 in Wilson County, N. C. He was born 30 November, 1887 in Wilson County and was buried there.

3. Charles Tilley Lambeth, born Guilford County 26 June, 1895, married 14 July, 1927 to Eva Kathryn Moseley. She was born 19 August, 1896 in Rockingham County, N. C. Children:

4th g. 1. Charles Moseley Lambeth, born 5 April, 1928 in Guilford County, married 12 August, 1947 to Dorothy Flow in Guilford County. She was born 3 March, 1927 in Guilford County. Children (all born in Guilford County):

5th g. 1. Charles Flow Lambeth, born 7 June, 1948
2. William Flow Lambeth, born 27 October, 1951
3. Victor Joseph Lambeth, born 17 February, 1953

4th g. 2. Sybil Lambeth, born 25 December, 1930 in Guilford County, married 31 July, 1954 to William George Winkler. He was born 6 January, 1928 in Catawba County, N. C. Children (all born in Watauga County, N.C.):

5th g. 1. Susan Gail Winkler, born 10 February, 1957
2. Carol Kay Winkler, born 31 January, 1959
3. Bennett Scott Winkler, born 14 March, 1960
4. Gary Gray Winkler, born 18 February, 1969

3rd g. 4. Katie Lou Lambeth, born 13 November, 1903 in Guilford County, married 2 October, 1930 to Harvey Jennings Cotten. He was born 5 October, 1898 in Surry County, Virginia, died 21 December, 1945 in Guilford County, N.C. and was buried at New Garden Cemetery, Guilford County, N.C. Children:

4th g. 1. Elwood Connally Cotten, born and died 26 January, 1935

2. Mary Ione Cotten, born 2 September, 1936 in Surry County, N.C., married 1956 to Stanley Ronald Mauck. He was born in Missouri.

5th g. Children (all born in Sarasota, Florida):

1. Steven Randall Mauck, born 17 July, 1957
2. Stewart Robert Mauck, born 30 August, 1958
3. Susan Renee Mauck, born 2 May, 1960
4. Stacy Rae Mauck, born 12 January, 1962
5. Scott Richard Mauck, born 16 May, 1966

Sketch of William Reece Lambeth (son of Harvey and Bettie Perkins Lambeth):

William Reece Lambeth died at 10:00 P.M., April 11, 1904 of typhoid fever. His mother who was 67 years old, Betty Perkins Lambeth, had nursed him continually during his illness. She became violently ill just before her son died, and she was carried down the hill to her home about 1/4 mile distance, where her death occurred at 2:00 A.M. on April 12, 1904.

Charles Tilly Lambeth, only son of William Reece Lambeth, remembers the two caskets in the double funeral at Center Methodist Church. He was only 8 years old. He also remembers that his grandfather, Harvey Lambeth said to him, "You must be a good boy and continue the family name. You are the only grandson I will ever have."

Charles Lambeth's grandfather's admonition was asking a great deal because Charles had such a serious speech impediment that only his mother could understand him. Young Charlie's uncle, Martin H. Holt, husband of Mary Lambeth Holt, took a special interest in young Charles. Martin Holt was an educator and co-founder of Oak Ridge Institute. In addition he was a trustee of the North Carolina School for the Deaf at Morganton. A requirement for entrance in the school was that a child be deaf. A special exception was made for Charles. In October, 1904, Martin Holt took young Charles and the winter and summer clothes which his mother had made for him to Morganton where he stayed a year. His mother said the next hardest thing to giving up her husband was to see her 9-year old son go away for a year.

That year at Morganton changed the life of Charles Tilly Lambeth as he came home able to talk. Ten years later while a student at Guilford College, he was awarded the Henry Clay Literary Society Orator's medal. The subject of the speech he made was "The Southern Mountaineer, a Diamond in the Rough." Charlie lived up to the expectations of his uncle Martin Holt.

Many of the descendants of Josiah Lambeth selected their farms near Reedy Fork or other small streams in order to take advantage of the fertile bottom lands for grain and hay crops. The Harvey Lambeth farm adjoined his son, Willie Reece Lambeth's farm and was situated in the wide low area that is now the site of Lake Brandt, one of Greensboro's principle water storage lakes. The Willie Reece Lambeth family farm was a tract of 90 acres located on a hill over-looking Reedy Fork. In later years it was owned by the Cone family, owners of Cone Mills in Greensboro and was called the "Owls Roost." It is now owned by the employees of Burlington Industries and is a magnificant Country Club with swimming pools, tennis courts and a short 9 hole golf course. The Rankin Lambeth farm located on the north side of Reedy Fork and over-looked the original Lovick Lambeth farm. Even though the land was fertile, the Lambeths were plaqued with malaria fevers.

At the time of the death of Willie Reece Lambeth, his daughter, Katie Lou, was five months old. During the summer before she was born, her mother had suffered from malaria fever and Katie Lou was an "incubator baby" with no incubator available. Her mother's brother came from the eastern part of the state to help out for a month after the death of William Reece Lambeth. The baby cried so much that he could not stand it. He went to Greensboro saying that he was coming back with a baby doctor if he could find one. The doctor prescribed a mixture of bread soaked in sweetened warm coffee and milk. Soon the little girl was on her way to health and happiness.

After the death of her husband, Fetna Tilly Lambeth, determined to educate her children and moved to Guilford College community. She sold the 90 acres which had been their home for $2,000, when all the men in the neighborhood said it was worth only $1,000. Unfortunately, a technicality in the William Reece Lambeth will caused the Clerk of Court of Guilford County to rule that the farm belonged to the four children and only the interest income from the $2,000 could be used by the widow for the support of the children. So instead of buying the farm adjacent to the college campus with a good dwelling house, several barns, orchard and fertile land, she was forced to buy an abandoned school house, known as "Mud Hill School," and rented land to farm in order to support her family.

Three of her children graduated at Guilford College and the 4th graduated in nursing school. The oldest of the family, Mary Mafie Lambeth, was a successful teacher for many years, becoming principal of schools after the first few years of teaching—in Alamance, Yadkin and Currituck Counties. And when Consolidated Schools first came into existence, she was principal of these schools, having a talent for handling personnel and management, and with unusual talent for inspiring students, being one of the very few women principals of that period.

John Lambeth was the ninth child and fourth son of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, according to Josiah's list of his minor children when he qualified as their guardian as heirs of their uncle Aaron Lambeth in February, 1804. John's birthdate is not known, but he was the next child after Lovick, who was born in August, 1800, and was the youngest of Josiah's children at the time of the division of their uncle's estate. He was probably born about 1802.

In 1828 he was ordained an elder in the Christian Church. The following sketch of the Rev. John Lambeth appeared in Lives of Christian Ministers, by P. J. Kernodle, M.A., Sec. Southern Christian Convention, published 1909, Richmond, Va., page 141:

> "Rev. John Lambeth, son of Josiah Lambeth, was born in Guilford County, North Carolina, and died at his home in 1846.
> Josiah Lambeth, though of English descent, married and settled in a Dutch settlement, north of North Buffalo Creek, in Guilford County, about the year 1770 or 1780, and reared a large family of four sons and nine daughters. The names of his sons were Josiah, Jr., Lovick, Shade, and John.
>
> Rev. John Lambeth was connected with the Christian Church in its earliest days. He was "ordained to the office of Elder," in 1828, at the General Meeting at Union in Orange County (Alamance). In the year 1830, at which time the General Meeting or Conference was held at New Providence, in Orange (Alamance County) he was appointed to travel and preach on the Surry Circuit, in Virginia. While on this circuit, he married in Virginia. He located near his father's home, and his family was cared for by his father while he was traveling and preaching, as an itinerant, on the circuits to which he was assigned. In 1833, he attended the General meeting at Kedar in Warren County, North Carolina.

He is recorded as being absent from the Conference at Old Lebanon in 1839. The North Carolina and Virginia Conference was held at Apple's chapel, in Guilford County in 1841, at which time he was in attendance. He is said to have withdrawn, but the records are silent as to his final connection and labors with the church."

Also in 1828—on 10 September—John Lambeth married Frances Walker, daughter of Abner and Mary Walker of Caswell County. Frances dies less than a year later, at about the age of twenty-two. A sermon entitled "A Short Account of the Happy Death of Mrs. Frances Lambeth" is included in the North Carolina Collection of the Library of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N.C. It was published (without the name of the author) by William Swaim, printer, Greensborough, N.C., 1830:

"Frances Lambeth was the daughter of Abner and Mary Walker of Caswell County, and her parents were members of the Christian Church, and this minister knew her when she was a small child.

When twenty years old, Frances Walker married Mr. John Lambeth, a pious and useful traveling Preacher, in the Christian Church, the church of her choice (and of which she had been a member for several years) and went with him to reside in Guilford, his native County.

John Lambeth, her husband, said he never saw her out of temper from his first acquaintance with her, as long as she lived; and their felicity was as complete as this imperfect state will admit.

She was taken unwell on Monday, the 3rd of August, 1829; and on the following day fever appeared, on Wednesday her fever was high. Her mind was impressed that her end was near and she did not expect to recover. On Thursday the violence of fever brought on premature labor and she was delivered of a son, who lived about eight hours. On Friday, she appeared to be better, but her fever returned and by Sunday she was delirious. She expressed a desire to see her parents. They were sent for but, living 20 and 30 miles they did not arrive until the following evening.

Monday her fever was very high and symptoms appeared of a speedy disolution. Fully sensible that she would die she seemed calm and composed and spoke of her approaching death, telling them she was not afraid to die and giving instructions of her burial and wished to be laid beside her infant. She told her husband to give her brothers and sister each something that belonged to her, to remember her. She asked her husband to write as she spoke a message to her brother William to encourage him to seek that religion she found supporting her in her death.

She was asked by her husband if the Lord was dear to her and she replied he was. She said it was not dark ("Dark Valley and Shadow of Death"); for it appeared as if she saw the Seats of Glory. Her husband asked her "what would you take for Religion?" She quickly replied, 'Not the whole World.'

A little after this her husband was lying on the bed by her when she put her feeble arm over him and said "Johnny, I have one request to ask of you, and that is I may die in your arms, for said she, "I dreamed we both died in each other's arms." He told her if it pleased God to take her from him this request would be granted.

Her extremities became cold but she was rubbed with strong stimulent and she became warm again. She later conversed with her parents and seemed composed.

On Tuesday, she seemed better, but Tuesday night her condition worsened. She asked friends to sing and she joined in with them until her breath failed her, and while she listened to her friends sing she said, in an animated humble tone, "I am so happy!" On the following day, the 12th of August—she fell asleep in Jesus, in the arms of her husband. Thus died Frances Lambeth, 22 years of age.

Sometime after, the Rev. George A. Swift preached her funeral discourse at Apple's Meeting House, in Guilford County, from the 39th Chapter of Isiah, 10th Verse, and a few Sundays later at Liberty Meeting House at the request of her friends in the neighborhood where she was born."

The second wife of John Lambeth, Rebecca Doggett, was the daughter of John and Mildred Clarke Doggett and is thought to have been born in Charlotte County, Virginia, in 1811. (The Doggetts of Guilford County, by Anna Doggett Doggett, page 45). The Young couple must have met while John was an itinerant preacher in Virginia, where they were probably married and may have lived until after the birth of their second son about 1835. (Both sons were born in Virginia, according to the Guilford County census of 1850.)

It is likely that in 1835 (although there is some confusion about the date) John Lambeth bought from David and Polly Wiley 159 acres of land in Guilford County, between Alamance and Buffalo Creeks and near the homes of his father, Josiah Lambeth, his sister Mary Lambeth Jones, and his brother-in-law James Doggett. In 1844 his father deeded to him his homeplace consisting of 315 acres, reserving the right to occupy the property during his own lifetime. It is interesting that Josiah's father Samuel, and his brother Moses, had made similar deeds of gift in lieu of wills, although this is a relatively uncommon type of deed. In the case of Josiah—unlike the others—he expected his son to pay for the land at the time of his (Josiah's) death.

The only other land bought by John Lambeth was 84 acres on "the waters of Reedy Fork Creek" which he purchased from William Bowman in early 1846—the year of his third marriage, and of his death.

Both the account of John's ministry (which stated that he may have "withdrawn" after 1841) and the mention by Josiah in his deed to John that the latter had helped him with "smithing and other work" suggest that John may have devoted his time entirely to farming in the last few years of his life. The only mention of him in Guilford County court minutes or deeds is in connection with family matters except for the purchase of property noted above.

In 1838 John was trustee for a loan made by Joseph Lambeth to his sister Mary Jones. The loan was for 12 months and the security "the land whereon I live on Buffalo Creek" (Deed Book 23, page 743). In 1840 he was trustee for a loan made by Joseph Lambeth to his cousin, Joseph Brown (Deed Book 25, page 157). The latter debt was not paid and the mortgaged property was sold by John Lambeth, Trustee, to Vincent Rossom in 1844 for the benefit of the estate of Joseph Lambeth. (Deed Book 27, page 573.)

In Rockingham County John Lambeth acted as trustee for loans owed by John Huffines to his brother Joseph Lambeth in 1839, and to Joseph's estate in 1841. (Book 2nd I, page 263 and 2nd L, page 216).

At the February Court, 1842 John Lambeth was appointed guardian to his nephew Josiah B. Lambeth, a minor heir of Joseph Lambeth. John entered into bond of $1,200.00 with his ward's older brother, Lovic L. Lambeth, for this guardianship.

Rebecca Doggett Lambeth, wife of John, died on 29 (or 25) July, 1845, according to a notice in the Greensboro Patriot. She left eight young sons, the eldest of whom—John Josiah—was only twelve years old. After their mother's death these children were cared for by their maternal grandmother, Mildred Clarke Doggett who had moved to Guilford County in 1832. The 1850 census of Guilford County (taken 11 October) lists Mildred Doggett as head of the household which included her eight young grandsons. (Household #1193/1193) Their ages at this time are the only record—in most cases—of the dates and places of their births. The 1860 census (taken 1 June) shows that only four of these brothers—Edwin T., J. M., J. W. and C. L.—were then living with their grandmother (Household #232/232) Her personal estate at this time was valued at $1,200.00 and her real estate at $4,600.00. Mildred Doggett died in October of 1860, as indicated by a receipt made out to J. W. Doggett—her son and apparently her executor or administrator—for $2.50 for "Cofin of late Mildred Doggett" and signed A. Cunningham. Guilford County Guardian papers show that the eight sons of John Lambeth inherited $1,262.19 from the estate of their grandmother Mildred Doggett (report filed in 1861 by their uncle and guardian John Doggett).

In May, 1846, their father, John, married as his third wife, Nancy Schilcutt, daughter of Elijah and Mary Schilcutt of Guilford County (marriage bond dated 4 May). Within a few months after this marriage John became ill, and on 7 September, 1846 he executed a will naming his eight sons and appointting his three brothers-in-law (their uncles) as guardians. (It is believed that Rev. Robert Prather, who had married John's sister Frances, wrote this will.) He also provided for his wife Nancy during her lifetime and for the child she was then expecting. John Lambeth died some time between the date of the will and 18 November, 1846—the day on which his will was proved in court. The widow, Nancy Chilcutt Lambeth, was remarried in 1854 (marriage bond 9 April) to Willis Parrish. She had been born on 2 October, 1816, died on 1 December, 1890, and was buried at Fairgrove Methodist Church, in Rockingham County—with her people. The son of John and Nancy Lambeth was born 7 March, 1847 and died 7 January, 1858. He was named Elijah L. G. Lambeth—for his mother's father Elijah Chilcutt.

The will of John Lambeth, recorded in Guilford County Will Book C, page 258:

> "In the name of God, Amen, I, John Lambeth, being afflicted in body but sound in mind possessing all my intellectual factualties do ordain and establish this my last Will and testament.
>
> Item 1st. I do commit my soul to God who gave it, and my body to the care of my friends, to be interred in a plain and decent manner.
> Item 2nd. Concerning the perishable of this life, I will and bequeath unto Partheney, the only Servant now legally belonging to my estate, fifty acres of Land, lying in the southwest corner of the tract of land whereon my Father now lives; when it becomes subject to the controll of my Executors and assigns, Running so as to include the house wherein Lemuel Coley now lives, with twenty acres of woodland together with her legal freedom. And furthermore the said land is to belong to the said Partheney and her heirs, should she have any, by entail, forever, though not subject to her or their disposal, and should she have no heirs, at her death, the said land is to return to my lawful heirs.
> Item 3rd. I do hereby ordain that all the balance of my estate, both real and perishable, be sold and after all legal claims against my estate be discharged, that my beloved wife, Nancy Lambeth, together with my lawful heir by her should she embrace one in due time shall have the use of one-third part of my estate during her natural life, and at her decease to be equally divided between all my lawful heirs.

Item 4th. I will that the other two-thirds of my estate be placed by my Executors in the hands of James W. Doggett, George T. Doggett, and John Doggett, whom I request to act as Guardians for my 8 sons by Rebecca C. Lambeth; namely, John Josiah, William Jefferson, Edwin Thomas, Albert Judson, Hileary Fletcher, James Madison, Jennings Whitfield, Cornelius Loftin, and that the said Guardians attend to their raising and education as they most judicious, so that equal distribution takes place.

Item 5th. I hereby appoint and request Elijah Chilcutt and John Doggett should act as my lawful Executors of this my last Will and Testament.

Whereunto I set my hand and affix my seal, this 7th day of September in the year of our Lord 1846.

Although the settlement of John Lambeth's estate was handled rapidly and well immediately following his death, it was not completed for some time. This was due to the fact that the widow Nancy—who had a lifetime interest in one third of the estate—outlived her husband by many years. An inventory of the property must have been made very soon after John's death since an estate sale was held on 26 November, 1846—only about a week after the will was probated. Mildred Doggett was the largest buyer—purchasing farm tools, livestock, harvested grain crops and three beds. John's brother Lovick and two brothers-in-law John Kernodle and William Cummings were also among the buyers. (Guilford County Inventories and Lists of Sales, 1845-1848, North Carolina Archives) In 1848 at the August Court, two of the Justices received a record of the transactions of the two Executors—Elisha Shilcutt and John Doggett—in the settlement of the estate. At this time John Doggett was appointed guardian of John J., C. L. and G. W. Lambeth, with a bond of $2,000.00 and with James W. Doggett as security, and James W. Doggett was appointed guardian of Edward T., Albert J., Hilliary F. and James M. Lambeth with the same bond, and with John Doggett, as security. (As was often true in court records the spelling of these names did not correspond with their spelling in their father's will and one name was even omitted!) At the November Court, 1848, Branch Gordon was appointed guardian of Elijah L. G. Lambeth with a bond of $1,500.00 and with Elijah Chilcutt and Spencer BeVell as securities.

Among the records of the estate settlement of John Lambeth (Guilford County Guardian Papers, North Carolina Archives, Raleigh) are several receipts for payments to heirs. On June 1, 1857 (his twenty-first birthday) Edwin T. Lambeth received $319.30 (including three months interest) from John Doggett, his uncle and guardian, as his share of his father's estate. The next receipt, dated August 30, 1865, was signed by J. W. Doggett, administrator of the estate of Cornelius Loftin Lambeth, and acknowledged the payment of $700.00 by James Doggett, guardian of the deceased C. L. Lambeth. On March 15, 1874 John J. Lambeth received from John Doggett "$80.00 for my interest in $823.00 that was left by John Lambeth to Nancy, his wife, during her life time." The following year, Albert Judson Lambeth and J. W. Lambeth—both then in Logan, Missouri, acknowledged full payment of their share of their father's estate, which had been left to his widow Nancy. There is also a receipt dated 31 May, 1875 (apparently in Guilford County) showing that Jennings W. Lambeth received $80.00 from John Doggett "on the death of Nancy Parrish." This last receipt indicates that Elijah Chilcutt, had also, by that time, died. (The dates of the last four settlements show that Nancy Chilcutt Lambeth Parrish died in 1874 or earlier, and not in 1890 as reported by one source. S.S.M.)

"Guilford County Superior Court, 6 September, 1871. John Doggett, Plaintiff against Elijah Chilcutt Complaint. John J. Lambeth, Edwin T. Lambeth, Albert J. Lambeth, Jennings W. Lambeth and Nancy Parrish, Defendants. The Plaintiff alleges:

1. That John Lambeth departed this life in the year of 1846 leaving a last will and testament, whereof the plaintiff and the defendant, Elijah Chilcut were both Executors, which was duly proved and admitted of record in the Court of Pleas Quarter Superior of Guilford County, at the ___ term in the year aforesaid.

2. That the Testator at his death left him surviving a widow Nancy, then encient, and eight sons by a former wife, to wit: John J. Lambeth, Edwin T. Lambeth, Albert J. Lambeth, Jennings W. Lambeth, James W. Lambeth, Hillary F. Lambeth, Cornelius Lambeth, and William J. Lambeth, and the said widow was after which delivered of a son named Elijah L. G. Lambeth, and is herself yet living, and again a widow and a party defendant by the name of Nancy Parrish.

3. That the Testator by his said will bequeath the net surplus of his whole estate, two-thirds of it to the said 8 sons by the first wife and the use of the other third to his widow, and her child should she afterwards give birth to one (as she in fact did as before mentioned) for the life of the wife and afterwards to be equally divided amongst the said sons of his first wife as will appear by reference to certified copy of said will hereto annexed and prayed to be taken as a part of this complaint.

4. That the said Executors qualified as such and proceded to settle up the estate and get ready for the final account as fast as possible and accordingly at the November Term 1848 of the County Court they reported on account to the Court showing a balance in hand after paying all debts and the cost of administration of (2,466.12) Twenty-four Hundred and sixty-six Dollars and twelve Cents.

5. That the plaintiff at this settlement became guardian for four and James W. Doggett also for four of the sons of the first wife, and as such Executors transferred two-thirds of said balance from the Executorial Account to the Account of Guardians and they managed the same as directed by law and from time to time paid out the same as their wards became twenty-one until they paid it all out to them.

6. That the other third amounted to $800.04 by an arrangement between the Plaintiff and his co-Executor was placed in the hands of said Elijah Chilcut for investment and the payment of the annual interest thereof to the use of the widow and her young child, who by this time was born. The Plaintiff having no doubt that his Co-Executor would invest the same in accordance with the will of the Testator, safely in respect of the widow, as she was his daughter, and with integrity and good faith in respect of his and the Plaintiff's joint responsibility for the interest to the tenant for life, and afterwards to the remainderman for the principal; and the Plaintiff relying on his Co-Executor as aforesaid gave himself no further concern about the matter and left the investment and management of the funds to him without inquiry or interference. . . . . .

10. That Elijah Chilcut though able at present to bear the burden of getting up the money alone as he in equity ought is an old man and having improperly applied said money and gotten up a myth as the liability and hindered present responsibility as aforesaid if he should die and his estate be distributed and consumed the Plaintiff fears he may have at a future day to answer for the whole.

11. The Plaintiff alleges that the delivery of this money by his Co-Executor to his son-in-law under the name of Guardian was a breach of trust and done without the knowledge or assent of the Plaintiff in any consultation with him but from the motive of benefit to his own family and he is advised that having come to a knowledge of this misapplication of the fund through the late efforts of the remainderman under their contract with the widow it is his duty to demand a proper investment and management thereof, the money to be furnished as between the Executors by the defendant Elijah Chilcut and that a failure so to demand will and ought to subject him for the whole in the event of any difficulty to the remainderman in getting their money at the falling in of the life estate out of the estate of said Chilcut on whom alone the burden ought to fall.

12. That the eight sons by the first wife, four of them are dead, three of them having died under age, and their estates without administrators, to wit: James M. Lambeth, Hillary F. Lambeth, and Cornelius Lambeth, and one of them William J. Lambeth having died, leaving children in a foreign State, whose whereabouts and names are unknown and on whose estate also there is no administrator.

Wherefore the Plaintiff demands judgment that the said sum of money so misapplied by the defendant, Elijah Chilcut, as herein set forth may be decreed to be safely and securely invested in hands certain, known and admitted as required by the spirit and meaning of the will, and that the interest be punctually paid to the legatee for life and the principal kept secure for the remaindermen, and that the money so misapplied as herein stated may be decreed to be furnished by him alone for investment, and he prays for such other and further relief in the premises as may be just and right.

Dillard & Gilmer, Attys. for Plaintiff

John Doggett, the Plaintif, maketh oath that the foregoing is true to his knowledge except as to the matters herein derived from others and as to these he believes it to be true.

Before continuing with the lineage of the descendants of John Lambeth, it is interesting to bring together some of what is known of his eight sons, as a family. Military records show that four of the eight served in the Confederate Army; these, by coincidence, were the same four brothers still living in the home of their grandmother, Mildred Clarke Doggett, in 1860. Two of them—James Madison Lambeth, and Cornelius Loftin Lambeth—are known to have died while in service. There is no record of Hilary Fletcher, but tradition says that he, too, served in the army and died during that time—unmarried and under age. Another of the four brothers still in the family home in 1860, was Jennings Whitfield Lambeth who was a corporal in the Confederate Army and served throughout the war. He later moved to Indiana, and then to Missouri, as did his older brother, Albert Judson. William Jefferson Lambeth also left the state—probably after the war—to settle in Texas. Thus, of the eight brothers—three died early, three moved west and only two lived out their lives in North Carolina—John Josiah and Edwin Thomas Lambeth—the latter of whom was a Confederate soldier.

The children of John Lambeth:

By first wife Frances Walker: unnamed infant boy, died at birth.

By second wife Rebecca Doggett:

2. John Josiah
3. William Jefferson
4. Edwin Thomas
5. Albert Judson
6. Hilary Fletcher
7. James Madison
8. Jennings Whitfield
9. Cornelius Loftin

By third wife Nancy Chilcut: Elijah L. G.

JOHN JOSIAH LAMBETH

(1833-1914)

John Josiah Lambeth, eldest son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth, was born in Virginia 15 August, 1833. The Guilford Co. census of 1850 shows that he was then living with his grandmother Mildred Doggett (household #1193/1193) and his occupation was listed as "farming." He was familiarly called "Jo."

The following sketch was written by Anna Doggett Doggett: "Jo married Jane E. Walker of Caswell County (marriage bond 10 December, 1855) and settled at Monticello on land purchased from his uncle John Doggett. Ten children were born here and seven of them married and reared large families at Monticello. Jo was a farmer; also a Primitive Baptist preacher. His father John Lambeth, was a minister in the Christian Church, but due to the influence of his grandmother, Mildred Clarke Doggett, he became a Baptist. Rev. Jo preached in schools and at various places but was not an ordained minister of the Primitive Baptist Association.

About 1896 Jo with the aid of his children, especially Archer, his eldest son, built his own small church at Monticello. This was the first church built in Monticello as far as we are able to ascertain.

The small frame building stood near the Monticello Public School. In 1909 Monticello High School, the first Guilford County High School and the 3rd County High School, in N. C., began in Jo Lambeth's small church. This writer and two of her brothers were there on the opening day. Many of those first students were grandchildren of Jo Lambeth. His grandson, Leslie Lambeth, son of Archer, was the most advanced of all the students and graduated in 1911, the one and only graduate that year. Leslie later served for 30 years as a member of the School Board for Monticello grade and high school.

Many friends and relatives came to hear Jo preach. This writer's father was often there with his family. In 1913, when Jo was 80 years old his son, Archer, reorganized the church and it became part of the Baptist Association, as a branch of the Reidsville Church. The following year Jo passed away and he was buried near his church.

After 1913, the old frame church was torn down and replaced by a red brick Church, a fitting memorial to Rev. Jo Lambeth. A walled cemetery joins the church yard where members of the family are buried. Once each spring a Home Coming Day is observed. Then the little Church over-flows with friends and members. Lunch is served under an arbor next to the Church. It was said that the church has few members but a host of friends. Leslie, as his father before him, was a loyal member all of his life and he was laid to rest there February 23, 1970 at the age of 78."

In 1885 a book of the sermons of J. J. Lambeth, entitled The Signs of the Times was published by Edwards and Broughton & Co., Raleigh, N.C., 181 pages. A copy of this book is included in the North Carolina Collection of the Library of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The preface is given here in full because of its interesting biographical material, and general theological position:

"Preface—The fear and love of God and the comfort of Israel, I hope is what has prompted me to write; and, if so, I hope the Lord will bless me in the undertaking and give me wisdom and understanding, that I may not add to his word nor take from it.

It seems that my mind has been impressed about writing for years, but feeling my insufficiency I have been slow to commence the work, for who is sufficient for these things? But we find that this was the case with Moses when the angel appeared to him in a bush in flaming fire, but no excuse that Moses could make would do, so he had to go and preach to Israel. So, you see, when God calls a man to preach the gospel, he has it to do. He cannot run away from God, though he may try to do so as did Jonah. God will afflict him until he makes him willing to obey.

When I was twelve years of age (July 29, 1845) I lost my mother, and the evening she was buried I was taken sick and was very low—so much so that my father and grandmother (Mildred Doggett) did not think that I would live. I heard them conversing to that effect; and though I was but twelve years of age I feared death and judgment, and tried to pray to God that I might not die. The Lord raised me, and from that time till I was in my twenty-first year, I, at times, would have serious impressions about what would become of me when I died—so much so that I would sometimes even leave my plow in the field and go to the bushes and select some secret place to ask the Lord to have mercy upon me as a sinner. But when I was in my twenty-first year, on the 26th of March, I obtained a hope. Sometime after that I joined the Old School Baptists and asked liberty of them to exercise a gift. They gave me liberty to preach, and I exercised a gift amongst them for several years—until one of our preachers preached that God was not the creator of all things in heaven and in earth. I told the church that I differed with him. One of the members of the church took it up and in my absence brought it up in church meeting, acted upon it and decided amongst themselves to stop me from preaching, saying that if I preached that God was the creator of all things in heaven and earth that I made God the author of sin, and they did not believe God to be the author of sin. So we disagreed; and the Scripture says, "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" So you see, we could not walk together, for we could not agree.

Now, I felt that God had called me to preach his word, and I thought that the Old Baptist was the church of God, and now they have stopped me from trying to preach amongst them. What is the matter? I thought that the Old Baptist was the church of God, and they won't have me. Surely I have been mistaken about preaching, so I will quit, for I am a poor man and have a family. I will stay at home and try to work for them and make an honest living. I tried to do this, but was much perplexed. This was the case for some time. I would find myself often times in the field at my work, or, if I was walking the road, preaching, with the impressions that I was trying to run away from God; that God had given me his word to preach, and woe is me if I preach not the gospel. Now, what must I do? The Baptists won't have me, the other denominations won't have me. Now what must I do? The Lord would then tell me to go out into the highways and hedges, streets and lanes, and preach his word, but like Moses, I would try to make excuses, but all of my excuses were to no purpose. The Lord has his way in the whirlwind, so he showed me if I would not willingly do as he wished he would make me. So he showed me what he would do with me. I had a large bay mare, and God showed me a vision she fell upon me and I was nearly killed. Shortly after I had the vision, which took place some distance from my home, the mare ran away with me, and fell on me, and I was nearly killed. I was hauled home by my friends, and I lay twenty-seven days upon my back. No one who saw me, I suppose had any hope of my recovery. But I could not die—Jonah could not die in the whale. While I was lying there the Lord showed me that I should get well. When the Lord raised me he told me to go and preach his word, whether they will hear or whether they will not.

So you see that the Lord makes his people willing in the day of his power. In the 110th Psalm he says that his people shall be willing in the day of his power. So you see that Paul was made willing in the day of his power; Moses was made willing in the day of his power; Jonah was made willing in the day of his power; and not only these, but all God's people are made willing in the day of his power. Amen.

The sermons which follow deal largely with two of his principal differences with the "Old School Baptists" who believed in free will, while J. J. Lambeth preached the doctrine of predestination. A second matter of disagreement was related to the fact that Old School Baptists followed a policy of paying their preachers and of selling religious tracts, neither of which practice was acceptable to Jo Lambeth. Sine he felt such a strong call—through visions and dreams—to go and preach—and yet was not accepted by the church of his choice, he appears to have made a wise though belated, decision in building his own church in Monticello. There seem to have been irreconcilable differences between him and the church which he considered "the church of God," which he struggled to resolve for many years of his life. One wonders whether the reorganization of his church—effected by his son Archer—which led to its becoming a part of the Baptist Association seemed to Jo Lambeth a final victory or a defeat.

2. Charles Archie Lambeth, b. May 27, 1926, d. April 20, 1935. His death occurred as follows: Elijah (Lige) Russell, a respected negro man who with other members of his family, helped in the farming of Leslie Lambeth's land, came in a large flat-bed truck to pick up fertilizer stored in the pack barn. Charles Archie, without warning to Lige, was trying to get on the back of the truck, when suddenly the truck lurched forward, throwing Charles Archie under the wheels of the moving vehicle. To compound the tragedy, the accident was witnessed by his mother, Maggie Lambeth. The family, the good neighbors and Lige were overwhelmed with grief.
3. Katherine Jane Lambeth, b. Dec. 6, 1929, md. Dec. 19, 1951 to John William Zarker. He was born Oct. 25, 1928, Lancaster, Pa. and the son of Alvin Benjamin and Barbara Elizabeth Scheffler Zarker. Katherine

Lambeth Zarker graduated from the high school division of Brevard Junior College and in 1950 received a B.A. degree from UNC-G, did graduate work at the Univ. of Miami and UNC, and received a M.A. degree in English from the former in 1951. Her husband, John (Jack) William Zarker received his B.A. degree from Franklin and Marshall College and his masters degree in Classics from UNC in 1952; after serving 1952-1955 as an officer in Naval Intelligence, he returned to Princeton University where he received a Ph.D. degree in 1958. He was awarded a Prix de Rome in 1959-60 to the American Academy in Rome, Italy, and was a visiting scholar at Cambridge University, Cambridge, England in 1965. He has taught at the Univ. of Texas, Dartmouth College, Vanderbilt University, and is now chairman of the Classics Dept. at Tufts University, Medford, Mass. Children of John and Katherine Zarker:

4. Wilma Carol Lambeth

3rd g. 6. Henry Henderson Whitfield Lambeth was the son of John Josiah Lambeth and Jane Walker Lambeth and was born on Christmas Day in 1865 (or 1866). He realized the value of an education at an early age and it was foremost in his plans for himself and his family. He attended Gilliam's Academy, Caswell County, N. C., which was one of the very few schools of any kind offering teachers even with a minimum of training.

While at school at Gilliam's Academy he played base ball and caught the baseball bare-handed, and without a face guard. As a result, he received broken fingers and a broken nose for the lack of protection.

After marriage to Annie Lou Watson of nearby Rockingham County, they bought land at what is now Monticello, northeastern Guilford County. She was born 5 Feb., 1871 and died 23 Oct., 1953. Some of the land he purchased from his father and other pieces at different times from adjoining owners. At one time, he owned over 350 acres. To this marriage was born thirteen children; two daughters, Gladys and Fannie died in infancy. Eleven lived to maturity and at present nine are still living.

He taught everyone to work as a team for self sustainance as money as such was not available. Farming was the family's only means of existance.

His conviction of the importance of an education never slackened. As a result, he was deeply involved in bringing to Monticello, one of the first three high schools in the County. It was a boarding school and he built a house on this land a short distance from the school and gave it to the men students to live in while attending high school. They, in turn, helped with some of the farm work to pay for their lodging.

As his children grew up and were ready for college, the only way he could send them to school was to sell portions of his land in order to finance them. In later years, he transferred to Guilford County Board of Education ten acres of land for agriculture experiments. It was expected to be returned if and when the project stopped. However, when this happened the land was put up for public auction and not having the ready cash, someone out bid him and the land was lost to his family.

This did not diminish his interest in education and for more than fifteen years he was on the Monticello School Board of Education. Later he was named to the Guilford County Board of Education and was a member at the time of his death. His picture was displayed in the Auditorium of Monticello High School until it was discontinued for reasons of consolidation.

Henry Whitfield Lambeth was known affectionately as "Uncle Henry" and his grave is marked in such a way.

Agriculture was another factor in his life. He was one of the original organizers of the Farmer's Cooperative Marketing Concept. This fell into unscrupulous hands and failed by improper management. One wonders what he would have left to his family financially had he not bought Jefferson Life Insurance Company stock instead of investing in the Farmer's Co-op. He was approached at this time to buy stock by an agent of the Jefferson Life Insurance Company. Children of Henry Henderson Whitfield and Annie Watson Lambeth:

RECOLLECTIONS

Some interesting events by Mr. Odell Lambeth:

"During the great flu epidemic after World War I medicine and doctors to treat people were practically nil. Families were in many cases entirely victimized and people were dying at a rapid rate.

Dr. Flagge, the only doctor serving a great rural population from Brown Summit, N. C., became ill with it and the community was left helpless.

The County Health Department asked and received from Judge Collins of Greensboro an order to purchase bonded whiskey for medicinal use.

Auburn C. Lambeth, son of Henry W. and Annie Watson Lambeth, was at home from the Navy on emergency leave and he along with William J. Lambeth, son of William D. and Betty Watson Lambeth, arrived with Judge Collins' order and went to Baltimore, Maryland by train and purchased three suitcases of bonded whiskey. While returning and in Washington, D. C. one of the suitcases was so heavy that a handle broke. Fortunately none of the bottles broke and a hardware store made a new handle for it.

When they returned this supply was distributed to families, according to their needs. The medical bodies accredited this with assisting in saving many lives. According to reports it was used at the time when high fever broke and acted as a stimulant to a weakened heart condition."

(Betty Watson, wife of William D. Lambeth, and Annie Watson, wife of Henry W. Lambeth, were daughters of Hugh Lindsay Patrick Watson, a native of Rockingham County, N.C. who married Celestia Virginia Rankin. Hugh L. P. Watson served in the War between the States under direct command and with General Jeb Stuart, as one of his orderlies. Children other than Betty and Annie were: Mrs. Pearl Tyson, Mrs. Maggie Haynes, Miss Mildred Watson and one son Wade Watson.)

REMARKS:

"Papa was better known in Burlington as "Daddy Mack" or "Uncle Mack." He was the first owner of the Pepsi Cola Plant in Burlington and owned it until the depression. All the companies went broke in the state except two: one was in Raleigh. Even the head company at New Bern went broke also. They also lost their home. So after all those years in Burlington, where all we children were born, they wouldn't stay. They moved to Greensboro, N. C., where they lived until their deaths and are buried at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Greensboro, N. C."

WILLIAM JEFFERSON LAMBETH

William Jefferson Lambeth was the second son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth and was born in Virginia about 1835, according to the 1850 census of Guilford County. (Household #1193/1193) His parents had both died by this time and he was living with his grandmother, Mildred Clarke Doggett. About 1853 he joined the Old Baptist Church, along with his brother John Josiah. Also, like his brother, he began preaching soon afterward and was ordained about 1855—although John Josiah was not accepted for ordination. (The Signs of the Times, by J. J. Lambeth, page 49.)

His first wife (to whom he was married 14 June, 1857) was Lucinda Jane Simpson, who lived near Graham, in Alamance County. She was born in 1835 and died 2 July, 1864. They are said to have moved to Rusk County, Texas before the Civil War. A descendant from that area stated that he bought a farm in the Fountain Head Community and that he was a Primitive Baptist minister who preached at a church between Salem and Tyler, several miles from his home. The original church building was made of logs and had an adjoining cemetery. It was later torn down and replaced by a better structure. There is no church there now—just a tabernacle where a memorial service is held the third Sunday in June for deceased members.

A grand-daughter of William and Lucinda Simpson Lambeth—Pearl Henson Stroud—is a lifelong resident of the section where her family settled after moving from North Carolina. In 1973 she was honored by her community with a banquet, in recognition of her many years of service in the Presbyterian church of Joinerville, Texas, where she lives. She was living there in 1930 when the greatest oil field in America was discovered in Rusk County while the rest of the country was plunged into one of the worst years of the great depression of the thirties. At the time, Rusk and adjoining counties, always a poor, farming area, were suffering from a long and severe drought. After the discovery of oil—which was contrary to the expectations of geologists—the residents became rich overnight by selling mining leases to their land (and retaining 1/8th of the profit if oil was found) or by drilling themselves. Thousands of people came to East Texas and major oil companies soon began acquiring leases. The little town of Kilgore grew from a population of 700 to 10,000 in three days and by the end of 1931 there were more than 3,000 wells in East Texas. Although the boom gave work to hundreds of honest and industrious people who were without jobs as a result of the depression, it also brought many undesirables to the area. A famous Texas Ranger, who had had experience with other booms was brought in for the safety of those living and working in the section. He overlooked the less erious crimes, but quickly identified and dispatched the known criminals who had been attracted to East Texas.

Economic and political problems arose in regard to the control of production, which was so great at first that prices declined, due to oversupply. Also, it soon became apparent that the method of drilling was such as to threaten to exhaust the supply far sooner than would be the case if scientific methods were used. There was much controversy as to whether control of the situation in regard to both of these problems was a matter of federal or of state responsibility. Inevitably there was abuse of both federal and state laws, and the term "hot oil" was used to describe oil produced above the legal limit. Also a major scandal came to light in 1961 which revealed that many prominent and respected residents of the area had stolen about a billion dollars worth of oil over a period of fourteen years, or so, by digging "slant holes" to connect with nearby wells of others. In addition, there were countless family lawsuits related to establishing the title to oil-rich land.

Nevertheless, in spite of all of these problems, the discovery of the "Black Giant" transformed the area and helped the economy of the whole country. It also lead to an understanding of oil conservation and to a more honest and responsible attitude on the part of businesses and individuals dealing in oil. Perhaps the greatest benefit was the availability of this vast supply of oil to the Allies during the second World War, when two pipelines were run from East Texas to oil refineries in Philadelphia and in New York, and after processing, sent on to European combat zones. A most interesting account of the discovery and development of this largest oil field on the American continent is described in The Last Boom by James A. Clark and Michel T. Halbonty, Random House, N. Y., 1972.

A more personal view of the big boom is given by Mrs. Stroud in various letters to Mary N. Doggett, "The oil boom in Joinerville, Texas, happened in 1931" and representatives of big oil companies gathered in Lubbock awaiting "the big oil field that was expected to blow any day in East Texas. Joinerville (named for the man who drilled the "discovery well") was a nice community with a Presbyterian Church, a store, a blacksmith shop and a cotton gin. There was a school house with four teachers." (After the first big well was "brought in") "in about two weeks Joinerville was a boom town. There was a two story hotel and a hospital. They had to buy buildings and bring in for the school children that were coming in. They did not have time to add to the school buildings or the church and Sunday School building.

"There was some good happenings and many sad things. My husband was killed by a hit-and-run driver on 31 December, 1932. There were a lot of drunks in the Boom Days and we feel it was one of them. The first people who came in with the boom were mostly trash. They would rob, steal and kill and the most horrible things happened daily. The bad element traveled on. The next people that came in were fine, remained in Joinerville and are substantial citizens. They came and settled (and) joined our churches. In the Presbyterian Church they had over 300 in Sunday School.

"We had fifty cabins on our place. People rented all the spare bedrooms and rental houses. All of this was during the depression. Our land was leased, spare bedrooms were rented for a fancy price until people came in who could buy and build and move their families here. Joinerville has not returned to its agricultural community but is still in the oil business. At one time (we had) 20 (oil wells) in all—some on my father's place, some on this one, and my sons have drilled several on other leases. At present (1973) we do not have any, all are dry; the boys have a few on other leases. The field is going down fast. These big companies get oil at night. That is the rumor—I don't know the facts."

Edwin Thomas Lambeth, third son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth, was born 1 June, 1836 in Guilford County, and was the first of their children to be born in North Carolina. (1850 census, household #1193/1193.) He was married on 17 November, 1861 to Eliza Troxler, (Guilford County Record of Marriages, 1853-1867, North Carolina Archives, Raleigh.) and settled near Brown Summit, Guilford County. The following year—on 20 July—Edwin Lambeth enlisted as a private in Company 2, Regiment 63 of North Carolina Cavalry. (See Moore's Roster of N. C. Troops in the War Between the States, Ashe & Gatling, Raleigh, 1882, Vol. 4, p. 46.) He was discharged in August, 1864 and received a final settlement at that time. (See N. C. Troops, 1861-65, A Roster. Compiled by Louis H. Manarin, Department of Archives and History, Raleigh, N. C., 1968, Vol II, page 441.) He is also listed in the Index of Confederate Soldiers in North Carolina, National Archives, Washington, D. C. as being a member of Company I, 5th Regiment, N. C. Cavalry.

Edwin Thomas Lambeth died on 28 February, 1897. His wife Eliza, who was born on 4 December, 1833, died in Columbia, South Carolina on 15 October, 1917. Their children:

Hillary Fletcher Lambeth, fifth son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth was born in Guilford County about 1840. Like his brothers, he was cared for by his grandmother Mildred Clarke Doggett after the death of his parents. He is thought to have served in the War Between the States and to have died, unmarried, during this time, but no records have been found to bear this out. The suit of John Doggett against Elijah Chilcutt, both executors of John Lambeth, states that Hillary Fletcher Lambeth died before he had reached his majority. The family tradition that he was in Rusk County, Texas, after the Civil War, appears to be incorrect.

James Madison Lambeth, sixth son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth, was born in Guilford County about 1841. On 22 July, 1861 he enlisted as a private in Company M, 21st North Carolina Infantry Regiment. He died one month later on 21 August, 1861. (Moore's Roster of N. C. Troops in the War Between the States, Ashe & Gatling, Raleigh, 1882, Vol. 2, page 206.) He died in the Warwick Hospital, Lynchburg, Virginia and was buried in Maplewood Cemetery, there.

JENNINGS WHITFIELD LAMBETH

(1842-after 1882)

Jennings Whitfield Lambeth (familiarly known as "Doc") was the seventh son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth, and was born in Guilford County on 8 May, 1942. The following information (including his birthdate) is from the History of Greene County, Missouri (except where otherwise noted):

"He was left an orphan when but three years old, and was reared by his grandmother, and received his education at the Monticello (Guilford County, S.S.M.) Academy of his native state. At the age of twenty in the spring of 1862 (14 Feb., 1862 enlisted as a private in Company F, 19 Cavalry Regiment, see Moore's Roster of N. C. Troops in the War Between the States, Vol. 2, page 129) he enlisted for the Confederate service in the second N. Carolina cavalry, but was transferred the following fall to Gen. Lee's command and served under Stewart and Hampden till the close of the war. He participated in the battles of New Bern, Culpepper, Fredericksburg, and all other important movements of that active army. He was once severely wounded and disabled for ten months, and was subsequently captured, just before the surrender. (This account is found in N. C. Troops 1861-65. A Roster, Compiled by Louis H. Manarin, Dept. Archives & History, Raleigh, N. C., 1968. Vol. II, page 145: "Jennings W. Lambeth, resided in Guilford. Enlisted 22 February, 1862. Absent at home wounded, May-June 1863. Appointed Corporal (4th Corporal) July-August, 1864. Captured at Five Forks, Virginia 1 April, 1865. Confined at Point Lookout, Maryland until released after taking Oath of Allegiance 28 June, 1865.)

Returning home after the war, he went to Henderson, Texas and engaged in merchandizing. In 1868 he went to Montgomery County, and there married Miss Julia Bymaster, moving thence to Lebanon, Missouri. He was engaged as engineer in locating the "Frisco" railroad to Springfield. In 1870 he moved to Christian County, Missouri, and engaged in livestock raising and farming till 1882. Then he sold out and came to Bois D'Arc, this county (Greene County, S.S.M.) and began merchandising with John Bymaster. Mr. Lambeth is the father of four children, two of whom Virgil C. and Fannie O. are still living at this writing. He is a consistent member of the Christian Church." (Information from another, but unknown source, states that after the war Jennings Lambeth came home and then went to Indiana, where his brother Albert Judson was living. He married a sister of Albert Judson Lambeth's wife. They later moved to Logan, Missouri and then to Bois D'Arc, Missouri.)

Records of only two of the children of Jennings Whitfield and Julia Bymaster Lambeth are available:

3rd g. 1. Virgil Custis Lambeth married Catherine Renick at Marionville, Missouri. They live at Bois D'Arc, Missouri in his father's old place. Virgil C. Lambeth is president of the Bank of Bois D'Arc. Child:

4th g. 1. Jennings Renick Lambeth, born 26 Oct., 1920 at Bois D'Arc, Missouri, married Josephine Wiley of Elwood, Missouri on 31 Aug., 1941. She was born there on 8 May, 1921, the daughter of Frank C. and Dae Hendrix Wiley. Child:

5th g. 1. Jennings Custis Lambeth, born 21 Oct., 1945, Tooele, Utah, married Suzanne Earthman on 19 Aug., 1967. Child:

6th g. 1. Mary Jennifer Lambeth, born Auburn, Alabama 8 Sept., 1971

3rd g. 2. Frances O. Lambeth married Harvey Murray, an attorney of Ash Grove, Missouri. Their daughter:

4th g. 1. Marjorie Murray, married Dr. R. M. Dunn, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and they have a daughter:

5th g. 1. Sara Frances Dunn.

Cornelius Loftin Lambeth was the eighth and youngest son of John and Rebecca Doggett Lambeth. He must have been named for his great-grandfather's brother, Cornelius Loftin, who died in Craven County in 1762. He was born in Guilford County about 1844; after the death of his mother in 1845 he was cared for by his maternal grandmother, Mildred Clarke Doggett. Upon the death of his father he became the ward of his uncle, John Doggett to whom the following letter was written. It was sent from the Confederate Camp at Kinston, N. C. by the "Politeness of Corporal Stratford."

"Dear Uncle:

With much pleasure, I now seat myself for the purpose of writing you a few lines that you may know I have not forgotten you, though it seems as though you have me or forgotten how to write. I will not entertain you long. I was in hopes of getting a furlo this time but I have failed. I don't know when I will get one. My furlo was wrote out and sent up but the General would not let them all go and three of us had to stay and there is six will start tomorrow morning. I will send some things by them to Gibsonville, which I want you to take them home. There is a two gallon keg that is Uncle James Doggett's and the rest is some clothing. Two Robins, 1 shirt, and a pair of drawers and a hat. Write soon and let know if you get these things.

I have no more news of importance to write I will now close. Write soon, give my love and best respects to Aunt and all the rest of the family. This leaves me well and hearty and all the rest of the Company. So no more, only I remain your true nephew until death.

C. L. Lambeth "

Moore's Roster, previously cited, shows that Cornelius L. Lambeth of Guilford County enlisted as a private in Company M, 21st Infantry Regiment, at the same time as did his brother James M. Lambeth. This was on 22 July, 1861. (Vol. 2, page 206) Family tradition states that Cornelius was home on furlough that ended two weeks before the surrender. His people begged him not to go back, as they knew the war was almost over. He said that he could not be called a deserter, went back, and was killed in the last battle at Petersburg, Virginia. Another story is that he was out scouting the Yankees. His captain told him to keep down but he peeped up over a log in the woods and was killed by a Minnie ball that hit him in the center of his forehead. His grave has been located in Blandford Church Cemetery, Petersburg National Military Park, Petersburg, Virginia. It is not marked, but is in Section #3 (North Carolina Section), the 20th grave on the left hand side from the Confederate Arch.

FRANCES LAMBETH PRATHER

Frances Lambeth, tenth child of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, was born in Guilford County on 5 December, 1805 (tombstone and 1850 census; another record gives 1808). She was married in 1826 to Robert Richardson Prather, a native of Caswell County. Their marriage bond is dated 24 July, with her brother John Lambeth, as bondsman, and they are said to have been married on 28 August, 1826. (One of their children gave the date as 1 August.)

Robert Richardson Prather was the eldest child of Leonard Deakins and Frances Williamson Prather and was born in Caswell County on 26 February, 1800. His father, who was a Presbyterian minister, had come to North Carolina from Maryland in 1797. A great uncle of his mother's was Hugh Williamson, a delegate from North Carolina to the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia in 1787, and a signer of the Constitution of the United States. (See History of North Carolina, Vol. VI, North Carolina Biography, pp. 54 & 55, The Lewis Publishing Co., Chicago and New York, 1919.) (A sketch of this family, thought to have been compiled by W. H. Lester, Berkeley, California, is included in the collection of family Bible records and family histories in the Search Room of the North Carolina Archives in Raleigh, North Carolina.)

Like his father, Robert Prather was also a minister, and was ordained at the same time as hie wife's brother, John Lambeth. The following sketch is taken from Lives of Christian Ministers, by P. J. Kernodle, M.A., Secretary Southern Christian Convention, Richmond, Va., page 142: "Rev. Robert R. Prather lived in Guilford County. He was ordained to the office of Elder at Union Chapel, in Orange (now Alamance) County, North Carolina, in 1828. In 1830, he was in attendance upon the General Meeting or Conference, held at New Providence Meeting House. Soon after this he connected himself with the Methodist Protestant Church, in which he labored many years, but was always friendly toward the Christian Church. He was a most excellent man."

In 1828 Robert Prather bought land on Reedy Fork, five miles east of Guilford Court House, adding to it through the years. It adjoined the property of Frances Prather's brother Shadrack Lambeth (who later moved to Davidson County), and it was here that their children were born and reared. After the death of Shadrack Lambeth, Robert Prather bought his former homeplace from his son John W. Lambeth. (The Guilford County census of 1850 shows that all of the children listed in the household were born in that county.)

Robert Prather died on 4 March, 1881 and his wife Frances on 13 August, 1884. Both are buried at Lee's Chapel, Guilford County.

On the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Robert Richardson Prather his living children printed a pamphlet based on his life and their recollections of his character. It is interesting to note how widely scattered these children were by this time: three were living in California—William Jeter at Fresno, Joseph Leonard at Selma, and Valeria Ann at Berkeley; three were living in Van Buren, Arkansas—Robert Barham, Hepsie Virginia and Martha Leonora Emiline; two were living in Seattle, Washington—Edna Lucretia and John Nathaniel. Survivors of other children were living in North Carolina —Charles Case, widower of Frances Elizabeth lived at Oak Ridge and Katie Hendrix, daughter of Sarah A. lived in Greensboro. Nora Gertie and Lizzie Prather, daughters of Lovick L. Prather lived in Case, Arkansas.

Robert Richardson Prather was held in great affection and high esteem by his children, and apparently by many friends and acquaintances. Although he had little formal education, as will be noted from his children's reminiscences, he must have been a man of strong character, fine ideals and unusual intelligence. There have been many oral traditions of him handed down, including the fact that he is said to have had some familiarity with both law and medicine, which he used for the benefit of family and friends. Although he was physically a very small man, he was a person of great stature in the opinion of others. One of his children spoke with pride of his being "critically neat in person and apparel.

Summarizing the recollections of his children, Robert Prather did not go to school after the age of fifteen, although this was probably far more schooling than most boys had in 1815. At that time he became a clerk and bookkeeper in a store owned by his uncle Thomas Williamson, continuing at this work for the next ten years. When he was twenty-three years old he joined the O'Kellyites—a branch of the Christian Church, which had split off from the Methodist church—and after being licensed to preach in 1828 he travelled and preached for two years. By this time he had a wife and family and devoted himself principally to teaching and farming. When free schools were established it is said that he was on a board to give examinations for teaching certificates. He continued to preach all of his life, but confined his work mostly to local preaching and supply preaching as the years went on. In 1836 he joined the Methodist Church, serving as a preacher on the Orange, Granville and Albemarle circuits, successively, in the 1850s.

Although he was principally occupied as a teacher and a preacher, he gave much of his time to his family and to his home place. He showed "never tiring industry and skill in superintending his farm" on which he grew, in addition to the usual farm products, many varieties of fruit. One of his accomplishments was being a fine rifle shot. When he was at home in the evenings he made and mended shoes for his family and helped his children with their lessons. Each Sunday morning he and his wife held a religious service for the family and for visitors and servants. This consisted of a reading from the Bible and a comment on what was read, followed by the singing of a hymn, and ending with prayers.

The statement of his son John is perhaps the most eloquent and moving of any included in the pamphlet: "Father was a man of good judgment, his general judgment was unsurpassed. He was generous and kind to the extent of his means, but not beyond his means. He loved his family; he loved his friends; and, in fact, he loved all men. His work, his life before his family and neighbors seemed so divine that all loved and revered him.

His manner of correcting his children was simply sublime.

He was an able minister of the gospel. He was not narrow minded and superstitious, but was broadminded and liberal. He had no criticism to make of any who differed with him in church doctrine, except with some certain 'hard-shelled,' narrowminded people who credited the Almighty with consigning little babes to everlasting punishment. Father couldn't speak of such a doctrine without exhibiting marked signs of impatience.

Although father was a life-long Democrat but few knew his politics, for he never took an active part in any election. He was much grieved because of the Civil War. Like a great percentage of the Southern people he was not a secessionist, but like them he had to endure it. He always enjoyed a joke and could tell one reasonably well. Neither he nor mother had any patience with a person who for any cause would evade the truth.

As a minister father was interesting, sympathetic and able; so much so that he always commanded large audiences and was listening to with marked attention." Another child added that he was generally a quiet man but talked often about moral and religious subjects in his general conversation. His disposition was cheerful, but not frivolous.

His daughter Emma who was present when he died quietly at the age of 81, wrote that his death was without illness, pain or fear, and that his last words were "None but Jesus." The inscription carved on his tombstone summarizes in few words his life and death as described by his children: "Mark the perfect man and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

Robert Richardson and Frances Lambeth Prather were the parents of fourteen children. Records of these children have been collected by Mary N. Doggett, from Guilford County census information (1850), from a sketch of the Prather family compiled by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lester of Berkeley, California (based on family Bible records in their possession, as well as family letters and traditions, and the centennial pamphlet of which they also had a copy) and from records contributed by Mrs. Edmund L. Sides of Greensboro, Mrs. Charles Johnson of Palacios, Texas, Frank Robert Hutton of Greensboro, Mrs. Edmund L. Sides, Jr. of Greensboro, and others.

13. Valeria Ann Prather, born 7 May, 1848. She came to California by train to Sacramento on 7 Jan., 1870 with her brother William Jeter Prather, pioneer of 1849, who had gone by train to their home in North Carolina on a visit. They would have reached California in 1869 had they not been delayed near Omaha, Neb. where the steamers were ice bound and it was necessary for the passengers to walk over the frozen river and wait for their trunks. Before her marriage she taught school at what is now Salida, Stanislaus Co. (For futher information see pioneer History of Wm. Jeter Prather.) Valeria Ann Prather Lester died 16 July, 1936 in Berkeley, Cal., buried in Lester family plot in Modesto cemetery. She had been married on 21 Aug. (or 31), 1871 to William Henry Lester, at the home of her oldest brother, William Jeter Prather. Her brother John was one of the witnesses. William Henry Lester was the eldest child of James Lester (born in Kentucky) and his wife Sarah De Voe Lester (probably born in Maryland) and was born in Des Moines, Iowa on 4 April, 1842. James Lester, his wife and their nine children came around the Horn via New York City, from Des Moines, Iowa to San Francisco in 1864 and later settled in Stanislaus Co., where he became a rancher. Valeria Ann Prather and her husband William Henry Lester lived on a ranch in Stanislaus Co. until about 1880 when they moved to another ranch in Fresno Co. In 1889 the family moved to Berkeley to educate the children and since then that has been the family home. William Henry Lester died 28 Feb., 1914 in Berkeley, Cal., buried beside his wife in Modesto Cemetery. Children:

3rd g. 1. Mary Berdinia Lester, born 6 Feb., 1873, Stanislaus Co., Cal., and died 23 May, 1951. She taught school before her marriage in 1900 to John H. Hampson of Clovis, Cal. Child:

4th g. 1. John Alva Hampson, born 17 Jan., 1901, Los Angeles, Cal., m'd 4 June, 1923 at Berkeley, Cal. to Mary Frances Beck, daughter of Mrs. Percy W. Beck. No children.

1828, 28 Jan. William Coney to Robert Prather, both of Guilford County, for $350.00. 119-3/4 acres on waters of Reedy Fork, Larkin Smith's corner and Woollen's line. Book 18, page 286.

1840, 8 Jan. Absalom T. and David Woollen, both of Rockingham Co., to Robert Prather for $120.00, one half of the undivided tract, containing 194 acres, which half is 97 acres, including land belonging to the heirs of Samuel Woolen, dec'd., on waters of Reedy Fork, adjoining John Rankin and Shadrack Lambeth. Book 27, page 379.

1840, 25 April. James E. and Ann Thom to R. R. Prather, one fourth interest in Samuel Woollen tract. Book 26, page 70.

1842, 24 May. Delila Woollen to Robert R. Prather, one fourth interest in the undivided tract of land belonging to the heirs of Samuel Woollen, dec'd for $60.00. 149 acres lying on the waters of Reedy Fork, adjoining Shadrack Lambeth, Stafford's corner. Book 27, page 74.

1853, 29 August. John W. Lambeth of Davidson County to Robert Prather of Guilford Co. for $45.00. 9 acres on waters of Reedy Fork, Scott's corner and David Scott's line. Book 36, page 513.

1854 John B. Tray to Robert R. Prather, 242 acres on Reedy Fork and the county line. Wit. Robert B. Prather. Book 36, page 435.

1864 Robert B. Prather gave power of attorney to his father, R. R. Prather.

1869 Robert R. Prather and Frances Prather sold the 232 acres on which they reside to Lovick L. Prather, retaining a lifetime right.

1871 L. L. Prather and wife Mary A. Prather gave power of attorney to R. R. and J. L. Prather to sell the land "whereon my father R. R. Prather now resides." This power of attorney to be null and void at the death of R. R. Prather, if land is not sold prior to that time.

1874, 19 Oct. Robert R. Prather, acting attorney for Lovick L. Prather and wife Mary A. Prather, to John N. Prather of Stanislaus County, California, for $1,500.00. 230 acres in Guilford Co., known as the land whereon Robt. R. Prather now resides. On waters of Reedy Fork, adjoining William P. Wharton, Levin Aydlette, the heirs of Sarah A. Lambeth and James Pass, S. Steele, D. Lewis, Yancey Andrews and Busick. Acknowledged before probate judge in Guilford County, 17 October, 1874.

HEPSEY LAMBETH STAFFORD

Hepsey Lambeth was one of the younger daughters of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, and was born in Guilford County after 6 February, 1804 (since she is not mentioned as one of the heirs of her uncle Aaron Lambeth). The census of 1830 indicates that she was born before 1810.

Hepsey was married to Emsley Stafford, the Guilford County marriage bond being dated 1 August, 1829, with John B. Stafford as bondsmen. Although there were many Staffords in that part of Guilford County at the time, it is not known who his parents were.

There are no deeds for Emsley Stafford in the county records, and the names of Emsley and his wife do not appear on any census except that of 1830. Apparently they moved away from the area by 1840.

Edna Lambeth Cummings

EDNA LAMBETH CUMMINGS

Edna Lambeth, the thirteenth and youngest child of Josiah and Elizabeth Loftin Lambeth, was born in Guilford County, 27 August, 1814. She was the last of the children to marry, and probably lived in her father's house many years after the other children had left to make their own homes. In Josiah's will, Edna is the only child to whom special bequests are made of personal property. He wanted her to have a loom, a table and the family Bible. In addition, he left her $140.00 in cash, and specified that money owed her by her sister Mary be paid by his executors out of Mary's share of his estate. Edna also shared, with her sisters, in the "balance" of Josiah's estate—which was the major part.

In 1834 Edna was married to William Cummings (the marriage bond is dated 15 April). He was born 9 March, 1797 and was the son of Robert Cummings. In early records of this family the name is spelled "Kimmons," "Cimmons" and Cummins," and Edna's tombstone is marked "Edna Kimmins." Both she and William were buried in the old Lambeth cemetery, located on land which had formerly belonged to her father. William has no tombstone but it is known that he died on 10 March, 1874; the inscription on Edna's stone states that she died 11 December, 1876.

William Cummings had first married Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Eli Smith and Jane Rankin, and grand-daughter of William Rankin and Jane Chambers. Their marriage bond is dated 26 March, 1823 and census records show that William and Elizabeth Smith Cummings were the parents of John W. born in 1824, Robert born in 1827, Elizabeth born in 1829, William Rankin born in 1831 (February 20), Thomas S. born in 1834, Nancy A. born in 1836 and Frances M. E. born in 1842 (December 26). Thomas is thought to have been killed during his service as a Confederate soldier. Four of these children married and had families.

There were several men in Guilford County named William Cummings who were living at the same period. For this reason, it is impossible to identify the land transactions of William who married Edna Lambeth. However, the land on which his homeplace was built is known to have been purchased from his father Robert Cummings, on 14 October, 1831. The tract consisted of 599 acres on the waters of Buffalo Creek, cost $1,200.00, and was bounded by the property of Josiah Lamber (Lambeth), Joseph Burney, John Geringer and Robert Cummings. Witnesses to the deed were Ezekiel Devault and John Wharton. (Deed Book 19, page 444.) William Cummings became a well-to-do farmer, owning 7 slaves in 1850. The census of 1860 shows that his personal property was valued at $4,000.00 and his real estate at $9,500.00—considerably above the average in the community.

Early research on this family was done by William C. Rankin of Charlotte, N.C. It has been continued and brought up-to-date by Norma Brown Gordon of McLeansville, N.C.)

The children of William and Edna Lambeth Cummings were: Amanda, Hepsia, Euphia, Margaret, Edna and Emma. They were the 2nd generation from Josiah Lambeth.

VIII. SAMUEL LAMBETH

Samuel Lambeth's name first appears in Craven County records in 1791, when, on 27 December of that year, his father Samuel Lambeth, Sr. gave to him the "land I now live on." The younger Samuel may have just reached the age of twenty-one at this time. The Davidson County census of 1840 shows that he was born no earlier than 1770; the Craven County census of 1800 shows that he was born no later than 1774. Using this information plus the dates of the deed, it is clear that he was born in 1770 or early in 1771. His birthplace was Craven County where his parents were then living.

The land which Samuel Lambeth, Sr. gave to his son Samuel Lambeth, Jr. consisted of 75 acres and represented one half of the tract which the elder Samuel had purchased in 1773 from Richard Blackledge. It lay on the south side of the Neuse River and the west side of Half Moon Swamp at Joseph Trewhitt's corner. The other half of the property had been given to Benjamin Lambeth, one of Samuel's older sons, in 1774. However, Samuel Lambeth Sr. did not have clear title to this property, which was a part of a patent granted to Cornelius Loftin, Sr. The deed by which Loftin sold to Solomon Griffin the tract later purchased by Samuel Lambeth was never recorded, although succeeding transfers of this property are on record. On 29 January, 1766 Solomon Griffin sold the land to William Holloway (Craven County Deed Book 12 & 13, page 380); on 27 August, 1767 Holloway sold it to Richard Blackledge (Craven County Deed Book 14, page 200) and on 1 January, 1773 Blackledge sold it to Samuel Lambeth, Sr. (Craven County Deed Book 20, page 358). After Samuel Lambeth had divided it between his two sons it must have become apparent that the title was not clear and, because of this fact, was actually the property of Cornelius Loftin, Jr., as the heir of his father. This seems to explain why Samuel Lambeth, Jr. bought the entire tract from William Martin Herritage, attorney-in-fact for Cornelius Loftin, Jr. By this time Benjamin Lambeth was no longer living in Craven County and his wife, Ann, had died in 1791.

Also on 1 January, 1793 a grant of 100 acres adjoining John Lane and including Panther Island, Chinquapin Island, Herons "Pecoson" and the Horse Pens, was bought from the State by either Samuel Lambeth Sr. or Jr. Later transactions involving this land seem to indicate that it was granted to Samuel, Jr. This grant had been "entered" — or applied for — on 1 November 1791.

Samuel Lambeth Jr. was married in Craven County to Elizabeth Heath, daughter of William Heath Jr., whose will, dated 1780, names "Lize" as his next to youngest child. (Craven County Loose Wills, North Carolina Archives). The date of the marriage bond was 17 December, 1793 and it was signed by Samuel — who spelled his name "Lamberth" — and by Jeremiah Heath, bondsman, who was Elizabeth's eldest brother. Their father's will confirms the tradition in the Heath family that Jeremiah Heath was the brother of Elizabeth Heath who married Samuel Lambeth.

In July, 1794 Samuel Lambeth Jr. bought from Longfield Loftin 40 acres on the south side of the Neuse, beginning at Half Moon Swamp and adjoining Enoch Alexander's line and Cornelius Loftin's line. The deed was witnessed by Samuel Lambeth, Sr. who signed with his characteristic mark, recorded on the two deeds of gift to his sons Benjamin and Samuel. The land was near or adjoining the first land bought by Moses Lambeth, as well as the plantation which Samuel Lambeth Sr. divided between his two sons. Possibly the gift and the purchase comprised the "old plantation" of Samuel Lambeth (Jr.) referred to in the will of William Griffin in 1809 (Craven County Loose Wills, North Carolina Archives) by which he left both the "old and new plantations of Samuel Lambeth" to his son William Griffin Jr.

The "new" plantation apparently consisted of two purchases made on 6 December, 1800, which seem to have adjoined the grant of 1793. The first of these purchases was 150 acres bought from Daniel Lane located on the south side of Neuse River, near Horsepen Branch, adjoining William M. Heritage and William Doughety. The census of 1800 shows Samuel Lambeth as living next to William "Dority." The second purchase, from George Lane, was of 300 acres on the south side of Neuse River, at the head of Mill Branch and joining Loftin's land, and William Heath's. At the court of September 1801 a bill of sale was recorded and witnessed by Vincent Holloway, for a negro boy, about five years old, bought by Samuel Lambeth from Joseph Loftin. The price was twenty-five pounds. (Craven County Deed Book 35, page 15.)

While living in Craven County Samuel Lambeth served on the jury in June 1799, March 1801, December 1804 — and for the last time in March 1805. At the December Court of 1803 he was appointed guardian to his minor children Nathan, Aaron, Sally, Elizabeth and Amos "in the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds for each." (The name Sally is in error, and should be Silas, as will be seen from later records. S.S.M.) His securities were Frederick Mecoy and James Taylor. The nature of the guardianship was the inheritance by these children of a legacy from their uncle Aaron Lambeth of Jamaica.

Samuel Lambeth moved to Rowan County between March 1805 and February 1806. His last deed recorded in Craven County was dated 4 August, 1807. By this deed Samuel Lambeth "of Roan" deeded to William Griffin of Craven County 700 acres "bound by patents which Griffin had from Lambeth" — suggesting that William Griffin had already made several purchases from Samuel Lambeth which are not recorded. The 700-acre tract is described as the "land where said Lambeth formerly lived—on south side of Half Moon Swamp. One of the witnesses was William Wadsworth, who was married in March 1788 to Cassia Heath, sister of Samuel's wife Elizabeth. They also moved to Rowan County.

After moving to Rowan County, Samuel Lambeth was identified in tax lists and in deeds as Samuel Lambeth, Sr., to distinguish him from his nephew Samuel Lambeth, son of Moses Lambeth, who, being about fifteen years younger, was referred to as Samuel Lambeth, Jr. However, this distinction was not generally made in entries in court minutes, but it can probably be safely assumed that positions of responsibility were held by the older Samuel—at least until about 1810. Thereafter, the identity of the person referred to, when the name is given without a suffix, can only be a matter of guess; unless otherwise stated, it will be assumed to be the older Samuel.

In February, 1806 Samuel and Council Lambeth were appointed patrols in Capt. Myers' company; in March 1806 he bought a tract of 301 acres "on the waters of Abot's Creek" from Christian Sayers (or Sears). In May, 1806 Samuel Lambeth was appointed guardian to Levi, Edwin, Lambard, Jeremiah and Christopher Heath, with Moses and Josias Lambeth as securities. These young boys were the sons of Samuel's sister Sarah Lambeth, widow of Christopher Heath, who relinquished her guardianship in favor of her brother upon her second marriage. In August, 1806 Samuel Lambeth was appointed overseer from Bodenhamer's to the Randolph County line.

In the fall of 1809 he bought 240 acres on a branch of "Uhrarie," and on the county line, adjoining McCullough and Waller. This land was purchased from Christian and Eve Knox. His final purchase of land in Rowan was on 14 January, 1811 when he acquired 425 acres from James Childress of Randolph County, on "waters of Uharah" at Campbell's corner.

In May 1809 Samuel Lambeth, Council Lambeth and others were appointed to lay off a road from Fisher's Ferry on the Yadkin River to Coldough's Mill, where it "strikes the Fayetteville Rd. which leads from Lexington to Millon Mill." Two years later, in February, 1811 he was again appointed—with Moses Lambeth, Lewis Tyer, Council Lambeth, Daniel West and others—to lay off a new road near the Randolph County line. In addition to clearing, then cultivating one's own land, there was much to be done cooperatively to facilitate getting about in the neighborhood.

Also in 1811—in May of that year, Samuel Lambeth brought suit against Robert Gardner for a debt, but the ruling was in favor of the defendant. In August, 1816 he was appointed to a commission with William Bodenhamer, Philip Copple, Jacob Pugh and Frederick Goss, to divide the estate of Godfrey Crum, and in February 1817 was one of the bondsmen for David West who was appointed guardian to a group of minor children.

Samuel Lambeth was overseer of the road leading from Col.

Bodenhamer's to the Randolph County line, from August, 1817 "for the ensuing year." He served on the jury in 1820 and on the Superior Court jury in 1822. After the establishment of Davidson County in 1822, he is listed as serving on the jury at the September Court of 1824. At the same court it is noted that Alfred Lambeth (and others) charged with affray and found guilty, "appeals to Superior Court thru his next friend (his father, S.S.M.) Samuel Lambeth." Also at this court a deed was proved by which Samuel Lambeth, Senr. gave to his son Aaron Lambeth, 212 acres, for "love and affection." This land was on the waters of "Uwarra," known as Locust Thicket lands, adjoining Joshua Lee. However, the land was returned to Samuel by Alexander Gray, acting as attorney in fact for Aaron who had settled in Marion County, Indiana.

Samuel Lambeth and others were appointed to a commission to divide the lands of Sarah Ives among her heirs, at the December Court, 1825.

At the time of his death Samuel Lambeth owned a large number of slaves, but there are only two records of purchase: on 9 April, 1817 he bought "a negro boy named Ned, aged 11 or 12" from Cotten Steed, the bill of sale being proved by Nathan Lambeth at the November Court, 1829, and on 6 July, 1818 he bought several slaves from the estate of Jacob Myers, deceased. (Davidson County Deed Book 1, page 517.) Perhaps they were among Samuel Lambeth's "3 hands" who worked on the road from the Randolph County line to the "cross road near Caty Black's" in November 1828. In May, 1831, only one of Samuel Lambeth's "hands" was assigned to join in the road maintenance—this time the road being the Fisher's Ferry Road, from Fair Grove Meeting House to Fossett's Branch.

In 1830 Samuel Lambeth made his last purchase of land when he bought 60 acres from the heirs of Peter Moore. The land adjoined his own property, John W. Thomas, Benjamin Waller's corner and Henry E. McCullock's original corner. He is listed as serving on the jury at the August Court, 1831, as lending one "hand" to work on the road from Fair Grove Meeting House to the Randolph County line in May, 1832, and the last entry mentioning his name in Davidson County Court minutes is in February, 1838, when his name was drawn for jury duty at the Superior Court in Lexington.

Samuel Lambeth's first wife—Elizabeth Heath—was the mother of ten children, the youngest of whom, Needham Jackson Lambeth, was born on 24 October, 1814, according to records of Samuel's grandson Thomas Lambeth. After her death, the date of which is unknown, he married a second time, but had no children by this wife who lived only a short while. Tradition in the Kindley family (descendants of Samuel through his son Amos) states that her name was Tumbleson (or Tomlinson). In 1838, at the age of about 67, Samuel Lambeth was married to Rachel Myers (Davidson County Marriage Bonds, 7 January, 1838). She became the mother of seven children, and survived him. The Davidson County census of 1850 shows that she was born about 1820 or 1821 and so was in her late teens at the time of her marriage. After her husband's death she married Brittain Warner—in 1850. The census of that year shows that he had five children by her previous marriage.

Although public records of Samuel Lambeth were few during his lifetime, they were voluminous in regard to the settlement of his estate. These records, filed with Davidson County Estates at the North Carolina Archives, show that he died on 5 September, 1848. David Loftin, step-son of Samuel's son Silas, was appointed administrator of the estate. Because Samuel died without a will, leaving a sizeable estate and a large number of heirs, the settlement was carried out through the Court of Equity and was not concluded until the Spring Term of 1851.

Soon after the death of her husband, the widow, Rachel Lambeth, was granted her dower "principally on the Christian Sears tract of 301 acres," of which she was given 240 acres. Upon her suit for addditional funds, she was granted $74.75 the following year—in 1849.

A sale of the "perishable property" of the estate of Samuel Lambeth was held in November, 1848. This included livestock, farming implements, some surplus crops, household furniture, cooking utensils and a few personal belongings. It is obvious from the itemized list of the sale that his farming operations had been very extensive. At the same time 22 slaves were also sold. The administrator collected a few small debts to the estate, including amounts due for the "hire" of various slaves, and noted four "bad," or uncollectable debts.

Among the most interesting items in the estate papers are amounts due, which throw considerable light on the value of money at the time, and even more importantly on the relationship of various members of the family to Samuel Lambeth. It appears that Silas Lambeth and his wife, and Reuben May, who had married Samuel's daughter Eliza, took an active part in helping in the operation of Samuel's large farm and the care of his slaves—as well as of himself and his family—but all for pay. Below are a few of the items listed in a total amount of $48.10 due to Reuben May:

"To Eliza 4 days cutting out & making Negros Clothes	1.00
5 days tending on Rachel (Samuel's wife)	1.25
Weaving 35 yds. cloth	1.75
Cutting wheat, 3 days	2.25

1 pr. half soles	.12½
1 pr. shoes	1.50
Making bonnet for Rachel	.25
For pay Docter bill	10.00
2 days killing and Salting hogs	1.00"

These services were carried out in 1846, 1847 and 1848.

The estate was also indebted to Silas Lambeth for $58.67 3/4, among the charges being:

"To wating and attendance in Sickness 29 days	29.00
56 lb. flour	1.40
59 3/4 (lb.) Bacon	4.78
31 day Labour	11.92

By wife, one day's cutting out shoes	1.37½
5 lb. coffee	1.50
4 days halling rails	2.00"

While the kind of care required may have differed, it is striking that only $7.00 was charged for the care of a sick negro for 28 days, while $29.00 was charged for the care of Samuel Lambeth for 29 days.

Other items paid by the estate were:

"To David Lambeth for making 3 prs. of shoes for negroes	2.62½
To N. J. Lambeth for making 3 prs. shoes	1.50
For large walnut coffin	7.50
For winding sheet	1.80
To Benjamin Larries for preaching the funeral	3.00
To Stephen Roberts for 3 days crying the sale of the Property	7.50
To George C. Mendenhall, lawyer's fees for helping the administrator	100.00
To J. M. Leach (for same legal services)	100.00"

Amos Lambeth seems to have been the son to whom his father intrusted many of his most important business affairs. During Samuel's last illness he sent for Amos and gave him all of the various bonds, or notes, due to him by several of his children, plus $638.00 in cash. Amos was requested to deposit the money in the bank at Salisbury to be divided among the older children in case of their father's death; the notes of money his children owed him were to be considered as gifts. At the same time, Samuel also made a gift to Amos of $56.90 to be kept if Samuel died soon after. Amos, however, was unable to deposit the cash before his father's death, and was ordered by the court to turn over to the administrator, David Loftin both the money and bonds, as well as his father's gift.

In 1849 David Loftin petitioned the court, through his attorney George C. Mendenhall as follows: "Samuel Lambeth died possessed of a Considerable personal Estate of a perishable nature and a number of Slaves . . . . At the November term, 1848 David Loftin administered to his Estate and sold perishable property . . . and slaves . . . . and said personal Estate also consisted of some notes on different persons for small amount. Your orator (David Loftin) would further shew unto your Honor that he has paid the debts . . . . and he is ready and desirous to settle the whole Estate, & to pay over to each of the next of Kin . . . . the remainder of the Estate of said Samuel Lambeth in his hands, after deducting and being allowed all proper disbursements and charges." The petition goes on to say that "several of the older children of his Intestate have received advancements from him in his lifetime the amount of which is wholly unknown to your Orator & some of said Children reside at a great distance in several different Western States." The administrator therefore petitioned the Court of Equity to summon Amos Lambeth and all other heirs to appear at the Court of March 1850" and to abide by and perform such order and decree as shall be made in the premises." The court thus would take into account the "advancements" made to various heirs and determine the amount of the share of each in the remaining estate. This petition was later amended so that it required each heir to list all gifts from Samuel Lambeth, whether money, land, slaves, furniture or any type of property given or loaned to them during Samuel Lambeth's lifetime.

Also in 1849 (at the Spring Term of Court) Aaron Lambeth, then living in Missouri, (through his son Franklin Lambeth, as attorney in fact), Silas Lambeth, N. J. Lambeth and others petitioned for the sale of the lands of Samuel Lambeth saying that "said lands cannot be divided among the petitioners without manifest injury to the interest of all as several of them reside in the Western Country & could not enjoy their share if divided & also that several of the petitioners are infants & that a Sale of said Lands & their portion of the proceeds placed at interest would be of material benefit to them . . . . and that the 240 acres . . . covered by the widows dower be also sold subject to her life estate as it would be for the interest of all concerned." This petition was granted by the court. Accordingly, the land was sold at public auction, much of it remaining in the family through the sale of the portion of one heir to another. The following transactions were among those that occurred during the settlement of the estate:

Silas Lambeth purchased from the estate by two sales, 3 May and 2 November, 1849, one tract of 382 acres and the Christian Sears tract of 301 acres for which he paid $160.00 (Davidson County Deed Book 12, page 489).

Reuben May and Eliza May his wife sold to N. J. Lambeth for $50.00 "all our right, title, interest & estate in & to the lands sold by Order of the Court of Equity," dated 1 April, 1851 (Davidson County Deed Book 12, page 377).

Rachel Lambeth sold to David Hepler for $300.00 the 240 acres "alloted to her for dower out of the estate of her late husband Samuel Lambeth deceased." This deed was dated 5 June, 1849, witnessed by Junius L. Clemmons and proved at the May Court, 1850. (Davidson County Deed Book 12, page 213.)

The petition for sale of land further states that "Rachel, a daughter of said Samuel Lambeth Sen'r. deceased, intermarried with Joseph Gadd and Eliza intermarried with Reuben May, and Laura intermarried with James Vanstory & she obtained against her husband a Decree of Alimony in Guilford County." Another document related to the settlement gives this information concerning some of the heirs: "This day personally appeared before me David Loftin & made oath in due form of Law that he is informed and believes Aaron Lambeth, Alfred Lambeth, Joseph Gadd & Rachel his wife, James Vanstory, Thomas Lambeth and Burrell Lambeth are not inhabitants of this State." This declaration was dated 31 Jan'y, 1850.

The year before Franklin Lambeth, having power of attorney from Aaron Lambeth of St. Francis County, Missouri, had appointed Amos Lambeth to act in his behalf in settling the estate of their father Samuel. Alfred M. Lambeth of Hardiman County, Tennessee had already—on 15 February, 1849—appointed Amos to act as his attorney in receiving his share in the estate.

The final hearing on the settlement was held at Mabry's Hotel in Lexington in the spring of 1851. The total value of the estate—before court costs, legal fees and other expenses of its settlement—was $12,754.75. This included advancements made to various heirs and money received from the sale of personal property, slaves and land. If one compares the purchasing power of the dollar, then and now, Samuel Lambeth was a rich man with an estate worth at least ten times it's evaluation, if judged at today's values. Disbursements made by the administrator and the estimated costs of the settlement were about $1,100.

After adjustments had been made for advancements, each of the seventeen heirs was paid his or her share in cash. These heirs were his widow Rachel (who had married Brittain Warner between February, 1850 and the end of the year), her seven children, and the eight children by his first wife who were living at the time of Samuel's death. Also included were the children of his son Nathan who died in 1839.

Because of the large number of documents relating to his estate settlement that have been preserved, and because of the letters of his grandson Thomas Lambeth, more is known about Samuel Lambeth and his immediate family than any of the other brothers who moved from Craven County to Rowan County. Unfortunately, only a few of his many descendants have been located who have traced their family line down to the present.

Thomas Lambeth, grandson of Samuel, gives some interesting traditions and reminiscences of his grandfather in letters to various relatives: "My grandfather Lambeth was raised near Nubern, N. C. and I suppose he come up in this part of the country about the same time his other brothers come. He also, settled on some of the head waters of Little Unwharie, but further east near the Randolph County line, about three miles South of where Thomasville now is. It was said he oned a thousand acres of land there. We lived on part of it when I first could recollect . . . . . My grandfather, uncle Moda's brother, settled a little east from where Moda settled.

"My grandfather . . . . said he was not quite old anuff for the Armey, but he could tell much about that war. And had one of the old British muskets. He called it Old Corn Wallis. It was a big old clumsey gun, with a flint and steel lock. He killed many deer and turkeys with it and it was awful to kick. It once broke his collar bone, when he shot a turkey that was up in a tree. He also had one of their old swords and a pare of their calvery pistols. They was big old clumsey things with locks like their muskets, only a little smaller. I bought one of them at his sale, the stock had bin broken. I restocked it and after using it awhile I let one of my cousins have it when he started west.

"My grandfather Lambeth was a powerful farmer in his day, and had great Orcherds of both apple and peach, and many other kinds of fruit. He stilled a lot of his apple and peach fruit and had lots of Brandy, and had lots of Bees and Honey. And all of the good things that could be prodoused on a farm.

"He too had some Negro slaves to help work and they had increased till ther was thirty some od, when he died. And two of his negro men that I knew died before he did, Luke, and Simon, by names. And at his sale there was awful crying and lamenting among the Negroes for fear the specolaters would get them or they get hard masters. They were begin their young masters, and good people that they knew to buye them, and I think the most of them got good homes and I don't know of but one of all of that sett of negros living now, Green Lambeth by name.

"He (Samuel Lambeth) had a mole on the upper part of his tongue, about mid way. He could never whistle for his dogs like other people did when he wanted them. But it did not bother him much about talking. He was married three times. I think he married his first wife, my grandmother before they left Nubern, as my father was partly raised down there. She had ten children . . . . I don't think his second wife had any children and maybe did not live long after marrying. I can recollect when he married his third wife. She was a very young woman and had seven children before he died. I never knew much about them as I left that part of the country pretty soon after grandpa died."

Thomas Lambeth describes the family burial ground thus: "at Grandfather Lambeth's old place, in a cedar grove, near the road, west of the house. Where Him and his first wife, our grandmother Lambeth and their daughter Elizabeth and our father Nathan . . . and severil others . . . was buried. Six of them Cedar Trees are there yet, or was a few years ago and they got very large and tall, and they are about all there is to mark their resting places, except a few small stones."

The names of the children of Samuel Lambeth and his first wife Elizabeth Heath Lambeth as given by Thomas Lambeth correspond exactly with those listed in his estate settlement (Davidson County Estates) and are as follows:

1. Nathan
2. Aaron
3. Silas
* 4. Elizabeth
5. Amos
6. Rachel
7. Alfred
8. Elysa
9. Laury
10. Needom J.

*(Born Dec. the 30th, 1799. She died while very young. Information from Thomas Lambeth.)

Children by Rachel Myers Lambeth (from 1850 census, Davidson County, Northern Division Britain Warner household #1148/1159):

11. Dudley M., b. ca. 1839
12. Lorenzo D., b. ca. 1841
13. Benja. F., b. ca. 1842
14. Mary, b. ca. 1844
* 15. Samuel) b. ca. 1847
16. Frances) (other records show 1843-47)
17. Martha F., b. ca. 1848

1794-1839

Nathan Lambeth, eldest child of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth, was born in Craven County on 19 (or 29) September, 1794, according to the letters of his son Thomas Lambeth. Nathan was about twelve years old when he moved with his parents to Rowan County. His father's land, which eventually consisted of almost 1,000 acres, was located near the Randolph County line, just south of the present town of Thomasville, and here Nathan lived both while he was growing up, and after his marriage. Probably because he did not acquire any land in his own name until shortly before his death, his name is not found in records of the County Court as being assigned any of the usual community responsibilities associated with being a "freeholder," such as serving on commissions to settle estates.

However, a great deal is known about Nathan through the letters of his son Thomas, who was the chief chronicler of the family of Samuel Lambeth and quite naturally wrote more of his father's family than of any of the other of Samuel's children. To quote directly from these letters:

> "My mother like my father, they was the first born of each family, and they were both near the same age. Her name was Nancy Coggins, born Nov. 21, 1794. His name was Nathan Lambeth, born Sept. 29, 1794. They married about the year 1816 or 17, and settled near his fathers place, and raised a large family of children. Ten in all, one of them died while a babe.....My grandfather, Uncle Moda's brother, He settled a little East from where Moda settled, on some of the Uhwarie waters, near the Randolph County line, some four or five miles south of where Thomasville now is . . . We lived on a part of it (his grandfather's land) when I first could recollect, but later on my Pa baught that sawmill tract, and another tract . . . . . We had a saw mill on the same creek that Uncle Moda settled on, but lower down, and we halled our lumber to old Jamestown, and to Greensboro, is how I happened to go by where High Point now is so many times, that was all woods then, only the two public roads crossed there . . . .

. . . . And when he died (Thomas' father, Nathan) we was in dept severil hundred dollars on the two tracts. Mother hardly knew what to do, but finily concluded to sell off such things as we could do without and pay on the depts that was nearly due, and that give us time to work out the other depts as they come due. We all hung together until we paid out. None married, when mother died we divided out, some lived at one, and some at the other . . . As to the death, or murder of my Father, I will have to write it on another sheet to tell - Even the half of the circumstances connected with it. It shows that there was some mighty mean men in that day and time as well as there is in this day and time. But them, that murdered my father, is all dead and gon long ago to give an account of it, and if not repented, we may know that they are reaping their awful reward."

The land on which Nathan Lambeth and his wife lived may have been given to him by his father, Samuel, even though there is no recorded deed to prove this; it is possible that land came to Nancy Coggins Lambeth by inheritance. At any rate, in March, 1826 Nathan Lambeth lost 300 acres located on Big Creek, in Randolph County, as a result of a foreclosure. At that date a debt of $25.00 was due to Andrew Richards and a judgment was levied on this tract to satisfy the debt. The land, adjoining Roger Williams and Willis Coggin, was sold to Jesse Harper, as highest bidder at a public sale, for only $12.00.

Two years later Nathan Lambeth bought—also at a Sheriff's sale—the same amount of land in Davidson County, which was put up for sale to satisfy a debt of $187.00 owed by Daniel Myers to Valentine Hoover. The land adjoined Christian Seachrist, George Myers, Graves, James Ball and Adam Black, and for it Nathan Lambeth paid the amount of the debt—$187.78 3/4. Apparently the total payment was made in installments and there were still payments due at the time of Nathan Lambeth's death, as indicated by the letters of his son Thomas. In 1844, Elizabeth Lambeth, Nathan's eldest child—who later married Jacob Crotts—deeded her share in this land, and a saw mill on the land, to her brother Burrell C. Lambeth.

Nathan Lambeth died between 13 November, 1839—the date of the last day of the November term of court—and 21 November, 1839, when a special court was held and Burrell T. Coggin was appointed special administrator of the estate, with a bond of $1,000 and Thomas Cotton and J. W. Thomas as securities. At the same time the administrator was given permission to sell three horses, and all the pork, oats and hay not wanted for family use.

At the next term of court—in February, 1840—Burwell T. Coggin was appointed regular administrator of Nathan Lambeth's estate; a new bond of $3,000 was set and two new securities approved by the court. They were Martin Skeen and Shadrack Lambeth. A commission made up of John Ward, Esq., John W. Thomas, Nathan Kendal and Shadrack Lambeth was appointed'to allot one year's support to Nancy Lambeth, widow of Nathan Lambeth," and the court also ordered that the County Trustee pay to Richardson Finch $2.40 "for holding an inquest over the body of Nathan Lambeth." Also at this court James Ball made a Deed of Trust to James May apparently to secure money owed by Ball to the estate of Nathan Lambeth. The security was a tract of land and the mortgage was dated 28 Dec., 1839.

Almost four years after the death of Nathan Lambeth—in May, 1843—the County Trustee was ordered to pay Seth Ward (constable) $4.80 for summoning 24 jurors "to hold an inquest over the body of Nathan Lambeth." This suggests that it was some time after his murder that the special jury arrived at a decision as to the cause of his death.

Nancy Coggins Lambeth, wife of Nathan Lambeth, was the daughter of Burrell and Letha Coggins. (See letters of Thomas Lambeth in Appendix for further information on this family.) She died in August (or September), 1843, the day before the death of her son George Mc Lambeth. Thomas Lambeth wrote that "they both was buried in the same grave, it being dug wide anuf for both coffins. And at Grand Father Lambeth's old place. In a cedar grove, near the road, west of the house. Where Him and his first wife, our grandmother Lambeth and their daughter Elizabeth and our father, Nathan Lambeth, Bro. Zebedee and severil others. Six of them Cedar Trees are there yet, or was a few years ago and they got very large and tall, and they are about all there is to mark their resting places, except a few small stones."

Records of the children of Nathan and Nancy Lambeth follow accounts of the murder of Nathan contained in letters of Thomas Lambeth.

Nathan Lambeth's Murder

As to my Father Nathan Lambeth, being murdered by a mob several years ago. As the hole story connected with it is a very long one, I will only write you the cause and how it was.

It seem that My father had three very bitter enemeys; one in particular, that had tried to defraud him in two or three cases, but my pa beat him at the law, which made him very mad. I don't know what was the cause of the other two eneymes, I think they was close kin to each other, and one of them had been west awhile and had come back to collect some money, and I think the other one was fixing to go back with him west.

And it seem that the one that had come back from the west when he had collected his money, he deposited in the cear of his brother-in-law, that was so mad at my pa. And it seem that they devised a plan to get up a big croud and give my pa a sevear whipping. And their plan was that the money had been stolen, by my Pa. But they had no evidence only a negro's, which was not lawful in that day and time against a white man, and it seem that they made it mity plain and nice to such people as they though would go and help whip him and make him give up the money, and it seem under them circumstances they got up a big croud to go and see the fun.

The night my pa was murdered he was up at the Warton place that he had baught a little while before and none of us was up there but my oldest sister and two of the smaller ones that had gone up there to clean up the house as we all expected to move up there soon. He had gone up there that night with his wagon and teem expecting to do some work up there. After getting in bead just with his night shirt on. They broke open the back door and rushed to his bead jirked him out, telling him to give up that money he had stolen. He told them where all the money he had was, and what kind of money it was, and who he got it of, and that he knew nothing about the stolen money. They dragged him out doors and commenced beating him and he knew some of them and called their names, saying how can you bare to see me suffer so being I am innison of what they acquise me of, then them that he called by name sneaked off towards home.

And the others when they discovered that he knew them, draged him a mile or more into the woods, and beat him until they thought he was dead. It seem that they knew after they had done what they had if they did not kill him, woe would be until them if he lived to prosicute them. He said when he got so he knew anything they had all left and he cralled and walked some until he got back home.

And my sister had gone to give the alarm—But had gone to the house of one of them that my Pa knew and called by name. He had got home but was mity slow to go with her and they wen to another man's house to get him to go, and he also was one of them that had gone home, so they moved around mity slow, and when they had got back my pa had got back home.

Then two of them come after my mother, riding his horses, and she road behind one of them and she said he shuck like a man having an ager, and when they got there, and my Pa and Ma was to themselves he told her who they was, and no wonder he was shaking like a man with a turible aguer, knowing that he was guilty. But not so guilty as them that thought that they had killed him.

One of them that was so mad at him while they had him down on his back jumped on him stomping him on his bowels, which caused his death in about twenty-four hours. He wasent wounded otherwais much all tho they thought they had killed him.

And if his deposition had been taken all he knew of them would have been found guilty of murder, but as it was the law had no proof only what he told mother and that would not do for evidence in law. And when the Coroner had summons a Jury of twelve men to hole an inquest over his death it seemed that he had got some of the men on the Jurry that was guilty themselves of being along. So they decided that he come to his death by an anknown mob of men. So none was arrested but some of them wasent seen by the public after that night, and about every one of them left the country prety soon.

When my Pa tole them where his money was and who he got it of, that same man was there hearing him tell it, they never even went to look for it. They knew he did not have their money, and I think the others that they had gotten into it was satisfied he did not have it. But as I have mentioned before they knew if they did not kill him, woe would be unto them if he lived to prosicute them.

Well, they have all passed away long ago to give an account of what they did while here in this world, and if they repented not, the Everlasting, woe woe woe is unto them.

We heared that the main leader of that mob went to Missouri and later on got afflicted so bad that it seemed that he could not live, or die, until he acknowledged that he was the cause of the Lambeth murder.

Signed (Thomas Lambeth)

Some History of The Murder of Nathan Lambeth
Many Years Ago, About November The First, 1839

My father, Nathan Lambeth: Was a carpenter by trade and had build an house for John Lee. On a contract for so much a square, which was common in that day and time. And when the house was completed and the calculations made Lee denied the contract to be what my father said it was by the square. And as there was no one present, when the contract was made but Lee's wife, he proved by her what he claimed by the square was true, so Lee had it to pay, and that seemed to make him mad at my father. I don't know how much he may have abused his wife for telling the truth.

And it was said later on, Levi Coggins, a neighbor concluded to sell out, and go west, and before the sale he sold his blacksmith tools to John Lee. But before he had moved them or paid anything on them the anvil was missing, so Lee would not take them. And when the sale was my father baught them and the Anvil if ever found, and the anvil was a noted one for having about one inch of the tip of the horn broken off, so almost any one that had seen it would know it. And some time after, may be a year or so, Lee found the anvil and carried it home, and my father hearing of it went after it. But Lee was not at home but his wife said carry it on, so he did. And it seemed to give Lee a second grudge.

And sometime after that my father baught a tract of land of Lee that he had sold from another man that had not finished paying Lee for it. Paying some money down, and giving his notes of different amounts, and dates, to be paid later on as they come due. And finily when he went to pay off a note that was due, Lee proposed for him to pay one that wasent due yet, saying the size of it suited his conveninuence better at that time than the other, so my father not thinking anything wrong about it, knowing it all had to be paid, paid off the note that wasent due yet, leaving one due not paid. And in a few days to his surprise, Lee suid him on the note that was due. I recon thinking he would get the land back and what had been paid on it, as I suppose he did from the other man he had sold it to. But my father had some friends and got the money and paid it off, I suppose disapointing Lee very much.

And sometime after that, John Goss, a brother-in-law to Lee come back from the west and collected some money that belonged to some of the Goss heirs back west, it being Gold and Silver, he deposited it in Lee's care till he went back. And it seemed that Lee was his security to the heirs for the money. And before Goss went back, Lee said somebody had stolen the money, saying that the lock had been cut out and the money gon. He Owned a negro named Tom—who he expected knew something about it. Tying and whipping him made him tell that it was Nathan Lambeth that got the money, saying that he held the light for Lambeth to cut the lock out, promising to give him part of the money but would not. And it seemed that Goss himself was in the plot to pack it on Lambeth. As he met up with my father about that time and wanted to exchange some Gold for paper money, saying as he was going back west the paper money would be handyer for him on the road to pay his fair. So my father happened to have about twenty dollars in paper money and exchanged it with him for the Gold. It seemed that they wanted to find some Gold in his possession, and under the circumstance, a negro being all the evidence, which was not lawful in that day and time against a white man. It seemed that they had the best kind of an excuse to get up a mob to go and make him give it up. Some of them had blacked themselves to make him think they were negroes.

The night he was murdered, he had went from our old place up to the Warton place, some two miles and near old Liberty meeting House. As Betsy, and some of the smaller children had gon up there to take cear of the things up there. He said to Mother, down at the old place that night, after eating supper, I believe I will go up to the Warton place and stay with Betsy and the other children tonight, and tomorrow go up to the saw mill place, and get the Wido Varner's boys to help me gather the corn up there, and sow the wheat before I make my trip south, as it is getting so late in the season. He had one of his wagons about loaded up at the Warton place redy to go south with it, but seeing it was getting so late in the fall, concluded not to go until he got his winter crop in.

And it was thaught that the mob watched him from the old place up to the Warton place that night. As some of our boys said they saw a light in that direction. And it seemed that some of them that had blacked themselves was the ones that broke the back door down, as the black marks of their hands was seen on the door for many days, months, or years afterwards. And when they had taken him out of the bed, just in his night cloths on and told him what was up. He told them where all the money he had was, and what kind of money it was, and who he got it from, and that he knew nothing about the stolen money, for they never even went to look where he told them where his money was.

And when they had draged him out into the yard he knew some of them and called their names, Joshue Deer, George Dorset, and Hope Skeen. How can you see me punished, being innocent of what they accuse me of. He said then them three, sneaked off toward their homes. Some of the others then tried to tare his shirt to get a strip to blind fold him with, but it was a new shirt, home spun and woven cloth so they could not tare it, they cut out a strip and blind folded him, even gaged him to keep him from hollowing, and draged him a mile or so into the woods, and there beat him to death, as they thought. For they knew if they did not kill him that woe would be unto them if he lived to prosicut them. But he come to life, after they had left him for dead and he crawled and walked some, until he got back home, and lived about twenty-four hours, and seemed to be in his right mind till death.

But Sister Betsy, as soon as she could get sorter over her scear, she went down to Joshua Deer's and called him, but got no answer, then she thaught about George Dorset buying the place, and maby he had moved there, so she called him and he answered. She told him what was the matter, so he seemed to be afraid to go without going down to Hope Skeen's. And there they found Joshuary Deer, as well as Hope Skeen. And she said they fooled about a long time before they could start. And when they got most there they made out they heard something and would not go any further until they went and got Whitefield Pope, to go with them.

And when she and them got there, my father had got back home. Then Joshua Deer, and one of the others took two of my father's horses and come hors back after my mother. And she road behind Joshua Deer, and she said he was like a man having a chill or ague all the time. When she got there she found him wors off than they had told her he was. And when there was none of them present, he told her who they was, and in the scuffel with them, he said he scratched two of them on their faces. And when she got to see them later on she saw the scratches, and it was on one of them that had come after her, and it was no wonder he trimbled like a man with the aguer.

He said that he got away from them once, but his shirt being partly cut off catched against a snag on a tree, then John Lee caught him. So then they beat him to death as they thought. When Mother saw he was going to die, she asked him again to tell who they were that had murdered him, and he told over the names of all of them he knew, saying John Lee, John Goss, Lee Warten, Joshua Deer, George Dorset and Hope Skeen. Six in all, but there was others that he did not recognize. And if the deposition of his oath had been taken before a magistrait, of some lawful officer there would have been some chance of convicting them. But Joshua Deer, George Dorset, and Hope Skeen could prove by Sister Betsy that they was at home when she got to their houses, but from what my father said they had plenty of time to have gotten there before she did. And them that had the scratches on their faces, had some other excuse how they got there. And the others that was arrested, we hadn't much proof, only what father said about it, and his deposition had not been taken. So the law could not do much. But John Lee's overcoat, and the bucket that had the black paint in it was found near where he was murdered. Lee claimed them but said that they had been left out in the piaser that evening and did not know who carried them there. It looked mity like he was the one. But we could not prove it.

John Goss and Lee Warton got away and never was arrested and John Lee was a missing prety soon, and about all of the others left the country soon. Lee went some where in Missoury, and it was said before he died, he confessed that he was the caus of having my father murdered, said he cut that loch himself and could not die without owning to it.

Well they have gone long ago to give an account of their works as the same as we will have to do soon.

Written by Thomas Lambeth, one of Nathan Lambeth's sons, who was about leven years old at that time.

The children of Nathan and Nancy Lambeth:

1. Elizabeth
2. Burrell Coggins
3. Samuel Street
4. Zebedee
5. William
6. Thomas
7. George Mc
8. Lutisha
9. Letha
10. Alfred

The list above, quoted from letters of Thomas Lambeth is identical with the one given in the estate settlement of their grandfather, Samuel Lambeth, dated Spring Term, 1850. However Zebedee, born 25 October, 1825 had died in infancy, and George, born 13 February, 1830, had died in September, 1843. The three youngest children, who were minors in 1850, were the wards of their older brother Samuel Street Lambeth.

Elizabeth Lambeth

Elizabeth Lambeth, daughter of Nathan and Nancy Coggins Lambeth, was born 25 (or 26) November, 1818, died 19 December, 1900, and was buried at Mt. Pleasant Church, near Sheppard's Mountain, Randolph County, North Carolina. (Another record shows that she was buried at Fairmount Meeting House with her husband, who died a few years later, and some of their children. She married Jacob Crotts (Davidson County marriage bond dated 4 May, 1845), John Michael, bondsman. They raised four boys and one girl. The oldest boy, Samuel, moved to Arkansas, near Russelville, that state. (Information from Thomas Lambeth.)

The Davidson County census of 1850 (Southern Division) lists the family of Jacob Crotts (household #184/190), he being aged 28, farmer, value of property $450.00; Elizabeth was 31 years old, Samuel T. 4 years old, Henderson L. 2 years old, and Thomas D. one month old.

About a year before her marriage she gave up her claim in her father's estate to her brother, Burrell C. Lambeth, to satisfy a debt she owed him. At the November Court, 1847 a deed of trust was recorded from Jacob Crotts to Green H. Lee.

Burrell C. Lambeth

Burrell C. Lambeth, second child of Nathan and Nancy Coggins Lambeth, was, according to his brother Thomas, "born March 21, 1820. He married Phebe Hedrick, Col. Philip Hedrick's daughter, and raised one son, D. H. Lambeth, now of Thomasville, N. C. Died March 12, 1898 and was buried at Fair Grove cemetery, beside his Uncle Needom J. Lambeth." (This is doubtful in that his name is not included among those buried in this cemetery, S.S.M.) His wife Phebe was born October 12, 1822, died August 3, 1844 and is buried in Beck Church Cemetery, southeast of Lexington, N. C. She was the daughter of Philip and Molly Hedrick, who took care of her son David after his mother's death at the age of 21. The 1860 census of Davidson County, South Division, lists the household (370-372) as being made up of Philip Hedrick, age 68, farmer, real estate valued at $1,200.00, personal property at $6,000.00; Molly Hedrick, age 61; and David Lambeth, age 15 (born before August 3, 1844 when his mother died.)

In 1845 (Davidson County marriage bond dated 17 Sept.) Burrell Lambeth was married to his second wife, Susan A. Harris Myers (born 1820, died 1895). She was a widow (Davidson County Deed Book 38, page 296) and had one or more children by her first husband (see Davidson County census, 1880, Thomasville, N. C.).

County court minutes mention Burrell C. Lambeth only twice before 1848 (when his father died). Minutes after this date were not read for this sketch. In August 1847 he was paid $3.40 as a witness for the state against Felix Cecil, and in the same year he was summoned to serve on the jury. In connection with the settlement of the estate of his father, Nathan, his older sister Elizabeth deeded him her right in the land and sawmill of their father, to satisfy a debt to him. In 1849 Burrell C. Lambeth sold to his brother Samuel S. Lambeth his own right and title in the land and mill buildings of their father, Nathan, for $175.00, which probably included the share of his sister.

On 13 August, 1844 Burrell C. Lambeth bought 21 acres, designated as lot #7, from Eve Gordon, for $31.50. Witnesses were Andrew Seachrist and Daniel Fine; proved at February Court, 1849. (Book 11, page 450.) Burrell sold this lot on 31 January, 1849 to his brother Samuel S. Lambeth for $50.00. Witnesses were A. M. Lambeth and J. W. Thomas, proved February Court, 1849 and recorded in Book 11, page 442. On 13 November, 1845 he mortgaged his interest in 2 tracts of land inherited from his father Nathan to secure a debt of $94.49 owed to J. W. Thomas. The mortgage was held by David Loftin who was to sell the land and certain personal property if the debt was not paid when requested by Thomas. This deed was acknowledged in the Clerk's office 8 December, 1845. Book 10, page 106.

Most of the information about Burrell C. Lambeth comes from a letter written by his grandson and namesake, from Trinity, North Carolina, dated March 5, 1952. This was the son of David H. Lambeth, and he was born in July, 1873. He stated that his grandfather, Burrell C. Lambeth, "bought the Thomas homeplace (Cedar Lodge, near Thomasville, now a historic landmark) and 202 acres of land in 1861 and lived there continuously, I think, until he died in 1896. He was a mill wright and operated a mill for John W. Thomas for some years . . . John W. Thomas for many years lived in the . . house before he moved into the town of Thomasville. (His) wife was Mary Lambeth, the daughter of Moses Lambeth, who was a brother of Samuel Lambeth, my great grandfather. (My grandfather) befriended a man who was in trouble by going on his bond. This man left the country and my grandfather deeded his 202 acres of land to his brother-in-law, Samuel R. Harris (the brother of his second wife, Susan Harris Myers Lambeth) with the written understanding that Harris would upon his request deed the land back to my grandfather. This written understanding was destroyed (accidentally, she claimed) by Susan Harris Lambeth. At any rate, in 1885, S. R. and E. H. Harris deeded only 54 1/6 acres back to Burrell and Susan A. Lambeth (see Deed Book 38, page 296). Upon my grandfather's death, my father D. H. Lambeth, inherited the place (1898). My father sold the house and 54 acres of land to Frank H. Fleer of Philadelphia, September 8, 1902."

"I once lived in the house now known as the "Big House" at Cedar Lodge, and I recall very distinctly the old house before it was enlarged by Frank Fleer. The main house was two-story with an attic. The first floor had a hall dividing it about equally. On one side of the hall was one large room and on the other side were two small rooms. The second floor was divided into four rooms. There were porches on the front and back sides of the house. There was a brick kitchen about 16 x 24 feet which stood about 20 feet back of the main house. The kitchen had a huge fireplace in the east end where the cooking was done. About 1895 or 1896 I spent three months at the old place and tore down this kitchen. My father built an ell of one-story, consisting of a kitchen and dining room, and connecting with the main house."

A few other notes of interest concerning "Cedar Lodge" are found in Wheels of Faith and Courage, by Mary Green Matthews and M. Jewell Sink: "Burrell C. Lambeth, Sr. was a Mill Wright and operated a mill for John W. Thomas for many years. He was the miller for a flour mill and was careful that everybody got flour grown from their own wheat." (page 213.) This book also states that "Cedar Lodge", after being owned by Mr. Fleer, the "Chewing Gum King" from 1902 until 1918, at that time returned to ownership by the Lambeth family when it was bought by John W. and J. Walter Lambeth.

The children of David Lambeth (son of Burrell C. Lambeth and grandson of Nathan Lambeth) and his wife Sarah are listed in the 1880 census of Davidson County, Conrad Hill Township: (all born in North Carolina) David Lambeth, 35, husband (born 1844) keeping boarding house.

Samuel Street Lambeth

Samuel Street Lambeth, son of Nathan and Nancy Lambeth, was born 30 September, 1821. It is probable that he was named for Samuel Street who had married his great-aunt Zilpha Heath in Craven County in 1798. He died August, 1886, was buried at Old Liberty Baptist Church near Hanahsville, N. C. "That was the church our mother was a member of when she died. Street Lambeth, as he was commonly called, was married twice, had two children, a boy and a girl, by his first wife, none by his second wife. He married a widow Kepley. She had two children by Kepley and two by him, a boy and a girl by each." (From Thomas Lambeth's letters.) John and Mary Kepley became the wards of Samuel Lambeth at the November Court, 1846, with a bond of $200.00 and with David Loftin and Thomas Pope as securities. John Kepley was born about 1838 and Mary Kepley about 1842, while the children of Samuel and Elizabeth Kepley Lambeth - Alvina (or Alvanna) Lambeth and Emanuel (or Manly) were born in 1845 (1850 census, Davidson County, Southern Division, household #248-255) and 1848. Alvanna was married to Joshua Copple in 1866 (Davidson County marriage bond dated Feb. 13). Emanuel, who was born Jan. 30, 1848, died Jan. 5, 1875 and was buried at Liberty Baptist Church Cemetery, near Thomasville, North Carolina.

On 8 February, 1847 Samuel S. Lambeth and wife Elizabeth sold to John Coxe, for $100.00, lot #89, containing 23¼ acres and valued at $75.00. Witnesses were Felix Clodfelter and John H. Linch (?) and the deed was proved at the February Court of 1847. The location of the property is not given, but, since it was sold by both husband and wife, it was probably the dower of Elizabeth Kepley Lambeth (Davidson County Deed Book 10, page 475). On 31 January, 1849 Samuel S. Lambeth bought from his brother Burrell C. Lambeth for $50.00, lot #7, containing 21 acres. Witnesses were A. M. Lambeth and J. W. Thomas, and the deed was proved at the February Court, 1849. (Davidson County Deed Book 11, page 442.) In 1850 (8 November) Samuel S. Lambeth bought from William Grub for $50.00, 44 acres on the waters of Crooked Run, adjoining George Myers and Lambeth. Witnesses were A. H. Kendall and Frederick Grubb, and the deed was proved at the August Court, 1851. (Davidson County Deed Book 12, page 484.)

During the settlement of the estate of his father, Nathan, Samuel S. Lambeth bought from each of his brothers—Burrell, Thomas and William—their titles to their father's land and saw mill properties. He also bought the inheritance of his two younger sisters Letitia and Lethia and his younger brother Alfred, for whom he was guardian, when their shares in the same inheritance were put up for public sale, by order of the Davidson County Court of Equity. By these purchases he became owner of six of the eight shares of his father's estate. Burrell's part probably included the 1/8 portion deeded him by their sister, Elizabeth. With these shares, and his own, Street Lambeth became the owner of the whole of his father's property. He did not, however, live on this land, but had moved to Thomasville by 1870.

Elizabeth Lambeth was born 20 December, 1809, died 14 January, 1875 and is buried at Liberty Baptist Church Cemetery. The name of Samuel S. Lambeth's second wife and the date of his second marriage are unknown. There is a slight discrepancy between the date of his death, as given by his brother Thomas, and the date on the tombstone, which is 27 July, 1887. His estate papers (Davidson County Estates, North Carolina Archives) suggest that he died in 1887.

Zebedee Lambeth

He was born 26 October, 1825 and died while an infant.

William Lambeth

"William Lambeth, son of Nathan and Nancy Coggins Lambeth, was the twin brother of Thomas Lambeth. They were born 4 June, 1828." William died 16 January, 1891. He was buried at St. Johns M. E. Church, Marion County, Florida. He was married three times and raised one boy and one girl by his first wife. His third wife also had some children. None by his second wife. His two last wives were widow women. He was conscripted into the Rebel war and was in near four years, which about ruined his constitution, and seemed to affect his mind also He finily went with me to Florida, and died there."

In addition to Thomas Lambeth's records, there is a marriage bond in Randolph County for William Lambeth and Mary A. Gallimore, dated 29 April, 1855. The 1860 census of Randolph County, West Division, (household #729-709) indicates that she was born about 1835. At that time they had a little son, Frank Lambeth, born about 1858. The 1880 census of Davidson County (Thomasville) lists wife Malinda, step-children named Myers, and the following Lambeth children: Francis L. (9), Flora E. (8), Almeta J. (4), and John A. (11 months).

Thomas Lambeth

Thomas Lambeth, son of Nathan and Nancy Coggins Lambeth, and twin brother of William, was born 4 June, 1828 in Davidson County. His wife (born about 1830 according to the 1860, 1870 and 1880 census records of Randolph County, N.C.) to whom he was married in 1855 (Randolph County marriage bond dated 5 Sept.) was named Rebecca Hoover. The marriage was performed by Joseph Hoover, J.P. Thomas Lambeth is listed in the 1860 census as a master cabinet maker, with real estate valued at $6,000.00 and personal property at $500.00.

In 1849 or 1850 Thomas had traveled to West Tennessee to visit his aunt Rachel and her husband Joseph Gadd, and his uncle Alfred Moore Lambeth who was also living in Hardeman County at that time. He must have taken with him his youngest brother, Alfred, who was living in the home of the older Alfred in 1850. The census records listed above give the following children with their approximate dates of birth (all born in Raldolph County):

Mary A. Lambeth, 1856
Martha J. Lambeth, 1857
Rachael C. Lambeth, 1859
Nancy Lambeth, 1861
Lethe Ellen, 1863
Samuel L. Lambeth, 1864
Frances R. (Fannie) Lambeth, 1866
Flora G. Lambeth, 1869 (not listed in 1880 census)
John Lambeth, 1873

In a letter dated 1919, Thomas Lambeth says "My wife and four of the children is gone to the spirit world."

George Mc Lambeth

George Mc Lambeth, seventh child of Nathan and Nancy Coggins Lambeth was born 12 (or 13) February, 1830. "He died while a boy from Blood poison. 1843. Mother died the same time with fever, died August (or September). He died the next night after mother died and they was buried in the same grave, it being dur wideanuf for both coffins. We certainly had a very sad time then. And sister Betsy was down with fever at the same time, but over it." (From letters of Thomas Lambeth.)

Lutisha Lambeth

"She was born 28 February, 1832 and married William Sasser of Tennessee. They moved to Missouri and raised some children. One of their boys named Toma . . . . was badly afflicted." (Same source.)

Letha Lambeth

"She was born 15 May, 1834. (In the Davidson County census of 1850, she was living in the home of Martin Skeen. She married Levi Cranford a year or so before that rebel war. (Davidson County marriage bond 23 December, 1854. Martin Skeen, bondsman.) He had to go into it but at Getysburg he happened to get on the Union side and stayed until the was was over. After he got back they moved to Western Arkansas, Nashville. They raised three boys and two girls." (Same source.)

Alfred Lambeth

Alfred was the tenth and last child of Nathan and Nancy Coggins Lambeth. He was born on 20 October, 1836. "He too was in that turible rebel war. He was in severil battles and was wounded in his left ankle so his leg had to be cut off. He married Lundy Cranford, a sister of Levi Cranford. (Davidson County marriage bond 6 September, 1865. Alfred M. Lambeth and Mary Lundy Cranford, A. G. Johnson, Bondsman.) They raised one boy and two girls. The boy was named Burrell Thomas, after me and brother Burrell Lambeth." Alfred Lambeth died February, 1905 and was buried on Flat Swamp, west of Denton, N. C. (Information from Thomas Lambeth letters.) The Davidson County census of 1880, Emmons Township, indicates that Mary Cranford Lambeth was born about 1835. It lists the children of Alfred and Mary as:

Burrell F. Lambeth, born about 1866
Nancy E. Lambeth, born about 1870
Sarah J. Lambeth, born about 1875

AARON LAMBETH

Aaron Lambeth was the second child of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth and was born in Craven County on 11 April, 1796. This date is given in both the letters of Thomas Lambeth and in Goodspeed's History of N. E. Missouri. He was about nine years old when he moved with his parents to Rowan County. At about the time of his twenty-third birthday, his father deeded to him, "for love and affection" 212½ acres in Rowan County. This land, called "Locust Thicket," adjoined the property of Samuel Lambeth, Sr., Joshua Lee, Christian Knoy, and the heirs of Christopher Heath who had married Aaron's aunt, Sarah Lambeth. Thus the Heath heirs were Aaron Lambeth's double first cousins.

However, Aaron probably never lived on this land since, by 1824, he had already left North Carolina and was living in Marion County, Indiana, where Indianapolis is located. In 1849 he had moved to St. Francois County, Missouri, about 50 miles south of St. Louis. In June of that year, his son J. Franklin Lambeth, having power-of-attorney from his father Aaron, appointed Amos Lambeth of Randolph County, North Carolina to act as his father's attorney in the settlement of the estate of Samuel Lambeth, father of Aaron and Amos. Thomas Lambeth said "I saw him one time when he come to this country on a visit. I think he favored my father very much."

There is a sketch of William L. Lambeth—one of Aaron Lambeth's sons—in Goodspeed's History of N. E. Missouri, which gives the following information about Aaron. "After leaving North Carolina he moved successively to Alabama, Georgia, Indiana (Indianapolis) and Ohio (near Cincinnatti). There he married Ruth Brown, born near Cincinnatti, an orphan who was adopted by General William H. Harrison. (Aaron Lambeth) settled near Galena, Illinois; then moved to St. Louis in 1842 and later came to St. Francois County, Missouri, where he was a Miner and Surveyor. He died in 1877. His wife passed away in 1846."

"William L. Lambeth was born in 1836 and had the following brothers and sisters: Laura, Franklin, Milton, Eliza E. (born 1832), Samuel A. (born 1833), Aaron F. (born 1834), Susan (born 1838), Amanda E. (born 1840) and Henry (born 1843)."

All these children were born in Missouri. The birthdates which have been added are estimated from ages given in the 1850 census of St. Francois County, Missouri. The first three children are not included and had probably married before 1850. Samuel A. Lambeth listed above appears to have been the same person as Addison S. Lambeth named as the second child in the census list.

Silas Lambeth, third child of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth, was born in Craven County in 1798. His tombstone gives the date as 8 February, but the letters of his nephew Thomas Lambeth give it as 18 January. He grew up in Rowan County where his parents had settled about 1805. The part of the county where they lived, near the Randolph County line, later became Davidson County.

When Silas Lambeth was in his late twenties he married Mary Thomas Loftin, daughter of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas and widow of Thomas Loftin. Although there is no marriage bond for their marriage, there are many records which document it. (Also see section on Mary Lambeth Thomas in chapter on Moses Lambeth for records of Thomas and Warrick families.)

The second court held in the new county of Davidson was in April, 1823 and at this court Polly Loftin (to whom Silas Lambeth was later married) and John Thomas (her brother) who had been named administrators of the estate of Thomas Loftin, filed an account of the sale of the estate property. It is probable that Thomas Loftin had died only a short time before—some time during the winter of 1822-23, after moving there from Guilford County. It is likely that he was a son of Longfield Loftin, brother of Tabitha Lambeth (wife of Moses Lambeth) and of Elizabeth Lambeth (wife of Josiah Lambeth) who moved from Craven County to the Piedmont in the early 1800's and owned land in both Guilford and Davidson Counties. Years later, after Longfield Loftin and his wife Mary Kent Loftin had moved to Maury County, Tennessee her will, dated 26 June, 1849 names her grandson Alfred Loftin, as one of her heirs. Alfred Loftin was the name of the eldest son of Thomas and Mary Thomas Loftin.

At the January Court, 1824 a commission, including Moses Lambeth, was named to decide what sum of money to give to Mary Loftin, widow of Thomas Loftin, in lieu of 40 bushels of wheat due her, but which she never received due to failure of the crop. In March of that year the commission reported that she should receive $31.40.

Silas Lambeth and Mary Thomas Loftin must have been married between March 1824 and March 1825. At a court held on the latter date Silas Lambeth was appointed guardian to Elizabeth, Alfred, David and Thomas Loftin, "orphans of Thomas Loftin, deceased" and entered into bond of $500.00 with his securities John Thomas and Amos Lambeth. They were certainly married by June, 1825 when a committee was appointed to settled with John Thomas and Silas Lambeth, "in right of his wife," administrators of Thomas Loftin, deceased.

There are no deeds showing that Silas Lambeth bought property until 1842—though some may have been made and not recorded. After his marriage he and his wife owned jointly her "dower" in three tracts of land descended from Thomas Loftin. This land crossed into Randolph County, was on the waters of Uarhee and adjoined J. H. Goldsbury, W. Varner and Jacob Briles. In September, 1837 they sold to Amos Lambeth, Mary-'s 1/3 interest in the land. In the same month Silas (representing his stepdaughter Elizabeth Loftin, by then married and moved away) and Alfred Loftin also sold two undivided interests in the same land to Amos Lambeth. (Amos was not only the brother of Silas, the stepfather of these Loftin heirs, but also their uncle by marriage, having married their mother's sister, Margaret Thomas.)

Silas Lambeth had already begun to take his share of the responsibility of a "freeholder," according to entries in the court minutes of Davidson County. In March, 1827 he was among those named Patrols in Capt. Owen's Company, and also—with his brother Amos and others—was appointed to work on the Fayetteville Road to the Randolph County line. In May, 1831 and May 1832 he was named to work on Fisher's Ferry Road from Fair Grove Meeting House to Faucet's Branch. Thomas Lambeth's letters state that Silas and his family "lived a little south of Fairgrove." He served on the jury in 1829, 1830, 1831 and twice in 1832. In August, 1836 he renewed his bond as guardian of David and Thomas Loftin (indicating that Alfred had already reached twenty-one) with Shadrac Lambeth and Reuben May as securities for bond of $150.00. In 1841 he renewed his bond as guardian for Thomas Loftin, with Shadrack again one of the securities and a bond of $200.00. From these dates it is possible to estimate the birthdates of the children of Mary Thomas and her first husband, Thomas Loftin.

In 1841 Silas Lambeth was paid $7.00 for four "witness tickets—evidently he testified four times during one session of court. In 1842 he and several others sued for various debts owed to them by the same person but lost the suit in that the defendant took the oath of an insolvent debtor. Remaining court records up to 1848 (when his father Samuel died and research on court minutes was concluded) show that Silas had become sufficiently established to serve as one of the securities for the administrator of an estate, with bond of $1,000.00 (1842) as one of the securities for his brother-in-law's (Reuben May's) guardianship of Howard and Martha May (1843) and as one of the securities for the election of David Loftin as constable in 1844 and of David Hepler as constable in 1845. The bond for the election of a constable was $4,000.00.

At a special court held 13 September, 1848 at the Court House in Lexington, Silas Lambeth and David Loftin were appointed special administrators of Samuel Lambeth, deceased, with a bond of $10,000.00. The administrators were granted permission to sell hogs, sheep, cattle, horses, wheat, corn, bacon, oats, bees, brandy and the balance of the perishable property. At the spring term of the Court of Equity in 1849 it was ordered that the clerk sell the lands of Samuel Lambeth, as requested by several heirs, in order to divide the inheritance. This was done at two sales—one in May and the second in November, and Silas Lambeth became the purchaser of two large tracts—one of 382 acres and the other of 301 acres—as the highest bidder. He paid $160.00 for the property—only a fraction of what his father had originally paid. It seems fitting that Silas should have acquired—and continued to farm—the land on which he worked in helping his father, probably over a period of many years. (See chapter on Samuel Lambeth.)

Unfortunately, little information has been gathered about Silas Lambeth after the death of his father, or about his family. He lived until 3 June, 1874 and is buried at Fairgrove Methodist Church, near Thomasville, North Carolina. His wife, Mary Thomas Loftin Lambeth, who was born in Caswell County, 11 August, 1795 and died in Davidson County 2 December, 1888, is also buried there.

There is information about the four children of Mary Thomas, by her first marriage to Thomas Loftin, both from the letters of Thomas Lambeth and from the papers of the late Simmons Lambeth Dixon, in addition to deeds and court minutes already quoted. Mrs. Dixon's records stated that the first child, Elizabeth Loftin (born 30 September, 1811), moved to Texas and "had a fine family, a fine woman and favorite cousin of David Thomas Lambeth" (Mrs. Dixon's father). Thomas Lambeth, on the contrary, recalled that Elizabeth Loftin moved to Michigan after her marriage to William Tucker. "One of their sons visited among his people in this country several years after they had moved. I went around with him to several places. His name was Oran D. Tucker. Alfred and Thomas went west. David, he married Maria May (Davidson County marriage bond 25 December, 1839, John Warner, bondsman, S.S.M.) and lived in Thomasville. He was the administrator of grandfather Lambeth's estate, and was Sheriff of Davidson County several years. I think his mother was a Thomas before she married Loftin, a sister to Uncle John W. Thomas who commenced building Thomasville." Mrs. Dixon gave the birthdate of Alfred Loftin as 7 December, 1819 and of Thomas Loftin as 23 December, 1821, but did not mention David Loftin, who, according to various legal lists, was between Alfred and Thomas, in age. Legal documents indicate that Alfred was born no later than 1816 and probably earlier. Mrs. Dixon did not indicate the source of either the birth or marriage dates of the two sets of children of Mary Thomas.

Her records of the children of Mary Thomas Loftin and second husband Silas Lambeth, correspond with those named in his will, assuming that Merrill Lambeth—the eldest son—was the same person as M. D. Lambeth. This will was dated 13 April, 1874, proved 30 September, 1874, and appointed his wife Mary Lambeth and David Loftin as executors. (Davidson County Will Book 3, page 116.) Birthdates of the children correspond roughly with those given in the Davidson County censuses of 1850 and 1860. Children of Silas and Mary Lambeth:

1. Merrill Lambeth, born 31 March, 1825.
2. Sara Jane Lambeth, married William Mebane Thomas (see below).
3. John W. Lambeth, born 21 April, 1829 (died).
4. Margaret Lambeth, born 4 August, 1832, married John Michael, 22 January, 1851.
5. Mary Lambeth, born March 1835, married D. K. Lambeth, 6 January, 1851 (called Mary E. Floyd in her father's will. S.S.M.)
6. Martha Lambeth, born 22 January, 1838, married Emsley Blair, 6 July, 1873; married second to Charles W. Hoecker, 4 October, 1888.
7. Eliza Edney Lambeth, born 4 October, 1840, married Hubbard Warner, 19 July, 1866. (Davidson County marriage bond 10 July, 1866).

Neither Merrill (or M. D.) Lambeth nor Sara Jane Lambeth is included in their parents' household in 1850 (Southern Division of Davidson County, household #530/541). He had probably already left home and was later married to Nancy L. Bradford (Alamance County marriage bond 31 August, 1858. The marriage was performed by his third cousin L. L. Lambeth, J.P.). Sara Jane was married in 1846 to her cousin William Mebane Thomas (marriage bond dated 25 March). He was the son of David Thomas of Guilford County, older brother of Sara Jane's mother Mary Thomas Loftin Lambeth. William Mebane Thomas was born about 1826 (1850 census of Davidson County, Southern Division, household #212-218) and probably died early in 1859 (Davidson County Estates, North Carolina Archives). Sara Jane Lambeth Thomas was born 24 July, 1877, died 6 May, 1868 and was buried in the Thomasville City Cemetery. In the census of 1860 she is listed in her parents' home with John J. Thomas, aged six, who may have been her son. (Davidson County, Southern Division, household #29-29). No mention is made of this child in the will of his grandfather, Silas, who did, however, leave a portion of his estate to "Landa Jane and David E. Thomas (heirs of my daughter Sarah Jane Thomas)." One can only surmise that the two children named in the will were living with other relatives in 1860, and that John J. Thomas had died before the date of Silas' will. The 1850 census shows that Landa (or Lundy) Jane Thomas was born about 1846 and David E. Thomas about 1849.

Records of David Elzevan Thomas, son of Sarah Jane Lambeth and William Mebane Thomas were contributed by Stuart Hayden Spicer (Mrs. Richard W. Spicer of Winston-Salem in 1973):

David Elzevan Thomas born 1849, died 1923, married in 1875 to Sarah Lenora Stewart. She was born 1854, died 1900. Children:

4th g.

1. Dorothy Thomas, born 1877, married 1st to John Sheppart Hayden, 2nd to Zebulon Vance Conyers. There were no children by this marriage. Mrs. Conyers died in Greensboro 12 October, 1972. She had been distinguished in her field of nursing and had received four Bronze Stars for service in France and Germany during World War I. She was active in Red Cross work and in the North Carolina Nursing Association for fifty years and had been president of the latter group. She had also been president of the Greensboro College alumnae and was a member of a number of historical and genealogical societies. In 1937 she joined the Daughters of the American Revolution (National #242102) as a descendant of Robert Thomas, said to have been born in 1767 and to have lived in Watauga District, N. C. during the Revolution. (Vol. 6, page 11, folio 2. North Carolina Revolutionary Army Accounts, North Carolina Archives.) Child of Dorothy Thomas and John Sheppart Hayden:

5th g. 1. Mary Stuart Hayden, born 1896, married Dr. Richard Williams Spicer who died 1960. Children:

SILAS LAMBETH

DEEDS

Davidson County:

1837, 1 Sept. Silas Lambeth and Alfred Loftin to Amos Lambeth for $140.00 "to each paid." Two undivided interests in three tracts descended from Thomas Loftin to Elizabeth Loftin, now the wife of Wm. Tucker, and Alfred Loftin. Land on waters of Uarhie. Wits. E. M. Shober and Charles Mock. Proved at May Court, 1838. Book 6, page 305.

1837, 27 Sept. Silas and Mary Lambeth to Amos Lambeth for $400.00. The dower of the three tracts descended from Thomas Loftin. Land on waters of Uahree. J. H. Goldsbury corner, W. Varner's corner, Jacob Briles corner, crossing into Randolph County. Silas and Mary have 1/3 interest in this land. Wit. E. M. Shober. Proved Oct. Court of Equity, 1837. Book 6, page 207.

1842, 15 Nov. B. B. Roberts, Sheriff of Davidson County to Silas Lambeth. 82 acres on Hambies Creek, for $22.18. The land was sold at public auction to cover debt of Joseph W. Grist to William Sullivan, with Silas Lambeth the highest bidder. Wit. Charles Brummell. Feb. Court, 1843. Book 8, page 443.

1849, Spring term of Court of Equity. In answer to a petition by Aaron, Silas, N. J. Lambeth and others to sell the lands of Samuel Lambeth, deceased, so as to divide the proceeds among the heirs, the court ordered that this be done. The clerk put up the land at public sale on 3 May and at another sale on 2 November, at which Silas Lambeth was the highest bidder. He bought two tracts—one of 382 acres, the other the Christian Sears tract of 301 acres—for $160.00. Indenture dated 5 June, 1851, for purchase of 382 acre tract. Proved at Aug. Court, 1851. Book 12, page 489.

Amos Lambeth, fifth child of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth, was born in Craven County in 1801. According to the letters of Thomas Lambeth the date of his birth was 12 (or 21) November; records of his descendants through the Kindley family give it as 21 October. Kindley tradition states that his full name was Amos Erastus.

Amos was about four years old when his parents moved to Rowan County and settled in the northeast section close to the Randolph County line. He was married to Margaret Thomas, daughter of Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas some time after 20 May, 1822—at which time her mother was still her guardian. (Estate records of Robert Thomas, Guilford County Estates, North Carolina Archives.) About 1803 Robert and Margaret Warrick Thomas had moved from Caswell to Guilford County where Margaret was born on 11 March, 1806. (Tombstone, Fairgrove Methodist Church, near Thomasville.) After the death of her father in the winter of 1809-1810, her mother married Daniel Merrill of Randolph County in 1818. The Merrill home was only a short distance from that of Samuel Lambeth, so that the young couple probably met soon after Margaret's mother's second marriage when she moved with her children from Guilford County. There was already a connection between the Lambeths and the Merrills in that Daniel's daughter Mary (by an earlier marriage) was the wife of Amos' cousin Samuel Lambeth, son of Moses.

The first land owned by Amos Lambeth was bought in 1823 from Edwin Heath, son of Christopher and Sarah Lambeth Heath, and thus Amos' double first cousin. The tract consisted of 182 acres "on the waters of Uarhie" and at the "old Sears corner" and had once belonged to Christopher Heath, "now deceased." It was close to the home of his father Samuel Lambeth. Here their first child, Noah Webster Lambeth, was born on 31 January (or August), 1823. It is on the basis of this child's birthdate that the marriage date of Amos and Margaret Thomas Lambeth can be estimated as having taken place in 1822.

In 1827 Amos and Margaret Lambeth sold to her brother John W. Thomas her 1/6th interest in a 306 acre tract on Reedy Fork, in Guilford County, which had descended to Margaret as one of the heirs of Robert Thomas.

Meanwhile, Amos' name occurred with some regularity in the court minutes of Davidson County. In March of 1825 he and John Thomas were securities for Silas Lambeth (Amos' brother) as guardian to the orphan children of Thomas Loftin. The amount of their bond was $500.00. At the same court Amos Lambeth was one of nineteen new constables appointed, for each of whom a bond of $4,000 was required, subscribed by several friends, as securities. An entry in September, 1826 shows that the county trustee was ordered to pay $5.90 to Amos Lambeth "for arresting Jacob Myers, for witness, and for conveying Myers to jail" —such were the duties of a constable. Amos Lambeth was among the securities for his cousin Alfred Lambeth who was appointed constable in February, 1831, and for David Hepler who was appointed constable in February 1834.

In March, 1827 and in March, August and November of 1828, and in May 1832 Amos Lambeth and others in the neighborhood were assigned to work on the roads near their homes—in each case on a road up to the point where it reached the Randolph County line, indicating that he lived very close to this boundary. His name was drawn for jury duty in 1827, 1830 and 1832.

Several rather important matters concerning Amos Lambeth are noted in the court minutes of August, 1828. At that court "David Lambeth, an orphan, be bound as an apprentice to Amos Lambeth (who is) to give said apprentice a horse saddle worth $50.00, a freedom suit, and $20.00 in money when he arrives to the age of 21 years," This was doubtless a young relative but the exact relationship in unknown. Also at this court Amos Lambeth served as security for Joshua Lee who was appointed administrator of the estate of John Lambeth, Sr., with bond of $400.00. Finally, Amos Lambeth had a part in a matter of some significance in the history of northeast Davidson County. On 21 July, 1828 John Myers deeded to John Welborn, James Needham, Alson Gray, Isham Nance, William Carroll, John Loftin, Amos Lambeth, John W. Thomas and David Mock four acres on the north west side of the Raleigh Road, with houses, etc., with the instructions that "they shall erect a Methodist Episcopal Church on this property." These men were the first trustees of Fair Grove Church, which still figures prominently in the life of the community—and in whose churchyard many members of the Lambeth family are buried.

Margaret Thomas Lambeth, wife of Amos, is among those buried at Fair Grove. According to her tombstone she died on 11 May, 1832. (Kindley family records give the date as 26 May.) She was only twenty-six years old at the time and left an infant daughter two months old, and four older children. These children are mentioned in the will of Margaret's mother—Margaret Warrick Thomas Merrell—dated 6 March, 1833 (see Thomas-Warrick history in section of Mary Lambeth Thomas, Moses Lambeth chapter): "I leave to my grandchildren of my daughter Margaret Lambeth, dec., Noah, Cyntha, Alson, Robert and Margaret, each ten dollars."

On 26 November, 1833 a marriage bond was issued for Amos Lambeth and Amy Dicks, with George Washington Dorsett as the bondsman. She seems to have been the widow of William Dicks, as suggested by the fact that a marriage bond, dated 3 August, 1830 is on record in Randolph County for William Dicks and Amy Stanton, and Kindley family tradition gives her name as Amy Stanton Dicks.

Amos Lambeth continued to live in Davidson County with his children and second wife for the next several years. In May, 1835 a Deed of Trust was executed by James Ball and Daniel Myers by which they conveyed both land and personal property to Samuel Lambeth, Trustee (Amos' father) to secure a debt of $103.22 due to Amos. In May, 1836 he was appointed a "patroller" in his neighborhood. Thereafter his name is not found in the minutes of Davidson County as carrying out public duties which were the responsibility of residents of the county. By 1840, as shown in census records of that year, he was living in Randolph County (Thomas Lambeth says "on the upper east edge, not far from his father's place."), but he continued to take an active part in various business matters in Davidson

In September, 1837 Amos Lambeth bought from Alfred Loftin and Silas Lambeth (as guardian or attorney for Elizabeth Loftin) two shares of interest in three tracts of land which descended to Alfred and Elizabeth from their father Thomas Loftin. Later in the same month Amos bought from Silas Lambeth and Mary, his wife (formerly the wife of Thomas Loftin), the widow's dower-right in the tree tracts mentioned above. The land is described as being on the waters of Uahree, at J. H. Goldsbury's corner, W. Varner's corner, Jacob Briles' corner, and crossing into Randolph County. It must have been at this time—or shortly before—that Amos and his family moved from Davidson County. In August, 1839 Amos sold $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres of this land to Benjamin Hawkins and a year later bought $2\frac{1}{4}$ acres from the same person.

In February, 1838 Shadrack Lambeth brought suit against Amos Lambeth—apparently for a debt. The suit was appealed to the County Superior Court but seems to have been settled out of court and was dismissed. (Trial Docket, Davidson County Court, 1823-42.) Davidson County court minutes show that in August, 1842 Amos Lambeth was appointed special administrator of the estate of Benjamin Saunders, granted permission to sell livestock and crops, and at the next court appointed administrator. In February, 1845 he was one of the securities for David Hepler who was appointed administrator of an estate.

Early in 1840 Amos Lambeth, then living in Randolph County, sold the 182 acre tract which he had bought from Edwin Heath, to John Hepler of Davidson County. On this sale he gained almost fifty per cent over the original purchase price. A witness to the deed was Cyrus Kindley who married Amos' daughter Cyntha Ann a month later and settled nearby. (Randolph County census, 1850.)

Amos Lambeth's second wife—Amy Stanton Dicks Lambeth—lived only until 1842; she left three small children. According to both Lambeth and Kindley tradition, Amos married a third time but the name of this wife and the date of the marriage are not known. The 1850 census of Randolph County gives her first initial as "C," her age as 37, and her birthplace as South Carolina. It is thought that there were no children by this marriage.

Amos Lambeth appears to have been the member of his family to whom others entrusted important business. This was especially true of his father, Samuel, who, even several years before his death, had made his private papers and records available to Amos. One of these papers had been preserved among Craven county Estates papers:

"N. Carolina Randolph Co.

Dear Sir

In looking over my Farther's old papers I find a coppy of a Guardian Bond that appears to of been Executed by him, Samuel Lambeth, to the Court of Craven County bearing date the 25th of January 1804. It seems extremely strange that Amos could not have gotten this information from his father Samuel, with whom he was probably in frequent, if not daily, contact. Only Silas—of the brothers and sister named—was still living in the community at this time, and doubtless Amos had no idea that his many first cousins—the children of his uncles John, Josiah and Moses, and of his aunt Sarah Heath—were also heirs to the same legacy. It appears that not until the present research was done—170 years after the bequest—was the identity of the donor known to any but the parents of the many beneficiaries.

Amos Lambeth was the son to whom his father Samuel entrusted his affairs—and money—in the last days before his death. Consequently, since Samuel died without a will, Amos figured prominently in the settlement of the estate. (See chapter on Samuel Lambeth.) Amos must have been quite well-to-do, even before receiving his share of his father's property, since he was able to buy five slaves who were sold soon after the settlement of the estate began. The date of the receipt from David Loftin, the administrator, was 2 January, 1849 and the price was $1,817.25. The next month Amos Lambeth was given power of attorney by his younger brother Alfred M. Lambeth, then living in Hardiman County, Tennessee, for the settlement of their father's estate, and in June of the same year he was also given power of attorney for the same purpose by J. Franklin Lambeth, acting as attorney in fact for his father Aaron Lambeth, of St. Francois County, Missouri, who was Amos' eldest brother. It is apparent from these two documents that Amos had both the respect and trust of his brothers in regard to his business judgment and his integrity.

The final settlement of Samuel Lambeth's estate took place at the Spring Term of the Court of Equity in 1851. Amos Lambeth probably planned to move from North Carolina some time before this but to remain in the state until the settlement was concluded. On 27 September, 1850 he sold all of his land in Randolph County to Hezekiah Andrews for $2,500.00. The tract consisted of 500 acres bounded by the property of Peter Fine, William Varner and David Briles and crossing the Randolph and Davidson County lines. He probably had an agreement with the purchaser by which he was allowed to continue to occupy the property until his father's estate was settled. In preparation for his move he gave to his younger brother, Needham Lambeth, power of attorney to receive debts due and transact other business in his name. This instrument is dated 12 April, 1851.

The following information concerning the family's move to Arkansas and records of the children were contributed by Bessie Mayes Wimberly, from her book The William Kindley Genealogy:

> "From old Kindley family letters we learn that the Amos Lambeth family and the Cyrus Kindley family left North Carolina on 1 May, 1851 for Arkansas. They arrived in White County in August, 1851 and located for a while near Searcy, Arkansas. Amos brought his two daughters, Martha and Sallie, and his son, Charles Stanton, by his second marriage, to Arkansas with him. His other children Noah W., Alson G. and (Dr.) Robert, I have no record of at this time. His daughter Cyntha Ann had married Cyrus Kindley on 25 March, 1840 and their family consisted of: (a daughter born 1842 had died in infancy), a son Thomas Franklin, born 15 April, 1844 and another daughter, Martha Jane born 1 September, 1846. Amos Lambeth had given one of his slaves, Kimsy (called Kim Lambeth), who had taken his master's name, to Cyntha Kindley and he came to Arkansas with the two families. Amos moved to Benton County with the Kindleys in 1854. He lost his son, Charles Stanton in 1857 and his daughters married and lived in Benton County, Arkansas. Amos passed away on 6 April, 1864 and is buried near Vaughn, Benton County, Arkansas."

The children of Amos and first wife Margaret Thomas Lambeth (born Davidson County, N.C.):

2nd g. 1. Noah Webster Lambeth, born August (or January) 31, 1823.

2. Cyntha Ann Lambeth, born May 9, 1825, died July 12, 1900. Buried at "The Kindley Hill" Cemetery, located on the old Kindley Farm (where she had lived for 46 years), 4 miles northeast of Bentonsville, Arkansas (Benton County). Married Cyrus Kindley on March 25, 1840 in Randolph County, North Carolina, son of William and Elizabeth Mills Kindley, and grandson of Shadrach Kindley, and great-grandson of John Kindley. Cyrus was born February 3, 1817 in Rowan County, North Carolina, and died March 10, 1885 in Benton County, Arkansas. He is buried at "The Kindley Hill" Cemetery.

3rd g. 2. G. B. (Brack) Lambeth, M.D., born in Tennessee about 1853, died March 18, 1922 in Moran, Allen County, Kansas, m'd Mary Tennyson about 1883. Child:

4th g. 1. George S. Lambeth, M.D. (The following sketch of Dr. George S. Lambeth is from the History of Kansas, Vol. III, page 1364, 1928, American Historical Society, compiled by William E. Connelley.)

Dr. George S. Lambeth, surgeon, is a native Kansan, whose natural gifts and talents have been trained and molded by unusual opportunities of experience. Dr. Lambeth has his home and practice at Iola, and is without doubt one of the leaders in his profession in the State.

He was born at Moran, Allen County, Kansas, August 13, 1885, son of Dr. G. B. Lambeth and Mary T. (Tennyson) Lambeth. The Lambeth family moved from Tennessee to Kansas in 1865. Dr. G. B. Lambeth being then a boy. The Tennysons came to Kansas from Arkansas in 1861. Dr. G. B. Lambeth graduated from the Kansas City Medical College in 1881 and for 40 years was the leading Doctor at Moran in Allen County, where he practiced until his death, on March 18, 1922. His widow still (1928) resides at Moran. Her father was a pioneer stock raiser and rancher in Allen County, and died shortly after the close of the Civil War. Both the Lambeths and the Tennysons are of English Ancestry.

Dr. George S. Lambeth married on February 8, 1913, Miss Ruth M. Mapes of Kansas City. She was the daughter of Charles Mapes. They have one daughter, Mary Belle Lambeth, born September 25, 1915.

2nd g. 4. Robert Lambeth, M.D., born September 7, 1830, lived Springfield, Missouri.

5. Margaret Ann Lambeth, born March 11, 1832.

Amos Lambeth married second Mrs. Amy Annie Stanton Dicks on November 26, 1833 (Randolph County Marriage records). She was born February 2, 1806 and died January 4, 1842.

The children of Amos and second wife Amy Stanton Dicks Lambeth:

2nd g. 6. Martha Lambeth, born October 9, 1834 in Davidson Co., N.C., m'd John B. Moore on February 24, 1859 in Benton County, Arkansas (Benton County Marriage records). Children:

3rd g. 1. Richard William Moore, born February 1, 1861.

2. John Annie Moore, born September 29, 1862.

2nd g. 7. Sallie Lambeth, born November 23, 1836 in Davidson or Randolph County, North Carolina, died March 28, 1864 in Benton County, Arkansas, buried Barron Cemetery, Vaughn, Benton Co., Ark. Married Augustus (Gus) Henderson on April 1, 1861 (Benton County Marriage records). He was born about 1824, died November 24, 1885, buried at Barron Cemetery, Vaughn, Benton Co., Ark.

On the old Amos Lambeth Farm in Arkansas still stands the tree where the "bushwackers" hung Gus Henderson and thought he was dead when they left. His wife, Sallie Lambeth Henderson, who was expecting their second child ran out and cut the rope and was able to save his life. But this frightening experience, according to family tradition, hastened her death and was probably the indirect cause of the death of the child soon after birth.

The tree is now 103 years old so was probably just a young "sapling" in 1863. (Contributed by Mrs. Irma Floy Breen who also contributed the following lineage from the Henderson family Bible.) Children:

3rd g. 1. Charles Milton (Milt) Henderson, born February 1, 1862, died 1941. M'd about 1900 (or 1901) to Sophia Morrison who was born July 17, 1861, died 1944. Both buried at Barron Cem., Vaughn, Ark. Children:

4th g. 1. Charles A. Henderson, born April 19, 1892, died July 16, 1962, m'd Etta Turner. Children:

5th g. 1. Ethel Louise Henderson, born Sept. 15, 1918, m'd (?) Wallis.

2. Powel Milton Henderson, born April 25, 1920.

4th g. 2. Ethel Henderson, born July 15, 1897, m'd (?) Taulman.

3. Rebecca Henderson, born December 20, 1899.

3rd g. 2. James Henderson, born June 15, 1863, died soon afterwards.

Augustus Henderson married second to Letitia M. Douglas on Nov. 9, 1867, Benton, Ark.

2nd g. 8. Charles (Charlie) Stanton Lambeth, born August 26, 1839, Randolph Co., N.C., died September 29, 1857, Benton Co., Ark.

ALFRED MOORE LAMBETH

The exact date of the birth of Alfred Moore Lambeth is unknown, and for this reason, it is impossible to say whether he was born in Craven County or in Rowan County, where his parents, Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth, settled in 1805 or 1806. He was probably named for Alfred Moore (1755-1810) a North Carolinian who was on the Supreme Court of the United States.

Craven County Estates Papers (North Carolina Archives) show that Samuel Lambeth qualified as guardian to his five minor children by posting the required bond on 25 January, 1804. Since Alfred's name is not included in the names given, it is clear that his birth occurred some time after this date, contrary to the date of 22 October, 1803 which is given on his tombstone. The census of Hardiman County, Tennessee, where he was living in 1860, indicates that he was born in 1804, while the letters of his nephew Thomas Lambeth, which seem to include Bible records, state that he was born on 22 October, 1807. It is not unusual to find such discrepancies between Bible and tombstone dates. In this case it seems likely that the date of 1807 is correct because it comes at an expected interval between the ages of the next older child, Rachel (born 1803), and the next younger child, Elysa (born 1810).

Alfred Lambeth's name appears in the court minutes of Davidson County for the September Court, 1824—even before he had reached his majority. According to this entry Alfred Lambeth and others were charged with affray, and found guilty, but he "appeals to the Superior Court through his next friend Samuel Lambeth." The following month the case was heard in the higher court and Alfred Lambeth was fined 10¢ and the cost of the witnesses. Whatever the nature of the offense, his father apparently felt that he had been unjustly convicted. Whether this was so, or whether he became more serious and responsible as he grew older, this one incident contrasted with his participation in the life of his community over the next several years.

In 1828 Alfred Lambeth was married to Eleanor Sanders, who, according to Thomas Lambeth, was "from down on Bever Dam Creek." Their marriage bond, dated 6 March, gives her name as "Nelley" and shows that Amos Lambeth, Alfred'd older brother, was the bondsman. The number and names of the children born to Alfred and Eleanor Sanders Lambeth is not known. Thomas Lambeth believed there was one daughter; a grandson and a grand-daughter of Alfred's state that there were two girls—Brazil, who married a Craig, and Jane, who married a Smith. The 1850 census of Hardeman County lists a young woman of 18—presumably a daughter—named Aseneth, born in North Carolina.

Probably at the time of their marriage Alfred and Nelley Lambeth settled on waters of Hambies Creek—on the north and south sides of Stony Run. This land, consisting of three tracts totalling 110½ acres, was conveyed to Alfred Lambeth by John Clodfelter in August, 1830. Their neighbors were William Bodenhamer, William Sullivan and Elias Clodfelter. On 7 September, 1832 Mary and Rebecca Watson executed a Deed of Trust to secure a debt of $186.75 due to Alfred Lambeth. There is no record of the sale of his property when he moved to Tennessee, indicating that the purchaser never recorded the deeds.

While living in Davidson County Alfred Lambeth held a number of positions of responsibility—the more important because of his youth. At the May Court of 1829 he was appointed a patrol in his neighborhood. A year later he renewed his bond as guardian of Alfred, David and Thomas Loftin, orphans of Thomas Loftin, whose mother, Mary Thomas Loftin, married Alfred's older brother Silas. From November, 1830 through February, 1832 he served as one of the county constables. During this time—in August, 1831—it is noted in the court minutes that the County Trustee is ordered to pay $1.80 to Alfred Lambeth "for serving state warrants and summoning witnesses." In February, 1831 Alfred Lambeth was appointed "overseer" of the road from Grimes Branch on the Raleigh Road—with the responsibility of recruiting neighbors to help in keeping this road in repair. The last mention of his name in Davidson County Court minutes was in May, 1833 when he was paid by the County Trustees for his attendance at court as a witness.

In that year or the next, Alfred Lambeth and his family moved to Hardeman County, Tennessee, "near where his sister Gad lived" according to Thomas Lambeth. Eleanor—or Nelley-died there on 15 September, 1834 and is buried in the Cypress Cemetery on the Bass Farm, near Highway 57, near Pocahontas, Tennessee.

On 6 April, 1835 Alfred was married to Caroline Eliza Campbell, daughter of Charles and Mary Campbell. She was born 2 June, 1817, died 22 March, 1884 and is also buried in the cemetery mentioned above.

Samuel Lambeth, Alfred's father, died in Davidson County in September, 1848. The following February Alfred Lambeth appointed his brother Amos as his attorney in fact, to act on his behalf in the settlement of their father's estate.

Alfred Lambeth prospered during the years he lived in Tennessee. State records show that between 26 June, 1847 and 1 April, 1858 he received four land grants (totaling 239 acres) in Hardeman County where he was a justice of the peace for many years. The 1850 census of that county gives the value of his property as $2,600.00; in 1860 his real estate was valued at $13,155.00 and his personal property at $26,110.00. A biography of his son Felix Grundy Lambeth, Sr., included in Memorial Record of Alabama, Vol. 2, Madison, Wisconsin, Brant & Fuller, 1893, mentions Alfred Moore Lambeth as follows: "(he was) born in North Carolina in 1799 and went to west Tennessee with a colony in the early days. The western part of the state at that time was full of Indians. He was a planter by occupation and followed that vocation until his death in 1886." Alfred Moore Lambeth died 20 May, 1886 and is buried beside his first and second wives in the Cypress cemetery.

The two census records already noted (which were read by Bessie Mayes Wimberly) give the following information on the children of Alfred Lambeth:

Hardeman County, Tennessee	1850 (Vol. 8, p. 288)			1860 (Vol. 8, p. 121)
Lambrith, A. M.	47	Farmer	born N.C.	56	Farmer
Caroline	32	Keeping House,	born Tenn.	44
Aseneth	18		born N.C.
Mary	14		born Tenn.
Nancy	12		born Tenn.	21
Charles	8		born Tenn.	19
Caroline	6		born Tenn.	18
Alford	5		born Tenn.	16
Felix	3		born Tenn.	14
Calvin	2		born Tenn.
Martha	1		born Tenn.	10
Alford	14		born Tenn.
James N. P.				9
Oscar				8

It is clear from these records that the birth year, estimated from the age of a person from decade to decade, is not consistent. It will also be noted that Aseneth and Mary are not included in the 1860 census and probably were married within the preceding ten years; Calvin is not listed in 1860 and must have died; Alfred, aged 14 in 1850, was probably Alfred Lambeth's nephew and namesake—the son of his brother Nathan who died in Davidson County in 1839. The birthdate of the younger Alfred corresponds with that given in the letters of Thomas Lambeth. Apparently, Alfred lived for a time with his uncle Alfred's family, but later returned to North Carolina. Two children of Alfred Moore Lambeth, Sr.—James and Oscar—were born after 1850. His will specified that his estate be divided equally among his children J. K. P. Lambeth, Oscar Lambeth, Florence Jerman and Martha F. Jenkins; possibly gifts had already been made to other children.

Further information on two of the children of Alfred and Caroline Campbell Lambeth has been furnished by Edmund B. Lambeth and Harry J. Lambeth:

Alfred Moore Lambeth, Jr., born 11 April, 1844, married Frances Park, Memphis, Tennessee, 14 January, 1869 (information from family Bible of Mrs. Amelia van Beek, 180 North Grove, Oak Park, Ill.).

Felix Grundy Lambeth, born 9 March, 1847, Middleton, Tenn., died 27 September, 1927, Florence, Alabama. Married 18 December, 1870 at Florence, Alabama to Sue Ella Allington who was born 30 December, 1847 and died 21 November, 1904. She was the daughter of Thomas T. Allington (died 25 January, 1882) and his wife Sarah A. E. Allington (died 22 April, 1873). Children (all born in Florence, Lauderdale County, Alabama):

2nd g. 1. Infant son, born 7 November, 1871

2. Felix Grundy Lambeth, Jr., born 13 September, 1872, died in Florence, Alabama 19 February, 1928 and buried there. Married Gertrude Elaine Smith, 27 February, 1896, Chicago, Ill. She was born Paris, France, daughter of Robert Wallis and Inez De Guzman Smith. Gertrude Smith Lambeth died 29 July, 1943, Birmingham, Alabama, buried Florence, Alabama. Children:

3rd g. 1. Fernando Felix Lambeth, born 19 Dec., 1899, Chicago, Ill., died 10 April, 1969, Birmingham, Alabama; buried there. Married Doris Isabelle Mader on 4 March, 1925. She was born 22 April, 1901, New Bremen, Ohio, daughter of George Lawrence and Margaret Winning Mader. Children (all born in Birmingham, Alabama):

4th g. 1. Doris Elaine Lambeth, born 26 Dec., 1926, married Thomas B. Richardson, Jr., born Mississippi, son of Thomas B. Richardson, Sr. and his wife Rosa. Children:

5th g. 1. Thomas B. Richardson, III, born 25 March, 1950, Birmingham, Alabama.

2. Joy Lambeth Richardson, born 24 July, 1953, Birmingham, Alabama.

4th g. 2. George Felix Lambeth, born 27 March, 1929, married Ruth Kathie Pohl at Stamford, Conn., daughter of Joseph and Martha Pohl. Children:

5th g. 1. Eric George Lambeth, born 11 June, 1956, Stamford, Connecticutt.

2. Lisa Ruth Pohl Lambeth, born 14 April, 1959,

Stamford, Connecticut.

4th g. 3. Edmund Barry Lambeth, born 4 June, 1932, married Marjorie Clarke, 20 December, 1959 at Syracuse, New York. She was born 4 September, 1932, died 4 March, 1972, daughter of Albert Howe Clarke and his wife Alice Rescorla. Edmund Lambeth was a 1961-62 congressional fellow of the American Political Science Association and a 1967-68 Nieman fellow at Harvard University. Before joining the Gannett Washington bureau in 1962, he was a general assignment and investigative reporter for the Binghamton (N.Y.) Press and The Milwaukee Journal. He has a B.S., with honors in political science, and an M.S. degree from Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism. In 1968 Edmund Lambeth was appointed by the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri to direct its new Washington reporting program for master's degree candidates, as an associate professor.

His wife, Marjorie Clarke Lambeth graduated from Syracuse University with honors in Journalism in 1955. She was a reporter for the Utica Observer-Dispatch before joining the staff of the Binghamton (N.Y.) Press where she became women's editor. She was also an active member of the Methodist Church, holding offices in Christian Service. Children:

5th g. 1. Lincoln Clarke Lambeth, born 11 November, 1961, District of Columbia.

2. Mary Elaine Lambeth, born 11 June, 1963, District of Columbia.

3rd g. 2. Robert Carrion Lambeth, born 30 April, 1903, Florence, Alabama, married Thelma Parrish.

2nd g. 3. Vernice Ema Lambeth, born 1 January, 1875.

4. Harry Haynes Lambeth, born 29 April, 1877, died 1 April, 1953. Married Jennie Scheda, who was born in Chicago, Ill., 1 March, 1879 and died there 20 June, 1941. Both are buried in the Bohemian National Cemetery in Chicago. Harry was a career postal employee, having worked in the Florence, Ala., and Chicago post offices for more than 40 years, retiring in 1942. Like his younger brother Dan, Harry Lambeth was a singer, but worked at this professionally for only a brief time, while living in Chicago.

3rd g. 1. Their only child was Harry Joseph Lambeth, born 23 Dec., 1918 in Chicago. Graduated from the University of Illinois School of Journalism in 1940 and Georgetown Law School in Washington, D. C. in 1950. Member of the bar of Illinois, the District of Columbia and Maryland, and of the Washington and Maryland law firm of Barton and Lambeth; practicing since 1965. For some ten years was a newspaper reporter in Chicago and Honolulu. Nearly four years in the Navy during World War II. No children. Married to Florence Mekeel of Jacksonville, N. Y. on 27 Nov., 1946. She is a botanical illustrator now working for the Smithsonian, and has worked for some of the country's most prominent botanists, including Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, of Cornell University.

2nd g. 5. Cornelia S. Lambeth, born 19 May, 1879.

6. Laura Lambeth, born 22 October, 1882.

7. Wilmer Otis Lambeth, born 18 June, 1883. Married Anna Van Cura. Both she and Jennie Scheda Lambeth (wife of Harry Haynes Lambeth) were of Bohemian extraction. Wilmer, who died about 1964, operated a number of small businesses in Chicago during his life, finally retiring in Joliet before taking a government job. He once ran a restaurant (several times), and once a candy store and earned the nickname "Taffy Bill." He and his wife Ann are buried in the VFW plot of a cemetery in Joliet, Ill. Although Bill did not serve in the Spanish-American War, apparently he was in the army (field artillery) in the period covered by the war years. Children:

3rd g. 1. Vernice Lambeth married (?) Price, now lives 3726 W. 59th St., Chicago, Ill 60629. She is secretary for the city of Chicago. Her husband is a former foreman for Armour & Co., meat packers, but is now a transportation supervisor working for the U. S. Navy. Child:

4th g. 1. Edward Price, married and now living in New Jersey. He is an engineer.

3rd g. 2. Wilmer A. Lambeth lives at 1514 Jones St., Joliet, Ill. He has two adopted children and operates a small business—theLambeth Oil Co., providing fuel oil to homes in Joliet.

2nd g. 8. Daniel Moore Lambeth, born 1 June, 1889, married first Ida Belle Rawsom. After her death he married Claudia B. Ruark on 1 September, 1920, from whom he is now divorced. He spent most of his life working in Birmingham, as did Felix. In his youth he was on the stage as a singer.

The Lambeths of West Tennessee & Alabama

A Brief Account

Dec. 21, 1970 By Edmund B. Lambeth

Fertile, plentiful land lured many a North Carolinian to migrate westward in the early 19th century, among them Alfred Moore Lambeth of Davidson County, North Carolina. He was among the original settlers of the "Big Hatchee Country" from which Hardeman and other Tennessee counties were carved. To judge solely by appearances, Squire Lambeth, as he was called, did reasonably well as a planter. A daguerrotype still in possession of the family shows the squire in a rather opulent dress suit and his wife, the former Caroline Eliza Campbell, in a white lace bonnet with flowing shawl. But Alfred and Caroline wear rather grim facial expressions, attributable (with perhaps equal probability) to either their Puritanism or their backwoods skepticism of the then infant science of photography.

As is evident from the geneaology, theirs was a large family. Seven children lived into adulthood and seven others died either in childhood or late adolescence. Of the adults, two sons, Charles and Alfred, Jr., served the Confederacy in uniform. Squire Lambeth himself maintained a plantation, supplying Confederate forces in the Battle of Shiloh, in which both Charles and Alfred, Jr. fought. Alfred, Sr. was a justice of the peace and county leader. He died in 1886 at the age of 83.

One of Alfred, Sr.'s sons was named for the "war hawk" Tennessee senator, Felix Grundy. This son was a retail merchant in Middletown, Tenn. until he moved to Florence, Ala. in 1870. He married Sue Ella Allington, daughter of Thomas T. Allington, probate judge of Lauderdale County, Ala.

Their marriage in 1870 is recorded in the Lambeth family Bible, now in the possession of the author of this brief account of the west Tennessee & Alabama Lambeths. In the same year, Felix Grundy Lambeth bought what is now the oldest structure in Florence—the Lambeth Home. Built in 1811 as "Pope's Tavern," the then General Andrew Jackson is said to have stopped there in 1814. During the War Between the States, it was used as a hospital for soldiers of both the South and the North. The latest and last Lambeth occupant, the late Daniel Moore Lambeth, refused to sell the property for commercial development, but, instead, sold it to the City of Florence under terms that allowed for its development as an historical site. "Older than the city of Florence, older than the State of Alabama, this old house," writes Florence editor Oscal Lewis, "has withstood the ravages of time for more than a century and a half." The home was in the Lambeth family for 92 years.

Felix Grundy Lambeth served as postmaster of Florence, Ala. from 28 Sept., 1889 to 5 Apr., 1894 and again from 26 Aug., 1898 to 9 Feb., 1903. Felix Grundy Lambeth was apparently a Republican, probably appointed during Grant's administration, and probably not too popular in Florence because of his political views. However, he saw the office rise from a 4th class to a 1st class office. (Note added by Harry H. Lambeth.) His son, Felix Grundy, Jr., a steamboat captain, charted the Tennessee river for the U. S. Geological Survey. He later was a merchant in Birmingham, Ala. Felix, Jr. married Gertrude Elaine Smith, the daughter of a Chicago-and-Montreal importer, Robert Wallis Smith, and Inez De Guzman Garrison Smith, a writer.

One of their two sons, Fernando Felix Lambeth, married Doris Isabelle Mader in Birmingham, Ala. on 4 March, 1925. F. Felix Lambeth, who died in 1969, was an executive with the Pure Oil Co., serving in sales management positions in Birmingham, Atlanta, Toledo and Detroit. The children of F. Felix and Doris Mader Lambeth are Mrs. Thomas B. Richardson, Jr. of Talladega, Ala.; George Felix Lambeth of Winter Haven, Fla.; and Edmund B. Lambeth of Arlington, Va.

NEEDHAM JACKSON LAMBETH

Needham Jackson Lambeth was the tenth and youngest child of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth and was born in Rowan County (now Davidson) on 24 October, 1814. (Thomas Lambeth records.)

His name first appeared in the county court minutes (of Davidson County) in August, 1839 when he was granted a license "to peddle and sell goods, wares and merchandise, not the growth and manufacture of this State for one year." In 1841 (Davidson County marriage bond dated 9 October) he was married to Elizabeth S. Pope who was born in 1818 or 1819, according to the Davidson County census of 1850 and of 1860. At the Fall Term of Superior Court in 1841 Jackson Lambeth and eight others were indicted (in Stokes County) and the (Davidson) County Trustee was ordered to pay Andrew Hunt and others $64.35 in fees due them, probably for traveling expenses as witnesses. (Davidson County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, February, 1842.) In November, 1842 Needham J. Lambeth mortgaged land on the waters of Uharie, livestock and farming implements, and kitchen and household furniture to cover a debt to John W. Thomas. Trustee for this mortgage was his brother-in-law Reuben May. This must have been land given to Needham Lambeth by his father Samuel although no deed was recorded. The following spring N. J. Lambeth was trustee for a mortgage securing another debt to J. W. Thomas, this time owed by George W. Pope. In 1846 the name of N. J. Lambeth was drawn twice for jury duty.

At the time of the settlement of Samuel Lambeth's estate, Needham Lambeth was among the children who petitioned that the land be sold in order to divide the proceeds among the heirs. In the spring of 1850 the court acted upon this petition by ordering that it be carried out. A year later—apparently before all sales were completed—Reuben May and wife Eliza sold her portion of interest in the estate to N. J. Lambeth for $50.00.

Thomas Lambeth's letters state that Needom Lambeth and his wife "settled on a part of his father's land and raised one boy and two girls. He was the youngest of his Pa's first set of children. They said he died very sudden after eating a hearty supper. As he had a habit of smoking, him and his son went in the sitting room and he got his pipe tobacco and knife out, and at that moment, down fell pipe-tobacco-knife, and all to the floor. His son said, 'Pa, you throw down pip-tobacc-knife and all, do you?' He did not speak but fell dead."

The 1850 census of Davidson County (Southern Division, household #206/215) and the 1860 census (household #33-33) show that their first child, Serena, was born about 1841 and must have died between 1850 and 1860. Three other children—Jones H., Annie E. and Parthenia Maranda Lambeth were born between 1843 and 1850.

Jackson Lambeth died before 31 March, 1875. The administrator of his estate, Chas. L. Heitman declared in 1880 that the estate was worth about $100.00. His wife Elizabeth and son Jones were still living at the time of his death.

NEEDHAM JACKSON LAMBETH

DEEDS AND OTHER LEGAL INSTRUMENTS

Davidson County:

1842, 12 November. Needham J. Lambeth to Reuben May, Trustee, for benefit of John W. Thomas. Lambeth owes Thomas $419.15 by note dated Nov. 8, 1842. Lambeth sells for $1.00 to May land on waters of Uharie, bounded by Reuben May, G. H. Lee, J. W. Thomas. Also 1 horse, 1 mare, 1 cow & calf, 20 head of hog, household and kitchen furniture, farming implements. If Lambeth does not repay loan when requested by Thomas, above property may be sold at public auction. Wit. R. W. Thomas. Proved 14 November, 1842 before Clerk of Court. Book 8, page 358.

1843, 3 April. George W. Pope to N. J. Lambeth for benefit of J. W. Thomas. Pope owes Thomas $128.59 by two notes. If debt is not paid by 25 September, 1843, land may be sold by Lambeth. Wit. R. W. Thomas. Book 8, page 475.

1851, 12 April. Amos Lambeth gives Needham Lambeth power of attorney to receive debts due and to act in other ways as his attorney in fact. Wits. Robert Foster, H. McDusenbury. May Court, 1851. Book 12, page 408.

1851, 1 April. Reuben May and Eliza May his wife sell to N. J. Lambeth for $50.00 "all our right, title, interest & estate to the lands sold by Order of the Court of Equity." Book 12, page 377.

THE DAUGHTERS OF SAMUEL AND ELIZABETH HEATH LAMBETH

ELIZABETH LAMBETH

Elizabeth Lambeth, fourth child and first daughter was born in Craven County on 30 December, 1799. She died while very young. The letters of Thomas Lambeth speak of her having been buried in a family graveyard at his grandfather's home-place, so that she died after her parents had moved from Craven County.

RACHEL LAMBETH GADD

Rachel Lambeth was the sixth child of the family and was born in Craven County on 11 October, 1803. She married Joseph Gadd of Montgomery County and moved to West Tennessee, Hardeman County, near the Mississippi line and near where Middleton is now. They raised two boys and one girl, according to Thomas Lambeth, who added that "in the year 1849 (or 1850) I was there awhile."

ELYSA LAMBETH MAY

Elyza, the eighth child, was born 15 March, 1810. From letters of Thomas Lambeth: "She married Rubin May, a widower with three children, they lived near where she was raised, and I think they raised five or six children more than his first. Their oldest boy was in the Mexican war, that they had with Texas and the United States many years ago when we got all that Southwest Territory. John May their youngest son, lives on their old place yet."

A marriage bond was issued in Davidson County on 19 April, 1839 for Reuben May and Elisa Lambeth, with V. Hoover as bondsman. On 20 September, 1841 Samuel Lambeth deeded a negro named Jerry to Eliza May, the deed being proved by R. W. Thomas. In the fall of 1842 (November) Reuben May was one of the securities for Elizabeth Pope as administrator on the estate of Harwood Pope, with bond of $1,000.00, and three months later was appointed guardian to Howard P. May and Martha R. May, with bond of $500.00. Reuben May was named foreman of the Grand jury in May, 1848. The Davidson County census of 1850 Southern Division (household #208/214) shows the following children in the home: Louisa aged 17, Bethel aged 11, Gazelle aged 12, Robert aged 8, Augusta aged 6, and Julien aged 2. Also living with them was Thomas Lambeth, son of Nathan and Eliza's nephew. This house was between that of Shadrack Lambeth and of Needham Lambeth.

LAURA LAMBETH VANSTORY

Laura Lambeth was the ninth child and youngest daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth. She was born in Rowan County on 15 May, 1812. Thomas Lambeth says that "she married James Vanstory of Guilford County. I think they raised two girls. It was said they were two of the prettiest young people in all that country."

THE CHILDREN OF SAMUEL AND RACHEL MYERS LAMBETH

Of the seven children of Samuel and Rachel Myers Lambeth, the four sons all served in the Confederate Army. The eldest, Dudley M. Lambeth, enlisted on 10 May, 1861 and served as a private in Company B., 14th Regiment until he was killed at Malvern Hill on 1 July, 1862. (Moore's Roster of N. C. Troops in the War Between the States, Ashe and Gatling, Raleigh, 1882, Vol. 1, page 515.) In records at the North Carolina Archives regarding pension payments, there is an entry showing that he was 21 years old at the time of his enlistment and that his occupation was farming. After his death a pension of $119.36 was paid to his mother Rachel. Dudley Lambeth also left a will. (Davidson Will Book 2, page 230.)

The next son, L. D. Lambeth is listed among those applying for Confederate pensions (after 1901). Vol. 2, page 526.

Benjamin F. Lambeth was the third son. He enlisted as a private in Davidson County on 3 March, 1862 and served in Co. H, 48th Regiment. He was wounded at Fredericksburg on 13 December, 1862. (See Moore's Roster, cited above, Vol. 3, page 385.) This may have been the same Benjamin Lambeth who was married to Elizabeth Myers in 1862. (Davidson County marriage bond 22 March.) He had died before 1901 when Mary E. Lambeth, possibly his wife, applied for a pension.

Samuel Lambeth, youngest son of Samuel and Rachel Lambeth, was buried in Hebron Reformed Church cemetery, Davidson County, near the Forsyth-Davidson line. His grave is marked by an Iron Cross, showing that he was a Confederate veteran. His date of birth is given as 1 April, 1846 and date of death 16 June, 1940. (A newspaper notice from the Greensboro Daily News gives the date of his death as May, 1938.) The 1880 census of Davidson County lists the following children: John Joseph, born about 1873; Lee, born about 1875; Minnie, born about 1876 and baby son born about 1879. His wife Barbara A. Lambeth, who was born 12 December, 1846 and died 6 September, 1911 is buried beside him. Information contributed by their son Thomas in the form of a deposition made by his father Samuel stated that he (Samuel) was the son of Rachel Meyers and grandson of George and Rachel Meyers who sold their property in Davidson County and moved to Indiana, leaving their children Rachel, Jake, Elija and Shula in North Carolina to be educated. He also stated that his grandfather George Meyers was a Revolutionary soldier.

IX. SARAH LAMBETH HEATH

Sarah Lambeth was probably one of the younger children of Samuel Lambeth of Craven County, and not far from the age of her brother Samuel, whose birthdate is estimated as about 1770, and who, by tradition, was the youngest son in the family. There is no record of her marriage among Craven County marriage bonds, but a family Bible record (now owned by Porter H. Morgan of Oklahoma City) states that she was married on 19 December, 1790 to Christopher Heath.

Christopher Heath was the son of William Heath Jr. and his wife Elizabeth. The maiden name of his mother is unknown, and may never be discovered since all Craven County marriage bonds issued between 1741 and 1772 are missing. (See Index to North Carolina Marriages 1741-1778 by William Perry Johnston, Search Room, North Carolina Archives.) Also, all Dobbs County (now Lenoir) records were burned in 1878. However, the date of Christopher Heath's birth can be estimated, from his father's will, dated 6 February, 1780. (Craven County Loose Wills, N. C. Archives.) By this will William Heath, Jr. made certain gifts to his sons "as they come of age," so that it is clear that Christopher and his three brothers were all born after 6 February, 1759. Christopher's legacy was one negro boy named Dick and one horse or mare.

His name is first found in Craven County records on 1 August, 1789, when he bought fifty acres of land on Moseley's Creek from Daniel West; the two witnesses were Christopher's brother Rigdon, and Sarah's brother Josiah "Lambard." The land lay in the southwestern part of the county not far from the county line of Dobbs (which became Lenoir County in 1791). In March 1790, court minutes show that he, along with his cousin Stephen Heath and with Thomas Pryor, were appointed patrollers "from half Moon Swamp to Mosely's Creek." In March, 1797 he and his brother Jeremiah served on the jury; in June, 1798 he was again appointed a patroller. All other mention of Christopher Heath in the minutes of the Craven County court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions has to do with land transactions or with his part in the settlement of the estates of various members of his family. (Also see Craven County Loose Wills and Craven County Estate Records, N. C. Archives.)

Between 1789 and 1799 six deeds and one land grant are recorded in the name of Christopher Heath, all located in the same area and in the part of Craven County where the Lambeths and Loftins also lived. Although some members of the Loftin family acquired land grants in adjoining Dobbs County, the Lambeths and Heath had grants only in Craven County. Other neighbors frequently mentioned include the Wests, the Griffins, the Taylors, the Greens, the Pryors, the Lanes, the Coxes, the Wingates, the Russells and others. Undoubtedly the Heaths intermarried with these families and it is quite likely that Christopher's mother was a member of one of them.

The land grant acquired by Christopher Heath consisted of three warrants which had been entered in 1790 and 1791 by John Cox, George Lane and Benjamin Griffin, who then sold them to Christopher Heath, for whom the land was surveyed on 10 September, 1791 by George Lane. It was issued to Christopher Heath on 1 January, 1793, was located on the east side of Mosley Creek, adjoining his own property, and totaled 205 acres. In 1794 he bought 200 additional acres—the deed again being witnessed by "Josious Lamburd," who by this time was his brother-in-law. Later in the same year Christopher Heath sold the property he had acquired as a land grant. In 1795 another purchase and another sale were made—all in the same part of Craven County—and in October of 1799 he made his last recorded sale of property in Craven County, selling 225 acres on the south side of the Neuse River, and east side of Flat Swamp to Malichi Russell.

In 1798 and 1799 four members of Christopher Heath's immediate family died — his mother Elizabeth and brother William probably died in the winter of 1797-1798, his brother Jeremiah between March and September, 1798, and his brother Rigdon between January and March, 1799. Christopher was granted administration on his mother's estate in April, 1798. The bond was 200 pounds, with William Connelly and Elisha Hall, securities. At the county court of March, 1798 he returned an inventory of William Heath's estate, was granted administration on it (with William B. Fonville and Jacob Rhem as securities) and was given leave to sell perishable property. When the account of sales was returned in June, 1798, the return was a little over 172 pounds. The fact that the names of most of the purchasers correspond with those of the children of William Heath, Jr. lends support to the hypothesis that this was Christopher's brother, rather than one of his cousins. (All of the above information may be found in Craven County loose wills, estate papers and court minutes, North Carolina Archives, Raleigh, N.C.)

Christopher was named as one of the heirs in the will of his brother Jeremiah, dated 11 March, 1798. No wife or children are named, suggesting that Jeremiah never married. Christopher was one of the witnesses to the will of another brother, Rigdon, on 21 January, 1799, and appeared at the March Court, 1799 to serve as "jurat" to prove the will. He was also bondsman for the marriage of Elizabeth Heath, widow of Rigdon when she was married to Elisha Hall (Craven County marriage bond 8 Aug., 1799). At the December Court of 1801, Christopher Heath was appointed guardian to Holland, Elizabeth, Jeremiah, Winnefred and Rigdon Heath, orphans of Rigdon Heath, with a bond of 200 pounds for each child, and with Samuel Street and Christopher Acklin as securities. At the March court, 1802, following the death of Christopher Heath a month before, Elisha Hall was appointed the children's guardian, with bond of £1500 and Samuel Smith and John West, securities.

It is not clear when Christopher Heath moved from Craven to Rowan County. Since some early deeds were either not recorded or have been lost, it is possible that there was a later sale of property of which there is no record. His name does not appear in the census of 1800 for either Craven or Rowan County, which could mean that he might have been living in the home of a relative, he might have moved from Craven before the census was taken there, and settled in Rowan after it was taken in that county, or it is possible that the household of Christopher Heath was overlooked by the census taker. The family Bible records already referred to show that Jeremiah, the fourth child of Christopher and Sarah Lambeth Heath was born in Rowan County on 18 May, 1799. At any rate, the next land transaction on record shows that he purchased from Geofrey Crum 240 acres in Rowan County on "the waters of Uary" and on the Rowan-Randolph County line. The date was 11 January, 1801, the price was 200 pounds, and Moses Lambeth was one of the witnesses. This is the same area in which Sarah's brothers Moses and John settled at about the same time and later her brother Samuel. Christopher must also have bought land from David Rhimer—since his son Edwin Heath refers (in 1823) to land "once conveyed by David Rhimer to Christopher Heath." The Rowan County tax list of 1802 which was taken after the death of Christopher Heath shows that his widow Sarah Lambeth Heath owned 300 acres.

According to the Heath Bible record, Christopher died on 14 February, 1802, two months before the birth of his youngest son and namesake. At the August court, 1802 in in Rowan County, a jury was appointed to lay off the dower of Sarah Heath, and at the November court an inventory of his estate was filed. The law provided that a dower should consist of one third part of the real estate of the deceased husband, which in this case was 100 acres. This land was surveyed for her on 1 December, 1806; it adjoined Jacob Garron's line and touched on the Randolph County line.

In May, 1806 it was ordered by the court that the guardianship of Sarah Heath "now Sarah Garron be revoked and that Samuel Lambeth become Guardian to Levi, Edwin, Lambard Jeremiah and Christopher Heath." Moses and Josia Lambeth (who were also their uncles) were securities with a bond of 200 pounds for each heir. In August 1806 the petition of these heirs was filed by their guardian, Samuel Lambeth stating that their father Christopher had died in February, 1802 without a will, and that in August, 1802 the administration of the estate was granted to the widow Sarah Heath. The petition further states that the estate consisted of a very considerable quantity of personal property in the amount of more than 397 pounds and that after payments and expenditures there was a balance of over 225 pounds. The widow is entitled to one sixth of this as her share, but the remainder, with interest, is due to the petitioners. It is further stated that the "administrix intermarried in the year 1805 with one John Garron, whom the petitioners wish to make defendant together with the said Sarah." The petition goes on to say that the amount due them is unknown, but that requests for payment have frequently been made and refused and asks the court to see that these funds are turned over to the petitioners. (Rowan County Estate papers, N. C. Archives.)

During the years of their minority court records show that the property of the sons of Christopher and Sarah Heath were under the care of various relatives who had also moved from Craven to Rowan County: in 1807, for example, Council Lambeth (son of Sarah's brother Benjamin Lambeth) became the guardian of Levi Heath and at the same court Levi was bound to Lewis Tyer "to learn the trade of a House Joiner." In August, 1812 Levi Heath became the guardian of his younger brothers "Lambert" and Christopher who gave bond of 100 pounds with Moses Lambeth, their uncle, as security.

Another guardianship granted to Sarah Lambeth Heath, which was not revoded according to any records yet found, was recorded at the Rowan County court of February, 1804. It will be recalled that Aaron Lambeth of Jamaica, after making several bequests—including gifts to Council and Clarrissa Lambeth, the children of Aaron's brother Benjamin—left the remainder of his property to "the children of my brothers and sisters." Samuel Lambeth recorded his guardianship of his minor children in Craven County in December, 1803; the brothers and sisters who had moved to Rowan County did so at the next court which met there. Thus the minutes of the court held on 4 February, 1804 show that Moses Lambeth, Josias Lambeth, John Lambeth and Sally Heath were each appointed guardian to their minor children (whose names were listed) with a bond of 1,000 pounds in each case. Josias was bondsman for his sister and for his brother Moses. It is interesting that the original bond (see Rowan County Guardian Bonds, N. C. Archives) was signed by Sally Heath when probably few women at that period could write. At the same term of court these guardians, as well as Council Lambeth, William Goodman (possibly the husband of Clarissa Lambeth), Willie Lambeth and Betsy Lambeth gave Power of Attorney to Solomon Goodman, presumably to handle the distribution of the estate to the heirs named. Willie (or Wiley) Lambeth and Betsy Lambeth have not been identified but were presumably a niece and hephew who had reached their majority at this time.

Several descendants of the Heath family of Craven and Rowan Counties have contributed records of this line, largely based on information from a family Bible once owned by A. R. Heath of Covington, Indiana, a son of Jeremiah and grandson of Christopher. (For names of descendants see Appendix.) The Bible, now in the possession of Porter Heath Morgan of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, gives the children of Christopher and Sarah Lambeth Heath:

1. Levi Heath, born Craven Co., N. C., 24 September, 1791. He married Mary Wilson, daughter of John Wilson, Jr. and Sarah Boon Wilson. (Proved by the wills of Mary Wilson's grandparents in Rowan Co., N.C.) The Levi Heath family was in Ashe Co., N.C. in 1820, in Carter and Johnson Counties, Tennessee until after 1855. It is said that they moved to Indiana by way of Tennessee. He died, leaving a will, in Crawford Co., Mo., some time after 1860.
2. Edwin Heath, born Craven Co., N. C., 8 August, 1794, died 11 December, 1862 in Putnam Co., Ind., and was buried in Skillman Cemetery, Rt. 236, west of Racoon. He married Elizabeth (?) who was born June, 1793, died 3 July, 1838 and was buried beside her husband. He was married second to Mary J. Gates on 12 January, 1850. There were no children by this marriage.
3. Lambeth Heath, born Craven Co., N.C. 7 February, 1797, died 14 November, 1878 (or 1873, or 1876) in Johnson Co., Texas. He is said to have left N. C. and moved to Indiana about 1818. He married Nancy Johnston, daughter of Archibald and Betsey Booth Johnston on 3 or (13) August, 1818, in Hamilton Co., Indiana. She was born 3 March, 1801 in Rutherford Co., Tenn. and died 5 November, 1870 in Johnson Co., Texas.
4. Jeremiah Heath, born Rowan Co., N.C., 18 May, 1799, died 5 September, 1849 in Fountain Co., Ind. He married

Nelly Johnston (sister of Lambeth Heath's wife Nancy) on 3 March, 1825. She died 3 May, 1851.

5. Christopher Heath, Jr., born Rowan Co., N. C., 11 April, 1802 in Rowan Co., N. C., died 8 June 1893 in Johnson (or Dallas) Co., Texas. He was married on 23 August, 1820 (or 1843) to Patsy Tucker who was born 5 May, 1804.

The children of Sarah Lambeth Heath and her second husband, John Garron (also from Bible record):

6. Gatsy Garren, born 11 (or 13 or 15) September, 1805, married Daniel Hepler.
7. Riley Garren, born 29 April, 1808, married Rebeccah Johnston, 13 September, 1827 (or 1822).
8. Liendicey Garren, born 17 February, 1811, married (?) Davis.
9. Sarah Garren, born 1 July, 1815, married James Burcham in Paris, Texas. She died 28 December (or 1 July), 1902.

Research on the early history of the Heath family in North Carolina was also done by A. R. Heath, a copy of which is among the family histories in the D.A.R. Library in Washington, D. C. However, at the time Mr. Heath did this work county records were not as accessible to the public as they are now, and Mr. Heath did not seem to be aware that there were two men named William Heath living in Craven County during the middle years of the 18th century. One of these, William Heath, Jr., was the father of Christopher Heath and lived in the southwestern part of the county closer to Kinston—the county seat of present Lenoir County—than to New Bern, the county seat of Craven County. The will of William Heath, Jr., clearly proves the father-son relationship. The other William Heath named no children as heirs in his will. In this document he speaks of himself as William Heath, of New Bern (where he was an "Innholder"), and is thus referred to in the State and Colonial Records of North Carolina. He is mentioned as having been accused (in 1776) of being a traitor to the colonial cause and was banished "to some county 100 or more miles from Newbern for one year." The charge was later found to be groundless and in 1777 he was allowed to return, to take the oath of allegiance, and to post bond of 2,000 pounds for his good behavior. (See volume 10, pages 954, 955, 977, and volume 22, page 908.) Various county records suggest that he was a relative—possibly an uncle—of William Heath, Jr. At that period the suffix did not necessarily denote a father-son relationship, but was used to show which was the younger of two men of the same family who bore the same given name. The present research makes clear the distinction between the two men and is primarily borne out by their wills, the location of their homes, and the names of wives mentioned in both deeds and wills.

It is not hard to understand how A. R. Heath, in outlining the family line, took his ancestor William Heath, Jr. to be the son of one William Heath, Sr. His statement that the first Heath ancestor (William, as he thought) came from Londonshire, England, entered Buford's Bay (probably Buzzard's Bay, S.S.M.) and settled in N. C. in 1736 or 1740 may have been family tradition; it has not been substantiated by current research.

An interesting entry in the Heath family Bible is the following: "Afred Moore Lambeth, was born the 22nd day of October AD 1809 and was wroght the 6th day of July Ano dominion, 1833. Alfred Moore Lambeth of N. C., relative of Sarah Lambeth Heath, mother of Jeremiah and Lambeth Heath." This probably refers to baptism or some sort of religious experience. Its importance for family history is the relationship referred to between the Lambeth and Heath families. Alfred Moore Lambeth, son of Samuel and Elizabeth Heath Lambeth, was the nephew of both Christopher and Sarah Lambeth Heath. (See Chapter VIII, Samuel Lambeth.) Since two of the children of William Heath, Jr. married two of the children of Samuel Lambeth I, there are many, many descendants of these two families. For this reason a history of the first two generations of the Heath family documented by Craven County records is included at the end of this chapter.

THE HEATH FAMILY

Christopher Heath seems to have been the third generation of his family in Craven County, North Carolina. He was the son of William Heath, Jr. and the grandson of John Heath, as proved by the wills and deeds of these two men.

John Heath first bought land in Craven County in 1730, paying for it in current money of Virginia. This suggests, but does not prove, that he may formerly have lived in that colony. However, added support is given to this theory by an entry in the court minutes of June, 1745: two negro men — James and Peter Black came into court to state that they were "free-born persons in the county of Essex in Virginia and brought to this Province by John Heath." There is also a statement made by John Heath at the April Court, 1763, saying that he brought a free negro named Martin Black from Middlesex, Virginia. (Craven County Wills, Deeds and Inventories, Part II, page 14, North Carolina Archives.) Although the place of his birth is not given, the court minutes of October court, 1766 show the date: "John Heath, aged seventy four years came into court and prayed to have a Certificate to the Assembly Recommending him to be exempt from Paying Taxes and doing publick Duties, which was Granted."

Shortly after settling in Craven County—in September, 1730—John Heath petitioned to have his mark recorded. At that time all livestock ran free so that each owner had to register the mark used to identify his swine or cattle. In December, 1732 he was appointed to serve as "Overseer, where Cornelius Loftin did." This indicates that he had established himself in the community and was considered capable of carrying out the responsibility of keeping up the records in his neighborhood. In many deeds recorded for him he is referred to as "planter" although in his will he spoke of himself as "farmer." In 1737, 1738 and 1739 he is mentioned as being a defendant in suits over minor matters—one of these cases was dismissed, another resulted in his having to pay damages of £40—along with William Martin Herritage (a prominent citizen of the county) and a third suit is merely mentioned with no other information given. In 1743 he asked the court for fees due him after serving as a witness, and in 1748 he submitted a certificate for reimbursement of travel expenses for nine days of jury duty. In 1743 he was one of a committee apointed to appraise an estate; in 1753 he and John Green were appointed to serve on a committee to divide the estate of John Holloway among his heirs.

Court minutes of September, 1771 show that Letty Black, a free born negro girl aged 10 years "be bound to Mary Heath to be taught spinning and weaving until 21 year old." Other entries in the minutes of this date suggest that Letty belonged to the family who had earlier been brought to Craven County from Virginia by John Heath. Mary, the widow of John is also mentioned in his will in this interesting provision—"I give and bequeath to Mary, my dearly beloved wife all the Estate she was possessed of at the time of our marriage." This raises the question as to whether or not Mary may have been a second wife, with a widow's inheritance from a former marriage of her own.

It is difficult to identify records of William Heath, Jr. in Craven County Court Minutes in that both he and William Heath, Sr. were living in the same general area of the county at the same time. By 1768, or before, William Heath Sr. had moved to New Bern. The two men were seldom clearly identified in these records either by the appropriate suffix or by the location of their residences. There are two entries stating that one William Heath served as constable—first in 1759 and again in 1762; on the later date William Heath was to serve "in room of John Holloway," who seems to have lived in the neighborhood where the family of William Heath, Jr. lived. Possibly it was William Heath, Jr., who was assigned this responsibility in 1762.

An interesting item from Craven County Land Grant records is that William Heath, Jr. and Thomas Loftin were chain bearers for a survey of 200 acres of land issued to William Heath, Sr. in 1761; both had daughters who later married sons of Samuel Lambeth I.

As told by SAMUEL LAMBETH, son of Aaron Lambeth, our Revolutionary ancestor, to his grandson, Thomas Lambeth.

"My grandfather Lambeth, John David came from England before the Rev. War and settled near New Bern, N. C., in Craven Co. My grandfather Coggins, or his father came from Scotland, and the first I knew of them they lived near the Russel Gold Mine in Montgomery Co. Grandfather Samuel had four brothers in the Rev. War. He said he wasn't old enough to go. They seemed to be in the southern part of the army from 1777 until killed, wounded or taken to England and never returned. Aaron was captured but was either exchanged or escaped to join the army in New York. They seemed to have fought through the battles of South Carolina, North Carolina, and probably in other states. They were in the Battle of Brier's Crk. in S. C., and it might be there was where one was taken prisoner, for they had a narrow escape as told by Moses Lambeth, commonly called Moda, he seemed to be the oldest one of them. He said they was in camp between Brier's Crk, and the Savannah River, not far from where they come together, and it seemed the British took an advantage of the situation and formed a line of their men from the river to the creek, and as their numbers was much more than ours, we were defeated, and the only way of escape was to swim the creek or the river, and the creek seemed to be almost as big as the river on account of the back water from the river. Uncle Moda said they fought as long as they could without all being killed, or taken prisoners. He said they run to the creek and there were so many in it, some were drowning, and most every way he turned, and ran to the river, lashing his musket and knapsack on his back, and swam across; and he said as he plunged into the river he saw Gen. Greene plunge in on his horse and the British bullets fairly foamed in the wather around him, but none hit him or his horse.

Finally they got together and got other recruits and from there they fought their way through into N. C., having several battles and skirmishes with the British and Tories, till they got to Guilford Courthouse; there they were met with other recruits, and had a big battle with the British. This seemed to be the turning point from the ending of the war.

That was how the Lambeths happened to come to this part of the country. They saw it then and liked it, so when the war was over they moved up from New Bern here, some settling in Guilford Co., some in Rowan, now Davidson. My grandfather Samuel settled some two or three miles south of where Thomasville now is. When I got old'nuff to notice people and places there was a lot of old people living in that part of the country. Uncle Moda Lambeth as mentioned before, lived a few miles west of my grandfather. He had a large plantation, and after he was gone the fences rotted down and it was a great place for cattle and sheep to graze in, it was called the Moda Old Fields for many years. I think the Jones railroad goes across part of it now. On the headwaters of the south prong of Uwharie. John W. Thomas married Uncle Moda's daughter and lived close to Fair Grove Meeting House, at a placed now called Cedar Lodge. He was a farmer, merchant and worked several gold mines. He got his store burned. It was said there were several cases of powder in the loft and when the fire got to it it lifted the roof off and broke down the joist and fired goods all over the house. Then Thomas found out where the railroad was to be located and about where the depot would be so he bought land there and built the first store house at that place, and they named it Thomasville.

(Sent to Nolan Hill by Thomas Lambeth)

(The first part of this account is similar to that written to his nephew, David H. Lambeth and to Mrs. Dixon) The latter part of the account was unlike the other two and it is copied below)

The other two brothers that was with Uncle Moda in the war, I think they settled in Guilford County, somewhere maybe North of the Old Battle ground, I never knew them, or their children, if any--

My grandfather, Samuel Lambeth, their younger brother, said he was not quite old anuff for the Armey, but could tell much about that war. And had one of the old British muskets. He called it Old Corn Wallis. It was a big old clumsey gun, with a flint and steel lock. He killed many deer and turkeys with it and it was awful to kick. It once broke his collar bone, when he shot a turkey that was up in a tree. He also had one of their old swords and a pare of their calvery pistols. They too was big old clumsey things with locks like their muskets, only a littler smaller.

I bought one of them at his sale, the stock had bin broken. I restocked it and after using it awhile I let one of my cousins have it when he started west. His name was Robert Lambeth, he went to Mississippi.

My grandfather Lambeth was raised near Nubern, N. C. and I suppose he come up in this part of the country, about the same time his other brothers come. He also, settled on some of the head waters of Little Uhwarie, but further east near the Randolph County line, about three miles south of where Thomasville now is. It was said he oned a thousand acres of land there.

He too had some Negro slaves to help work and they had increased till ther was thirty some od, when he died. And two of his negro men that I knew died before he did, Luke, and Simon, by names. And at his sale there was awful crying and lamenting among the Negroes for fear the spectulaters would get them or they get hard masters. They were begin their young masters, and good people that they knew to buye them, and I think the most of them got good homes and I don't know of but one of all of that sett of negros living now, Green Lambeth by name.

My grandfather Lambeth was a powerful farmer in his day, and had great Orcherds of both apple and peach, and many other kinds of fruit. He stilled a lot of his apple and peach fruit and had lots of Brandy, and had lots of Bees and Honey. And all of the good things that could be prodoused on a farm.

He had a mole on the upper part of his tongue, about mid way, He could never whistle for his dogs like other people did when he wanted them. But it did not bother him much about talking. He was married three times. I think he married his first wife, my grandmother before they left Nubern, as my father was partly raised down there. She had ten children.

My father, Nathan Lambeth, the oldest one. I don't think his second wife had any children and maybe did not live long after marrying. I can reclect when he married his third wife. She was a very young woman and had seven children before he died. I never knew much about them as I left that part of the country pretty soon after grandpa died.

Doctor Shadric Lambeth might have been one of Uncle Moda Lambeth's sons, a brother to Polly Thomas. He was a noble man in his day and time. He was one of the great builders of the North Carolina railroad. He took a nine thousand dollar stock in that road and him and his boys worked out the stock, and worked out some others that had failed so that gave them probable ten or twelve thousand dollars stock in the road. I help make the carts to hall the dirt in grading the road. They was of the tumbling bed kind so they could emty it out at one tilt.

My grandfather-Burrell Coggins, settled in Montgomery County, North Carolina, near Uhwarie River, between the Russel, and the Coggins, Gold mine, as they are now, and a little North from where Eldorado is now.

He owned a large farm there, and had some negro Slaves to help work it. He also owned the Narrows of the Yadkin River, some seven miles, west from him. It was a great fishery in that day and time, but now noted for having a great concrete dam for to generate power, for to make Aluminum.

It is said he died suddenly on the road between there and his home, I don't know which way he was going. His wife, my Grandmother's name was Letha, and her name has been kept up by her off spring until yet.

My mother like my father, they was the first born of each family, and they were both near the same age. Her name was Nancy Coggins, Born Nov. 21, 1794. His name Nathan Lambeth, born Spet 29, 1794. They married about the year 1816 or 17, and settled near his fathers place, and raised a large family of children. Ten in all, one of them died while a babe.

Her Brothers and sisters Names

William Coggins born next, I haven't got their dates. He married and settled not very far from where he was raised, I don't know how many children they raised, I don't recollect of ever seeing him.

Letha Coggins married Thomas Cotton. They settled down the river from where she was raised, they raised two boys, James and John by names. And I think there was three girls. I don't recolect their names. I was at their place once while they lived there. He finily let James have that place, and he moved to the Narrows. As I suppose he got that place in dividing grandfathers property, I was there a few times while they lived there. John finally got that property and it was sold to that company that build that great dam. They said he got thirty two thousand dollars for it. I have been to see it once and it is wonderful.

Abygil Coggins, married Jerry Adderton now many miles away. He died in a year or so after they were married. They had one son name George. She raised him and a little Negro boy, that I suppose she got in dividing her fathers estate, named Joseph. In time of it, they moved to the old Hill Store place on Uhwarie, near the great bend in it.

George Coggins married and settled in Orange County. They said he would never go to school much to get an education, like the rest of them. But he happened to get a woman that had a good education so they seemed to get along very well. I don't know how many children they had. I don't recollect of seeing him as they lived a good way off.

Patsy Coggins married Willson Russel, a few miles from where Denton is now. They raised two girls, I don't recollect their names now.

Allis Coggins married Martin Skeen, who lived not very far from where her sister Patsy and her man lived. They raised one boy named Noah and one girl named Abygil. They also partly raised my youngest sister Letha Lambeth, and while she yet lived there she married Levi Cranford, and that was just before the Rebel War in 1860 or 1861.

Jerry Coggins He married and moved to Middle Tennessee. I don't know who he married or how many children they had.

Sara Coggins She married and went west. I don't know what part or recollect his name. Or whether they had any children or not.

Burrell T. Coggins. He married and settled on his father's old place and they raised two girls. The oldest one married Nearus Thayr of Eldorado, near their home, the other one married a Mr. Boils.

LETTER WRITTEN TO MRS. A. L. DIXON, From Thomas Lambeth

Rachel, N. C.
Dec. 9, 1919

Dear Cousin,

Your letter of inquiry received, and I will try to give you the information sought for, the best I can.

I knew your grandpa Shadrack Lambeth very well, for when I was a small boy I got one of my wrist bones broke, and he set it for me. And after I was grown, I worked for him - built a piaza to his long brick house on the southside and a dining room, at the west end of it towards the well. I suppose you know the place. And when we got that done, then I helped him fix up carts for grading the railroad. He had taken a nine thousand dollar contract of that kind of work. It was a little northeast of Thomasville, across them little creeks, which was a tremendous job for that day as it all had to be done by hand labor.

But he had consumption, and after awhile had to go home, and in the time of his sickness, he sent for me and when I went, he wanted to settle with me, as he had not finished paying me for my work yet. And when he did that, then he said "Thomas, I will not live much longer, and I want you to make my coffin." And he said he wanted it made of walnut wood, with a raised lid, such as I had bin making, and when he died, I made it like he said as near as I could.

And after he died,your pa and his brothers finished that notable contract, and I heard that they completed some other contracts where the parties had failed on. So that gave them more stock in that railroad. I suppose you know more about that than I do.

I think our great-grandfather Lambeth that came from England before the Rev. War. His name was Josiah, and he had five sons, namely: Moses, Aaron, Syrus, John, and Samuel. Samuel was the youngest and was my grandfather. His four older brothers was in the Rev. war, he said he was not quite old enuff.

I think your great grandfather Lambeth name was John, one of the four in that war, and I suppose your grandpa Shadrach Lambeth was born near Newbern, N. C. as my father was born and partly raised down there, and I think both of them was about the same age, and it is likely they all come up to this part of the country about the same time.

That Elizabeth Loftin, you wrote about, I think she was a stepdaughter of my Uncle Syris Lambeth, as he married a widow Loftin, and she had four children; namely, Elizabeth, Alfred, David, & Tommas. Elizabeth married a man named Tucker and they moved to Michigan. One of their sons visited among his people in this country several years after they had moved. I went around with him to several places. His name was Oran L. Tucker. Alfred and Tommas went west. David, he married Maria May, and lived in Thomasville. He was administrator of my grandfather Lambeth's estate, and was Sheriff of Davidson Co. several years. I think his mother was a Thomas before she married Loftin, a sister to Uncle John W. Thomas, who commenced building Thomasville. I was there when he built the first house. It was for a store house.

LETTERS WRITTEN TO MRS. A. L. DIXON
12-9-1919.

Well, Cousin, my hands is afflicted with what the Doctor's say is an overcharge of the nerves. So I can scarcely use my typewriter, to send you a copy of what I have about the Lambeths, but you and your sister or any of our folks come down sometime when the weather is good and we can have a long talk about our relatives and other old folks that I knew in that part of the country.

Your cousin, Thomas Lambeth.

AS HAD BEEN HANDED DOWN IN PART BY THE OLDER LAMBETHS TO ME - THOMAS LAMBETH

My great grandfather Lambeth came from England before the Revolutionary war and settled in Newbern, N. C., in Craven Co., and four of his sons were in that war. It is said the some or all of them were in the Battle of Brier Creek, S. C., and Ga., where they had a narrow escapte of their lives, as they were in camp in or near the fork of the creek on the Savannah River. And the British took advantage of the situation and as their numbers were much larger than ours (American had 1500 men and only 500 again reached American Camp) they formed a line of battle from the river to the creek, which seemed to be almost as big as the river. They said they fought as long as they could without all being killed or taken prisoner. Then each one had to look out for himself.

Moses Lambeth, or Moda, as they called him, he said he ran to the crrek first, but there was so many in it and gettin in, some drowning and almost every way, he turned to the river (Savannah) lashing his musket and knapsack on his back, and as he plunged this river he saw their general (Ashe) plunge it on his horse. He said the Brittish bullets fairly made the water foam, around the General, but none hit him or his horse (a miracle).

The did not seem to get discouraged altho' they had lost everything in their camp, and lots of their men killed, wounded and taken prisoners. They finally got together as many as could, getting other volunteers and recruits from other parts of our southern army. Then they harassed the Brittish around through the south, having many battles and scermishes with them until they got to Guilford Courthouse. There they met Gen. Greene with part of the northern army and then was the Battle of Guilford Courthouse fought, which seemed to weaken the Brittish so there was not very much more fighting done until they surrendered and our Independence was won.

And it seemed that was how the Lambeths happened to come to this part of of the country. They saw it then and liked it. After the war was over some of them moved up here, some settled in Guilford Co. and some in Davidson, then a part of Rowan Co. It was said one of the four, I think Syrus Lambeth (by name) was taken prisoner sometime during the war and it might have been at the Battle of Brier Creek. He was taken back to England and never returned to this country.

Uncle Moda Lambeth, that swam the Savannah with his musket on his back, settled on some of the head branches of creek of the southwest prong of Little Uwharrie, a few miles above new Liberty Baptist Church, or not very far east from where Captain Jones Railroad makes a turn south for Lenton and other places on that road.

He owned a large farm in there and worked several negro slaves on it. And it was said he died in one of his fields while sitting leaning back against a shade tree. The horn at the house blew for his dinner. The negroes thought he was asleep and would wake up directly, and come in, but he did not come as they expected, so some of them went back to look for him and he was dead. Then we may know there was a serious time among the negroes as well as among the white folks. For the negroes who had good masters to die did not know into whose hands they would fall or what sort of treatment they would get.

It is said they buried him close by at a school house where several other people were buried, and it is said the tree he died under is alive yet, or was a few years ago, and had gotten to be very large. It seemed that the people owning the property after he died had a respect for the tree and kept it from being cut or destroyed.

When I first knew the place Old Tom Cecil lived there and many of the fields were turned out, and it was a powerful place for stock to graze in and was known in all that surrounding country as Moda Old Fields and there was the place they went to hunt for their stock if they were missing or they wanted to get them up.

I do not know how many children Uncle Moda and his wife raised. I only knew Mary (Polly) the one John W. Thomas married. She was some like her Pa, did not flinch from anything that came to hand in the house or out doors. They lived and raised a big family, mostly boys, at a place a little southwest of Fairgrove, M.E. Church, and I reckon her mother came and lived with them in her old age, and I see she was buried in the Fairgrove Cemetery.

They finally moved and were the founders of Thomasville, N.C. and I reckon a good many of their decendants are living there now. Their old place where they moved from is now called Cedar Lodge and is a powerful farm there for this country. I passed through a part of it sometime ago and certainly it is carried on in a way to improve the land and to make bountiful crops.

As told by Samuel Lambeth to his grandson - Thomas Lambeth.

My great grandfather Lambeth (John David) came from England before the Rev. war and settled near Newbern, N. C. in Craven Co.

My grandfather Coggin or his father came from Scotland and the first I knew of them they lived near the Russel Gold Mine in Montgomery Co., N. C. My grandfather Lambeth Samuel had four brothers in the Rev. War. He said he wasn't old enough.

Rachel, P. O. N. C.
April 8, 1922.

My Dear Grand Daughter,
Nolan Hill, High Point, N. C.

Your letter of the 1st come to hand. It had went astray, did not get here until yesterday evening, so I can't get a letter to you this week.

I was very glad to hear from you and that you was all well. It finds us all well as we commonly are, I have stood the winter tolerably well, had a few attacts of rheumatism but not so bad but what I could go.

As to the flew, none of us have had it, but it has been around here among the school children, and some of the schools was closed a few days on account of it.

I was sorry to hear that Roshell have to live in such a small rome house. We wanted her and the children to stay down here this winter and the children could go to school down here, as our school had but few children to attend it anyway. And Roshell wanted to stay but her man wouldn't agree to it. It would not cost them anything, and of corse, we had plenty of wood and pine knotts to have all the fires desired, and other things that they can't have in that croud-ed up place.

As to our ancesters, I have a prety good record of them on my father and mother's side. My great grand father Lambeth come from England before the Revelution wor, which according to history, commenced April 18th, 1775, and lasted until Oct. 19th, 1781.

My great grand father Lambeth when he had come from England, he settled near Nubern in the eastern part of this State, and four of his son was in that reveution wor, and some of them was in the battle of Guilford Court House. That great battle that rather decided the end of that wor. AND I have thought that was why the Lambeth's happened to come in this part of the country. They saw it then and liked it, so after the wor they moved up here. Some settled in Guilford County, and some in Davidson County, though then it was a part of Rowan County.

My grandfather Samuel Lambeth said he wasent quite old a nough for that wor but He could tell a heap about it, as four of his older brothers was in it, and he got one of the old British Muskets. I saw it many times as my Pa along them times would borrow it to kill deer and wild turkeys with.

My grandfather's brothers, I think their names was as follows: Moses, or comonly called Moda Lambeth, Aaron Lambeth, Scyrus Lambeth, and John Lambeth. Scyrus Lambeth, I think, was taken prisoner by the British at Brier Creek South Carolina, and carried to England, and never got back home.

Our southern part of the armey was in camp between Brier creek, and Savanah River, and it seemed that the British took advantag of the situation, and as their numbers was much more than ours, they formed a line from the creek to the river, so our people had no way of retreating only to swim Brier Creek, or Savanah River, and the creek was deep and wide at that place.

Uncle Moda said they faught as long as they could without all being killed or taken prisoner, then each man looked out for himself. He said he ran to the creek but there was so many in it, some drounding and others trying to get in, so he ran for the river, lashing his musket and knap sack on his back. AND as he plunged the river, he saw their General plung it on his horse. And he said the British bullets farley made the water fome around the General, but none hit him or his horse, then, or course, they were out of reach of the British bullets, for the river was wide. They did not seem to be discouraged although they had lost everything in their camp, and lots of their men killed and taken prisoners. They got together as many as they could and got other volintears and recruits wherever they could. And then they harrassed the British, having many battles and scumishes with them until they got to Guilford Court House. There they met General Greene with his part of the northern armey. Then they gave the British about what they needed.

Uncle Moda Lambeth, that swam Savannah River with his musket and knap sack on his back when they moved up into this part of the country, He settled on the head waters of the southwest prong of Little Uhwarie He was a great farmer and had a large plantation, with big high fences around it. He was the father of John W. Thomas' wife, that started Thomasville. They build the first house there and it was for a storhouse. I was there and it was all woods then as fare as I could see every way, only they had commenced cutting out the wright away for the railroad.

And I passed where High Point now is many times before there was a house there, We had a saw mill on the same creek that Uncle Moda settled on, but lower down, and we halled our lumber to old Jamestown, and to Greensboro, is how I happened to go by where High Point now is so many times, that was all woods then, only the two public roads crossed there.

My grandfather, Uncle Moda's brother, He settled a little East from where Moda settled, on some of the same Uhwarie waters, near the Randolph County line, some four or five miles south of where Thomasville now is. He too, was a great farmer. It was said he owned a thousand acres of land there. We lived on a part of it when I first could recolect, but later on my Pa baught that sawmill tract, and another tract. And when he died we was in dept severil hundred dollars on the two tracts.

Mother hardly knew what to do, but finily concluded to sell off such things as we could do without and pay on the depts that was nearly due, and that give us time to work out the other depts as they come due. We all hung together until we paid out. None married, when mother died. we divided out, some lived at one, and some at the other.

I am sending a letter, or a copy of a letter that I wrote to my grand son, Ray Snider, some time ago. As it had some affects, I just copied another one and sent to him.

So you can see what I wrote to him. It tells about my mother's people, where they originally come from and where they lived when I first knew them. Read both letters and study them good. May be you can get it all straightened out so you can understand it, and if there is any other information about me or my folks that you or any of the rest want to know, write m and I will answer it if I can.

Be a good girl, mind your ma. She knows and have had experience in many things that you havent had yet. Read the New Testament, that gives us all the best advice of all books, or people in the world.

From your Great grand pa
Thomas Lambeth
